The Wardenship.

The first business taken up was the election of warden, which it was thought would take up considerable time, but as the principal contestants had pretty thoroughly canvassed the members each one had made up his mind who he would vote for, consequently the election was decided on the first ballot.

D. Stephenson, reeve of East Toronto, was nominated by Messrs. Yule and Reesor.

J. C. Stokes, reeve of King, by Messrs. High and Scott.

W. J. McCormack, reeve of Whitchurch, by Messrs. Evans and Baker.

D. McDonald, reeve of Georgina, by Messrs. Pugsley and Evans.

The different movers and seconders made short speeches in favor of their candidates, but it remained for Mr. Evans, who moved Mr. McCormack and seconded the nomination of Mr. McDonald, to cause laughter. When a member wanted to know how he would vote, he said they were both good men, and no matter which was elected he wouldn't be left.

Mr. McDonald withdrew from the contest, stating that he might be a candidate at some future time.

The Election.

Balloting was then proceeded with, the members voting yea and nay, Mr. Stephenson being voted for first. Messrs. Wallace and Hill acted as scrutineers. When the ballots were counted they showed that Mr. Stephenson was elected by a vote of 24 to 23. He was then escorted to the chair by Messrs. Yule and Reesor.

Mr. Stephenson briefly thanked the members for the honor they had conferred on him. He said he was now of age, having served 21 years in the County Council, and this was the first time he had sought the position. He referred to the many new bridges and other works in the county. He advocated retrenchment and reducing the taxes, which elicited applause.

Upon resuming the reins of office several communications were placed in the hands of the warden, notably, one from the Village of Markham re the new bridge, in which County Engineer McDougall was highly complimented on the work.

The following members were elected a special committee to nominate the standing committees for the ensuing year: Messrs. Richardson, Slater, McDonald, Evans, Stokes, Pegg, Pugsley, Yule and Davis.

Notices of Motion.

These notices of motion were then introduced:

Mr. Slater: That I will to-morrow move for the appointment on Thursday, Feb. 4, of a superintendent of York roads with a salary.

Mr. Woodcock: That the Committee on Bylaws, etc., be instructed to report a by-law to appoint auditors of county and school accounts.

Mr. Woodcock: That I will to-morrow move that a special committee of three members of council be appointed by council to confer with a similar committee now appointed by the town of Toronto Junction, for the purpose of readjusting the cost of administration of justice between said town and this county.

Mr. Woodcock: That I will to-morrow move that the treasurer be requested by this council to lay upon the table a statement of the number of the grand and petit jurors respectively selected for the superior courts and inferior courts; (2) the names of the county selectors attending the selection thereof; (3) the number of days each such selectors attended; (4) the gross amount paid each such selector; (5) the amount paid each sheriff attending at such selection; (6) the amount paid the clerk of the peace attending such selections.

The Warden.

Mr. D. Stephenson, the newly-elected warden, was born near the foot of Church-street, Toronto, in the year 1835—within a quarter of a mile of the Council Chamber where he was so highly honored yesterday. He is of Scotch-English extraction. He first entered municipal life in January, 1863, when he was elected a councillor for Ward No. 2 of Scarboro township, which he held for two years. In 1865 he was elected by the council as Reeve, which was the custom at that time. In 1866 he was again returned as councillor. In 1867 he was elected Deputy-Reeve by a vote of the township, and continued to serve as such for seven years. He then, on account of moving to Scarboro Junction, was out of municipal politics for one year, when he was again elected to represent the township for one year as deputy-reeve, and for five years as reeve. Mr. Stephenson then resigned, wishing to devote his time to his lumber business, but when East Toronto was incorporated as a separate municipality he was prevailed on to stand for reeve, to which office he was elected by acclamation, and has continued to serve as such ever since, having up to the present time had only one contest for this office. According to this Mr. Stephenson has represented Scarboro for 14 years and East Toronto for seven years in the County Council, also three years as councillor, making 24 years in all in municipal politics. If municipal politics counts for anything, Mr. Stephenson has fairly earned the high office he was elected to yesterday.

