Riot in Paris.

A Jail Broken Open and the Revolutionists Rescued.

LONDON, Jan. 26—A "Herald" correspondent writes from Paris on the 23rd inst. as follows:—The evening of yesterday, 128 days since the commencement of the siege, witnessed for the first time since the investment a scene which all have been dreading more or less, every day during the dreary four months. There has been bloodshed in the streets of Paris, not from the shells of the besiegers, but by the acts of those reckless adventurers, who all along have sought to seize, and mischiefs and misfortunes to the country for the advance of their own interests. Saturday night a crowd of citizens in Belleville and other quarters, who have been threatening riot since the failure of the sortie of the 19th, gathered around the prison of Mazas, where Flourens, Millier and other political prisoners were incarcerated, and after various clubs demonstrations, gathering courage in the absence of opposition, made a regular attack upon the prison and beat down the gates with blacksmiths, stones and iron bars. The jailers and gendarmes, for their lives, opening the jail free to the rioters, who poured out the cells, releasing the inmates until they found Flourens, Millier and his companions, who were borne forth in triumph, amid cries of "a bas Favre!" "a bas Trochu!"

After parading the streets, the rollicking crowd, led by Flourens, made a descent upon the mairie of the arrondissement, comprising the faubourgs of Belleville, St. Fargeau, Tyrea la Cadet and Charonne, succeeding to establish the headquarters of a revolutionary movement which should extend over the whole city. However, the parade failed to draw any large number of followers into active cooperation, and the officials who were willing to denounce the revolution, hastily armed, turned the mairie, after seizing 2,000 rations of bread, ready for distribution among the starving population of Belleville. Before daylight, Flourens with Lonsa, had proceeded to make an entry at noon yesterday in front of the Hotel de Ville, and there demand possession of the government in the name of the people. The rioters took the oath with great vehemence and excitement and then broke up in groups and returned to their respective homes, or wandered about the city like lions of disorder until late night. At noon, yesterday, in advance with the pledge, about 22 of the most republican and villainous looking rioters in the city marched, including a large number of soldiers, to the Hotel de Ville, bearing a body to the place in front of the Hotel de Ville, uttering revolutionary cries and calling the citizens to arms.

ATTACK ON THE HOTEL DE VILLE.

A "Tribune" special despatch of the 23rd, from Paris, says a detachment of 300 National guards attacked Hotel de Ville. The mobiles defended it and were firm. The affair lasted a quarter of an hour. An official report gives 9 killed and 18 wounded. The attempt created a reaction and was completely suppressed.

Vinoy has accepted the command in place of Trochu, on condition that stern measures be adopted to prevent disturbances. The radical clubs have been closed, the Revolt. Comitat is suppressed and numerous arrests have been made. The deaths last week in Paris were 1,175.

The seiling of Maine will supply a large trade in fore and aft schooners. It is small to what it formerly was. Muskrats are the most abundant of all the fur bearing animals, as about forty thousand are caught every year. Seine skins of a bright color to the amount of about fifty thousand are taken, and some four thousand mink skins are sent to market yearly. Moose and deer are becoming very scarce, but about two hundred bears are captured yearly. The caribou, or reindeer, which had almost disappeared from Maine, have become more plenty of late.

Harper's Bazar.
A supplement containing numerous full-sized patterns of useful articles accompanies the paper every fortnight, and occasionally an elegant colored Fashion Plate.
HARPER'S BAZAR contains 16 folio pages of the size of "Harper's Weekly," printed on superfine calendered paper, and is published weekly.

Critical Notices of the Press.

HARPER'S BAZAR contains, besides pictures, patterns, etc., a variety of matter of especial use and interest to the family: articles on health, dress, and household topics in all its branches; its editorial matter is specially adapted to the circle it is intended to interest and instruct; and, is has, besides, good stories and literary matter of merit. It is not surprising that the journal, with such features, has achieved in a short time an immense success; for something of its kind was desired in thousands of families, and its publishers have filled the demand. The young lady who buys a single number of HARPER'S BAZAR is made a subscriber for life.—New York Evening Post.

The BAZAR is excellent. Like all the periodicals which the Harpers publish, it is almost ideally well edited, and the class of readers to whom it is intended—the mothers and daughters in average families—can not but profit by its good sense and good taste, which, we have no doubt, are to-day making very many homes happier than they may have been before the women began taking lessons in personal and household and social management from this good-natured mentor.—The Nation.

It has the merit of being sensible, of conveying instruction, of giving excellent patterns in every department, and of being well stocked with good reading matter.—Hartford Courant Press.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral
For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.
Probably never before in the [illegible] medicine, has anything won so widely upon the confidence of mankind, as the remedy for pulmonary complaints. For a series of years, and among most of [illegible] men it has risen higher and higher in public estimation, as it has become better known. Its character and power to cure the various [illegible] of the lungs and throat, have made it the reliable protector against them. While [illegible] milder forms of disease and to ward off [illegible] at the same time the most effectual means be given for incipient consumption, [illegible] gerous affections of the throat and lungs, [illegible] vision against sudden attacks of Croup should be kept on hand in every family, and [illegible] are sometimes subject to colds and coughs should be provided with this antidote.
Although settled Consumption is [illegible] curable, still great numbers of cases [illegible] case seemed settled, have been cured, and the patient restored to health, by Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. So complete is its [illegible] over the disorders of the Lungs and Throat, the most obstinate of them yield to it. If nothing else could reach them, under the [illegible] forest they subside and disappear.
Singers and Public Speakers find protection from it.
Asthma is always relieved and often cured by it.
Bronchitis is generally [illegible] by Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in small doses.
For a Cough and Cold, a bottle should be had. Take small doses from time to time; put the feet in warm water at night; the disease is broken up.
For Influenza, when it attacks the lungs, take the same course.
For Whooping Cough, give [illegible] or four times a day.
For Croup, give large and frequent doses; the disease is overcome.
No family should be without the Pectoral on hand to protect them, [illegible] from the above complaints. Its [illegible] spare the patient a great amount of [illegible] risk, which he would incur by [illegible] could get other aid. Parents, keep it for the exigencies that arise. Life may be saved by it.
So generally are its virtues known, [illegible] not publish certificates of them, [illegible] than assure the public that the best possessed are strictly maintained.
