MC 2035 POOR DOCUMENT

CANNOT BELIEVE MRS. BORDEN WAS CORRECTLY REPORTED

"Cultured Englishwomen Should Never Think of Going to Canada"

SURPRISE IN ENGLAND

Belief There is That Percentage of Good Class People Needed by Dominion — Modification of Alleged Statement Expected

(Times' Special Correspondence)

London, Sept. 10—The hundred and one organizations in Great Britain which aim to transfer the English gentlewomen to Canada have hardly recovered from their surprise at the statement attributed to Mrs. Borden on the eve of her departure.

"No, the cultured Englishwomen should never think of going to Canada," the wife of the Canadian prime minister is reported to have said. "The dominion is not the country for her, unless she is going out to family friends, or has some very definite purpose in going there. We can, however, always do with women who are prepared to rough it."

This dictum has created much concern among the associations which specially cater to the educated women, and who are never tired of assuring them that Canada offers excellent opportunities. They believe that among the most urgent needs of the dominion is a percentage of good class people—the more so they, say, inasmuch as the majority of folk who go to Canada from Great Britain belong to the working class. Every cultured woman who leaves these shores they look on as a missionary, a builder of empire, and for imperial architecture you need the best, they say.

The impression in these circles is that Mrs. Borden has been incorrectly reported; and they are eagerly awaiting a modification of her alleged assertion. Indeed, I understand one English noblewoman whose principal work in life is to encourage the cultured woman to go to Canada has communicated with Mrs. Borden.

"There is a tendency here," said one who speaks with authority on this subject, "to believe that Canada offers no career to the Englishwoman of good family. Nothing could be farther from the truth. Indeed Canada's crying necessity is a soupcon of our refined women. What has made Ontario the centre of culture that it is today except the settlement within its borders of the cultured women who accompanied the United Empire Loyalists? Their influence is reflected in your statesmen, artists and musicians, who form a vital constituent in the life of the nation.

"Quebec, too, has a happy heritage and the grace of its women is directly attributable to the aristocratic French families who first peopled the province. To British Columbia and the other provinces the same remarks apply; the 'Baronets of Nova Scotia' established by King James I., for instance.

"Recently there has been a renaissance of this movement and settlers of distinction have been acquiring property in Canada and people like Lady Evelyn Ward and the Hon. Gerald Ward contemplate following the example of the Duke and Duchess of Sutherland. It is estimated that not less than 100 members of the upper and lower houses of parliament at Westminster own property in Canada, and every year witnesses an increase in the number of society people who make homes in the dominion.

"We cannot believe that Mrs. Borden has been correctly reported, and we are anxiously awaiting some modification of the report. As it stands it is a warning to our best people not to go to Canada."

Marconi Towers of Steel

The work of replacing with steel masts the famous towers at the Marconi station at Glace Bay is now proceeding. The first mast has reached a height of about 175 feet and will be added to until it is about 230 feet high. There will be three such masts, and when they are completed and the electrical equipment installed and in working order, the four wooden framed towers will be taken down.

The masts are being put up in sections about ten feet long. Each section is split lengthwise into two halves, and there is a flange at top and bottom. One half is set up and riveted to the flange of the section below. Then the second half is added, rivited to the first, making a close, strong joint, and to the flange below, and then the same operation is repeated, the mast gradually extending upward to the towering height at which it will reach on completion. The diameter of each mast is a little over a foot:

Work is also proceeding rapidly at the new Marconi station at Louisburg, and it is expected to have it in operation before the close of the year. Rhodes Curry & Co. Ltd., have the contract for all this work, for the Marconi Company.

TO EVAPORATE APPLES.

The Windsor Tribune describes R. J. Graham & Co's new apple evaporator as having been made "as absolutely fireproof as the latest and most approved building material can supply." The walls are of brick, the roof and ceiling of asbestos, the partitions of cement and the doors fireproof. There are nine kilns, twenty pairing machines and the capacity is 800 bushels per day.

