CHIGNECTO POST AND BORDERER.

SACKVILLE, N. B., JUNE 5, 1884.

THE SITUATION IN CUMBERLAND.

The Liberal Convention met at Amherst on Friday last and with much enthusiasm nominated Hon. Mr. Pipes for the Commons and Messrs. Wm. Oxley, of Oxford, and Charles Smith, of Port Greville, for the Local. This was a brave set-out in the way of defeating the "corrupt Tories," but, unfortunately, Hon. Mr. Pipes did not accept the nomination with that alacrity that shewed a confidence in his ability to make a triumphant walk-around in the canvass. He seemed willing that the honors of the position should be allowed to rest upon Hon. A G. Jones, of Halifax. This gentleman when called upon serve his country, did not rise to the crisis with that patriotic fervor that showed a determination to defeat the Tory legions at all cost; in fact, he resolutely declined to be made either a hero or a martyr. Failing with Mr. Jones, Hon. Mr. Pipes felt that while duty called him to lead the hopes of the Reformers of Cumberland, still his suffering country more especially demanded him to continue not to lead the present wise and brilliant administration of Nova Scotia and with the calming reflection that in this position he could as effectually help to cook the base Tory goose, he handed back to his supporters the nomination with thanks—awfully.

Our friends of the Halifax Recorder thus deal with the Hon. Mr. Pipes' presumed acceptance:

But Mr. Pipes is not acting in his own interests in taking this course, nor does he allow his own interests to influence him in making a choice. He thinks first and only of his duty to his party and his country. He recognizes that it is the duty of every patriotic man in the country to strike a blow at all hazards (!!!!) and by every means at the present corrupt system which prevails at Ottawa. He realizes the importance of redeeming Cumberland County at this juncture, and as it is the unanimous and overwhelming opinion of the Liberals of Cumberland that Mr. Pipes is the strongest standard-bearer, he has accepted the situation without questioning or fear (!!!) and thrown himself into the breach.

Then the nomination was offered to William Oxley, Esq., of Oxford, who in promptly accepting showed none of the dislike of the heroics evinced by his leaders. Thus are the agonies of nomination over.

Mr. Oxley is on the sunny side of middle life, capable and successful in business. His business pursuits—he is at present a mill owner and lumber dealer—have not been in a line to adapt him for a successful political career, which can in all cases be remedied partially at least by industrious application to politics. It is not, however, with Mr. Oxley or Mr. Townshend personally we have to deal—fortunately, political controversy in Canada is rapidly being elevated from bitter personal contests to national issues—but with the principles and policy they individually represent. The Tory party has two planks—the development of native industries, the employment of home labor and capital by creating a home market for native products. In a policy so comprehensive and far-reaching, many conflicting interests might have been expected, resulting in unsatisfactory compromises—but even with such disadvantages at the outset, the results have been marvellously successful. The productive energies of the people have been enormously increased; increased employment has created wealth and capital; the savings of the people have taken a wonderful impetus; the public treasury has been full, and the public credit in the money markets of the world has increased in round numbers ten per cent!

The second plank was the colonization of the North-West by the construction of an iron highway across what was half a dozen years ago known as the great American desert to the Rocky Mountains and thence to British Columbia. The results so far are beyond the most sanguine expectations of those bold men who stood at the party helm. So rapidly has the march of empire taken its way to that western land, its revenues to-day are already nearly equal to the combined Dominion revenues of the three Maritime Provinces, and they are rising with such leaps and bounds that not many years can elapse before that country will distance Canada proper in its revenues.

With this policy compare that of the present Opposition party. But at the outset, we are met by the enquiry what is their policy? Hon. L. H. Davies, in a speech delivered at Montreal before the Young Men's Reform Club in March last, declared they had no policy; he said, referring to Free Trade:

"The Liberal party would shortly submit to the people a policy that would show them what the Liberal party intended upon that and other questions."

Their leaders are not a unit on any public question. Mr. Blake is an apostle for Imperial Federation; Sir Richard Cartwright for Independence; Hon. Wilfred Laurier and others for Annexation. On such questions as the N. P., and the Government Railway policy, they are still further at swords' points with each other. Mr. Blake himself has more than once asserted the present policy with respect to the N. P. cannot be reversed. Hon. Isaac Burpee, of St. John—one of the soundest and ablest business men in Canada—is so well pleased with the prosperous condition of public affairs, he holds himself aloof from his former political friends. It is no secret, at the last election in this Province, (York) he displayed no sympathy with the Opposition cause.

Hon. A. G. Jones, of Halifax, is also a remarkably successful business man, and wide awake enough on matters touching the commercial interests of the people. At the last election held in Nova Scotia, (Halifax) he refused to sanction opposition to the Government candidate, who was elected without opposition. The very last railway resolutions offered by the Government to Parliament, served to exhibit how completely the Conservative policy meets the wishes of the country, for on the vote Mr. Blake was deserted by half of his own supporters!—Less than forty was all he could rally.