CHARGED WITH DECOYING GIRLS.

Important Arrest Made by Detective Black at an Early Hour This Morning—Who is William Sterling?

At 1 o'clock this morning Detective Black made what may turn out to be an important arrest.

For some time past it has been known that there has been a traffic in girls between Toronto and United States cities for immoral purposes.

William B. Sterling is the name given by the man arrested by Detective Black. Sterling, who was taken into custody at the Avondale Hotel, is about five feet six inches in height, dark complexion, wears an otter cap and a tweed overcoat with a cape. When searched there were found on him three pairs of gloves, a revolver, several keys, a gold ring and a lot of miscellaneous articles.

Sterling said his home was in Kemptville, Ontario, but outside of that he could not give any account of himself.

CAUGHT IN BARRIE.

A Wide-Awake Police Officer Who Keeps Himself Posted.

The World of Monday contained particulars of the flight from Hannibal, N.Y., of a trapper named William Lawler, aged 23, with Lulu Simpkins, the 12-year-old daughter of his uncle, Frederick Simpkins. The article also stated that the couple had come to Toronto and were supposed to have proceeded to Barrie.

Chief of Police King of that town has kept his weather eye open since The World arrived Monday, and yesterday afternoon Lawler and the girl arrived, having walked part of the way from Toronto. King arrested the couple and the father was wired of the fact.

IMMIGRANT BONUSES STOP.

MOUNTED POLICE TO BE WITHDRAWN FROM MANITOBA.

Customs Officers Will Replace the Police—The Northwest School Ordinance Not Yet Reported Upon—Princess May's Horses—Iron Men Interview the Ministers on Tariff Matters.

OTTAWA, Jan. 23.—It is understood that the Government has decided to discontinue the payment of bonuses of $10 each to heads of families and $5 each to adult members which has been allowed for some years back. When the bonus system was inaugurated the Allan Steamship Line and Canadian Pacific Railway also contributed, but four years ago they ceased doing so, and at the conference between representatives of the railway and steamship lines and the Government held at Montreal last fall the Government was asked to discontinue the bonus system, as it did not really aid immigration. The matter was taken into consideration, and it has now been decided that no more bonuses will be paid after the first of March next.

The Northwest School Ordinance.

The Free Press to-night says: "The Dominion Cabinet has approved a report of Sir John Thompson, Minister of Justice, recommending that the Northwest school ordinance be left to its operations. The report of the Minister of Justice recommends that the Executive of the Territories be asked to modify the school regulations so as to make them less obnoxious to Roman Catholics."

This statement is entirely incorrect. Sir John Thompson has made no report on the subject of the Northwest school ordinance recommending anything. The matter is not before him personally, but has been referred to a sub-committee of council, consisting of Hon. T. M. Daly, Hon. G. E. Foster and Hon. A. R. Angers. This sub-committee has not yet reported and The Free Press can have no authority whatever for stating what they intend to report. Several papers have erroneously stated that the time for disallowing this ordinance expired on the 21st inst. This is not so. The time for consideration of the ordinance does not expire until Feb. 7.

The Present to Princess May.

Mr. E. S. Skead, who was requested by the committee having charge of the fund for a wedding present to the Princess May from the women of Canada to select the pair of Canadian horses, to supplement the sleigh, harness and robes already shipped, has made his choice and the horses are now in Mr. Skead's stable here and will be shipped from Portland in about two weeks to the Countess of Derby, who will present them to the Princess. Mr. Skead said that he would not be satisfied until he got the very best pair of horses in Canada and there is every reason to believe that he has succeeded, for it would be almost impossible to get anything finer that the two animals he has selected. They are bay geldings with black points, perfectly matched, just half an inch short of 16 hands in height, 5 years old and as sound and perfect in every way as it is possible to have a horse.

Lorne's Interest in Canada.

