FRESH TROUBLE ON THE NEWFOUNDLAND COAST.

An Island Cruiser Sends a Shot Across the Bows of a French Fishing Brig Caught in the Act of Securing Bait—An Incident That May Cause Serious Complications.

NEW YORK, July 16.—A special to The Journal, from Halifax, says: "It is rumored here to-day that there has been fresh trouble, the most serious yet reported, between the French and English on the Newfoundland coast. It is said that the Newfoundland cruiser Fiona, which has been recently put into commission to patrol the coast for the purpose of enforcing the bait act, has had a conflict with a French fishing brig from St. Malo, France.

The story is to the effect that on Friday the Fiona discovered the Frenchman in North Bay, on the south coast, securing bait. Immediately on seeing the Fiona the Frenchman made sail. The cruiser followed, and a lively chase ensued. The Frenchman refused all signals to lay to, and as a consequence the Fiona fired a shot across her bow. The Frenchman still paid no attention, and finally escaped to Little Miquelon. As this story comes from a French source in St. Pierre-Miquelon, it may be greatly exaggerated, but color is lent to the fact by the hurried departure this morning from here of Her Majesty's ship the Bellerophon, the flagship of the North American squadron and two other men-of-war from St. Johns, Nfld. The French consul here, when interviewed on the subject, said he had no official information yet of a French ship being fired at on the high seas, but if such was the fact it might possibly lead to a more serious complication.

FRYE TO BLAINE.

The Maine Senator Asks for Information Touching Reciprocity.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Senator Frye, in reply to Mr. Blaine's letter of July 11, wrote as follows:

Your letter leaves me in some doubt as to facts. I assume that your views are as contained in what is known as the Hale amendment; that you know for instance what the Latin republics will receive of ours free from duty in commutation for free sugar. I assume that that amendment was the result of thorough investigation. The difficulty about it is this: The amount of sugar to be received from those states would be comparatively small and the consumers of sugar would receive no benefit from it. Your letter to me extends this idea of reciprocity to Cuba and Porto Rico. We admit if sugar is received free from these islands, as well as from the Latin republics, the people would be benefited and sugar would be practically free. But will Spain admit into those islands free of duty the list of articles named in that amendment? Of course we could not enact a law more favorable to Spain than to the republics. Do you know what Spain would exchange for free sugar and can you give a list of the articles she would receive? The better way, probably, would be to make the list she would receive the controlling one for all these countries.

A BRACE GAME.

Husband and Wife Arrested on a Charge of "Raising" Bank Bills.

MONTREAL, July 16.—Joseph Berthiaume and his wife, Emelina Narbonne, have been arrested on a serious charge. About two weeks ago a butcher at St. James' market sold 58 cents worth of meat to a woman and gave her the change for a Bank of Hochelaga $10 bill, and it was not until some time after that he discovered that the bill was useless, or rather had been raised from a $1 bill. He did not see the woman again. This woman, Narbonne, subsequently went into Leclair's saloon, on the corner of Ontario and Jacques Cartier-streets, and asked for change for a $50 bill. Leclair gave it but found shortly afterwards that he had been duped, as the bill had been raised from a $5 bill. He followed the woman home and made her give up the change, at the same time retaining the bill. He then notified the police, who placed her and her husband under arrest. Search in the house revealed a wooden box containing acids, type, glass cups and various utensils necessary for the work of raising bank notes. Their 4-year-old boy went with them to the cells. They appeared before Judge Desnoyers yesterday morning, but the case was postponed. It is supposed Berthiaume is the same person who some time ago tried to work off a supposed $20 bill upon A. Michaels.

THE SEAWING VICTIMS.

Thirty-one Bodies Recovered Yesterday—Capt. Wethern Arrested.

REDWING, Minn., July 16.—The bodies of 31 victims of the Seawing disaster were recovered to-day as follows: Mrs. Merritt Green, Julia Persig, William Anane, William Jorgenson, Frederick Christ, Peter Olsson, Miss E. J. Crawford, John Adams, Ira Fulton, Edna Way, Mary Skoglund, Louis Lillybrad, Ed. Merritt, Henry Schulenberger, Henry Newton, James Wilson, Louis Brennan, Johnny Strouse, Randal Oleson, a small son of Peter Gerken, Charles Peterson, Albert Blake, Mattie Flynn, Ella Adams, Augustin Iro, George Hartman, an unknown, Mamie Schulenberger, Martin Scher, Mrs. Creamer and Joseph Carlson.

