CHARGE SOME DENTAL OFFICES NOT SANITARY

Members of London Trades and Labor Council Urge Official Investigation.

CLAIMS PUPILS UNDERFED

Delegate Tite Maintains Many Cases of Sickness Due to Malnutrition.

Alleging that there are certain dental parlors and work rooms in the city that do not possess proper sanitary facilities members of the London Trades and Labor Council, in general session at the Labor Temple on Wednesday night passed with practically no opposition a resolution that this condition be brought to the attention of the medical officer of health.

The latter will be asked to make a thorough inspection of the dental offices of the city.

The motion was introduced by Delegate William Tite.

A second resolution, also framed by Delegate Tite, and enthusiastically carried, asked that the medical officer of health also conduct an investigation as to the probability of numerous instances of malnutrition among Londoners.

In the introduction of this motion the delegate held that reports had been made from time to time by competent physicians throughout this and other countries that an alarming number of cases of sickness and disease had been declared the result of the inability of the head of the family to consistently provide the necessities of life.

Provide Milk for Pupils.

The resolution held further that in the event of an unfavorable report being submitted by the local officer, a move should be made to petition the mayor and aldermen to impress upon the government the imperative need for a minimum wage act, to overcome any possibility of the workers being rendered unable to adequately provide for their children.

Delegate Hessel reasoned that the mere fact that the teachers in the schools had recognized that some of the pupils were apparently under-weight from lack of proper and adequate food, and were feeding them milk each day, should be ample warning to the members of the board of education.

"We have been trying for years," said the delegate, "to get the London boards of education to have the fair wage clause inserted in all their building contracts, but we have always been unsuccessful. Now we see that they are feeding them milk."

Answering the question as to whether the milk so provided in the schools was afforded the pupil without cost, one of the delegates replied that such was not the case. "I know one school," he pointed out, "where the pupils have to pay 15 cents a week. If they have not the 15 cents they receive no milk. In my opinion, it is those pupils that lack the necessary money that need the nourishment most."

Election Is Postponed.

It was explained by another delegate that at a certain school those pupils who have not the money are provided with the same amount of milk as their companions.

The delegates moved to communicate with the secretary of the American Federation of Labor, seeking definite information as to why it is now seemingly contrary to the rules of that body for delegates of the local maintenance of way railroad employees to sit on the trades and labor council.

It was decided that the nomination and election of officers for 1922 be laid over until the next regular gathering two weeks hence. In the interim an effort will be made to have the blacksmiths' and carmen's locals to re-affiliate with the central body.

A PETITION IS being circulated in London, asking the Provincial Government to take up the matter of standardizing cemeteries in the province. At a recent session the Ontario House put through a measure which made county councils responsible for rural cemeteries. The movement now on foot would have all standardized and would likely result in a provincial overseer being appointed.

AS MAYOR-ELECT WILSON will be a member of the public utilities commission during 1922, it will be impossible to hold the first meeting of that board until after the inaugural meeting of the city council on Monday next. As the commissioners transacted all imediate business at their last session in December, they feel there is no need for a gathering earlier than Thursday of next week.

THE CANADIAN CLUB in London has been successful in securing Premier Drury to give an address on Jan. 25. The officers of the club have been trying for some time to induce the premier to come to London and speak to them, but a date could never be arranged for definitely. However, Jan. 25 has been set positively, and Londoners will have the opportunity to hear the premier of Ontario on that date. The subject of the address is not known yet, but considerable interest is exhibited in view of some of the important questions which are before the public at this time.

An interesting New Year's party was held on Monday evening, when Mr and Mrs. H. W. Ashley entertained at their home on Simcoe street. During the early part of the evening Miss F. Rainey presented a pretty playlet "Zirondee." Those taking part were the Misses "Winky" Ashley, O. Scott, B. Holloway and G. Weston, Miss Rainey playing the leading role. The stage was decorated for the occasion in oriental style with burning incense, etc. Directly after the playlet a voting contest took place for the most popular lady in the house. Miss Elsie Grell was presented with first prize. The latter part of the evening the whole of the downstairs was thrown open for dancing, after which a dainty buffet supper was served.

WINIFRED HEAD TELLS IDEALS OF GIRL GUIDES

Gives Interesting Address On Movement Launched by Sir Baden Powell.

TRAINED FOR HOME LIFE

Young Women Prepare For Future Duties As Citizens and Mothers.