In a letter to Dr. Selwyn, director of the geological survey, the Marquis of Lorne, after acknowledging the receipt of a copy of the last geological report, refers to the continued interest he takes in the mineral resources of Canada. His Lordship also wishes to know how the project for the new museum is getting on.

Iron Men See the Ministers.

The committee on the revision of the tariff continues to receive deputations representing the interests likely to be affected by any changes to be made and hear their views as to what changes they think desirable or otherwise.

To-day was the turn of the iron men, and representatives of the rolling mills and blast furnaces had an interview with the Ministers of Finance and Trade and Commerce, and each party laid their views before the Ministers. The owners of blast furnaces, it is said, desire to have the duty on wrought scrap iron, which is $2 per ton, doubled, claiming that it is unfair to place a duty of $4 on pig iron and only half that amount on the more highly finished wrought iron scraps. On the other hand, the rolling mill proprietors claim that the furnaces cannot supply sufficient raw material and also enter into competition with the rolling mills by manufacturing iron pipes and bar iron.

Mounted Police Withdrawn From Manitoba.

As the result of the visit of Hon. Mr. Ives to the Northwest last summer and of his personal inspection of the Mounted Police, which body is attached for administrative purposes to the Department of the President of the Privy Council, some important changes are being made with respect to that force. It has been decided that the Province of Manitoba no longer requires the presence of any part of the force on her southern boundary, where, in addition to their own duties, the police have been acting as customs and quarantine officers. They will be withdrawn altogether from the province and their places on the frontier will be taken by officers of the customs and other departments. This will enable the force to extend its sphere of usefulness northward into the Athabasca district, which has heretofore been but scantily supplied with police protection and new posts and patrols will be established in that region. The police will continue their patrol along the southern boundary of the Northwest Territories and will still perform customs and other duties there. There is no intention of making any material reduction in the number of the force and the three vacant inspectorships will probably be filled up ere long. There is no truth in the rumor that Mr. Gilpin Brown of Toronto has been appointed to one of these positions, although his appointment is being strongly urged by some of his Toronto friends. The police owe a debt of gratitude to Mr. Ives for the personal interest he has shown in their welfare and for several amendments to the ration list, which will greatly conduce to their comfort. Amongst these changes is the addition of butter to the daily ration. Heretofore the men have had to buy their own butter, but in future they are to be allowed two ounces a day. Another improvement is the substitution in the police barracks of iron bedsteads and spring beds for the old wooden trestles, which were not only hard but liable to be buggy. Hon. Mr. Ives sees no reason why his men should not be placed on an equal footing, as far as comfort is concerned with the regular force, and is making other minor changes in that direction.

Dr. Tobin of Halifax, who is at present on a visit to Paris, has been appointed to represent the Dominion at the International Medical Congress to be held in Rome next April.

Deloraine Artesian Well.

The Minister of the Interior has received a report from Mr. A. P. Stewart, who is in charge of the artesian well sunk by the department at Deloraine, in which he speaks in the highest terms of the success of the well. Mr. Stewart says that a water famine existed in Deloraine when pumping commenced on Jan. 10. For the first 24 hours the water was very muddy and full of sand. Then it began to clear and gradually grew warmer until it reached a temperature of 80 degrees, at which it remains. The water smells and tastes exactly like that of the Banff hot springs, but has not been analyzed to see whether it contains the same medicinal properties. It is soft, and does good for drinking or washing purposes and also well in steam boilers. It is slightly salty in taste, but less so now than when pumping was commenced. This salty taste makes it very palatable to cattle, and the farmers in the neighborhood are taking it away in puncheons for their stock. All the cisterns in the town were full when Mr. Stewart wrote, and a meeting of the townspeople had been called to take steps for providing a reservoir of some kind for the storage of a large supply.

THE WAGES OF SIN ARE EXPULSION.

Rev. George Kennedy's Suit Against the Methodist Church Dismissed By the Chancery Divisional Court.

