SECRETARY MOVES TO FAIR GOUNDS

Secretary A. M. Hunt and his staff have moved out to Queen's Park, where they will remain until after the exhibition. The grounds and buildings are rapidly taking on shape and are practically ready for the exhibition. On account of the large number of automobiles expected, arrangements have been made whereby delivery rigs of all kinds are to enter the grounds by the Campbell street gate. The live stock entry will be large this year. Last evening's mail brought some very heavy entries from Toronto, of cattle, sheep and swine, and it is fully expected that the best stock of Ontario will be here. Coin controlled turnstiles will be used on both gates and grand stand, this will avoid the usual rush for tickets. All that is necessary is the use of the coin and pass through the stiles. All information given at the general offices, exhibition grounds. Phones 752 or 336.

MEMORIAL FOR SOLDIER AT HYATT AVE. CHURCH

Memorial services in honor of Pte. Charles Hales, who died in England, were held Sunday evening in Hyatt avenue Methodist Church, of which he was an esteemed member. This church has over 60 names on its honor roll, of whom Pte. Hales is the sixth to make the great sacrince.

He was also a member of Court Orient, No. 331, of the Canadian Order of Foresters, and the members attended in a body and joined in the services. This court has twenty on its roll of honor, of whom Pte. Hales is the first to lay down his life. Services were also held in his honor in Atwood, his old home.

CONSERVATORY DEMONSTRATIONS.

A series of recitals which are to demonstrate the work done by the London Conservatory of Music will be given shortly in different sections of the city. Pupils of every grade from the Elementary to Post-Graduate will perform, and a short address will be given by the Principal, illustrating the methods used and standards adopted by this institution. Admittance will be by invitation, and all those interested in piano, violin or singing, may obtain programs admitting to the recitals, by communicating with the Registrar, 356 Dundas street, or by phoning 1101. The first recital will be given in South London about September 17. Further particulars will be announced later. b

PRES. WILSON VIGOROUSLY DENOUNCES PRO-GERMANS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—President Wilson, in a striking letter to Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, made public at the White House yesterday, vigorously denounces pro-German propagandists who are endeavoring to confuse the minds of the people, especially of the laboring classes, over the issues of the war between the United States and Germany.

"It is necessary," Mr. Wilson declared, "to oppose at home the organized and individual efforts of those dangerous elements who hide disloyalty behind a screen of specious and evasive phrases."

CORNER-STONE OF HYDRO SHOP WAS OFFICIALLY LAID

Large Crowd of Citizens Witnessed the Ceremony.

BUSINESS IS GROWING

Figures Show That City Has $2,500,000 Invested in Public Utilities.

The cornerstone of the hydro shop was officially laid on Labor Day, Sir Adam Beck placing the stone in place. The ceremonies took place at 11:30 o'clock in the presence of a good crowd of citizens.

Chairman Philip Pocock was in charge of the arrangements. He thanked the citizens for attending in such large numbers, and gave a history of the hydro project here. In 1910 the investment in public utilities was about a million dollars. Now it had reached $2,500,000 in waterworks and electricity alone. The total income in 1910, when he went on the board, was $123,000, while in 1917 it will be about $800,000. The permanent staff then numbered 18, and now there were 115. More than 100 men were engaged in extra work this year, as against 30 men seven years ago. The income from the sale of fixtures, etc., last year ran about $100,000, with a profit of $8,000. This portion alone would clear off the indebtedness on the building.

Mayor's Address.

Mayor Stevenson followed with a brief speech. This was the first building of the kind erected by the people in Ontario, and it was an event worth marking. Had the former prices for electricity been charged, the whole indebtedness on the hydro plant would have been paid off by this time. He called upon Sir Adam Beck to lay the cornerstone.