"There are four badges a girl must have before she can become a first-class Guide—child nurse, ambulance, cooking and needlework. No one can accuse these of being tomboy interests," said Winnifred Head of Toronto Wednesday evening, addressing a meeting in Cronyn Hall under the auspices of the Girl Guide Council of London on "What the Girl Guide Movement Can Do for Canada."

It was a glowing picture which was presented of the woman that the girl of today may become through her Girl Guide association and training, a woman self-reliant, poised, prepared for emergency, a capable home-maker, a skillful, conscientious mother, and a citizen who has learned in play to sink her own preferences and individuality for the good of her side, for the sake of her company, in the interests of the whole.

Where did the Girl Guide movement originate?

"In the brain of Sir Baden Powell," said Miss Head, who told of his experience in the little city of Mafeking in the Boer war when he organized the men, women and children all to do their part efficiently, when he saw how efficiently and willingly boys could perform arduous tasks for which no one else had time, under proper leadership. In the South African constabulary he developed his idea of patrol government, and finally the scout movement took shape when he wrote his book on boy scouting.

Girls felt the thrill of romance of the Boy Scout activities. Sir Baden Powell saw this, and suggested to his sister the evolving of a similar movement for girls, adapted to the needs of girls, hence the Girl Guides.

Named for Famous Regiment.

"Do you know where the Guides got their name?" said the speaker. "From a famous regiment in India, a picked regiment, stationed up in the hills, that must be ready for any emergency, self-reliant, courageous. The Guides lead other regiments that are obliged to go through the hills, hence they are indispensable. It is a great privilege to bear the name, to have such a great tradition behind us. It is a great responsibility to live up to this tradition."

Dwelling upon the need of training girls for citizenship amid the conditions of enlarged opportunity resulting from the war. Miss Head emphasized the value of educating girls to be the comrades of men, not only in home relationships, but in the nation's and world's work.

"Just as the viewpoints of both the man and the woman are needed to make perfect home conditions, so the viewpoint of woman, as well as man, is needed to make conditions more ideal in public life," stated Miss Head.

"If every home were perfect it would not be necessary to have the Girl Guides or any movement of that sort." The manner in which Girl Guiding teaches a girl to undertake responsibility, carry it through, and recognize duty to city and country, was lucidly explained, the speaker describing the way these qualities are developed in games.

"Play is so important," she said, "and there is no way in which the vitally important lessons of life can be so successfully taught as by utilizing the play instinct, shared alike by children, puppies, kittens. Through team play, the Guides learn to play square and to excel."

Touching briefly upon the history of the Guide movement in the war, its recognition by the government of Great Britain, and its rapid growth in the past few years all through the British Empire and to all parts of the world, even Germany, "the Guide movement does not belong to any religious sect or party," concluded the speaker. It is one great sisterhood that worships God, something bigger than any sect or denomination. It is practical Christianity in the truest sense of the word, in its ideas and expression of these of duty to God and king, and help for all people. Through linking up of the nations by the Guide movement, we will get the real spirit of the league of nations.

Introducing the speaker, Mrs. F. P. Betts, provincial commissioner of Girl Guides, emphasized the need of character building training for girls which will enable them to uphold the standards set by the men who made the name of Canada glorious in the world war.

"If Canada would produce such men again, we must have mothers of high ideals and broad vision," said Mrs. Betts, "hence the importance of training girls of today who will be the mothers of the future. Will the Girl Guide movement meet this need? This is the question which Miss Head is to answer.

Catholics to Observe January Sixth As "Little Christmas"

"And there came wise men from the east."

Oft times people are heard quoting the above. It is quite familiar to most folks, even those who have little knowledge or interest in matters biblical. And there are those who at times in their zest for quotations, blame many things on these wise men.

It will be 1922 years Friday that these wise men reached Jerusalem from the east. Hence Friday is called Little Christmas. In the church calendar it is known as the Feast of the Epiphany and is a holy day of obligation in Catholic churches.

The popular idea or conception of the wise men is that there were three. In biblical history they are referred to as Magi and generally called kings. It will also be noted, however, that Scripture is silent as to the "quality and number" of the wise men. However, it will be found today that they are known as "Melchoir, Gaspar and Balthasar," but these names are not to be found in any authoritative works, Latin or Greek, before the twelfth century.

Christmas a Jewish Feast.

Little Christmas or The Epiphany falls twelve days after the birth of Christ. It took the wise men that time to travel to Jerusalem. And the significance of the event is that it is the day that the Gentiles are called to the Crib for a renewal of the joy of Christmas.