Rev. George Kennedy of Ingersoll, for nearly half a century a minister of the Methodist Church, was expelled from the ministry by the Niagara Conference in 1892, having admitted that he married another woman while his wife was still alive. Kennedy, who was superannuated in 1871, was deprived of his superannuation allowance of $150 per year by his expulsion. He claimed that his expulsion was illegal on the ground that laymen were allowed to speak and vote upon it and entered suit. Woodstock Chancery Court dismissed the action and he appealed to the full Divisional Court, which yesterday upheld the finding of the presiding judge.

Police Commissioners Discuss a Cut in the Salary of Patrolmen—Transferring Unnecessary Plain Clothes Men.

The Police Commissioners held their first meeting of the year yesterday afternoon. Following the custom of former years a permanent member of the board, Judge McDougall, was elected chairman. The annual reports of the various departments were submitted and considered.

The question of reducing the salaries of the patrolmen came up for discussion, but it is understood nothing definite was decided upon, although if the reduction in the other branches of civic employes comes into effect a cut may be introduced in the police department as well.

With a view of increasing the number of patrolmen it was decided to remove one man from the truant staff, from Staff-Inspector Archabold's office and from each of the three patrol wagons and place them on "beats."

"Mr. Waterton is a Roman Catholic gentleman of Yorkshire of good fortune, who, instead of passing his life at balls and assemblies, has preferred living with Indians and monkeys in the forests of Guiana. He appears early in life to have been seized with an unconquerable aversion to Piccadilly and to that train of uncteorological questions and answers which forms the great staple of polite English conversation." In this manner is the traveler Waterton introduced by Sidney Smith. (Edin. Review, 1826.) The search for wealth (and honors) induces men sometimes to do strange things, takes them away from friend and home very often, and from those who need their presence and protection. IS HENRY CORBY A BIGAMIST?

ARRESTED ON A CHARGE OF FALSE PRETENCES.

The Complaint Lodged By His Wife, Who Signs Her Maiden Name To the Information Asking For a Warrant For His Arrest—Some Sensational Developments Expected.

Henry T. Corby, at one time a member of the firm of Corby & Mitchell, marble dealers of this city, subsequently a member of the firm of Barnes & Corby, bakers and biscuit manufacturers, at 365 Fort-street, Detroit, was arrested at Grafton, Ont., yesterday on a charge of obtaining $1365 from Margaret E. Waterhouse of this city under false pretences. Detective Davis has left for Grafton to bring the accused back.

The arrest of Corby is the sequel to a sensational case which developed in November last. The complainant is a daughter of Robert Waterhouse, the well-known Adelaide-street tobacconist, who resides at 90 Major-street.

On July 13, 1893, complainant was married to Corby at Lewiston, but the fact of the marriage was kept a secret from the parents. Miss Waterhouse had $1300 in her own right and when she became of age on July 20, seven days after the wedding, she gave the money to her husband. He went to Oregon, but subsequently located at Detroit. His wife went thither to join him when he refused to support her or to return the money. This was on Nov. 4 last. The deceived wife came to Toronto and acquainted her father with the fact of her marriage and her husband's perfidy. The two returned to Detroit and as a result Corby was arrested. After remaining in custody at Detroit for several days Corby offered to make restitution, and as a matter of fact turned over to his wife $1000 worth of stock in his biscuit business in Detroit, which the wife accepted, abandoned the suit and came back to Toronto, leaving her husband to go whither he desired.

Had He Another Wife?

New interest is given to the case by the announcement of the arrest of Corby at his father's house in Grafton. The fact that, although legally married to Corby, his wife signed the information by her maiden name led to the belief that Corby had already a wife when he married Miss Waterhouse.

Mr. Waterhouse was seen at 90 Major-street last night. Asked why his daughter had signed herself Margaret Waterhouse instead of Corby, on the information, he said: "I really cannot say anything about the case until it comes up in the court."