LA MARQUISE de FONTENOY

Sir David Burnett, Next Lord Mayor of London, to Be Elected This Week — A Tale of Spain

(Copyright, 1912, by the Brentwood Company)

Sir David Burnett, the senior Alderman who has not "passed the chair," and enjoying, moreover, universal regard and esteem, can count on being elected on Saturday next to the office of lord mayor of London for the forthcoming civic year, commencing on November 9. The present incumbent is an octogenarian physician, Sir Thomas Crosby. Sir David has long been at the head of one of the principal firms of surveyors in the metropolis of the British Empire. He is a man of a little more than sixty, is married, is a Conservative in politics, and was knighted in 1908 by the late King Edward, for his services as sheriff of London.

The election of the lord mayor was formerly held on the Feast of the Translation of Saint Edward, October 13, but it was altered to Michaelmas Day, September 29, by an act of the common council dating from the reign of Henry VIII. Michaelmas falling on Sunday next, the election will be held on Saturday.

The electors constitute a body known as "the Common Hall," and consist of the aldermen and members of the various city liveries, guilds or companies, the lord mayor acting as president, and the sheriffs performing the duties of returning officers. The powers of the Common Hall are confined to the election of the lord mayor and of the sheriffs, who each hold their office for a year. The aldermen are elected for life by the various city guilds, and if they refuse to serve are obliged to pay a fine of $2,500, which can likewise be imposed upon any of their number who refuses to put in a term as lord mayor.

The new lord mayor will be inducted into office on November 9. Formerly the date of the inauguration was October 29, the day after the Feast of St. Simon and St. Jude, but this date was changed more than 150 years ago to November 9 by a statute bearing the signature of George II.

Sir David Burnett will be the first practising surveyor in many decades to become lord mayor of London. All sorts of trades ares represented in the long list of chief magistrates of the city. Sir Nicholas Wotton, who was lord mayor during the reign of Henry V., was a pawnbroker, and had the honor of serving as "uncle" to the king who, being on one occasion hard pressed for money, pledged his jewels with "Old Nick." Thomas Coke, lord mayor in 1468, was a boot-maker, and to promote his business issued a proclamation ordering the citizens of London to wear boots with turned up toes of a prodigious length, and fining heavily all those who disobeyed his mandate.

John Northampton, successor of Lord Mayor Walworth, who killed the rebel, Wat Tyler, was a barber when elected but, becoming a member of the clergy during his term of office, claimed the right to occupy the pulpit of any church in the city he pleased. Sir Samuel Fleyer, lord mayor in 1761, was a bricklayer, and the famous Dick Whittington, thrice lord mayor of London, was a house decorator. Butchers, brewers, bakers, printers, and fishmongers, all figure on the list. Drapers and goldsmiths, however, are more extensively represented than any other trade.

Good American dollars have been used to acquire the Villa of San Martino, on the Island of Elba, which belonged to the First Napoleon during his exile there, from May 1814 to February 1815, the villa having been partly re-constructed under his direction, and in accordance with his own designs. The purchaser is the Marquis Camillo Ruspoli, of the Falconieri Palace at Rome, who owes his wealth to his marriage, the marquise being the daughter and heiress of the late Baron Albert Blanc and his wife, who was the very rich Natalie Terry, of New York. Baron Albert Blanc was for several years Italian envoy at Washington, and afterwards represented his country as Ambassador at Madrid and at Constantinople, likewise holding the office of minister of foreign affairs at Rome in two administrations.

The Marquis Camillo Ruspoli of Rome must not be confounded with his kinsman, Don Camillo Ruspoli of Madrid, who belongs to the Spanish branch of the family. This Spanish line was founded by his grandfather and namesake Camillo Ruspoli, when he married Dona Carlotta Godoy Borbon, daughter of an extraordinary adventurer, Manuel Godoy, who, through the favor of Queen Maria Luisa, of Spain, was loaded with honors, invested with the office of prime minister, created Duke of La Alcudia and of Sueca, lord high admiral of the navy and captain general of the army, and finally, after his negotiation of the treaty of Basle, receiving the title of "Prince of the Peace." Not content with this, Queen Maria Luisa even found him a royal wife, in the person of Maria Teresa de Borbon, a rear relative of the king.

Godoy to such an extent was pursued by the popular execration that almost invariably falls to the favorites of rulers, that his countrymen forget the services which he rendered to the nation. Thus, while premier he founded the Royal Medical College at Madrid, which put an end to the reign of quacks and barber-surgeons. He organized asylums for the care of foundlings, and for the relief of the deaf and dumb. He created an institution of veterinary surgery, until then entirely unknown, nad did much to promote technical education.

