POETRY.

A Schoolmaster Laureate's Ode.

We now have reason to be proud, and glad at heart, an' a' that;
To hear our laws and cheer aloud, and hop and step and sing, and a' that,
Aboot that, and a' that, and mickle mair than a' that;
Frae Britain's shore they've sent us o'er some dainty pieces, and a' that.

Ye know our king has been abused, pamphleted, scoffed, and a' that;
And just like helpless stepdame used, it wasna nice ava that;
Even at that, and at that, and sometimes wauir than a' that,
Some mencless loons in southern towns, our heritage wed staw that.

Our moral air seem'd on the wane, our social state, and a' that;
Designing jobs and smart fools wrought waste, and wanton'd a' that,
And a' that, and a' that—our trade and trust, and a' that,
In ruin's maw, for good and a', seem'd swallow'd up and a' that
Tho' many a sage prophetic chiel, wi' warning voice, and a' that,
Told long and mair to hand us leal in loyalty, and a' that,
For a that, and a' that, there seem'd sae' hope for a' that,
For Yankee-doodle's dadling arts hoodwink'd us aye, for a' that.

He told us that our British ties were slavish chains, and a' that;
That Canada could never rise whilst link'd to crowns, and a' that,
And a' that, and a' that, to titles, thrones and a' that;
And fostered up rebellious fire to open strife, and a' that.

By many deep laid dastard wiles as friendly guise, and a' that,
He strave to lair us in his toils, and eke by force, and a' that,
Even a' that, and a' that, our commerce crushed, and a' that,
Gave guns and swords to Fenian hordes, to shoot and hack us sma' that.

But spite his frothy flois and spleen, hypocrisy, and a' that,
His bullying brag, and knavery mean, detraction, lies, and a' that,
And a' that, and a' that, tho' hard he tugg'd wi' a that,
To mar us overe was past his power: we're Britons yet for a' that.

We've now obtained a nation's height, we're christened too, and a' that.
And did a stroke we had to fight, it came by nature's law that,
And a' that, and a' that, a kingdom too, and a' that,
But, what will Yankee-doodle say when he's convinced o' a' that?

We'll have a monarch—king or queen, a sceptre, throne and a' that,
And dukes, and earls, and knights between, and mates mair than a' that,
Than a' that, and a' that, an army great, and a' that.
A navy strang, our foes to hang, on ocean, lake and a' that.

Then high aloft Britain's banner raise, loud peal your bells and a' that;
Let bonfires blaze on a' your braes, and common roar, and a that,
And a' that and a' that, triumphant shout, and a' that,
After let fame the dogd proclaim, and loud her trumpet blaw that.

W. BANNATYNE.

Ashfield, March 4th, 1867.

FENIAN EXCITEMENT IN BUFFALO.—The late news from Ireland in reference to the rising of the Fenians in that country, and the sanguinary contests that have occurred with the Queen's forces at sundry points, has created an intense excitement among Fenians, and Irishmen who are not members of the organization, in this city. At no time since the June invasion of Canada, have our Irish citizens been so agitated. If demanded, by the leaders, fifteen hundred fighting men could be raised in Buffalo at an hour's notice. The mass are clamorous for aid being forwarded immediately to their struggling countrymen in the "Green Isle." The leaders, however, are very reticent. They either are not altogether satisfied as to the strength and character of the outbreak over the water, and doubtful whether the struggle can be maintained until reinforcements are sent from here, or are hoscanding and collecting the resources at their command here for a blow which will be as effective on this side of the water. Whatever course they may pursue will be after mature deliberation and not calculated to fritter away the available means now at their command.—Buffalo Courier.

THE DUELLO.—The passion for duelling has revived in the South. Almost every day we see accounts of "personal difficulties," "hostile meetings," "affairs of honor," &c., ad nauseam. The last case that we have seen is one which occurred a few days since at New Orleans. It seemed that a Mr. Janin insulted the wife of a Mr. Lefebre at a ball. Lefebre charged the former with the offence, whereupon Janin, knocked him down. A challenge followed, and a duel was fought with double barrelled guns at thirty paces. On both sides there was "a vindictive thirst for blood." On the first fire Lefebre was killed instantly, while Janin received a mortal wound, of which he soon died. There is no intimation that the seconds are to be punished.