"Well, Mr. Waterhouse, there is a rumor current to the effect that Corby was married before he married your daughter. Is there any truth in that?"

"Well, I really cannot tell you that. You can draw your own conclusions, however, I won't contradict it."

Before the end of the month. Value has nothing to do with the new prices. They are in most cases below cost and in none are above that figure. The great idea is to dispose of every article in the winter stock, no matter at what sacrifice.

SMASH-UP ON THE M.C.R.

The Wreck Demolished By Fire—No One Injured.

ST. THOMAS, Jan. 23.—A collision took place on the M.C.R. at Hagersville this morning which fortunately did not result seriously. Conductor J. L. Wates, extra west, had pulled into the siding there to let No. 19 go by. The train being clear of the track, the rear light was taken in to show No. 19 that the track was clear. While the men were at the head of the train, however, it parted, and the rear section ran down the grade on to the main track. No. 19, North Shore limited express, came along and ran into the rear section. No one was injured and the passengers only slightly shaken up. The engine of the passenger train was slightly damaged and the side of the buffet car scraped and the steps knocked off. The caboose of the freight was burned and two cars smashed. No. 19 was only delayed a short time.

NEWBURG, Jan. 23.—Joshua Sedore, a middle-aged resident, met his death by a most peculiar combination of mishaps last night. His garden abuts on the river and while he was fastening a clothesline to a tree he slipped. He fell on the steep ice-clad bank and shot down head foremost. At the bottom he struck a stone with such force that he turned a complete somersault into the water. The current in the river was strong and Sedore was carried under the ice and drowned. There is no doubt but that he was stunned by striking the boulder. Search is being made for the body, but without result.

WITH A RED-HOT POKER

A 15-Year-Old Lad Brands His Baby Brother on the Cheek—Awful Story of Depravity.

Punishing a child by thrusting a red-hot poker against its cheek, because it "tattled," is a mode of punishment which does not commend itself to the average specimen of depraved humanity, yet this is what Toronto's Jesse Pomeroy was charged with doing by his mother at the Police Court yesterday.

Mrs. Bailey of 10 Lima-place appeared before Colonel Denison yesterday, and swore that her son, John A. Bailey, aged 15, one day last month, because his 4-year-old brother, Walter, informed on him, heated a stove poker red hot and burned three holes in the little one's face—on the forehead and both cheeks. On another occasion he lured his brother into a bedroom and put him on the bed. Then he got two pillows and deliberately placed one under the baby's head and the other over his face. This done, he rolled the child in a heavy blanket and left him there to smother to death. The mother suspected that something was wrong, and on going into the room found the baby covered up as has been described. It was almost lifeless, and was saved just in the nick of time.

"Why did you not bring the case here before?" asked the Magistrate. "Because he promised to do better," answered the witness. "Anyway, I thought it better to leave it to God than man."

The boy was too old to go to the Industrial School and the law forbade him being sent to the Reformatory, so the Magistrate let him go on suspended sentence on the understanding that if he was guilty of any more indiscretions he would send him to the Central for a long period.

FRED. BACON'S SUICIDE.

The Post-Mortem Shows That He Died From Drowning.

The post-mortem examination on the body of Fred Bacon of Agincourt, who committed suicide at the Humber on Dec. 27 last because his sweetheart married another man, was conducted yesterday by Drs. Caven and Hill of Toronto and Godfrey of Mimico, and the result showed that death was due to drowning. The lungs were filled with water and the skull showed no sign of any blow, the bruises on the face having undoubtedly been caused by the floating cakes of ice.

Elias Wood and John Wood, jr., with whom Bacon lived, came up from Agincourt yesterday and positively identified the body as that of Bacon. The young man's brother, Wheeler Bacon of Zephyr, Ont., also arrived yesterday.

The body was brought to the city last night and embalmed and will be taken to Uxbridge to-day by County Constable F. M. Frankish, to whose acumen and untiring work in connection with the case much of the credit for the probing of the mystery is due.

Succumbed to His Injuries.