When Queen Maria Luisa's son came to the throne as Ferdinand VII., he deprived Godoy not only of all his titles, but also of all his property and, driven into exile, he spent the remainder of his days in Paris, under the name of "M. Manuel," dependent upon a small annuity settled upon him by King Louis Philippe of France. He died in 1851, a few weeks prior to Napoleon III's Coup d'etat, in a dingy flat behind the opera. True, Queen Isabella II. had, in 1847, at the instance of King Louis Philippe, signed a decree restoring to Godoy all his titles and ordering the restoration of his property, but the actual possessors of his estates knew well how, by the tedious delays and circumlocutions of the Spanish law, to postpone from month to month the fulfilment of the order, until after his death.

His daughter and heiress, married to Camille Ruspoli of Rome, was more fortunate. She was able to secure some of his confiscated estates, and inherited his titles of Duke of Alcudia and of Duke of Sueca which, according to Spanish law, were shared by her Italian husband. She hardly deserved this good luck, since she had abandoned her father, declining to contribute towards his maintenance. The present Duke of Alcudia, Adolfe Ruspoli of Madrid, is her eldest son. He is a very old man, more than ninety years of age, and Don Camillo Ruspoli is his nephew.

Neither the present Duke of Alcudia nor his father, Don Camille Ruspoli, has cared to make use of Manuel Godoy's title of "Prince of the Peace," which has been theirs by right of inheritance. They preferred to allow it to lapse, owing to the odium with which history has invested it. Its only bearer lies buried in that section of the great Pere La Chaise Cemetery known as the Spaniard's Island, near the tomb of Garcia, a great tenor. The small railed-in grave is adorned by a stone tablet, on which are brifly inscribed, the words:—"Don Manuel Godoy, Prince of the Peace, and Duke of Alcudia."

Homeopathic Treatment

By RUTH CAMERON

THERE is a man in our town who is outrageously overbearing and disagreeable to the most patient little wife that ever lived.

People who know them both often say: "How can he be so disagreeable when she is so good? If she were sharp or cross, that would be another thing, but she is such an angel, I can't understand it."

It seems to me that the very thing that puzzles them is a partial explanation of the trouble.

Why shouldn't he be overbearing when she is always ready to lie down and let him walk over her? Why shouldn't he be disagreeable since he can always relieve his feelings that way without any fear of a comeback?

I am inclined to think that if she were sharp and cross occasionally, he'd be a little more careful how he picked on her. But if she is always an angel of patience, why shouldn't he be a devil of unlivableness when he feels like it?

Angels make devils sometimes, I think, and goodness and badness are complementary to a greater degree than we realize.

If you will look about you, you will see that the world is full of people who are cross and folks who let people be cross to them; children who are disorderly and mothers who patiently pick up after them; husbands who are overbearing and wives who are under spirited; wives who are outrageously extravagant and husbands who indulge them; folks who are eternally selfish and other folks who help them to be so by their self effacement.

Now, do these sufferers deserve as much pity as they usually receive, so long as they help maintain the cause of their sufferings?

Probably most of them would tell you that nothing they could do would have any effect on the offenders. I think they are mistaken.

I think a great many of these people who impose on others in one way or another could be treated by homeopathic treatment. Homeopathic, I mean, as far as concerns the character of the dose, not its size. That is: they should be given doses of their own medicine.

Once upon a time there was a girl who was very disorderly and untidy about her room. Her mother fretted and fumed but patiently picked up after her, and the girl grew worse instead of better. Finally she married a man who not only did not pick up after her, but who was extremely disorderly himself. The result of this dose of her own medicine was that she acquired the lacking bump of order.

Again, a woman who was naturally ultra easy going married a man who was some degrees more so. In this case the cure was even more speedy.

Now wasn't it too bad that the housemates of these people didn't apply this treatment years before?

Of course, there are many chronic and aggravated cases of unlivableness that even the homeopathic treatment won't cure, but I am sure that it would always help.

SUNDAY WEATHER TOOK MANY OUT OF DOORS

The weatherman was very kindly disposed yesterday and Sunday afternoon was taken full advantage of from motor runs, carriage drives, street car trips or walks about town or to points of interest nearby. The roads in places were not good after Saturday's rain. To those who do not make use of the Marsh road frequently, drive over it on Sunday brought a feeling of regret that neglect or indifference or whatever had allowed it to decline into its present condition. Once the stretch from Ward's to the Three Mile House was something to boast of, but now it has lost its smoothness of surface and is uneven and rocky. A drive over it is no longer the pleasure it was once.