Cardinal Cullen has been receiving addresses from a number of religious and educational societies connected with the Roman Catholic Church in Ireland. The ladies and gentlemen presenting them had the honor of kissing the pastoral ring. In one of his replies the cardinal, refering to the Irish Church and they, the Catholics, did not seek to enrich themselves with the spoils of the Establishment. They would "accept no letters from the British government, be they of brass, silver, or gold; but they demanded that the enormous sums now devoted to the maintenance of a Protestant ascendancy should be set aside to form a special fund for works of charity and religion, and for the development of the talent and resources of the Island

EXTENSIVE ROBBERIES AT PORT HOPE.

Port Hope, Feb. 29.—An extensive robbery was discovered within the last day or two at the Grand Trunk freight shed here Several arrests were made on Saturday and yesterday. From 10 to 12 parties are implicated and are being examined. It as been a mystery to the station-master for some time back how to account for so many missing packages. Boxes of tea, cases of boots, tobacco, raisins, &c., were missing daily till it became clear that they must be stolen, when a detective was employed, who soon discovered part of the missing goods that had been stolen and sold to parties in town by those now arrested.

☞ The whole of the Emperor's magnificent collection of armor has been sent to the Chateau of Pierrefonds, near Compiegne, which ancient relic of the feudal ages has lately been restored under the direction of M. Violletde Duc. This collection was exhibited by his Majesty's order in the galleries devoted to art retrospectif in the Palais d'Industrie last year.

☞ The military changes already announced will not place before the 18th of May. The regiments ordered home will leave in June. The position of affairs on the other side of the line will determine what regiments are to go.

☞ More bridal parties from the country are reported at the New York hotels just now than at any former time for two years past. The dullness of trade everywhere seems to have stimulated the spirit of matrimony into unusual activity.

Canadian Goods in the States.

In the United States Senate on Monday last a bill was passed to repeal all provisions of law allowing goods brought from the British provinces to be carried into the interior of the country without inspection. It repeals sections 2, 3 and 4 of the act to prevent smuggling, pass. last session.

Six men in a carriage went to the house of a wealthy man residing near St. Louis, on Friday of last week, and attempted to kidnap a boy nine year old, who is heir to a fortune of $50,000. A young man in the house seizing a pistol and threatening to kill the first man who laid a hand upon the boy, had the effect to drive the villains away.

The Provincial Telegraph Company have concluded terms for the sale of their lines through the Province to the Montreal Telegraph Company. The transfer is expected to take place during the present week.

It is said that there are in Maine 14,000,000 acres of unbroken forest, of which at least 5,000,000 is covered with timber. Somebody estimates that this latter area would yield 100,000,000 cords of hemlock bark, of which the extract, for tanning purposes, would be worth in the market $1,500,000,000.

Toluca, the capital of the State of Mexico, having been occupied by the Liberals, Gen. Tarora, Imperialist, was sent to recapture the place. When about seven leagues from the city of Mexico, he was met by the forces under Gen. Francisco Velez, who completely defeated the Imperialists.

A Hanoverian counsellor lately committed hydraulic suicide by loading a pistol with a stout wad, filling the barrel with water, and placing the weapon against his head. When the explosion occurred it blew out his brains.

About a year ago a bureau for the control of signs, etc., on side-walks, was established in New York. Signs which project more than one foot from the front of a building are taxable, and the city has derived an income of $26,000 from this source during the year.

It is satisfactory to know that the amiable Lindsley, who beat his little boy to death, has been put to hard work in the Auburn prison. As Artemus Ward remarked of his eccentric kangaroo, when he "walloped his for upwards of fifteen minutes," we "guess that'll take some of his little eccentricities out of him."

☞ "Well, Tom," said a blacksmith, to his apprentice," "you have been with me now three months, and have seen all the different points in our trade, I wish to give you your choice of work for a while."

"Thank'ee, sir."

"Well, now, what part of the business do you like best?"

"Shuttin' up shop, and goin' to dinner, sir."

☞ "Prevention is better than cure," as the pig said when it ran away with all its might to escape the killing attention of the butcher.

☞ "My son," said a man of doubtful morals, putting his hand upon a young urchin's shoulder, "I believe Satan has got hold of you." "I believe so too," was the reply.

☞ A western paper, in describing the debut of a young actor, says that "the broke the ice felicitously with his opening sentence, and was immediately drowned with applause."

The President has signed the Bankrupt Bill. This will be an immense relief for many thousand of hopelessly bankrupt merchants and traders in the States. Unsuccessful efforts have been made for nearly thirty years to obtain a bankrupt law in the States.

San Francisco, March 6.—The city of Acapulco was abandoned by the Imperialists on the 19th February. The greatest order and confidence prevailed among the people.

