RADWAY'S PILLS.

Always Reliable. Purely Vegetable.

Perfectly tasteless, elegantly coated, purge, regulate, purify, cleanse and strengthen. Radway's Pills for the cure of all disorders of the stomach, bowels, kidneys, bladder, nervous diseases, dizziness, vertigo, costiveness, piles.

SICK HEADACHE, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, BILIOUSNESS, INDIGESTION, DYSPEPSIA, CONSTIPATION

AND ALL DISORDERS OF THE LIVER.

Dr. Radway & Co.—As an introduction I must make the following remarks: Had each one of the lawmakers of our country the virtues and power of your pills, America would soon become a paradise. That your pills would conquer the obstinacy of my complaint is more than wonderful. The movement of my bowels is as regular as the works of a good watch. I began with four pills and decreased to two, and for a long time took one two hours before dinner, and have a watery movement of the bowels every morning. It is seven weeks since I have taken any of your pills, but still have regular movement every morning.

Kind gentlemen, I wish further to tell you: A poor washerwoman that suffered from a tumor and would have paid $150 for an operation, I dissuaded from doing so. Owing to her tumor she was obliged to stay in bed, but now she has gone to Pennsylvania, cured through taking your pills and Resolvent, as you directed in your treatise on tumor. Respectfully. A. WITMER, 542 E. 134th St., New York.

One to three of Radway's Pills once in twenty-four hours will secure regular evacuations from the bowels. Persons who for twenty years have been compelled to use injections have been cured by a few doses of Radway's Pills.

True Comfort for the Aged and Others Afflicted With Costiveness and Paralysis of the Bowels.

Persons advanced in life often suffer from indigestion, and from paralysis or inability to evacuate from the bowels; likewise from urinal difficulties. We have the evidence of a large number of aged persons from 60 to 80 years of age, who have been cured of this defect, who had been compelled to resort to injections to empty their bowels, by the use of Radway's Pills. Two or three pills every night in all cases insure a natural evacuation from the bowels and the regular flow of urine. In cases where there is irritation of the bladder the Resolvent should be used alternately with the pills. If these organs are kept regular life may be extended to a much longer period. By keeping the liver, stomach, bowels and kidneys in a healthy condition, the blood will continue pure and dissolution be checked. If Radway's Pills and Resolvent are used by the aged, life will be prolonged to the full measure of time. Another great end is secured by nourishing the body with these remedies—the faculties will remain in a healthy condition. A weak, feeble and decaying body enfeebles the intellect and clouds the brain.

Price 25 cents per box. Sold by all druggists or sent by mail.

Be Sure you get RADWAY'S and see that the name is on what you buy.

HER EARNEST TROTH

CHAPTER I.

"Thou Shalt Not Trespass."

"Here, you girl, get off these grounds; do you know that you are trespassing?"

The speaker, a hard-faced man verging upon old age, whose handsome apparel showed that he belonged to the highest rank in life—we speak of a time when each class kept its outward stamp; caste was a grand institution, and the workingman, who is now elevated in the social scale, was but a laborer, and a much suffering laborer, too.

The girl, whose poor thin garments were blown about by the bitter wintery wind, was busily gathering together a huge bundle of sticks from cut the dead leaves, which flew hither and thither with every wind that made them play-fellows.

She looked up leisurely in a quietly insolent manner, then, blowing her fingers to warm them, came toward her questioner, saying, with a look of extreme disfavor:

"Who are you to order me off Lord Lufton's grounds?"

"The most proper person—Lord Lufton himself."

"So you are a lord, are you?" said the girl, scornfully; "well, I've seen better looking plowmen; why, you are only a poor shrunken shriveled old man, such as one sees in the Union. I'd rather have my youth than your guineas."

"You're a saucy jade, I don't know why I should not set the dogs at you."

"I do, though, my lord," said she, dropping a derisive courtesy. "It's because I'm young and handsome; were it the old mother now, you'd do it like enough; youth and good looks are passwords to even an old man's mercy."

"You have a sharp tongue, girl, and seem to set some store by yourself. Who are you?"

"Beth Regan. My father, while he lived, rented one of your poorest farms. Now he is dead, mother and I live as best we can, but are bitterly poor, for mother is bedridden, and I can get but very little work. The only fuel we have is what I find here in your woods. Perhaps you begrudge us that, though my father worked your land all his life, and was so ill-paid by it that at his death there was nothing left for the widow and the fatherless. Life must be badly portioned, or why should the vast estate of Lufton be dedicated to you, and the immense wealth, that would make rich many a half-starved village, be hoarded up by you to enrich some spendthrift heir, who will squander it in some big city? Bah! I despise a lord."

Lord Lufton was becoming interested in this bold-spoken girl, and so allowed her fierce speech to flow on uninterruptedly, remarking at its close:

"Are you not unwise to insult your landlord? You must inhabit a cottage, since you live in these parts."