Christmas then is really a Jewish feast. It was their day of joy in the birth of Christ. Twelve days later the Gentiles, as represented by the wise men, called at the Crib, or on the Child Jesus, as he was lying in the manger of the stable at Bethlehem, and paid their homage. Friday then is the real day on which the Gentiles should renew their joy at the birth of Christ.

The wise men made their trip from the east as the result ofa prophecy from Balaam, who had told them of the new king who was coming, and how his birth would be marked by the appearance of a star that would guide them.

The star appeared, and the wise men, or kings, hastened to pay homage to him who was promised from above the empire of the earth. It is said that they hoped to secure his alliance and friendship. It was some time later that God enlightened them on the true sense of the prophecy.

Wise Men Visit Herod.

On their way to visit this new king, the wise men called on Herod The Great. He had usurped the kingdom, and fearing he would be deposed, he asked the wise men that they return when they had followed their star to its destination and tell him where the new king was that he might also pay homage.

The wise men did not return. Instead they went home by another route. It was later, when Herod, perceiving that he was deluded by the wise men, ordered killed all the male children in Bethlehem and its borders, from two years old and under, conceiving that the new-born king would be in the number slain. In this he erred, for Mary and Joseph had been warned by God, and had taken flight into Egypt and spent some time there, some contend at Hermopolis and some at Alexandria.

As for the wise men, it is said that they afterwards became followers of Jesus Christ, and joined in the spreading of his gospel. It is claimed that in the twelfth century their bodies were removed to Cologne in Germany.

RELIGIOUS SECT TO MOVE TO CITY

Pentecostal Assembly of Canada Moving Headquarters From Ottawa to London.

Another religious sect is to locate its headquarters in London. The Pentecostal Assembly of Canada, which at present maintains a large office at Ottawa, is to move its head office to London. R. E. McAlister is to be placed in charge of the London assembly.

The Pentecosts at present have a church on the corner of William and Dundas street. They have been approached several times by persons wanting to purchase the property, and it is intimated that a sale to the London Pure Milk, with headquarters next door, may be made, and a large new edifice erected elsewhere.

Mr. McAllister is editor of the Pentecostal Testimony, a monthly paper issued by the Pentecosts, and the office of that paper will also come to London, and starting Feb. 1, it will be published in London in future.

The London Assembly is one of the largest in the Dominion. Its missionary branch maintains three missionaries, two in China and one in Africa. Mr. McAllister is secretary of the Pentecostal missionary movement in Canada her intention of placing her undivided trust in him until the end.

Believe Prisoner Innocent.

As the first ray of sunshine to enter the Santa Barbara home since the fatal day of arrest came the information late Tuesday night that back in the old home in London, Ontario, the mother and sister of the prisoner were also loath to believe that Herbert was guilty and extended the belief that "the truth will prevail at the end."

From Smithville, near Hamilton, Ontario, however, comes from Mrs. Myrtle Wilson, wife of the brother whose arrest appears so necessary to the authorities, a report that shows that she does not place such confidence in Herbert as the other members of the family have done.

She frankly offers the opinion that if Lewis is in trouble it is Herbert who is mainly responsible for it, the latter being nothing more or less than "a devil dressed up," she says.

It is two years, Mrs. Wilson says, since she saw her husband Lewis. He was then, she understood, on his way to Montreal, and although she heard a few months ago that he was in Windsor, she was not aware that he had joined Herbert in the west. She maintains that, although he had left her on other occasions, he had always treated her well, and there had never been any trouble between them.

It was the strong-willed Herbert, she contended, who always led the way. Lewis when left alone was always ready to work, and provide a home, but when his brother appeared and went away again, Lewis, being the weaker, would always be easily persuaded to go with him.

Urged Auto Purchase.

Mrs. Wilson says that when her husband was engaged as a traveling salesman she accompanied him for a while, meeting him in Battle Creek, Michigan, after their home was broken up. It was during this trip, she says, that they met Herbert, who persuaded her husband to purchase an automobile to travel through the state with. She was able finally to induce Lewis to leave Herbert, whom, she alleges, she soon discovered to enjoy an unenviable reputation.

It was during their brief visit in Detroit, she says, that she became acquainted with Herbert Cox, now in custody in Los Angeles, and whom the police of that city claim has already submitted a full confession, implicating both Wilsons, as well as five or six others said to be members of the alleged gang.