SOUTH RIDING, PERTH.—Politics are about defunct in this riding, at present, says the Standard. There seems to be a desire on the part of the leading men of both parties to eschew a contest, and to elect one of each party by mutual consent. So be it. We have no very keen desire for war, when united action is so essential to us.

New York, March 5.—Advices from Yorktown, Va., state that there are large numbers of freedmen in great destitution. The Freedmen's Bureau have taken measures to supply them with food, and remove and scatter many of them where their labor will be in demand, and they can support themselves.

☞ A Mulatto slave in Brazil has carried off a national prize medal for the best work of sculpture, and also received a paper of manumission. His statute is a Cupid.

☞ The Paris Patrie contains a most mysterious anecdote. A young married woman, rich, elegant, lovely, on the point of death, to her husband: "I must confess something. You will be astonished that I have proved unfaithful." To which the following reply: "Not more astonished than you will be to hear that I know it, and for this reason poisoned you." The chroniquer who gives us this charming episode drawn from domestic life in Paris discreetly conceals the injured murderer's name behind the initial X. It was merely M. X. who poisonMme. X.

SENDING BY A CURIOUS ROUTE FOR A CHEW OF TOBACCO.—The Buffalo Commercial is responsible for a telegraph yarn that is rather tough, but we are told it occurred in Buffalo, and that one of the actors in the scene is dead. Two operators in an office chewed tobacco. One had charge of the eastern, and the other of the western wire. Their desks were thirty feet apart. One summer morning, West wanted a chew, but was too lazy to travel across the room to East. So he sent a message over the western wire, addressed to his office companion, requesting him to send over "a chew of tobacco" quick. The message went to Cleveland, Pittsburg, Philadelphia, New York, and Albany, and presently came back into the office to East, who received it and walked across the room to West, who still sat in his chair yawning and longing for the weed. The message travelled over eleven hundred miles.

A PLOT FOR A MELODRAMA.—A Madrid letter, in the Independance Belge, quotes a curious story from an Albacete journal:—"A short time since," it says, "two soldiers on furlough obtained shelter at a respectable house in a village near Alicant, although the master was from home and only the mistress and a female servant in care. In the evening the soldiers retired to the barn to sleep. The night was not far advanced, when a knock came to the door, and the lady of the house, not doubting but it was her husband, opened Two men in masks rushed in and, with daggers displayed, demanded a large sum of money. The soldiers were awakened by the noise, and came speedily to the house. They were attacked by the robbers, but being unarmed, the latter had the worst of it, and were both soon stretched dead by pistol shots. A few minutes after the master of the house returned, but the soldiers, reasonably supposing that he might be an accomplice of the malefactors, refused to admit him unless he brought the authorities with him. He was therefore forced to go to the mayor, but the latter was from home; the mayor's substitute was also absent; but two gendarmes went back with the gentleman, and the soldiers at once let them in. The facts were speedily related, and what was not the surprise felt when, on uncovering the faces of the robbers, they were recognized as those of the mayor and his substitute.

The German Elections.

New York, March 5.—The Herald's Berlin correspondent chronicles the splendid triumphs of the liberal democracy of Germany at the general elections held under the universal suffrage franchise. The city returns from Berlin show that Count Bismark, with every general of the late war, or Prussian war hero, were signally defeated by the constituents to which they were opposed.

MEXICO.

New York, March 5.—The Herald's Mexican correspondent says that the American Consul at Vera Cruz, had protested against quartering French troops upon resident Americans; but his protest apparently ignored. One American citizen was arrested for refusing to supply quarters when called upon. The protest finally had some effect and the quartering was discontinued.

D. ADAMS

RETURNS HIS MOST SINCERE THANKS for the very flattering encouragement he has received since he commenced business in Goderich, not being able to execute over one-half of the orders brought to him last season: having now secured facilities for

Carrying on Business Extensively and employing none but first-class tradesmen And as D. A. believes his experience as Cutter is second to none in the Province, having carried on business extensively and successfully in Hamilton, principally as a cash customer, and having been Cutter in one of the Principal Establishments in Edinburgh, Scotland, he fearlessly states to a discerning public that at his establishment equal to the best Establishments in Toronto or Montreal.

CLOTHING CAN BE MADE

WELL NEIGHBOR, how do you get along with your plowing this wet weather? Why, I have thrown aside a good plow that cost 24 dollars, it was like plowing with a log, and went to Searle & Davis' and bought a steel plow for sixteen dollars; now I have no trouble in plowing; my horses go right along, it cleans so nice; they are real thistle cutters!