We trust Mr. Oxley will be able to propound the true Liberal policy; shew how that party proposes to deal with all the burning questions of the day. Until the Liberal party gets a policy it is merely an assemblage of politicians bound together by no principles or tie of honor, or any sentiment beyond the common purpose of gaining place and power and patronage—a purpose not calculated to gain them the respect and confidence of electors.

MOUNT ALLISON.

The Anniversary Exercises.

MALE ACADEMY.

The oral and written examinations in connection with the closing of the term at the Mount Allison Institution were finished last Friday, and gave practical demonstration of satisfactory progress. On Saturday some of the students celebrated their release from educational labors by a base ball match between the College and the Male Academy, which resulted in a victory for the latter. In the afternoon there was a meeting of the Senate, and in the evening a farewell reception was held in the Ladies Acdemy. This was a brilliant gathering and was participated in not only by the ladies of the Acadamy, but also by a large representation of the pupils of former years and by a goodly number of the fair daughters of Sackville, who, with their visitors, filled the spacious drawing room to overflowing. On Sunday morning the annual sermon before the Theological Union was delivered by Rev. S. B. Dunn, of Truro, to a large congregation. Rev. Robert Duncan, of St. Stephen, was expected to preach the the Baccalaureate sermon in the evening, but, owing to sickness in his family, was unable to attend, and the exercises consisted of a brief sermon by Dr. Stewart, and an impressive address to the graduating class by President Inch. A special service in connection with the inauguration of Methodist Union was then held, and addresses were delivered by by Rev. Drs. Pickard, McMurray and Pope, and Dr. D. Allison. On Monday morning a change in the weather occurred, and rain was falling before the hour arrived for the closing exercises of the Male Academy. This unpropitious state of affairs did not prevent a large audience from assembling at Lingley Hall, where a carefully selected programme was successfully rendered, some portions deserving more extended notice than our space will permit.

Benediction.

At the close of the exercises Principal Paisley made a few remarks, in which he stated that the Academy was in a very prosperous condition, the number of pupils enrolled being seventy-three. One young lady had taken the regular course in Greek and her progress compared favorably with that of the other members of the class. The result of the examinations had been very satisfactory, and fewer had failed to pass than on any previous occasion. Twenty-four pupils had been advanced to the first division, and eight had matriculated and were fully fitted for beginning a collegiate course. The students had been entirely free from any sickness of a serious character, and there had been a marked manifestation of interest in religious matters. The Academy had been fortunate enough to retain the services of Mr. Davis, and three new teachers had been added to the staff. Prizes were then awarded as follows, a committee from the audience having been appointed to adjudge the bestowal of the prize for declamation:

Deportment, A. B. Calder.
Virgil, Henry L. Smith.
Greek Reader. Aldran Allen.
Algebra, William Hilyard.
Latin Reader, J. Boyd McNeil.
Advanced Arithmetic, Milton Patterson.
English Grammar, Wm. Gibson.
Spelling, Thomas Moore.
Latin Grammar, Frank Harrison.
Geography, L. Anderson.
French, Herbert Sangster.

During the afternoon the art gallery of the Ladies' Academy was open to the public, and was well worth a visit. It contained specimens of the artistic labors of the students, consisting of oil and water-color paintings, crayon sketches, etc., including decorated placques, panels and bric-a-brac, paintings on satin, etc. Of course it is not to be expected that all the pictures were masterpieces, but some of them evinced a high degree of talent and were worthy of warm commendation. In the evening quite a respectable gathering braved the pelting rain to listen to the annual lecture before the Theological Union, which was delivered in Lingley Hall by Rev. Edwin Evans, of Marysville. The lecture displayed a vast amount of careful study and research, and deserved a far larger audience than could possibly be expected on such a night.

LADIES' ACADEMY.

The continuation of rainy weather on Tuesday did not appear to dampen public ardor nor check the interest usually manifested in the closing exercises of the Ladies' Academy, for, before the hour of opening arrived, standing room was at a premium in Lingley Hall. "The sweet girl graduates" and the members of the singing class looked beautiful in spite of their disfiguring bangs, which proves that it takes no small matter to mar the loveliness of the young ladies at Mount Allison. The programme given below was successfully carried through—the essays possessing a rare amount of merit, while the excellent music, under the charge of Prof. Cranz, formed a pleasing feature of the exercises.

The degree of M. L. A. was conferred on Miss Alice Ogden, Sackville, Miss Alla D. Sharp, Minneapolis, Minn., and Miss Hattie Weldon, Sackville. Miss Tillie Fillmore, Sackville, graduated in music, and Miss Adda Purdy, who graduated in music last year, but was unable to be present at the closing exercises, received her diploma.

