NO AGENTS! NO COMMISSIONS!!

THE system of employing Agents or Canvassers at a high commission has been strictly abandoned by us, it having proved very unsatisfactory both to ourselves and customers. In future we will sell our direct to purchasers. In this way buyers of Pianos and Organs will save from twenty to forty per cent. by dealing directly with us, and, moreover, far better satisfaction can be guaranteed.

PIANOFORTES & ORGANS
At Net Wholesale Prices,

We claim to sell the best Instruments to be had, and at the lowest prices consistent with first-class articles.

The cash system enables us to sell at a very small advance on cost of manufacture, although to honest and reliable parties we do not object to allow a reasonable time for payments.

Parties ordering by mail can rely upon getting as fine an instrument as if personally selected by themselves. [illegible] We refer with pleasure to over Fifteen Hundred Pianos and Organs sold by us the last ten years.

Thankful for the very liberal patronage accorded us hitherto, we can only say that we will continue our endeavors to thoroughly satisfy our customers in all their dealings with us.

Miramichi Advance.

CHATHAM, THURSDAY, MAY 9, 1878.

House of Assembly.

Mr. Swim closed the debate in the Legislature on the Covert Amendment—the Resolution of Want of Confidence. His speech was as follows:—

MR. SWIM would not have risen at all had not a personal allusion been made to him from the other side of the House. He had never thought it his place in this House to defend the Government, knowing they could very well defend themselves.

The Leader of the Opposition had referred to him with regard to the Stumpage question. It was well know to members of the House that whenever he had alluded to that measure he had not spoken of it favorably, knowing that the Lumbermen of the County he represented were not in favor of it in a large degree; but, while the hon. gentleman to whom he referred had blamed him for not opposing the Government on it, he (Mr. Covert) said, in the same breath, that he did not oppose Stumpage, and on that point, to quote with, he should disagree with the hon. gentleman. That was a little example of the inconsistency of the hon. Leader of the Opposition.

The Agricultural Report, had been referred to very generally by all the speakers, and he proposed to say something on the subject also. In Appendix C the Report commenced with an article on Ploughs. Now, it was the exception to get good Ploughs, fit to put in a ploughman's hands or behind a team. He knew something of Ploughs and had suffered from having to use poor ones. In that Report were particulars concerning what he called a Plough, in symmetry and style of manufacture, and though he had not had the privilege of trying it, he knew from those who had that it was a first rate implement. Was it a shame that the Government of the country should give to the people, who were suffering from the need of Ploughs, information as to where they could get a good Plough? Messrs. Harris, of St. John, did make an excellent Plough, but it was not adapted to the work generally required in the country.

If they turned to other machinery in this Report they would find a good deal about Messrs. Cossitt's machines. He referred to the Reaper and Mower manufactured by them, and asked would any honorable gentleman be kind enough to give him information where a combined Reaper and Mower was manufactured in New Brunswick. He did not know it to this day, and was it a shame of the Government of the day to tell people where they could get a Reaper and Mower combined, of light draught and simple construction, and its mechanism easily understood?

He was astonished that the Farmers who occupied seats on the floors of the House had not risen in defence of their much abused craft, for it was a fact that no interest had been more imposed on than that of the farmers of our country and he believed the Farmers would endorse what he said. Hon. gentlemen talked about advertising the implements of Ontario. Were they not advertised by runners who invaded your premises and forced on you their machines, and was not the result this, that machines which had been placed out through the United States and Ontario, had been run down to this Province, which some of these gentry deemed the jumping off place and imposed on our Farmers? He held that it was right and proper to disseminate information to the Farmers, for it was necessary that any person who bought machinery of any kind should be up to the times and buy the best.

He was astonished that hon. gentlemen around the House should waste so much time on so very poor a cause. Was there really a manufacturer in New Brunswick who manufactured such things? Were not all kinds of manufactures in iron combined and were not Farming Implements run as a side-show with some others, and could it be expected that they would do as well as establishments that had to compete against the world? The people should have the most reliable information. He took an interest in machinery; he was something of a machinist himself; he had the first Reaper and Mower on the Miramichi River; he had the first Thrasher, and anything he could do by machinery and not by hand, he did. He had had 27 years experience in machines, and he was sorry to say his experience in Agricultural Machines in particular was this—that if he wanted to-day to purchase an Agricultural implement, he would want it first class, because if he did otherwise it might be superseded to-morrow, and if he wanted the best machine he should not go to Ontario or New Brunswick, but to the United States for it, because he believed they manufactured better there. They had to compete in the manufacture for 40 millions of people, whereas in the Dominion there was only four millions. Nothing was too good for the farmers of this country to enable them to make of it what ought to to be made of it, and for his part he did not care if machines were manufactured in Japan or China if they were first-class articles, and he thought the sons of New Brunswick should not be tied down to any market.