The bodies recovered thus far number 100. It is thought there are still about a dozen not found. The bodies found last night and to-day were bloated and blackened beyond recognition so that clothing, jewelry and papers were the only means of identification.

The warm weather and shallowness of the water, together with the fact that several large steamers sent up heavy swells to-day as they passed up the river, brought the bodies to the surface very quickly.

It is stated Captain Wethern of the ill-fated Seawing had been arrested at the instance of United States officials and taken to St. Paul.

Another Minnesota Cyclone.

ST. PAUL, July 16.—It was reported to-night that Stillwater had been visited by a cyclone, but later specials report the place as all right. The tornado seems to have struck Marine, a small town six miles northeast of Stillwater, Clear Lake, Wis., and New Richmond. The wires are all down.

There was a storm in Southeastern Minnesota to-night with reports of cyclones in various places. These reports have not been confirmed. Considerable damage to farm property is reported. The wires are now working to Stillwater. There was damage to property but no loss of life at Marine.

Losses Caused by Flames.

CHICAGO, July 16.—The steam scow Two Henrys, a freight boat, was burned off shore about three miles from South Chicago at noon to-day. The crew escaped in the yawl. Loss $5000.

FALL RIVER, Mass., July 16.—A fire this afternoon, which started in Cronley & Co.'s junk store, threatened to make sad havoc, and did destroy several buildings, entailing a loss of $25,000.

VALPARAISO, Ind., July 16.—The residence of John Hamlet near here was burned this morning. Mrs. Hamlet and four children, the eldest about 8 years old, were burned to death.

BOSTON, July 16.—A serious fire started in the Congregational Church at Rockland this afternoon, and spread rapidly to adjoining buildings. The fire caught from a gasoline lamp. The total loss will reach $100,000.

GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER.

A Verdict Against Section Foreman Roche at Midnight.

The inquest into the fatal accident on the C.P.R. at Locust Hill was resumed yesterday, when a number of witnesses, including Mr. Speers of West Toronto Junction, testified that the accident was caused by the extraordinary heavy rain storm; that the culvert was built in the most thorough manner, and would withstand all ordinary freshets, but that which occurred on the night of the accident was the heaviest ever known in the locality.

The jury retired and at midnight a verdict was reached, the jury finding that Section Foreman Roche had been guilty of manslaughter. Roche was arrested and taken to Whitby Jail.

A BURGLARY AT THORNBURY.

Government Detective Murray Has An Exciting Experience with a Couple of Magistrates—They Will be Reported.

On Dec. 28, 1889, the store of W. C. Myers, a merchant at Thornbury, County of Grey, was entered by burglars and $700 worth of plushes, silks, furs and other expensive goods carried away. Detective Murray was instructed by the government to make inquiries, and searched the residences of several suspected parties in the village and at Clarksburg. The officer strongly suspected that the house of Myers' father-in-law, Henry Bull, would reveal the presence of some of the goods, as one or two of Bull's sons did not bear the best of characters, but Myers strongly objected to the search and it was not prosecuted. Detective Murray kept his eye on the parties, however, and recently learned that Ed. Bull had a suit of clothes made by a tailor about 20 miles away, the goods of which the suit had been made answering the description of a piece of tweed that had been in Myers' store for several years, owing to its odd pattern. The detective visited the scene a week ago and laid plans and returned again last Monday and swore out search warrants for the premises of Mrs. Paisley, temperance hotel keeper of Clarksburg, where Ed. Bull was in the habit of hanging out. Mrs. Paisley, who is a large powerful woman, showed fight when the detective, a constable and Mr. Myers put in an appearance, and threatened to throw the trio out of the window. A search of the bedroom disclosed a piece of myrtle-colored cashmere, which was identified by Myers. Detective Murray then drove to Thornbury and arrested Ed. Bull. The house of his father, Henry Bull, was next searched and a large quantity of dress goods, silk plush, underclothing and another suit which Henry Bull, jr., had made up. The detective then started on the lookout for the latter, who was arrested about 15 miles away, while peddling pumps. The prisoner said his father had bought the goods in Barrie, but the old gentleman denied that he had ever seen them. The accused were brought before Mayor Raymond and S. Webb, J.P., at Thornbury. The proceedings lasted from 8 a.m. Tuesday until 1½ yesterday morning, when Ed. Bull was committed to Owen Sound jail and the magistrate discharged Henry Bull. The greatest excitement reigned in the village.