Dr. Kennedy stated that the academy was in a highly prosperous condition, and that the pupils had made good progress in their studies. The number present the first term was 87, and 98 attended the last term—the total number enrolled during the year being 115. The students had enjoyed good health and a growing interest was manifested in advanced education. The liberality of friends had put the Faculty in a position to offer a few prizes for class-work, and it was hoped that the number would be increased in succeeding years. The prizes were then awarded as follows:

English Literature—Miss Mary Oxley.
Senior Latin—Nettie Goodwin.
Senior French—Dessie Chapman.

An address on higher education for women was delivered by Dr. Allison, Superintendent of Education for Nova Scotia, who was followed by Rev. Mr. Nicholson, editor of the Hants Journal, and Rev. Mr. Lathern.

In the afternoon the ceremony of tree planting was performed in the college grounds. The names of those who took part are given in another column.

The annual meeting of the Alumni of Mt. Allison College was held in the afternoon, and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—President, Prof. A. D. Smith; Vice Presidents, H. A. Powell, Revs. B. C. Borden, and H. Chappell; Secretary-Treasurer, J. F. Allison; Council, W. C. Milner, Prof. Laird, F. A. Dixon, Josiah Wood, and Hattie Stewart.

A Conversazione, under the auspicies of the Alumni and Alumnæ Societies, was held in the evening in Contennial Hall. About two hundred couples were present, including a large number of visitors. Inspiriting music was furnished by the Amherst Quintette Club, and abundant refreshments provided.

CONVOCATION.

The nearly continuous downpour of Monday and Tuesday changed to bright sunshine on Wednesday morning, and the Convocation Exercises at Lingley Hall were largely attended. The following was the

ORDER OF EXERCISES:

Reading Scriptures and Prayer.

Music: Stabat Mater. Duet: "Quis est Homo." Rossini.—Misses Crow and O'Brien.

Salutatory Addresses, (Latin).—Hugh Harrison.

Music: Cavatina, from the Opera "Der Freischutz." Weber.—Miss Eudora O'Brien.

Orations by Graduating Class. Socrates.—C. F. Hall (excused). God in History.—G. W. F. Glendenning. The Covenanters and Valedictory Address.—S. Howard.

Music: Reminiscence to Mendelsohn. Locu.—Misses Weeks and Alice Ogden.

Conferring Degrees, Reports, &c.

Music: Valse de Concert. For two Pianos. Schulhoff.—Misses Douglas, Phinney, Weeks, Geo. Smith.

Owing to a desire to make the exercises as brief as possible, Mr. C. F. Hall was excused from delivering his oration. The other essays, of which a brief abstract is given on another page, were well presented and well received. At the conclusion of the orations degrees were conferred on the gentlemen named below:

B. A.—G. W. F. Glendenning, Amherst; C. Frederic Hall, Sydney, C. B.; Samuel Howard, Cornwall, P. E. I.

M. A.—Sidney Walker Hunton, B. A., (Lond.) 1881; Rev. Frederic H. Wright, B. A., 1875.

D. D.—Rev. John Lathern.

D. C. L.—Alfred A. Stockton, Ph. D.; Matthew H. Richey, Lieut.-Governor of Nova Scotia.

Ad Eundem.—Sidney Walker Hunton, B. A., (Lond.); George Jackson Laird, M. A., (Victoria).

After this ceremony had been performed President Inch announced that as some of the friends were anxious to leave on the next trains the remaining exercises would be shortened, and only a few of the friends, who otherwise would be expected to address the Convocation, would be asked to speak. He called upon Drs. Pope and Stockton, who responded in fitting terms. The President next briefly referred to the work of the term and the prospects of the Institutions—making especial mention of the completion of Centennial Hall, and the liberality which had provided the beautiful memorial windows. He alluded to the fact that Mt. Allisen had been the first to move in the matter of higher female education, and regretted that more young ladies had not availed themselves of the opportunities afforded. The number of students this year was only 46, but with the improved facilities afforded by the new college there was reason to hope that the number would be materially increased. This term, he said, had differed from preceding years in the introduction of Honor courses in which the following students had secured a place. The comparatively large number enrolled was not an indication of inefficiency, for the honors had been fairly won with careful study and after severe tests.

Rev. W. H. Heartz, President of the N. S. Conference, made a few appropriate remarks in response to invitation, and the Benediction then brought the anniversary exercises of 1884 to a successful close.