Sir Adam gave a speech of about an hour's length. It was marked by innumerable statistics, showing the growth of the hydro enterprise. He stated that the laying of the cornerstone marked another milestone in the progress of democracy, and of radicalism. He rejoiced in the radical spirit of the West, as compared with Quebec and Eastern Canada. The war could only be settled on the basis of equal rights for all, and that was at the foundation of municipal ownership. He paid a tribute to the men who have handled the utilities in London. The hydro idea took root about fifteen years ago, and its influence was spreading not only over the North American continent but over the wide world, inquiries coming to the commission from New Zealand, Australia, South Africa and other nations.

Hydro Investments.

He gave some figures as to the investment in hydro. In 1910, the sum of four and half millions were invested. Now there were $45,500,000, and in a few years it would grow to one hundred millions, possibly $250,000,000. The amount of horsepower consumed had increased from 738 in 1910 to about 200,000 in 1917. More than 80,000 munitions workers were employed in factories using hydro power exclusively. Had it not been for this enterprise Canada would not have been able to take the place it had in munitions making and in other patriotic work. He advised the country to make an effort to prepare for after the war, so that Canada would take its proper place in the upbuilding of the nations. Democracy was in the ascendant.

Sir Adam paid some attention to F. B. Carvell, M.P., who had the temerity to criticize the project and wonder at the hypnotizing of the people of Ontario.

"He is not doing the people of Ontario any harm, he is doing himself harm," said Sir Adam. "If Carvell is talking for the C. P. R. and the Montreal money ring, he is doing the right thing in criticizing hydro."

Paid in Thirty Years.

Sir Adam spoke of the purchase of the Ontario Power Company's plant, and declared that it would be paid for in 30 years, out of the profits of $9 power.

Commissioner F. G. Mitchell then presented a silver trowel to Sir Adam with which to lay the stone.

"It gives me the greatest pleasure to make this presentation," he said.

In the stone were placed copies of The Advertiser, the Free Press, the Industrial Banner, the Hydro Electric Commission's report for 1916, the utilities commission's report for 1916, a city year book of 1917, and the names of Mayor Stevenson, Commissioners Philip Pocock, E. R. Dennis, F. G. Mitchell, T. W. McFarland, General Manager E. V. Buchanan and Secretary O. Ellwood with other articles.

The proceedings broke up with the singing of the National Anthem.

Later Chairman Philip Pocock entertained the guests to lunch at the Tecumseh House. After the health of the King was drunk, Col. L. W. Shannon, O. C., No. 1 Military Division, responded to the toast to "His Majesty's Forces." Col. Shannon declared that the militia was a democratic organization, serving no autocratic king, but the servants of the people. He gave his unqualified support to municipal ownership of the necessaries of life.

Municipal Work.

"The Day We Celebrate," brought responses from Commissioner E. R. Dennis and Ald. H. B. Ashplant, who gave credit to Sir Adam Beck and Philip Pocock for what they had done for municipal enterprise.

J. W. Lyon, Guelph, president of the Hydro Radial Association, spoke on behalf of that organization, and advocated the nationalization of all railways in Canada. He characterized Sir Adam Beck as the Moses who was leading the people out of the bondage of private and corporation greed.

"The Press" was replied to by E. J. Carty and J. H. Fowler.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Pocock for his kindness and hospitality. In response he gave all credit to the officials of the commission for the success of the enterprise.

A CHILD DOESN'T LAUGH AND PLAY IF CONSTIPATED

Look, Mother! Is tongue coated—can't harm tender stomach, stomach sour?

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender tomach, liver, bowels.

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomachache, diarrhoea, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious "fruit laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside" cleansing. Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

Photoplay News

PATRICIA.

Gail Kain, in "The Upper Crust," an American Mutual protodrama, unfolding a pretty romance, is the principal screen attraction at the Patricia Theatre the first half of this week.

"The Upper Crust" is a cleverly constructed play with a strong love motive and a strain of comedy running through it, albeit the plot is full of dramatic complications that involve keen suspense, interest and plenty of thrills.

