TOURIST TRAVEL THIS YEAR ALMOST RECORD-BREAKING

Weather Has Not Been Favorable, But Hotels and Transportation Companies Have Enjoyed a Fine Business—N. B. Tourist Association Doing Good Work in Advertising.

Thursday, Sept. 12.

The tourist traffic to the province during the summer has been very heavy and officers of the transportation companies report one of the best seasons in the history of the trade. It is generally believed that had the summer been a warm one, the tourist business would have broken all previous records.

Miss Tingey, secretary of the New Brunswick Tourist Association, said yesterday that the association had given information to more strangers than ever before. She thought the class of tourists this season were better off financially than usual as they seemed to be in search of the best accommodations. There have not been as many calls for rooms outside the hotels as in other years, but the hotels have been crowded all summer. The information bureau maintained by the Tourist Association has been the mecca of many travelers who wished to be directed to all of the sights in New Brunswick.

The St. John river has been a big attraction and very few visitors left New Brunswick without having seen the scenery along its banks. The river steamers have had more than their usual share of tourist trade, but very few of the visitors have remained for any length of time at the river resorts. This season a majority of tourists wished to reach points on the seashore and St. Andrews and St. Martins were the objective points of many.

The Eastern Steamship Company has had a very heavy season and three boats a week direct from Boston have been doing good business all summer. An official of the company said yesterday that the trade would total as large as last year, which was the best since the line had been inaugurated. No exceptionally large steamer loads have been carried, but the business has been steadier than in other years.

The freight from Boston and United States points has been heavier than before and much building material such as cement and steel has been brought in.

New Brunswick is becoming much better known as a fine place to visit in summer, and each year adds to the number coming here for recreation. Some have decided to settle here permanently. One family in particular, at present residing in California, has secured a fruit farm in the Grand Lake district and will be back there in the spring to take up their permanent residence.

The automobile has been a great carrier of tourists, but there has been much dissatisfaction expressed on account of the poor condition of the roads. Another great drawback to automobile traffic is the lack of proper road maps. It is impossible at present to secure maps showing the roads in the province and strangers using the highways literally have to feel their way along. It often happens that parties have gone far out of their way when a good map would have kept them on the proper road to their destination.

The New Brunswick Tourist Association has been doing good work in advertising the province and their literature, descriptive of New Brunswick, has been distributed in all parts of the New England States and many places in the south.

One man in New York who had received a New Brunswick Tourist Association booklet nine years ago came to the province this summer and left with the secretary the booklet which he had been carrying all this time. He had planned to come here years ago, but this was the first opportunity he had of making the trip. He expressed the determination to come back again next season.

Miss Tingey has received many inquiries about the moose hunting and the indications are that more sportsmen than ever will be in the New Brunswick woods this fall.

BIG GAME HUNTERS COMING FROM ALL OVER THE WORLD

Moose, Caribou and Deer Said to Be Very Plentiful, and So Are Geese, Duck, Etc.—Fishing Dates and Some Interesting Information Regarding Game Shooting.

On Sept. 15 the open season for game will commence in earnest. On Sept. 1 the season opened for geese, duck, teal, etc., and these are reported to be very plentiful.

Many sportsmen are expected here with the opening of the season, the fame of New Brunswick as a sportsman's paradise having been spread abroad, and it is becoming better known each year.

The various mediums through which the guides arrange their hunting trips, announce that never before have inquiries been so numerous and gammen are coming from all corners of the world to hunt the moose, caribou and deer.

It is reported from the up country districts that prospects for these latter look good, and that the hunters should have a very successful season, deer in particular having been seen in plenty.

Following is a list of the opening dates for game, with a few of the more important regulations of the game law:

Moose, caribou and deer, Sept. 15 to Nov. 30. Shooting of cow moose, cow caribou of any age, and calf moose or calf caribou, under the age of three years, prohibited at all seasons.

No person shall kill or take more than one bull moose, one bull caribou and two deer during any one open season.

Partridge, Sept. 15 to No. 30. Sale of partridge and woodcock is prohibited.

Wild geese, brant, teal, wood duck, black duck, Sept. 1 to Dec. 1.

Woodcock and snipe, Dec. 15 to Dec. 1.

Limit of birds: Twenty ducks per day per gun.

Woodcock and partridge, 10 birds.

Shooting any game on Sunday, or in any park or pleasure resort is prohibited.

Non-resident hunters are prohibited from hunting unless accompanied by a licensed guide.

License to kill one bull moose and one bull caribou, and two deer to a bona fide resident of the province, $2; to a non-resident, $50.

Fishing.

The trout season closes October 1.

The salmon fishing season opened March 1 and closed August 15.

Fishermen say that the trout and salmon have been plentiful, the latter particularly being very numerous in North Shore waters.

The fishermen of St. John are discussing what they allege is the unfairness of the regulation which permits Charlotte county fishermen to seine herring in this district when the St. John fishermen are forbidden a like privilege in Charlotte county waters, herring seining being prohibited there to anyone. The Charlotte county men use their weirs from April to August and, it is alleged, when the herring come to these waters in August, the Charlotte fishermen, 200 and sometimes 300 in number, come to St. John and seine and the local men are deprived of a market and have to sell their catch as bait.

The fishermen here naturally want fair play and think that something should be done to make the fishing rights of all equal.