—On Sunday last the finishing touch was given to a religious movement of very high importance. In all the Methodist Churches throughout the Dominion were held the first religious services of a united Methodism. Henceforth, instead of four sects there exists one mighty religious body, to be called simply the Methodist church, with adherents numbering not far from eight hundred thousand, or about one-fifth of the population of the Dominion. It is easily first in numbers of our Protestant bodies and is increasing at a far more rapid rate than any other church, having gained between 1871 and 1881 at a rate of no less than 35 per cent., the churches standing next in point of growth gaining only 24 per cent. The differences which separated the uniting bodies were trivial and would have had neither existence nor weight but for the sheer perversity of human nature. And what after all is the real importance of the differences separating all the various bodies of christianity from each other? In apostolic days the Church was one in doctrine and in government and surely ought to have remained so. The various divisions that have since taken place are so palpably due to the defects of our fallen humanity that it is really a matter of the profoundest wonder that all professing the christian name could not agree to throw overboard all post-apostolic accretions, discard all doctrinal differences as non-essential, and unite in one vast army against the rising forces of vice and infidelity. This surely would be the highest practical wisdom.

—At Kellog's spring sale of Jersey cattle, held at New York last month, Mr. Valancey E. Fuller, of Hamilton, Ont., contributed ten head, including calves, which realized $24,000. Five of these brought the highest average ever obtained by any breeder at an auction sale, and, consequently, Mr. Fuller brings to Canada the champion cup awarded to the breeder who receives the largest average on his consignment.

—The Prairie Province evidently thinks that no bread is better than half a loaf, and has scornfully refused the better terms offered by the Dominion Government. Manitoba is the spoiled child of the Dominion.

—Serious dynamite explosions took place in England last week and great excitement prevails. Some of the papers go so far as to talk of reprisals.

Personal and Political.

—Lord O'Hagan ex lord chancellor of Ireland, is seriously ill.

—Senator and Mrs. Dickey, of Amherst have gone to England.

—Prof. Foster, M. P., lectures this evening at Wolfville, on Patriotism.

—Col. C. J. Stewart and family left last week for a six month's visit to England.

—Hon. A. W. McLellan, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, arrived at Halifax on Monday.

—An American publisher has offered Lord Tennyson $100,000 to come to America for three months.

—W. H. Vanderbilt has transferred $5,000,000 in United States 4 per cent. bonds to his son, W. K Vanderbilt.

—Prince Bismarck expresses considerable doubt concerning the wisdom of the proposed Egyptian conference.

—Hon. Oliver Mowat, Premier of Ontario, has sailed for England, to argue the Ontario boundary question before the Privy Council.

—The Republican Convention is in session at Chicago this week. Hon. John R. Lynch, of Mississippi, has been elected temporary chairman.

—Mrs. Frank, one of the heirs to the Michael Reese estate, has given $30,000 towards establishing a society for the education and care of Jewish orphans in Chicago.

—It is reported that Earl Granville will resign his position of foreign secretary on the dissolution of parliament on account of his health failing and his becoming too deaf to conduct the business of the office.

—The Pall Mall Gazette declares that the answers of ministers in both houses to the question regarding the management of Egypt were "evasive and shuffling." "If the ministers," it says, "further persist in the scheme of multiple control, when the chief liberal newspapers in London and the provinces oppose they are lost."

—William S. Warner is a business man. He put $6,000,000 into the speculations of the firm of Grant & Ward. He drew $7,800,000 out, receiving a profit of 20 per cent. per month. He claims a balance of $578,560 still due to him. He obtained a transfer of $600,000 in property from Ward to secure this in preference to other debtors. The mere statement of the case is enough. There were no profits. The transactions were fictions.

THE COAL FIELDS OF QUEENS.

Our enterprising contemporary, the Telegraph, publishes a map showing the coal fields of Queens' County and in an editorial pictures the time when Grand Lake coal, by means of the proposed Central Railway, will be delivered in Montreal. We are afraid the Millenium will arrive some months before the golden prophesies of the Telegraph are realized. Our contemporary places the thickness of the seam from 3 ft. to 4 ft. This dimension is double the size given in the report of the Geological Survey of Canada. Our contemporary may be correct, but many persons would perhaps prefer the report of the Government Survey. Our contemporary gives countenance to the supposition there are underlying seams. This is purely idle and fanciful.

The borings by the Local Government, only a short time ago, went into the Devonion rocks, some distance below where coal is ever found. Our contemporary flatters itself that the coal having no dip is an advantage, and in this it is also greatly misinformed. A little thought will enable our contemporary to be convinced that a small seam can be worked much more profitably when it has a dip than otherwise. It is truly to be regretted that this Province has no promising coal fields, but it is better the people should recognize the fact than be deluded by imaginative writers into speculations based on their existence.

—The graduating exercises in connection with Acadia Seminary, Wolfville, were held last evening. The anniversary ceremonies in connection with the graduating class at Acadia College take place to-day.

GENTLEMEN—Your Hop Bitters have been of great value to me. I was laid up with typhoid fever for over two months and could get no relief until I tried your Hop Bitters. To those suffering with debility or any one in feeble health, I cordially recommend them.