Near the iron bridge at Brookville an auto party came nearly getting two carriages into a fix and simply because the chauffeur—in this case the owner—was not thoughtful enough to sound his horn. As it was, he shot through a space that gave him nothing to spare. One of the horsemen did not know the auto was almost upon him, and a touch on one rein would have meant a bad accident. There were indignant comments, but probably unheard.

A great many people, afoot or driving visited Courtenay Bay, the scene of large undertakings for the advancement of the business of the country through the port of St. John.

Wants Nova Scotia Carpenters

The Vancouver World says that the Shipbuilding & Marine Railway Co. is capitalized for half a million dollars and is purchasing eight and a half acres of land at Coquitlam near Vancouver. A saw mill and a shipyard are to be constructed.

The promoter of the company and its president and manager is L. D. Shafner, recently of Bridgetown, N. S. Mr. Shafner states to The World that his company will build sailing vessels 300 to 800 tons with auxiliary power for the lumber trade with South America and the West Indies.

About 100 men will be employed, one-half of them to be experienced ship carpenters. Mr. Shafner was leaving for Nova Scotia to engage carpenters. He also contemplates enlarging the operations of his company and adding a dry dock.

A PRACTICAL FIRM.

The box-making mill of Edward Zweicker & Sons at New Germany, N. S., is roomy and well equipped with modern machinery for the manufactures of small wooden boxes of all kinds. Printing in colors on the boxes is a feature of the business. The equipment and machinery was all installed by the members of the firm.

AT KINGS COLLEGE.

King's College engineering classes began last week. The new science building is about completed. It has increased accommodation for forty additional students. The lower floor is devoted to the work of the science department in charge of Professor McCarthy.

MRS. J. W. de B. FARRIS ELECTED TO SENATE OF UNIVERSITY OF B. C.

Canadian Courier Writer Pays Tribute to Wife of Former New Brunswicker

A writer in the Canadian Courier, referring to Mrs. J. W. deB. Farris, says:—

The first senate of the University of British Columbia, which was elected last week and is composed of fifteen members, includes two women, one from Victoria and one from Vancouver. The Vancouver representative is Mrs. Evlyn F. Farris, B. A., M. A., of Acadia University, Wolfville, Nova Scotia. She is a daughter of Professor E. M. Kierstead, LL. D., of McMaster University, and wife of John Wallace de Beque Farris, B. A., LL. D., one of the rising young barristers of Vancouver.

Mrs. Farris is a young woman of unusual charm and sweetness. Just casually meeting her and noting her bright, eager, almost girlish face and her quiet, unassuming manner, one would never guess what a string of formidable academic degrees she is privileged to wear at the end of her name. She is before all else a womanly woman, and just as unlike the popular conception of a blue stocking as the veriest society butterfly.

One might not unnaturally expect a woman bred in the high-browed atmosphere she was, to be something of a reformer, an ardent suffragette, a foremost club woman and a great many other things—one who would try to regenerate the world but would not on any account look after her own family. That is just what Mrs. Farris is not. She is a living exemplification of how higher education will not spoil a woman. Her first and deepest interest is her home, and she spends so much time on the care and education of her four pretty children that she cannot be said to be a leading society woman.

Neither is she a club woman. The only club with which she is connected is the University Women's Club of Vancouver, which she was instrumental in organizing and of which she was the first president, holding office for three years until she stepped down to give someone else a chance. She was a member of the committee appointed to draft amendments to the laws of British Columbia in so far as they relate to women and children; and she was also one of the committee that went to Victoria for the purpose of persuading the powers that be to allow women barristers to practise in that province, and who succeeded so admirably that legislation to that effect was passed a few months ago.

In short, Mrs. Farris is a charming little woman, who, in spite of the generous share of common sense with which she is endowed, is quiet, winsome and likeable (sensible people are often so uninteresting). She can make a rattling good speech or cook a rattling good dinner as the occasion may demand, and there isn't a doubt that her ideas on the question of the most suitable education of the modern girl will be worth hearing.