"A cottage, you call it? Why, it is but a hut, a patch of mud on a princely property. Do you call it a cottage. Pigs are better styed than we cotted."

"Silence! Your tongue outruns your reason, girl." Then, throwing her some pence, he said: "Take that and begone."

"No, my lord, I'll not take the money. I only beg leave to take my sticks."

"Ay, and so lighten my pocket in a more independent fashion. Good day, Elizabeth."

"Good day, sir, but please call me properly. My name is Bethel. I was named after a chapel father attended, which, I suppose, accounts for my being so pious."

Lifting the fagot to her shoulder as lightly as if it were a bundle of heather, she hurried away with long, springing strides, her fine limbs free and graceful as those of an Indian huntress. Lord Lufton watched her as she went whistling like a boy, her slim young shape clearly outlined by the wintery sky. On she went, regardless of frost or famine, through the straggling village street, where she often paused to beg a job of work; and, after many denials, she succeeded in getting an hour's work at the millhouse, and received in payment an apronful of broken food. Then, as the gloaming came quickly, Bethel neared her home—a mere mud hut, consisting of two rooms. Behind it, the woods made a black line between earth and sky. Lifting the latch, she entered a dreary little room, where a wan-faced woman lay on a low bed near the fire-place, which had no pleasant fire-glow.

"Oh, I am glad you have come back, my girl; the time has seemed so long."

"Poor mother, I expect it has; but I have brought some comfort for you, dear. Mrs. Kimber, of the mill, gave me a job of work, and payment, see—all this food. She is a kind soul. See, here is a candle, a screw of tea, sugar, and no end of luxuries. I will soon get the water to boil, and then we will have such a cosy meal. Has the pain been as bad as usual, dear?"

"I have been a little worse, I fear, today, Beth; I expect it is the frost."

The patient, loving eyes of the sick woman followed the girl tenderly as she bustled about the place. Seeing her mother's poor crippled hands were still busily knitting away at a pair of socks, Bethel said:

"Mother, dear, put your work aside till you have had some tea and got warmer; it makes me miserable to see you."

"I must get them done soon, dearie, we want the money so badly."

Bethel sighed, and continued the simple preparation for the meal in silence.

When the meal was finished and cleared away Bethel sat down on a low stool by the fire; resting her chin in her hand she gazed musingly into the fire-glow as though following a long, long thought.

"Mother, I wonder what has become of Dan? We should not be so poor and lonely if he were here. Oh, how I wish he would come!"

"Dear lad, so do I. He promised your poor father when he was dying that he would look to us as though we were his own, and he will keep his word, never fear; his work will soon be ended at Farmer Frere's, and he will come back to take his old place with us; it will be good in the lonely night time to know he is in the other room. And better still, in the day to see his bright face; he is such a good steady lad. I am glad to think that when it pleases the Divine Father to ease me of my load of life, you will be guarded by a good man's love."

Mrs. Regan had a refined accent; in her youth she had been a national school mistress. A shelf of well-worn books belonging to that long past time were still counted among her few household treasures. Thanks to them and her mother's teaching, Betel was better cultivated than was usual with girls of her class.

A silence fell upon them, broken at length by the sound of a man's footstep. In another second a yellow-haired young Hercules stood smiling on the threshold.

LONDON HORSES WORK.

Toronto, April 22.—Quiet work was the rue at Woodbine today. The track remains good, but the chilly air has a deterrent effect on fast work. Hawkins and Dead Bird, two of Mr. Adam Beck's London platers, galloped six furlongs at a smart pace, the latter finishing in front. Grand Lodge, the other stable candidate, is under the weather, and is being rested. Prodigality, from the same stable, sprinted through the stretch.

OPENING AT NASHVILLE.

Nashville, Tenn., April 22.—The Tennesee Breeders' Association will begin its tenth annual spring meeting at Cumberland Park tomorrow. During the nine days of sport about $30,000 will be distributed in stakes and purses. Added to the large number that have wintered here that contingent, including the stable of John A. Drake, containing Savable, High Chancellor, Wueth and others of prominence, seven carloads of runners arrived from Memphis this morning, and more are expected tomorrow. The feature of the opening day is the Cumberland Derby, at a mile and an eighth, with $3,000 added money.

N. Y. R. A.'S ANNUAL.

Albany, N. Y., April 22.—The annual report of the State Racing Commission, which consists of August Belmont, Ed D. Morgan and John Sanford, shows receipts from taxes upon gross receipts of the seven racing associations licensed by the commission during the past year to have been $170,036. Last year, according to the report, $1,705,029 was won by horses racing in New York State, an increase over 1901 of $335,623. This money was competed for by 1,557 horses, of which 868 participated in prizes, and of the 868, 374 brought to their owners more than $1,000. The total number of stallions presented was 297, and the total number of owners who raced horses were 602. The commission reports that its work has led to the restocking of old breeding farms, and has in general raised the standard of the breeding of horses and the tone of horse racing generally. Of the financial failure of the Buffalo Racing Association the commission says that its management was "inexperienced, and in many respects inefficient." Obligations that seemed needless were incurred, and there was generally a lack of appreciation of business methods. The consequence was that the association did not meet the demands upon it, and now is in the hands of a receiver.

