We carry this shoe in but one quality of material---the Vici Kid---because the boot is actually intended for men who suffer from foot troubles, such as callous spots, bunions, corns and perspiring feet. NEW FUR JACKETS, $40 TO $100

Electric and Baltic Seal, Russian Lamb, Grey Lamb, Persian Lamb, Astrachan, Etc.

THE EXPENDITURE INVOLVED in buying a fur jacket is considerable, therefore nobody will purchase outright until there is absolute certainty of fullest value in the fur itself, in the tailoring, in the general make-up of the garment. The jackets we now direct attention to are new stock, perfectly made and in good skins.

Electric Seal Jackets, $45 to $55. Made with fitted back and loose box front. A sensible style that never grows old. Deep Collar and Revers. Lined with dark brown satin. A rich-looking coat. If trimmed with Mink, Alaska, Sable, Grey Squirrel or Mink, slight additional expense.

Baltic Seal Jackets, $100. A coat that is supplanting real seal gradually, owing to the great similarity. Rich black finish. Fitted at back, loose at front. Collar and Revers. Also in the Russian Bloused pattern. Certainly a very fine garment for a lady who desires something good at moderate cost.

Russian Lamb Jackets, $60 to $70. In the real Russian blouse effect, with Collar and long Revers. Silk Braid Girdle with ornaments. Fitted at back. A luxurious item of winter apparel in close imitation of Persian Lamb. If trimmed with Mink Collar and Revers, $90 to $95.

Grey Lamb Jackets, $40 to $57. Most popular with maidens. Tight-fitting backs, straight fronts, Collar and Revers. First-class grade of skins, fine close curl. "Specials" at $40, but the Russian Bloused ones, with Silk Braid Girdle, and superior fittings, sell at $57.

Persian Lamb and Alaska Seal Jackets.