Henry Bull will doubtless be rearrested, together with several others believed to be implicated. Mr. Myers and his clerks positively identified the goods as having been stolen from the store. As a result of the discharge of Henry Bull Detective Murray, who arrived in the city last night, will report the magistrates to the Government.

IT BRISTLES WITH AMERICANISMS.

Mr. Blaine of Maine Returns to His Favorite Pastime of Twisting the British Lion's Tail.

NEW YORK, July 16.—A Washington special to The World says: An important statement is made to-night on excellent authority in explanation of the delay attending the transmission of the Behring Sea correspondence to Congress in accordance with the resolution recently adopted by the House of Representatives. It is now understood that Mr. Blaine has caused the delay in order that an important despatch, which he has prepared in reply to Lord Salisbury's latest representations, should appear among the documents when they are made public. This despatch was written by Mr. Blaine several days ago and forwarded to Minister Lincoln for delivery to the Acting Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs. It is understood that a copy of this despatch is already in the hands of the state department officials, but courtesy between the two nations forbids the publication of any part of it in advance of its receipt by Lord Salisbury.

This latest emanation from the pen of Secretary Blaine is said to fairly bristle with what his admirers style "Americanisms," but which is denominated by his critics "Jingoes." It is feared, however, that the cold and cautious nature of the President may induce him to suppress either the whole or a portion of the despatch at this time, as being calculated to increase the secretary's popularity with the masses, and particularly with those who find amusement and relaxation in twisting the British lion's tail. There is little doubt here that the President had the Irish-American vote in view when he rejected Salisbury's proposition for a settlement of the Behring Sea controversy—a settlement exactly in line with that for which Secretary Bayard contended. On the other hand, it is urged that the President will not be likely to suppress Blaine's letter because it will certainly be made public when Salisbury sends the Behring Sea blue book to parliament.

It is of course understood that the recent threat made by the British Government, with regard to the protection of British sealers will be eliminated from the correspondence as sent into the house, but all the dispatches bearing upon the formal contentions of the two governments are likely to be given in full.

To Reduce Grain Rates.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—The Inter-State Commerce Commission has decided that it will issue an order making a reduction in grain rates from Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri to St. Louis and the Mississippi River and to Chicago. Food product rates east of the Mississippi and not involved in other suits before the commission are not found to be excessive.

Failure of the Deleware Peach Crop.

WILMINGTON, Del., July 16.—President Mills of the Deleware Railway has furnished the annual estimate of the peach crop. The total estimated shipments are placed at 12,375 baskets. This is the smallest yield in the history of peach growing with two exceptions: 1868, when the shipments were 23 carloads, and 1881, when 78 carloads were sent to market.

Winnipeg Wirelets.

WINNIPEG, July 16.—A telegram from Rapid City says a special train passed over the Great Northwestern Central Railway today.

Henry Battell, one of the oldest residents of the Moosejaw district, and Herbert McLean, the 12-year-old son of Dr. McLean, the well-known Indian missionary, were instantly killed by lightning last night while eating their supper at Battell's homestead.

A PORT DALHOUSIE MYSTERY

WAS WHEELSMAN MILES ROBERTSON MURDERED?

The Dead Body of a Chicago Sailor Found on the Dry Dock—There Had Been Drinking and a Quarrel—Suspicious Wounds and Bloodstains—The Coroner's Jury Returns an Open Verdict.