YACHTING.

WILL SOON GO TO AMERICA.

London, April 22.—Sir Thomas Lipton announces that the Shamrock I. and the Shamrock III. will soon proceed to the United States, where the trial races will be continued. The date of their departure has not yet been fixed, but it will be earlier than was expected. Both the yachts were dry-docked yesterday. It is declared that the new mast of the Shamrock III. will be ribbed inside with an angle of iron in order to reduce the risk of buckling. It will be five feet longer than the original mast. The sail area of the challenger will be increased by this greater length to nearly 16,000 square feet. Another steamer is to be chartered for the trans-Atlantic trip, in order to give each yacht a separate escort on the voyage to New York.

BASEBALL.

TECUMSEH PARK IS READY.

Teams that propose to use Tecumseh Park as a practice grounds can now avail themselves of it. Men have been working for the past few weeks, and everything is in shape to go ahead with the playing of the game.

KID McCOY,

GOVERNOR BLISS TALKS.

Lansing, Mich., April 22.—Governor Bliss has given notice that he will not interfere in the matter of Sunday baseball in Detroit. Wayne County and the local authorities will have to settle the matter on their own responsibility. "I believe," the Governor said, "there are better places for people to go on Sunday than to the baseball grounds, but there are also worse places."

DELEHANTY COSTS $4,000.

New York, April 22.—President Ban Johnson, of the American Association, called at National League headquarters and left a check for $4,000 for President Pulliam to satisfy the claim which the New York National club had on Edward Delehanty. Mr. Johnson said: "Mr. Delehanty is now free and clear to fulfill his contract with the Washington club, and he will play on the Washington team during the entire season.

GAUNTLET THROWN BY BOTH TEAMS

Cadets and Form III. B Challenge Each Other in Every Sport on Callendar.

There could hardly be a keener spirit of competition than that which exists between the Cadets and Form III. B. of the Collegiate. They have had many fights, and both lay claims to superiority. An idea of the sharp competition can be had when it is known that the Cadets have challenged III. B. to play games of lacrosse, tennis, cricket, Rugby and basketball. Form III. B. in return threw the gauntlet to the Cadets for a fight for supremacy in association football, baseball, fencing and golf. The challenges met with unanimous acceptance on both sides. The previous record of the contests between the two clubs is as follows:

Hockey—Feb. 19, III. B., second team, 2; Cadets, 3.

March 2, III. B., second team, 2; Cadets, 3.

March 6, III. B., first team, 4; Cadets, 1.

Rugby football—March 31, III. B., 8; Cadets, 0.

April 7, III. B., 5; Cadets, 4.

Forms I. A. and II. A. met yesterday afternoon in a game of football, which ended in a tie, 1 to 1. The II. A. men reflected great credit upon themselves for keeping the score so low with but six men. The line-up: I. A.— Goal, Johnson; back, Parker; half-backs, Grigg and Fisher; forwards, Hennigan, Reed, McLean and Walker. II. A.—Goal, McEwan; back, Waud; half-back, Little; forwards, Nickle, Forsyth, and Costello. Referee, Mr. Downing.

M'COY DEFEATED BY JACK ROOT

Was an Easy Mark and Had No Steam—Went Out in the Tenth.

Detroit, Mich., April 22.—Jack Root, of Chicago, was given the decision over "Kid" McCoy at the end of the tenth round tonight before a crowd that packed Light Guard Armory to its capacity.

The bout was a one-man affair from beginning to end, McCoy never having a chance. Root landed at will with left and right to the face and body and generally without a return.

The men weighed in at 3 o'clock, both tipping the scales close to 175 pounds. Bat Masterson was the referee.

The first round opened with light exchanges of lefts to body. McCoy landed a left to the jaw and cleverly ducked a vicious swing. No damage was done.

McCoy started the second round with a left hook to the jaw, a right to the head and right and left to neck and mouth. Near the end of the round Root landed a low body punch that sent McCoy to the mat and would have ended the bout had it not been for the gong.

Root opened the third with a right to the back of the head, and McCoy went down and took the count. Root landed left and right to the body, McCoy again going down and taking the count. McCoy was very groggy and was holding to save himself.

From this time on Root landed as he pleased. McCoy's blows lacked steam, and he appeared to be content with staying the limit. He braced somewhat in the sixth, but was never dangerous. McCoy took the count in the seventh, eighth and ninth rounds, and by holding managed to stay to the end.
