FRASER VS. MEREDITH.

A Stirring Scene in the Ontario Legislature.

How the Late Minister Discomfited His Opponent.

Early in 1882 the writer first heard Christopher Finlay Fraser in the old Parliament buildings. It was one of the great nights of the debate upon the boundary question. Oliver Mowat sat with the rim of his silk hat tilted down until it almost shaded his eyes. His arms were folded, and beside him was poor Timothy Blair Pardee, wearing the childlike smile which never left his face until it was yellowed by disease and darkened by the shadow of approaching death. Arthur Sturgis Hardy, full of swagger and eager to fight, lolled in his chair. He wore the black slouch hat couchant, for the Government had trusted the duty of replying to W. R. Meredith to Mr. Hardy's desk mate, C. F. Fraser. Mr. Fraser's black slouch hat was rampant. The Highland and Irish blood in him warmed at the chance of conflict. There

WAS A FIERCE LIGHT IN THE EYES

that blazed behind those spectacles. His scornful laugh disconcerted W. R. Meredith. Mr. Fraser's laugh was not least among the weapons which he used in his feuds with the Opposition. This night Mr. Meredith was speaking, and speaking well as he always does, but he had the worst of the argument because he was fighting for the party at Ottawa, and the Government was battling for the Province. Mr. Fraser made the most of his advantage. Before the Conservative remnant had ceased to thump the desks the haughty clansman rose, thrust away his chair and waited till the applause which Oliver Mowat started died out and gave him a chance to speak. He smote the Opposition policy hip and thigh. He used with telling effect the map issued at Ottawa which fixed the limits of Ontario on the lines drawn by the arbitrators. This map puzzled Mr. Meredith. Mr. Fraser had not given the date of its publication, but in response to a request he sent a page with it to the Opposition leader across the floor. Mr. Meredith looked at the map, smiled as if he had made a discovery, and rose to his feet, saying:

"One moment, please."

"Certainly," said Mr. Fraser, as he sat down.

"I find," began Mr. Meredith, "that this map which the honorable gentleman is using was issued before the Right Hon. Sir John A. Macdonald came into power. It was issued under the auspices of the Hon. Alexander Mackenzie, and this is the evidence which is being used against us on this side."

The Conservatives applauded, and the Grits were dumb for the moment. Mr. Meredith sat down. His handsome face was lit by the smile of a man who had scored a point. Mr. Fraser sprang up.

"I suppose," he said, "that the honorable gentleman means that the Government now in power at Ottawa is not bound by the admissions of its predecessors."

Mr. Meredith nodded.

The long, lean, aggressive forefinger of The Fraser was extended, and the speaker went on to say:

"I am satisfied. This map shows that the Hon. Alexander Mackenzie was prepared to do Ontario justice, which is refused to us by the honorable gentleman's friends at Ottawa, with the approval of the honorable gentleman and his party in this Legislature." Then the speaker dropped into the jeering tones, which he frequently used at that time, and said with a laugh:

"I just thought you'd drop into that hole."—[Toronto Telegram.

LET THE CAT OUT

Of the P. P. A. Bag—Secrets of a Huron County Lodge Revealed.

(Toronto Mail.)

The council of the P. P. A. in Blyth, Huron county, has made a terrible discovery—a discovery which is causing the chief officers of the order great anxiety. It has been proved without a doubt that not only has the ritual of the association, but the whole of the secret code of signs, grips and passwords, been given to members of both political parties, with the result that in several cases men who were not members were able to enter the sacred precincts and learn the plans for election purposes which were being laid by the stalwarts. The knowledge has spread consternation throughout Western Ontario. A hastily summoned meeting of some of the leading officers has been held, and it is more than probable that an entirely new ritual with the necessary secret signs, grips and passwords will have to be compiled before the difficulty will be overcome. It is alleged that the local leaders are perfectly well aware of the identity of the party who was base enough to divulge these secrets, and no doubt condign punishment will be meted out to him.

A Druggist's Opinion.

Mr. Hugh Miller, druggist, 167 King street east, Toronto, says: "Eseljay's Liver Lozenges embody a new departure in medicine, and the idea is certainly a good one, as all unpleasantness is done away with, and a person gets an effectual yet gentle laxative without any of the nauseating effects produced by pills. They are an especially convenient way of administering medicine to children." Mr. Miller voices the opinion of druggists all over the Dominion.

People who are troubled with sleeplessness should drink cocoa, instead of tea or coffee, at the evening meal.

Nothing impure or injurious contaminates the popular antidote to pain, throat and lung remedy and general corrective, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. It may be used without the slightest apprehension of any other than salutary consequences. Coughs, rheumatism, earache, bruises, cuts and sores succumb to its action.

The tensile strength of wrought iron rods varies as the square of the diameter. A one inch rod will support 7,000 pounds, and a two inch rod 28,000 pounds.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

Mr. Johnston's Denial.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

If the paragraph in your paper of last night is not amended to read as it should and a true statement given I will look to be remunerated for the slander which you publish against me, as the whole thing is a lie of the worst kind and has a tendency to do me a great injury in my business. In the first place I was not arrested for selling liquor. Secondly, Inspector Durand has not laid a charge of any kind against me; thirdly, Chief Schram was not with Inspector Durand at Springbank; fourth, Inspector Durand, Ward and Jeffrey paid me a visit and inspected my house and found one bottle of ale which I had for my own use, and not five dozen as published; fifth, I am not remanded for a week as published, but am still at Springbank attending to the wants of the visitors in first-class style. BENJ. JOHNSTON.