PORT DALHOUSIE, July 16.—Early this morning the dead body of a man was found lying on the bottom of the dry dock here, who was subsequently identified as Miles Robertson of Chicago, employed as wheelsman on the steamer S. L. Tilley of St. Catharines. The Tilley went on the dry dock here yesterday, and last night some of the men, among them the deceased, were drinking, and did not go on board till nearly midnight, during which time deceased had an altercation with one of the other men, one or two blows being exchanged.

Dr. Considine, the coroner, empanelled a jury to enquire into the particulars and this open verdict was rendered: "The deceased, Miles Robertson, was found dead on the bottom of the dock near the propeller Tilley with a clean cut wound on the back of his head, how done we cannot say, but such was the cause of his death, being supposed to have fallen or been thrown from off said propeller."

There is a feeling among the people here that deceased met his death by foul means, as the distance from the deck of the Tilley to the bottom of the dock is nearly 30 feet, and the body when found was lying full length, with the feet together and no bones broken, with a deep cut on the back of the head and a small portion of the brain oozing out of one ear, and there were blood stains on the side of the steamer from the main deck down.

AWAY FROM THE HUNGRY HORDE.

The Premier Will Evade the Office-Seeker for Three Weeks—That is if the White Mountains Can Hide Him.

Hon. Oliver Mowat and a portion of his family are going to leave town this morning. They will spend three weeks in the famous White Mountains of New Hampshire. The Premier is a played-out man, so to speak. The vacancies in his cabinet and the hungry horde of office-seekers who have haunted his official quarters and his private house in St. George-street for the past month have so worried him that he is forced to flee from them to the cool retreats of the New Hampshire mountains.

The office which the late Dr. O'Reilly held, that of inspector of prisons, is proving a fine plum to scramble after. Applications have poured in from all over the province. Some of these applications should be spoken of rather as demands. But the office is still vacant and will not be filled until the Premier's return. Hon. G. W. Ross and Mr. Hardy will also get out of the way next week. Several Cabinet meetings have been held this week and the more urgent matters were attended to.

The Premier said to a friend yesterday that he was thankful to get respite for a few weeks from the ferocious office hunter.

Mr. S. T. Bastedo, the Attorney-General's private secretary, leaves to-day with his wife and family for Point Farm, on Lake Huron, for a two-weeks' holiday.

This is the 19th.

The nineteenth election protest made its appearance yesterday in the office of the Court of Appeal. In North Bruce, John George, Opposition, put more votes than D. Porter, Government candidate, and the former was declared elected by the returning officer, Charles M. Bowman of Southampton, tanner, by his petition charges that the usual illegal means of bribery, treating, intimidation, personation, etc., both personally by George and his agents, contributed materially to the result, and he seeks to invalidate the election.

Voters Don't Pay the Politician.

Dr. McMahon of North Wentworth, it is known, would willingly accept an office from the Government, and he has pressed his claims on several occasions. In Hamilton and Dundas it is generally believed the doctor will drop his parliamentary seat the instant a suitable office is forthcoming. The doctor has more reasons than one for getting out of the arena. "The doctor," said one of his Hamilton friends yesterday, "is well off, perhaps good for $100,000, but he said the other day that he had been a politician so long that he could not collect a cent of his $800 or so of accounts that he had outstanding and he could not live on votes alone."

Mr. R. M. Wells for Senator.

One of the matters now before the attention of Sir John Macdonald and his colleagues is the representation of Ontario in the Senate. There are a number of vacancies. It is more than likely that the first to be called to one of these seats will be R. M. Wells, Q.C., ex-M.P., ex-speaker of the Ontario Legislature, and solicitor of the C.P.R. Mr. Wells has always been a Reformer and a great admirer of Mr. Blake—he used to be called the political god-mother of that gentleman. Sir John's idea in recognizing Mr. Wells is to keep up the tradition, now rather vague, of appointing political opponents to a percentage of the vacancies. This was observed when the late John Macdonald was called to the Senate; and it will be again observed in making Mr. Wells his successor.

Mr. Ballantyne for Speaker.

It has been pretty well settled that Mr. Ballantyne, M.L.A. for South Perth, will be elected Speaker of the new Ontario Legislature.

Mr. William Adamson Files His Claim.

DEATH OF REV. DR. ROSE.

A Veteran of the Methodist Clergy Passes to His Long Rest.