The policy laid down all through this debate was that it was wrong to say there was anything manufactured outside of New Brunswick. He did hope the day was not very far distant when they could get machines far superior to what they had been accustomed to. He did not consider the manufacturers of New Brunswick had anything to complain of; they had the information that the Report was going to be published, and if they did not avail themselves of it the first time they were asked he did not think they should have been asked a second time. The trouble was that the Opposition overlooked the fact that there was no Reaper and Mower manufactured in the Province, and their doctrine was that the farmer ought not to have a Reaper and Mower, and should not know where to go to buy one until some New Brunswick manufacturer had leisure to get one up.

He thought it came with a very bad grace from the Opposition that the Government kept seats in the Upper House dangling before the eyes of members. He had a right to express his opinion and judge for himself on all questions which came before the House, and he thought that when a man made a charge like that he ought to name his man and not throw it broadcast among the members of the House. He came there elected by the independent electors of Northumberland, and he stood there as an independent man. The Government had never tampered with him, and had never offered him any place, and he voted with the Government or against them as he thought best for his County. When he came into the House he opposed the Government on their Agricultural policy, but he did not think the Agricultural interest had been neglected and he was now prepared to assist in perfecting the management of that important interest. Anybody would think, from the remarks of hon. members, that their constituents consisted of Manufacturers of Agricultural implements, but behind them was the Farmer, and he thought it was high time to let the latter know something reliable as to the machines they required in order that they might know they were going to get something reliable, because they were mostly unskilled in machinery. He thought that when some of the hon. gentlemen went back to their Counties the Farmers would not thank them for the part they had taken in the matter in taking the side of a few side-shows and obstructionists.

There was another thing he was sorry to refer to with regard to Agricultural implements. He would go to the United States for them, and he would tell them why, and it should be an incentive to manufacturers in the Dominion to try and come up with their neighbors. For five or six years he had looked for good pitchforks, and could not find them, nor rakes, and he had looked for scythes, and that was worse. If you asked the reason of this, the vendors would tell you it was because they were manufactured in Ontario. Ten years ago they used to get good implements, but now, if you put a fork in a man's hands in the morning, you did not know but it would require repairing before the day was out, and he considered the Government ought to let the Farmers know where to get good articles, and he, for one, would patronise that establishment at once.

He saw in the Report a cut of a Harrow, and from the description of it he had no doubt it was a better harrow than the one he was acquainted with, and he thought it would be worth a trial, and any information of that kind he thought it was right to give to the people. The Seed Drill, also, was one which he would like to try on his farm.

He referred to the "labor of love" paragraph, which he read, and said that, knowing as he did the Secretary for Agriculture, knowing him as a practical Farmer, and having had the pleasure of visiting him on his farm and seeing the way he kept his place and buildings, he could well conceive that it was a labor of love for him, and he sympathised with that remark, and he hoped the "fair farms" would soon become fairer farms by reason of improvements. He hoped the day would speedily arrive when the people of our country would not be humbugged by played out machinery.

He had been a little amused by the hon. gentleman from St. John (Mr. Willis) referring to land producing good timber and being unfit for cultivation. He had been in the woods a good deal, and his experience was that land that would produce good timber would produce good crops.

So far as he was concerned as a member of that House, he had felt it his duty to deal with various questions as he thought best for the interests of the Province in general, and of Northumberland in particular, and he thought no man could censure him for being an unruly subject, neither was he to be accused of having cast imputations across the House on other hon. gentlemen, and he did not think it fair to make the statement made the other day which cast reflections on other hon. members, and he hoped the day was pretty well gone by for that kind of thing in this Legislature.

He thought the farmers' interests had been ignored by many of the speakers, and he had felt it his duty to his Agricultural constituents to state his own conviction with regard to the matters brought up under that head, leaving other matters for the present, because the debate had now been unnecessarily prolonged.

MR COVERT asked some questions in reference to the Rules of Order as to closing the debate.

The question was then taken on the amendment, which was negatived on the following division:—
