Our Hero.

For, whether it be on land or sea,
In peace or the bloody fray,
The men we cheer,
Are the men who steer
A straightaway course each day.
Not the man who falters and drops aside,
But the man who has boldly stood
In the thick of the fight
For the cause of right—
The man who is making good.

Then here's to the man to-day, say I,
Who strives with a heart of steel,
With his red blood warm
In his manly form,
Though envy's at his heel.
Yes, here's to the man who toils right on,
Though he be misunderstood;
I make my bow
To him right now—
The man who is making good.

Raisins as Food.

Raisins were formerly used mainly as luxuries. On account, however, of their cheap and abundant production in California, we are now able to use them as an article of diet. They are very nutritious, especially in the hydro-carbons in salts and it is susceptible of demonstration that raisins, like other dried fruits, genuine food, contain elements which are fully as necessary to good health as all those things which analytical chemists have discovered in flesh making and in strength making foods. Those who have studied the subject profess to have something like one hundred receipts for the preparation of the raisin, and each of these, it is asserted, has an economic value. One thing is certain, and that is that the world would be better off, from the hygenic point of view, if we were to eat more fruit and less meat. The raisin, which is only the grape dried in the sun, is a natural food, if there be any such thing.

Wakeful Babies.

If your baby does not sleep, if he is cross, cries a great deal and will not be comforted, that is the time to give him Baby's Own Tablets. They promote sleep—not the drugged unnatural kind obtained through the use of 'Soothing' mixtures, but that refreshing natural sleep of the healthy child. The Tablets banish all stomach and bowel complaints—the direct cause of crossness and sleeplessness. Concerning them Mrs. E. Medras, Grand Bois, Que., says: 'When I began using Baby's Own Tablets baby was so troubled with constipation he would not sleep day or night. Now all this trouble has vanished and he is a strong healthy child.' The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A commercial man was rash enough to make a telephone call when exceedingly short of time, and found when he spoke he had been put on the wrong number.

The number he wanted was the simplest possible—one.

The shortness of time thereupon added shortness of temper, and somewhat angrily he complained to the operator of her mistake.

'What I want,' he finished by declaring with savage distinctness, 'is one on the trunk.'

And the operator retorted quietly: 'Yes, you are just like to give it to you.'

A Nova Scotian Winning Fame.

Nova Scotia ranks high among Canadian provinces in matters of literature and learning, and her sons continue to add to their laurels in this regard. The latest of these to come to our notice is Dr. Morley Hemmeon, son of Rev. J. B. Hemmeon, of Wolfville, and for some time past on the professorial staff of Harvard University. His specialty is Economics and the subject he has chosen to write a book on is the land tenure of mediaeval England, the burgage tenure in particular. The Lloyd George land reform movement at present in progress in Britain naturally brings the subject of land laws, ancient and modern, to the front, and so Dr. Hemmeon's book is timely. A contemporary review of the work says: 'He treats first of the connection between the burgage tenure and the feudal tenure as regards the extent to which the former was affected by the incidents and other concomitants of the latter. The purely economic phases of the tenure are next considered, such as the amounts and incidence of the original or quit rents, and in addition rents and prices of realty in the boroughs. This is followed by a discussion of what was, perhaps, the most important feature of the tenure—its modern aspect, with mediaeval modifications, in regard to freedom of sale and of device. At the close the material is drawn on for deductions and conclusions, and in addition the urban tenure in England is compared with that in parts of France, in the Netherlands and in Germany. As it is in the last country that burgage tenure finds its nearest counterpart, and as the tenure there has not been directly treated heretofore, an Appendix is devoted to a short account of the tenure in the German cities. The basis of this work was a thesis accepted in partial fulfilment of the requirements for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in Harvard University, and awarded the Toppan Prize in 1908.

The book is printed by the Cambridge University press, and the treatment of the theme exhibits great care and extensive research. The style is most readable.

C. P. R. Floral Department.

BEAUTIFYING OF STATION GROUNDS HAS PLAYED IMPORTANT PART IN RAILWAY DEVELOPMENT.

All great things have a small beginning. Twenty five years ago an official of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, then in Toronto, saved out of his own garden sufficient seeds to start the flower scheme on the line of this railroad. Since then it has become a recognized fact wherever there is a station building, section house, round house or terminal point on this great railway system, that is incomplete without a flower garden and green lawn.

Through the floral department every spring the company distributes hundreds of thousands of packages of flower seeds to agents, roadmasters, section men and other employees who will grow them around the company's property. Plants, shrubs and perennials are also sent out.

In the fall millions of bulbs are distributed for outside and inside cultivation. Seeds for the employees this spring were all sent out in February, because over such a vast line of railway planting begins earlier in some sections than in others. It is astonishing the deep interest taken by the men, their wives and families in floral culture, and it is only natural that this interest spreads throughout the city, town or village or country community wherever there is a flower garden. It is no wonder, then, that many of the employees are ardent flower lovers and at flower shows have beaten skilled and professional gardeners.