After 84 years of life's turmoil Rev. Dr. Samuel Rose passed quietly to his reward at an early hour yesterday morning. For several years he had been gradually declining in health, but during the last few days he rapidly failed, and his daughter, Miss Rose, who has been his constant companion since the death of his wife, saw that the end was approaching. He was conscious almost to the last. His other children are Mr. Justice Rose, Rev. S. F. Rose of Montreal, and Mrs. Frank Byrne of Toronto.

Dr. Rose was one of the oldest if not the oldest Methodist minister in Canada. He was born in the township of North Marysburg, Prince Edward County, about 10 miles east of Picton, in 1806. In his 12th year he joined the Methodist Church, and in 1831 he commenced his life work on an Indian mission near Lake Simcoe. Here for five years he not only preached but had charge of the Muncey Industrial School. His ability was so marked that at the end of this term he was appointed chairman of the Hamilton District. Three years' more service and he became chairman of the Niagara District. He was next chairman of the Belleville District.

During these periods he was stationed at Stamford, St. Catharines, London, Brantford, Toronto and Belleville. In 1865 he took charge of the Methodist Book Room, a position which he held until 1879, when he retired and was succeeded by Dr. Briggs. Since then, though superannuated, he was always active in church matters and as one of the original trustees of the Metropolitan Church he remained in the position up to the time of his death.

As a speaker Dr. Rose was never at a loss, while his executive ability and knowledge of music made him an ideal minister, especially in the early days of Methodism, when these qualities were all needed by the itinerant.

The funeral, which is to be private, will take place from his late residence, 27 Rose-avenue, at 3½ o'clock this afternoon.

A PECULIAR DEADLOCK.

A Recommendation of the Local Board of Health Which Was Not Recommended.

There is a deadlock in the Local Board of Health. In its sudden burst of outraged virtue the board at its meeting before the session of council on last Monday night resolved:

That the present Medical Health Officer be dismissed the service of the corporation forthwith and that his salary be paid in full for the present month.

That Dr. A. R. Pyne be placed temporarily in charge of the department pending the appointment of a medical health officer.

That advertisements be inserted in the various newspapers stating that the position of medical health officer is vacant, that the salary attached thereto is $2400 per annum, and inviting applicants for the position to send testimonials as to qualification, etc., to the secretary of the Local Board of Health, up to Aug. 1, 1890.

This report was submitted to council, when on motion of Ald. Moses, strongly supported by many other members of the council, the report was struck out and the following substituted:

Your board beg to recommend that the medical health officer be reinstated in his position, on the understanding that he will in the future perform his duties in the future to the entire satisfaction of your board and the council, his services will be at once dispensed with.

The striking out of the objectionable clauses was perfectly within the powers of the council, but it is a matter of discussion as to whether the council could substitute such a sweeping amendment. In the first place the proper course would have been to refer the whole matter back to the Local Board of Health, and in the second it stands to reason that the board could not recommend anything it was not given the opportunity of considering.

Yesterday morning Dr. Canniff sent a polite note to Dr. A. R. Pyne, who is in temporary charge, requesting him to vacate his office. This the doctor refused to do without consulting with the Mayor. His Worship instructed Dr. Pyne to remain where he was until personally relieved by Dr. Canniff.

But there is another side to the affair. The Local Board of Health by specially expressed resolution appointed Dr. Pyne as Medical Health Officer pro-tem, and he accepted the appointment. Who will reimburse him for his loss of practice caused by his shortened tenure of office; and the question still remains, who is the Medical Health Officer?

THE CASE COLLAPSED.

Hamilton's Abduction Sensation—A Missing Butter Merchant.

HAMILTON, July 16.—The McGillivray abduction case collapsed this morning. Counsel informed the magistrate that, acting with the sanction of the persons interested, they had come to an arrangement which was mutually satisfactory. The mother was to retain possession of the child and the father was to be permitted to see it whenever he desired. An agreement was signed to that effect. In view of this turn of affairs the magistrate consented to a dismissal of the charges of abduction against Mrs. Dr. McGillivray and John Littlehales. There was less difficulty in coming to this conclusion when the County Crown Attorney had delivered himself of the opinion that the prosecution could not have sustained the charge anyway, as against the mother of the child.