Cut His Throat With a Razor.

PETERBORO, Jan. 23.—John Callaghan, a moulder by trade and a former well-known and successful baseball player, took his life by cutting his throat with a razor.

"Betsy" plan now open to public at Grand Opera House.

A Week of Unusual Brilliance.

This week has brought a revival of spirit and energy among people in society. The most important event will of course be the cricketers' ball, which promises to be the largest, swellest, jolliest and gayest dance of the season. There are many new gowns in course of construction for this sprightly function, and we venture to say that quinn will sell more of those one-fifty up-to-date English full dress shirts than he has sold for many a day.

WAS QUITE A LIAR HIMSELF

BUT HIS LIMIT WAS FIFTEEN HUNDRED DOLLARS.

Interesting Facts Brought Out In the Suit of Barwick v. the Legal and Commercial Exchange Yesterday For Alleged Wrongful Dismissal and For Salary.

Weird and wonderful are the ways of the modern mercantile agency if the tale unfolded by Richard L. Barwick, late manager of the Legal and Commercial Exchange, in the Assize Court yesterday be true.

Mr. Barwick is suing James L. Morrison and Thomas G. Wilson, who now control the exchange, for $12,645 for wrongful dismissal and for salary. Mr. Barwick, according to his own story, is a man whose accomplishments are many and varied, and he says that the defendants discharged him without cause. One of Mr. Barwick's bright and shining feats, as recorded in a letter written to a friend in Montreal, was his success at saying the thing which is not. In his letter, which Mr. B. B. Osler read in court, with much gusto Mr. Barwick, expatiating on the necessity of securing credit from banks on good security only, says: "I am a good liar myself, but not for over $1500."

The plaintiff was the first witness put on the stand and in answer to his counsel told of how he had sold the business to the defendants and of how he was to receive $2000 a year as manager. Figures were quoted in bewildering profusion and the audience yawned.

When the Fun Began.

But when B. B. Osler, Q.C., the man of mighty cross-examinations, took hold of Mr. Barwick there was a sudden change. Sprightly facts that had been concealed behind masses of arithmetic were brought forth and the criers became hoarse from shouting "order."

Mr. Osler first questioned Mr. Barwick about the state of the business before he had taken the defendants into partnership. Two of the former partners had put various sums in the business. One who had invested $3600 abandoned his capital and got out with nothing. Another, the amount of whose investment Mr. Barwick could not tell, sold out his interest for $500.

Personal debts were evidently not a thing to trouble the witness' soul, for when Mr. Osler asked him if it was true that at the time he was disposing of the business they amounted to $6000 he could not tell. "That amount may have been correct. It would probably be within $500," said Mr. Wilson, airily.

"Do you think, under the contract, the defendants were not entitled to discharge you?" asked Mr. Osler.

"I do not think they were."

"But the defendants had to pay debts that were not scheduled and ran behind $19,000 in the year?"

"I know that they lost some money."

A clause of the contract was read which provided that the plaintiff might be discharged if his management was unprofitable. Mr. Osler then seized a weighty ledger and said he proposed to show a dishonest action of the plaintiff, which was a sufficient cause for his dismissal. Entries showing that in 1889 a claim of the Massey Manufacturing Company had been paid to the exchange in full and a representation made to the Massey Company that it had been settled at 50 cents on the dollar, were read.

Such Things Not Unusual.

"Is not that a dishonest action?"

"Not that I know of. If it was done it was without my knowledge."

"But who got the benefit of this money?"

"I presume the Exchange did."

"And you were the Exchange," concluded Mr. Osler.

Then Mr. Barwick's letter to Mr. Doughty, in which he told of his able qualities of pervarication, came in for sarcastic comments from the Queen's Counsel. Mr. Barwick's methods of doing business were attacked and a bundle of unattended-to enquiries were held up. To Mr. Osler's questions Mr. Barwick responded that such things were not unusual in mercantile agencies.

The case will be continued to-