In many places the company and the town corporations co-operate in the maintenance and embellishment of a park adjoining the station. Travellers and people seeking suburban homes or new homes recognize the desirability of settling down in a town where there is a neatly kept station and grounds, beliving that if the entry to the place is attractive, the whole environment will be equally attractive.

A quarter of a century has brought great changes to the C. P. R., and in its amazing development the beautifying of its station grounds and surroundings has played an important part.

Hired Man Law.

Controversies about wages frequently arise between farmers and their hired men when the latter are discharged or quit work before the expiration of the time for which they were employed. Sometimes a man who is hired to do certain specified work or work for a certain period of time for fixed wages quits his job without good sufficient reasons and the question then arises what compensation, if any, he can recover by law from his employer for the work he has actually done. There is some conflict of authority in the decision of the courts upon this subject, but the weight of authority is to the effect that in such case the hired man can recover the value of the services which he actually rendered, deducting from this amount any damage which his employer has sustained by reason of his failure to complete the services which he was hired to perform. Sickness or death of an employee is considered by the law to be an act of God and constitutes good excuse for delay or even for nonperformance of a contract for personal services. An employee who is prevented by sickness from completing services according to his contract can recover the actual value of his services which he has performed under the contract, and if the completion of his work is prevented by his death, his executor or administrator can recover the value of the services actually performed by him.

The smart housewife went to market one morning to buy some geese and found five hanging outside the shop.

'I am a boarding house keeper,' she remarked, with a smile. 'Will you pick out for me the three of those geese that are toughest?'

The man laughed knowingly and obeyed.

'Thank you,' said the woman, briskly 'Now I'll take the other two.'

The Business of Housekeeping.

One of a housekeeper's many worries is to keep clean all her pots and pans of different materials. A few suggestions are offered here, which may prove of use.

Aluminum ware can be kept as bright as new by rubbing with a polish made by dissolving 20 grams of borax in water, to which 13 the quantity of ammonia has been added

To thoroughly clean saucepans after cooking oatmeal, fill them with boiling water, empty and then fill with cold water and the oatmeal will almost fall away from the sides of the saucepan.

To be able to wash easily a saucepan in which milk has been boiled, it should be rinsed in cold water before the milk is put in it. This prevents the milk from sticking.

Metal pots which are not used for some time, are apt to become musty, this may be prevented by dropping a lump of sugar into the pot before putting it away.

Each time that a saucepan has been used it should be put over the fire with cold water and a little soda in it. When this has boiled it should be poured away and the saucepan well scoured. The outside being cleaned with a stiff brush kept for the purpose.

To keep the coffee pot sweet and clean, put a tablespoonful of carbonate of soda into it, fill it nearly full of water and let it boil for a little while. Then rinse very thoroughly with warm water. If this is done once a week the pot will always be fresh and nice

Do not let the inside of your teakettle become encrusted with lime. Clean clam or oyster shell kept in it collects this lime and may be thrown away.

'P'taters is good this mornin', madam,' said the old farmer, making his usual weekly call.

'Oh, are they?' retorted the customer. 'That reminds me. How is it that them you sold me last week is so much smaller at the bottom of the basket than at the top?'

'Waal,' replied the old man, 'p'taters is growing so fast now that by the time I get a basketful dug the last ones is about twice the size of the first.'

Suffers From Painful Rheumatism.

LINIMENT OF NO AVAIL—MUST BE CURED THROUGH THE BLOOD

Why are there so many failures in the treatment of rheumatism? Why are so many sufferers resigned to a life of pain, despairing of a permanent cure?

Because rheumatism defies any treatment that does not build up and purify the blood. The poisons of rheumatism are in the blood and it is only through the blood that the disease can be fought successfully. Un[illegible] rheumatism cannot get a foothold. When it does the thin and impure blood is not strong enough to overcome the poisons alone. It must be strengthened and purified. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are the best blood-building medicine you can take. They make new blood with every dose and promptly check further progress of the disease. They make the blood so pure and strong that not the least trace of rheumatism remains. Mr. R. J. Sinclair, Goshen, N. S., says: 'About two years ago I was laid up with rheumatism. For two months I could not walk and had to stay in an invalid's chair. My feet were badly swollen and my arms seemed to be paralyzed. I had been using doctor's medicine for a long time, but it did not seem to help me, and the doctor finally told me the only thing that would cure me would be a change of climate. At this time I decided to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial and got a supply. After I had taken them for a while I found they were helping me, and I got a further supply and they completely cured me, and I have not been sick one day since. I strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for this trouble.'

You can get these Pills from any dealer in medicine or by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Make every occasion a great occasion, for you cannot tell when some one may be taking your measure for a larger place.

Use PURITY FLOUR and do justice to your baking ability

Your bread, pies, cakes and pastry can be no better than the flour you use. For the sake of your family's health and your reputation as a cook you should always use PURITY FLOUR.

Tell your grocer that you want a sack of PURITY FLOUR. Give it a fair trial—an actual baking test—and if it does not prove to be the best flour you have ever used your money will be returned.

What more evidence do you require of the superior baking qualities of PURITY FLOUR? Doesn't it stand to reason that PURITY must be the best and purest flour milled? Otherwise we could never afford to guarantee it so liberally. 604