Robert Bessey, the butter and egg dealer of this city who was arrested last week and taken to Caledonia, was allowed to go on his own recognizance to appear for trial by Judge Upper. Now he is wanted, but cannot be found. The police in Hamilton want him and a warrant has been issued in Cayuga for his arrest there. He is also wanted in Dunnville, Smithville and Grimsby.

William McCawley of the postoffice department in this city died yesterday. He leaves a widowed mother and only brother (Mr. R. J. McCawley, of Ford & McCawley, Toronto).

DENTALS TALKING TRADE.

TOPICS ABOUT THE TEETH AND THE EXPERT EXTRACTORS.

A Case of Implantation by Dr. A. H. Hipple of Stratford—An Indiscriminate Use of Cocaine Condemned—They will Hold their Annual Banquet This Afternoon.

The Ontario Dental Society met again yesterday morning in the Y.M.C.A. building, the newly elected president, Dr. N. Pearson, presiding.

Dr. A. W. Spaulding opened the meeting with a paper on "Amalgam fillings." In opening he pointed out that amalgam fillings fail oftener than any others. This he accounted for by the fact that amalgam fillings are usually inserted where, on account of faulty structure of the tooth, or the inaccessibility of the cavity, a gold filling cannot be inserted. He also thought operators did not give amalgam fillings the time and attention they deserve. To get the best results the cavity should be carefully prepared, the edges trimmed and smoothed and the cavity thoroughly dried. The amalgam should not contain any excess of mercury and should be thoroughly condensed. If these points are observed and the filling smoothed off so as to present no overhanging ledges to irritate the gum, there is no reason why amalgam fillings cannot be inserted which will be entirely satisfactory.

The discussion which followed was opened by Dr. J. F. Adams of Toronto and a large number of points of a technical nature were brought out.

An interesting paper on "Implantation of Teeth" was read by Dr. A. H. Hipple of Stratford. It is little more than four years ago since the announcement was made that it was possible to implant dried teeth, extracted possibly years before, into sockets freshly made in the gums of healthy people. The discovery was laughed at. It is impossible, medical men said. Why, you are violating the fundamental principles of medical science, they cried, and of course that settled it. But scientific dentists actually have implanted teeth with good results. Hundreds of patients have been treated, and it may be interesting to speculate as to the future of this new department of dentistry. It is possible that teeth made of porcelain or some other mineral material may be so prepared as to take the place of the natural teeth now used. Dr. Hipple concluded with a detailed account of the process of implanting teeth. Dr. James Stirton of Guelph led the discussion which followed.

Dr. Willmott said he was pleased with the paper, but regretted that Dr. Hipple had not incorporated in his paper the report of a case of implantation he performed in the mouth of a little girl 8 years of age. He hoped Dr. Hipple would add the report of this case to his paper and hand it to The Dominion Dental Journal for publication, as this was the first case of its kind on record and he wished him to have the credit for it.

In the afternoon Dr. R. G. McLaughlin of Toronto read a paper on "Root Filling," which was almost wholly technical. A lively discussion was evoked, in which Dr. Johnson of Chicago, Drs. Willmott and Spaulding of Toronto and Dr. Martin of Ottawa took part.

"Anesthetics" was the subject on which Dr. R. M. Fisher of Wiarton read a paper, the length of which was only exceeded by the universal interest which it excited. He reviewed the ground in a comprehensive manner, giving a detailed account of the various anesthetics used by the profession.

During the discussion Dr. Johnson of Chicago warned the audience against the indiscriminate use of cocaine as an anesthetic. For himself he had discarded it altogether. Once when a lady patient insisted upon having cocaine administered he had rubbed pure water on the gums. The lady believed she was getting the genuine article, and after the tooth was extracted told Dr. Johnson that the operation "didn't hurt a bit."

Dr. J. B. Willmott described two cases of oral surgery, which won the praise and admiration of those present.