AMUSEMENTS IN ST. JOHN; WHAT THE PLAYHOUSES OFFER

Nickel's Fall Opening Today.

What the Nickel has to offer today and Tuesday may rightly be taken as samples of the numerous good things—including some startling surprises—in store for the long spell of cold weather. In Floyd M. Baxter lovers of good singing will enjoy a treat never before surpassed on the Nickel stage and in choosing that simple little number: The Song That Reached My Heart for his first offering the talented vocalist has shown excellent taste. Daisy Miller is a dashing Miss who sings prettily and possesses a most attractive stage presence. A rich bill of pictorial features are to be shown, chief of which is the rare production Edward III. of England and The Calais Burghers—veritably a masterpiece. A Vitagraph drama, Selig comedy and fine orchestral programme makes the show over and hour in duration.

Daily Hints For the Cook

COCOANUT TEA CAKES

Roll out some nice pastry to one-fourth of an inch in thickness, shape with a lady finger cutter first dipped in flour. Place on a tin sheet and bake in hot oven. When nearly done remove from oven, brush over with beaten white of egg, sprinkle with shredded cocoanut and return to oven to finish cooking.

SWEET TOMATO PICALILI.

One peck of tomatoes, 6 large onions, 1 cupful of salt, 2 quarts of vinegar, 3 pounds of sugar, ½ pound of white mustard seed, 2 tablespoons of ground allspice, 2 tablespoons of ground cloves, 2 tablespoons of ground cinnamon, 2 tablespoons ground ginger, 2 tablespoons of ground mustard, a small teaspoonful of cayenne. Level measure.

Slice tomatoes in the morning, sprinkle the salt over them and let them stand all day. Drain all night, then cook as usual, being very careful not to let it burn.

SUPERIOR VAUDEVILLE AT OPERA HOUSE

Better vaudeville has rarely been seen in St. John than the Royalty Trio who open today at the Opera House, as they are coming to Canada after having played the prominent theatres of Great Britain, it is natural to expect talent considerably out of the ordinary. The company will appear in five entirely different vaudeville features at each show, embracing musical comedy, marionette, comedy monologue, vocal duos, trios, etc. There will also be a special two reel fairy picture in colors, entitled Hop o' My Thumb. The performance begins at 3 p. m., 7.15 and 8.45 p. m. daily. Admission is 10c and 5c for the gallery. The programme is one hour and a half.

China possesses a coal field with an area of 21,000 square miles.

Drinking Women

NEAL 3 DAY CURE

Are Known in the Community

If a woman drinks, everybody in the neighborhood knows it. Many women drinkers try to conscle themselves with the imaginary belief that no one knows it. But it cannot be hid. The St. John Neal Institute, 46 Crown street, reserves the rooms on the first floor for lady patients. These rooms are elegantly furnished and comfortably appointed in keeping with sanitary conditions, affording bath, telephone service, and the comforts of a refined home. The treatment is completed at the end of the third day. Call on, write, wire or phone 1685 and arrange with B. L. Stevens, the manager, for a room in advance of going.

Capacity 40,000 Bricks

R. L. McDonald, manager of the Nova Scotia Clay Works in a recent interview said:—

"The Annapolis plant has been completed. We have now a capacity at Annapolis of 10,000,000 bricks a year. It has not been possible so far to re-model the plants the company purchased at Avonport, Middleton and Elmsdale, but this will be done at the close of the season. We will make and market 15,000,000 brick this year. The plants will all be remodeled as soon as the present season closes. This will mean the doubling of our plant, will effect a great improvement in the quality of the output and will enable us to keep large quantities of brick on hand at each plant for prompt shipment. The present is 20,000,000 bricks, but as I said this capacity is to be doubled."

MILLIONAIRE BABE HAS ITS FIRST PICTURE TAKEN

Bernardsville, N. J., Sept. 23—Mrs. John Jacob Astor and her millionaire baby are here for a week's outing.

The baby had his first photograph taken before leaving for New York for this place. Only four copies of the picture will be printed, one for his grandparents, one for his mother, one for Vincent Astor and one to be retained by the photographer. This infant was a month old on September 14.

