RUTH CAMERON

ON SHOES.

Don't you love shoes?

I must confess I do.

I had an old aunt who used sternly to correct my childhood's assertion that I loved strawberry ice cream by saying "You love your mother and like your food."

I am afraid she would correct me similarly to-day if she could hear me, but as her asperities have long since merged in the peace of a country churchyard, I will dare to say it.

There is a fascination to me about new shoes, a temptation to buy more shoes than I ought, a sense of richness in possession of several pairs of shoes in good condition, which no other article of my wardrobe can give me.

Don't You Hate Shabby Shoes?

I don't mind a well-worn dress if its lines are good and its color becoming, but I do hate shabby shoes.

I used to think that this passion for shoes was something unusual and came from the days when the fact that I was fearfully hard on shoes, combined with the fact that the supply had to be divided among a sizable family and was far from unlimited, kept my feet shabby most of the time. But I find now that this feeling is shared by others.

"I would rather shop for shoes and lingerie than anything else," a young woman who has very good taste told me recently. "I pick out my gowns in no time at all, but I will go to almost every shop in the city (as she referred to New York, that certainly meant some travelling) to get just the shape and style of shoes I want."

Fifty Dollars Worth of Shoes.

Another woman told me that when she inherited some money, the first thing she did was to go out and buy $50 worth of shoes (that was in the days when $50 would buy six or seven pairs of good shoes).

When one looks back at one's childhood and remembers that simplicities of shoes in those days, it certainly does seem as if this were the golden age of the shoe-lover. Suppose you went to an afternoon tea in the old days what would the guests have on their feet? Their best black shoes, of course, unless by some chance there might be a pair or two of slippers—a great luxury in those days.

The Shoes One Sees at Afternoon Tea.

To-day, the brown gown has bronze shoes, as a matter of course; the grey gown has grey shoes; a black satin shoe rhymes with the black satin gown; there will be many dainty white shoes if it is Summer; and besides these common colors, there will also be several shoes of delicate and unusual shades—champagne, mauve and such, specially procured to match some one gown.

Yes, when one looks back at one's childhood, this does seem the golden age for shoe-lovers. But, alas, not when one looks down into one's purse!

APRIL.

WALT MASON

With April comes the feeling that winter's hit the ceiling, and spring at last is here; we are not always freezing, or catching cold and sneezing, and flu germs disappear. The winter's grim and dreary, it makes us sad and weary, it fills our bones with aches; but April is enchanting, and we begin our planting, and plying hoes and rakes. The winter's knell is tolling, and naught is more consoling than is the breath of spring; there's solace in its breezes, and men are simply cheeses who do not dance and sing. The tumble-bug is tumbling, the bumble-bees are bumbling, the grass is getting green; this fact appeals to reason: there is no better season for burning gasoline. Oh, April is a hummer, she is the cheerful comer who gets the welcome sign; though sometimes wet and windy, inclined to raise a shindy, her curves are mostly fine. She shows that winter's ended, for she is not attended by snow and ice and sleet; with cold she's never stung us, and so she lands among us with both her queenly feet.

Household Notes.

Never interrupt the baby's nap.

Always bake a sponge cake in an ungreased pan.

Eggs cooked in butter over electric heat are delicious.

A layer cake baked in loaf shape is very easy to cut.

Stuff apples with raisins and nuts and bake with honey.

Cheese crackers are good with almost any kind of salad.

Baby shoes can be made from discarded white kid gloves.

Long simmering will impart to the soup a delicious flavor.

Fairy wafers are very attractive served with gelatine desserts.

Malt-sugar syrup is a wholesomely delicious new sugar substitute.

A child's toy iron is often a great help in ironing tiny garments.

Canned pimentos combine well with canned pears for a salad.

Keep the stock-pot clean and fresh if you would make good soups.

Soak citron ten minutes in hot water, then put through grinder.

Iced teaspoons may be used when serving a dessert in a tall glass.

Asparagus served with pimento sauce makes an agreeable change.

An elastic band around a broom will keep the straws from splitting.

A vegetable curry is a most acceptable item in the vegetarian's diet.

Gilt frames can be cleaned with a sponge dipped in oil of turpentine.

Just Folks by Edgar A. Guest

BUY ME AN ICE CREAM SODA, PLEASE.

I'm truly sorry for the man,
Who misses all such joys as these,
Who never hears and never can
From little lips their many pleas:
"Get me some chocolate candy, an'
Buy me an ice cream soda, please!"

Light-hearted people go and come
And pause before the shining shops,
They hear their children's: "Buy me some!"
"Oh, daddy! There are lollypops!"
But no one begs him for a drum,
Or horn or music-making tops.

Alone he walks the crowded streets
And looks at things he never needs,
The painted trinkets and the sweets,
The woolly dogs and colored beads,
But no gay little voice entreats,
And for such pleasures no one pleads.

He does not know the worth of gold
Who has no little girls or boys
To beg for everything that's sold,
For sugar buns and gaudy toys,
And he is doomed until he's old
To loneliness and selfish joys.

Give me the youngster at my side
Who begs for everything he sees,
Tin soldiers and a horse to ride,
And blue balloons to brave the breeze,
Who shouts, and will not be denied:
"Buy me an ice cream soda, please!"

OTHER TABLETS NOT ASPIRIN AT ALL

Only Tablets with "Bayer Cross" are Genuine Aspirin

BAYER

If you don't see the "Bayer Cross" on the tablets, you are not getting Aspirin—Remember this!

Genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" are now made in America by an American Company. No German interest whatever, all rights being purchased from the United States Government.

During the war, acid imitations were sold as Aspirin in pill boxes and various other containers. The "Bayer Cross" is your only way of knowing that you are getting genuine Aspirin, proved safe by millions for Headache, Neuralgia, Colds, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Neuritis, and for pain generally.

Handy tin boxes of 12 tablets—also larger sized "Bayer" packages can be had at drug stores.

Aspirin is the trade mark (Newfoundland Registration No. 761), of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.