Dr. Luke Teskey opened the evening session with a paper on "Hemorrhage and its results." In an interesting discourse he showed that those recovering from illness are apt to have prolonged hemorrhage. He advised his hearers to warn their patients in such cases as the extraction of teeth. He cited several cases where people had either suffered greatly or died from hemorrhage when the cause was ascribed to anesthetics. Dr. C. G. Martin opened the discussion on many of the members related several cases of violent hemorrhage. The discussion finally drifted into a comparison of dentists and physicians. The opinion was expressed that dentists were under-rated by doctors. Dr. Luke Teskey, as a physician, replied that the doctors fully appreciated the skill of dentists. Dr. Willmott thought that there was more danger of the dentist interfering with the physician in his practice than vice versa. Dr. Martin said that doctors extract teeth for others and send the members of their own family to the dentists. [Laughter.]

Dr. C. N. Johnson of Chicago read a paper on "Practical Points in Operative Dentistry," in which he advocated the use of the matrix in filling, although care must be taken. He showed how he uses hot air in his operations. Tin and gold he preferred to amalgam for filling. The paper was entirely technical, but proved interesting to the audience.

This morning's session will be devoted to clinics at the School of Dentistry, Louisa-street, and at 1 p.m. the annual dental banquet will take place at Harry Webb's.

A Great Scarcity of Straw Hats.

Said Dineen to a World man while remarking about the recent hot weather: "If this hot spell continues much longer there won't be a straw hat in the city next month. We have telegraphed to nearly all the best factories around New York and can't find anything in stock, and they take no orders, being closed down. The warehouses in New York, Montreal and Toronto have less straw goods on hand just now than ever known at the same season. Those that have not already purchased need not wait expecting to get them any cheaper, for present appearances indicate a great scarcity of the most desirable shapes. It is fortunate for us," said Dineen, "that this warm wave came at the proper time; it helped us very much. Our store at the corner of King and Yonge-streets has been crowded with people looking for straw hats."

MR. OSLER WILL PROSECUTE.

The Eminent Toronto Q.C. Will Represent the Crown at Burchell's Trial.

Mr. B. B. Osler, Q.C., has accepted a retainer to conduct the prosecution in the Queen against J. Rex Burchell, now in jail at Woodstock on the charge of murdering young Benwell. The trial will begin Sept. 18 before Mr. Justice MacMahon.

It was given out some time ago that Mr. Osler would probably defend Burchell, but the negotiations did not materialize. It is believed that Mr. Edward Meredith of London will be the counsel for the defence.

Mr. Osler at Woodstock.

WOODSTOCK, July 16.—Mr. Osler, in company with Mr. Ball, the Crown Attorney of Oxford, Detective Murray and Mr. William Davis, C.E., paid a visit to the scene of the Birchell tragedy a few days ago and interviewed some of the leading witnesses in that vicinity. It will be remembered that old man Rabb testified at the inquest that he heard two shots fired in the swamp the evening of the day the murder was committed. Who fired these shots remained a mystery until Saturday last, when Mr. Rabb came to Woodstock and gave the names of two young men who were shooting in the swamp at that time. One of these is now in the States, but the other one is still here and will be called as a witness.

ANOTHER TEXT BOOK BUNGLE.

What Has Become of Mr. Glashan's Arithmetic of 20,000 Copies?—Legal Proceedings Threatened.

Some two years ago it was announced that the Minister of Education had authorized a new arithmetic for high schools, the author thereof being J. C. Glashan, well known as the public school inspector of Ottawa. The Minister had arranged with one publisher, the author with another; the result was that it was given to Hunter, Rose & Co., and more than twelve months ago the M.S. was put in their hands. The Minister revised the copy before it went to the printers and the proofs when it was set up and corrected. The book was all set up and printed some months ago with the exception of the last form. The edition is 20,000, and forms a very high stack in the bindery of the printers. Proofs of the new book got into the hands of experts and it is understood that they reported against it to the minister. They raised the question Mr. Glashan's mathematical erudition, but they doubted the practicability of the work as a teaching book. The minister became alarmed and he held back the last form. Mr. Glashan feels aggrieved. Hunter, Rose & Co. feel more than aggrieved, they feel injured in their pocket, and they talk of instituting an action against the Department of Education. At 50 cents a copy they could claim $10,000.