IN THE CITY CHURCHES

The members of No. 2, N. B. G. A., of West St. John, held their annual church parade yesterday morning at 10 a. m., when they turned out fifty strong, under command of Lieut Colonel J. B. M. Baxter, and preceded by the Artillery Band, marched to the Church of the Good Shepherd, Fairville, where they were addressed by Rev. Walter Dunham, a former active member of the company. On the return to the West End, Lieut. Colonel Baxter made a short address to the company. Colonel Baxter, who has been connected with the military service for 24 years, and who has been a member of No. 2, N. B. G. A., for ten years, announced that his time of active service expires in three weeks.

Preaching in Carleton Methodist church yesterday, Rev. H. E. Thomas, the pastor, made a strong attack on Pastor Russell, of New York, and his teaching. Mr. Thomas made charges of a sensational nature and declared that Pastor Russell's teaching was antagonistic to Protestantism and Roman Catholicism alike.

Rally day in the Sunday school of the Carleton Methodist church was observed yesterday. A special programme was carried out and there was a large attendance.

Rev. W. H. Van Allen of the Church of the Advent, Boston, preached at both services in the Mission church, Paradise row, yesterday. His sermons were in defence of ritualism.

Up to 1880 only about a dozen varieties of sweet peas were in cultivation.

MRS. GRACE ASKS TO BE FREED FROM HUSBAND

Acquitted of Shooting at Him With Intent to Kill, Now Seeks Divorce

Philadelphia, Sept. 23—Mrs. Daisy Ulrich Opie Grace, acquitted recently at Atlanta of having shot her husband, Eugene H. Grace, with intent to kill him, has started suit for divorce, charging cruel and barbarous treatment.

Judge McMichael set the fourth Monday in November as the last day on which Grace may file an appearance to combat the suit which is brought by Mrs. Grace to anticipate a similar action contemplated by Grace who is said to be still helpless in his Newnan, Ga. home as the result of the bullet his wife acknowledged firing.

Mrs. Grace also is about to seek the recovery of $18,000 she alleges she conveyed to Grace to establish him in business.

"He was just a lovely boy," said Mrs. Grace. "He was big and handsome and was perfection when in company, but a perfect devil at home. We started to fight before we were married and we kept it up until the minute we separated. All he wanted was money. I never want to see him again."

"That's right, mamma," chirped Mrs. Grace's little blind son by her first marriage. "I don't want him as my papa any longer."

STRATHCONA SENT $1,500.

Rev. E. W. Florence, Rector of St. Bees church, Westville, N. S., and formerly located in Parrsboro, was made happy last week by receiving a cheque from Lord Strathcona for $1,500 to help liquidate the debt of the church. Mr. Florence had written Lord Strathcona in connection with the matter and the cheque received covered half of the debt of the church. The balance has since been raised and Mr. Florence is now being congratulated on having a brand new seven thousand dollar church absolutely clear of debt.

UGH! NOT CALOMEL, OIL OR SALTS, BUT DELICIOUS "SYRUP OF FIGS"

Give Your Stomach, Liver, and 30 Feet of Bowels a Thorough Cleansing Without Gripe or Nausea—Ends Headache, Biliousness, Indigestion and Constipation

This wonderful fruit laxative acts as a liver and bowel cleanser—tonic—not as an irritant. Its action is natural and gentle—no griping. It is delicious—no dreading. It is positive and prompt—no waiting.

If your stomach is sour and filled with vile gases, your head aches, or you are bilious, nervous, dizzy, half sick, your tongue coated, your thirty feet of bowels clogged with waste not properly carried off—don't wait. Surely take a teaspoonful of delicious Syrup of Figs tonight, and in the morning all constipated waste, sour bile, gases and poisons will move on and out of the system, gently but thoroughly—no griping — no nausea—no weakness.

In the old days people let these matters run until they needed a large dose of physic, then they took something severe, like castor oil, salts or cathartics, that meant abuse to the bowels. These are the days of the gentle and natural—the days of Syrup of Figs. This way you are not drugging yourself. Syrup of Figs being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics can not cause injury.

Ask your druggist for "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," and look for the name, California Fig Syrup Company on the label. This is the genuine—old reliable. Any other so-called Fig Syrup is an imitation often meant to deceive you. Refuse such with contempt.

WILL PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN REALLY CURE MY STOMACH TROUBLE? YES!

If Your Stomach is Sick, Sour, Gassy and Upset Now You Can Surely Get Relief in Five Minutes