She said that while Cox always dressed well and appeared to have plenty of money, no person appeared to know what he worked at, or if he worked at all. She expressed sympathy for Mrs. Cox, whom she said was an Austrian, but "a fine Christian woman." She denied emphatically that she was, as was reported, still in communication with her husband, and that he had sent her large sums of money.

350,000 BOOKS CIRCULATED BY CITY LIBRARY

More Volumes Loaned to Citizens in 1921 Than Any Previous Year.

BRANCHES RAISE TOTAL

Story Hour For Children To Be Inaugurated at Central Building.

More books were circulated in the year 1921 by the London Public Library and its branches, than in any other year of its twenty-five years of existence, according to the computation arrived at by Librarian Fred Landon.

Between 340,000 and 350,000 volumes were given out to readers during the course of 1921, and 40,000 more books were taken off the library shelves in 1921 than in 1920.

Librarian Landon said Thursday morning that he believed there were only two circulating libraries in the province of Ontario whose total circulation surpassed that of London, they were the libraries of Ottawa and Toronto.

Circulates 243,000 Books.

The main branch gave out 243,000 books, the east branch 49,000 volumes, the south branch 21,500, and the south-east branch, which opened only a short time ago, 700.

Approximately 100,000 books were read by the children of the city; 25,000 to 30,000 supplementary reading books were issued to the school children at the schools, and of children's books in the main library and branches 67,000 were taken out by children.

Tabulation of the varieties of reading matter which Londoners prefer has not yet been made up. This tabulation will tell the taste of the community in fiction and educational reading matter.

21,170 Library Cards.

At the present time 21,170 library cards are held in London, a large increase in enrollment.

The opportunity, and utility, which the various departments of the library offer, is shown in the fact that nearly 2,000 people used the reference room in December for ascertaining miscellaneous information.

Mr. Landon announced that a story hour for children will soon be inaugurated, on Tuesday afternoons at 4:30, in the recently opened southeast branch.

HEAR RESIGNATION OF REV. T. S. ROY

Members of Talbot Street Church Regret Loss of Pastor.

At a meeting called for the purpose of considering the resignation of Rev. T. S. Roy as pastor of Talbot Street Baptist Church Wednesday evening, the decision was arrived at to accept the resignation, as requested by Mr. Roy. Expressions of regret were voiced by practically everyone who participated in the discussion, and it was only with the knowledge that the pastor's decision was final that the vote was taken.

Many of the officials of the church are of the opinion that Mr. Roy is only getting well established in his ministry in London, and they had reason to expect great things in the future. After the resignation was accepted the deacons of the church were appointed a pulpit committee to decide on what steps should be taken to secure a suitable man to carry on the work. Deacon Campbell is the chairman of the committee. Mr. Roy expects to leave for his new field of work about the second of February.

YOUNG FARMER COMMITTED ON DRIVING CHARGE

John Scott Sent For Trial Following Automobile Accident.

AGED WOMAN INJURED

Crown Attorney Declares "Furious Driving" As Dangerous As Carrying Arms.

John Scott, a young farmer living in the vicinity of London, was sent for trial by Deputy Magistrate P. H. Bartlett in police court Thursday morning on a charge of furious driving causing bodily harm.

Cars driven by Scott and Wilbert Darch, 131 Inkerman street, collided at the corner of York and Waterloo streets at 11:25 p.m. on Dec. 4, and an aged woman, Mrs. Wells, a passenger in Darch's car, suffered serious injuries.

R. G. Fisher, counsel for Scott, insisted that the whole affair was an accident pure and simple. Crown Attorney McKillop, however, viewed the occurrence in a different light.

"This is just the sort of thing that must be stopped," declared the crown attorney. "These furious drivers must be taught a lesson. These matters have been treated as civil actions too long. A man driving a car at a terrific rate is just as dangerous as a man with a revolver. In this case an aged woman has been terribly injured. If a few cases of this kind are brought up, it will result in the saving of many lives."

Constable Saw Accident.

Wm. Gow, special G. T. R. constable, saw the accident. Scott's car traveled over the G. T. R. tracks at about 30 miles an hour, he said. He saw the crash at the corner, when Darch's car approached from the east on York street, and didn't think that Scott had slowed down. In fact he thought his car had picked up speed. The impact sent both cars up on the boulevard on the northwest corner. He would not swear which car struck the other.

Constable Louis McCaughey heard the crash and saw the cars after the accident. He had Mrs. Wells sent to the hospital.

