A Cast for Fortune

By Christian Reid,

AUTHOR OF "VALERIE AYLMER," "A DAUGHTER OF BOHEMIA," "HEART OF STEEL," "BONNY KATE," ETC.

Stung by these thoughts, the young man groaned aloud, and it was then that, amid many wild plans, the recollection of those old Mexican stories came to him like an inspiration. He resolved to make one bold fight for fortune and honor and liberty. Yes, liberty, too, for if he ever went as a suitor to Sibyl Lennox he wished to go with the freedom of an honest man, and not with the feeling that he would cover robbery by that worst of treachery which masks itself under the name of love.

In view of this resolution, it seemed to him a very fortunate thing that the year before he had met at the Mardi Gras Carnival in New Orleans a young man whom in boyish days he had known as the son of a Texas planter, on whose "ranch" Derwent with his cousins from Louisiana had once spent a week or so. Mutual reminiscences and inquiries had elicited the fact that young Morell was now sojourning in Mexico. "I am speculating in mining properties," he said frankly. "You see, I speak Spanish and know the people pretty well, so I can find things that a stranger could not. Have I done a good business? Yes, so far I have been fairly successful; but I hope to do better yet. If you ever want anything in my line, let me know; or if you come to the City of Mexico—and lots of tourists are coming now every winter—look me up. Here is my address."

The card he placed in Derwent's hand had luckily been preserved by the latter, who wrote at once inquiring of Morell about mining properties, stating clearly what kind of mines he desired, and giving a margin of price. Morell replied promptly and encouragingly. He had just the property for him—a very valuable mine in an almost unexplored mineral district, a mine that in the great markets of the world would bring half a million, to be had for twenty thousands dollars because its Mexican owners were not able to obtain the machinery to work it with profit. "There could not possibly be a finer speculation than this property," he wrote, "and, as I take it for granted that you want to sell it again, advise you to lose no time in securing it." The report inclosed was of such a nature that Derwent immediately made his preparations for departure, and when all his affairs were in order told his mother that he was going to New Orleans on business, and would probably "take a run into Mexico" from there.

Mrs. Derwent was surprised and not very well pleased by this. She not only adored her handsome son, but she depended upon him in a way common enough with women who have never known what it is to stand alone. Men like such women better than those who are more self-sustaining; but there are times when this clinging dependence becomes a little trying. Fond as he was of his mother, Derwent felt that he suffered in his freedom, and, although he had prepared himself for the protest certain of that.

Preceeded by cautions like these, Derwent finally took leave of the city of Mexico and set his face toward the city with the Spanish name, which lies in the lovely valley of Lerma.

A Dinner Pill.—Many persons suffer excruciating agony after partaking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthy nutriment it becomes a poison to the sytem. Dr. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and conver the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with Indigestion or Dyspepsia.