When Mrs. Van Rensellaer Todd advertises for a housekeeper to take charge of her new country home on the Pacific coast, and pretty Mollie O'Toole, in the person of Miss Kane, gets the job, it is natural enough that young Algernon Todd becomes interested enough to follow Mollie to the coast, engage himself as her chauffeur and play up to the villagers' belief that Mollie is Mrs. Todd, a wealthy young widow.

Mollie falls in love with Algernon and he with her, so that, although a millionaire wants to marry her, she prefers the supposedly penniless young chauffeur, who turns out to be too rich to count his money and who receives his mother's blessing after Mollie has consented to marry him.

Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle in "His Wedding Night," is one of the latest and at the same time funniest comedies in which this big, good natured screen star has been featured.

The production might best be described as being a "scream" from beginning to finish.

Most of the action takes place in a combination drug store and soda parlor. "Fatty" loves the proprietor's daughter. Al. St. John is an unconquerable rival. But "Fatty" succeeds in impressing the girl and the wedding date is set. A special messenger brings the wedding gown and the bride, anxious to see how it fits, insists that the messenger put it on.

Al. makes preparations to steal the bride and when he sees the messenger dressed in the bridal gown, he believes it to be the girl, and kidnaps her. They dash off in a buggy followed closely by "Fatty," and father in a wagon drawn by a mule. When the girl comes to look for her wedding gown and hears the story, she jumps onto a bicycle and also enters the chase.

They finally all arrive at the minister's and after a scramble "Fatty" and his bride are married. "Fatty" gaily gives the preacher a handful of bills, and while the happy preacher is counting his money, "Fatty" produces a chloroform bottle, chloroforms the preacher and takes the money back.

The Four Vondas, a quartet of local entertainers present a singing and dancing act. They were well applauded for their efforts.

DAINTY MAE MARSH, star in D. W. Griffith's mammoth spectacle, "The Birth of a Nation," at the Patricia all next week.

Theda Bara in "The Tiger Woman," at the Patricia, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Patrons of the silent drama are fast becoming as critical for good acting by those playing upon the screen as they are demanding of those of the legitimate drama. The fact that there is a general demand throughout the country for higher art in photoplays has brought forth new efforts on the part of producers to give to patrons what they want, and that is one of the reasons why the higher class of artists are becoming identified with the drama of the screen.

It has always been the desire of William Fox to produce plays given by the best dramatic talent available. This is emphasized in the person of Miss Theda Bara, who has become recognized throughout the world where pictures are shown as a young woman endowed with an unusual amount of histrionic talent. Miss Bara herself has been endeavoring for some time to establish a higher standard of dramatic art in the picture world. It is needless to say that she has already accomplished a great deal, assisted by her manager, Mr. Fox.

It is believed that public opinion will accord to her a proper credit for having done much to advance the quality of dramatic art as set forth on the screen, especially as shown in her latest play, "The Tiger Woman." At the Patricia Thursday, Friday, Saturday.

"Birth of a Nation" at the Patricia All Next Week.

No one who has seen "The Birth of a Nation," that spectacular production with music which will play all Fair week at the Patricia, will say aught but that D. W. Griffith has shown himself to be the master stage director of the world. "The Birth of a Nation" is not a photoplay in the accepted sense of that word. It is a master creation, an epic story presented with the realism of actuality by talented players, who seem to be living again in the "times that tried men's souls." There is no one who is not moved and thrilled by the clash of great armies on the field of battle, and that appeal is to all sorts and conditions of men, women and children, as is evidenced by every audience that gathers to enjoy this eighth wonder of the world.

While the fine artistic execution is truly epoch-making, probably the basic reason for its phenomenal success is to be found in the theme. It is a big historical romance, treating of the most momentous period in the history of the United States, a period which is not only highly important in the story of that country, but one which is still remembered by living men.

MAJESTIC.

Marguerite Clark in "The Amazons" at the Majestic Today.

"Petite" Marguerite Clark in "The Amazons" is the Majestic feature screen attraction again today. Miss Clark, regarded by thousands to be the greatest motion picture actress in the world, appears in the above named photoplay in a role that gives her wide scope to display her remarkable ability as an actress and impersonator.

The following is the cast and synopsis:

CAST.

Tommy ..... Marguerite Clark
Willie ..... Elsie Lawson
Noel ..... Helen Greene
Lord Litterly ..... William Hinckley
Marchioness of Castlejordan ..... Helen Robinson
Lord Tweenways ..... Edgar Norton
De Grival ..... Andre Beilon

Synopsis.

The Marchioness of Castlejordan and her husband have had three deep disappointments in the shape of three charming daughters, Noel, Willie and Tommy. Both the Marchioness and her husband longed for strapping boys to ride with them behind the hounds and perpetuate the old family name.

To offset the disappointment, the Marchioness, whose husband died during the childhood of his girls, brought up the three girls as nearly in the manner of sons as possible, much to the scandalization of the villagers to whom the antics of the hoydenish and charming trio was a constant source of gossip.

They wore boys' clothes constantly around their home village, and when Tommy, the youngest and most hoydenish, was invited for her yearly visit to some relatives at London, it cost her many a pang to leave them behind, in fact on one visit she managed to smuggle in her dress suit and evening hat, and after two or three days of decorous life in the hateful girls' frills and ruffles, she rebels.

Putting on the dress suit and silk hat she slips out of the house, takes a cab and orders the driver to take her to the "liveliest music hall in London." Here she meets with trouble in the shape of a Cockney bully, who tries to fight her, but whom she cleverly knocks down with a quick blow that she and her sisters had learned in their thorough boxing lessons. Frightened at what she had done, she jumped from the box and runs from the theatre with the crowd at her heels.

Desperate, she jumps into a passing automobile, where is sitting young Lord Litterly, the catch of the season. He is astounded at the adventure, but admires the pluck of the "little fellow" and takes her to his rooms. There he discovers that it is a very charming young lady, whom he has so summarily rescued. Tommy, who has fainted, comes to, and finds herself in a strange room. After a series of exciting adventures all ends well.

"Whose Baby," the funniest of funny Keystone comedies, is a scream for every foot of the two reels.

The Majestic Concert Orchestra is playing this week "Songs of Scotland," and the manner in which this high-class musical organization, under the leadership of Mr. Joseph Tirri, rendered this overture was a revelation. At the Sunday afternoon concert at Port Stanley, the orchestra was tendered a reception beyond that ever received by any body of musicians who have appeared at the lakeside concerts this summer.

Roy Griffin, the silver voiced tenor, sang Sunday, and was greeted with rounds of applause, being forced by the insistent demands of his hearers to respond to encores.

Harry Ward, London's popular cornetist, played "The Lost Chord."

Today and Wednesday Roy Griffin sings "Lindy Lou" and "Somebody Loves You, Dear," both catchy airs.

WOMEN! MOTHERS! DAUGHTERS

You who tire easily, are pale, haggard and worn; nervous or irritable, who are subject to fits of melancholy or the "blues," get your blood examined for iron deficiency. NUXATED IRON taken three times a day after meals will increase your strength and endurance 100 per cent in two weeks' time in many cases.—Ferdinand King, M.D.

NOTE—NUXATED IRON recommended above by Dr. King can be obtained from any good druggist on an absolute guarantee of results or money refunded. The dose usually prescribed is one five-grain tablet to be taken three times a day after meals.

HOW HE QUIT TOBACCO

This veteran, S. B. Lamphere, was addicted to the excessive use of tobacco for many years. He wanted to quit, but needed something to help him.

He learned of a free book that tells about the tobacco habit and how to conquer it quickly, easily and safely. In a recent letter he writes: "I have no desire for tobacco any more. I feel like a new man."

Anyone desiring a copy of this book on tobacco habt, smoking and chewing, can get it free, postpaid, by writing to Edward J. Woods, 549 P, Station E, New York City. You will be surprised and pleased. Look for quieter nerves, stronger heart, better digestion, improved eyesight, increased vigor, longer life and other advantages if you quit poisoning yourself.—Advt.