Mr. Darch said he looked both ways as he approached the crossing. He did not see Scott's car until it was 12 feet away. He gave the wheel a little flip and tried to turn out a bit, but he was struck and carried over the curb, where his car had upset. Mrs. Wells had four ribs broken and her hip fractured. There were eight occupants in the car, a Ford. He thought he was going at about 18 miles an hour.

Claims Speed 20 Miles.

"Weren't you going closer to 30?" asked Mr. Fisher.

"No; the old lady can't go that fast," was the reply.

James Murphy, 433 Dorinda street, stated that he was in a car going north on Waterloo street about 20 miles an hour and that Scott had passed him on the tracks. He thought that Scott could have avoided he accident by passing behind the Darch car. Scott, he claimed, was driving in the middle of the road and Darch had the right of way.

Mr. Fisher did not think that the evidence warranted his client being sent for trial, but the court ruled otherwise.

ARREST AYLMER MAN IN LONDON

George Shanahan, wanted in Aylmer on a charge of assaulting the chief of police of that town last July, was arrested in London Wednesday evening by Detective Tom Bolton at 243 Clarence street. Constable Mills of Aylmer arrived in the city later in the evening, and will take Shanahan to Aylmer on Thursday.

WORKMAN BREAKS HIP IN FALL AT CAR WORKS

Offers Free Marriage License To Dr. Stevenson

WHILE City Clerk Baker is the official issuer of marriages for Londoners who contemplate joining the ranks of the benedicts, he did not issue his own license, as his recent marriage took place in Detroit.

However, Mr. Baker has expressed a willingness to make up this loss to the province of Ontario, and Thursday morning in his office told Dr. H. A. Stevenson, M.L.A., that he would present him with a free license any time he called the turn.

It would be, he admitted, one of the most costly presents the doctor would ever get.

Dr. Stevenson did not call Mr. Baker's bluff.

CONSERVATORY UNITES WITH ART INSTITUTE

The London Conservatory of Music, having decided to continue as an examining board only, the teaching staff will be amalgamated with the London Institute of Musical Art.

As Mr. F. L. Willgoose, the principal of the Conservatory, wishes to withdraw from active administrative work in order to devote more time to composition, he will head the theory department of the Institute.

The acquisition of the strong staff and large registration of the Conservatory makes it imperative that the addition planned for the Institute be erected immediately.

The new wing as designed will provide 20 sound-proof studios, and will be ready for occupation by summer.

Mr. A. D. Jordan hopes that another season will make possible the plan of the Institute to build the little theatre, which should mean much to the artistic development of the community.

FINES NINE DRUG CLERKS $1 FOR SUNDAY WORK

Employees of Standard Drug Company and Liggett's Take Stock On Sabbath.

STORES WERE CLOSED

Magistrate Bartlett Inclined To Take Lenient View of Offence.

Six employees of the Liggett Drug Company and three of the Standard Drug Company were each fined $1 and $1.85 costs in police court Thursday morning on a charge of taking stock last Sunday, contrary to the Lord's Day act. Those who paid fines were Hueston Sharp, James Porter, Erwin Sinker, Herman Oettenger, Russell Quigley, James McLean, W. H. Glandville and H. H. Knapton.

Deputy Magistrate P. H. Bartlett was inclined to take a lenient view of the case, and said so.

R. G. Fisher, counsel for Liggett's, stated that the boys had possibly been guilty of a technical breach of the act, but that some of them living out of the city had been anxious to go home for the holiday on Monday.

"We are here to give our assurance that such an occurence will not happen again," said Mr. Fisher.

"Under the act, these men were there at work under necessity," declared W. R. Meredith, who appeared for the Standard Drug Co. "It was not a breach of the act for them to count medicine bottles. They have to work on Sunday, anyway.

"There has been quite a lot in the press concerning these druggists and the observance of the Lord's Day Act, as far as the police are concerned," observed Mr. Bartlett.

"Well, that has nothing to do with this case," said Mr. Fisher. "These stores are all reputable, and there was certainly no deliberate or inspired breach of the act."

"Their places of business were locked when the stock-taking was going on," declared Chief Birrell.

"It would be much more in the spirit of the new year if you would drop the case," said Mr Meredith.

"I have no desire to go any further than necessary," stated the court. "These druggists are all merchants under the act, and are therefore liable, and I don't think that these young men thought they were liable."

There was then some discussion as to whether each firm should be fined $1 or each individual member. Mr. Meredith thought that $1 would cover each case, but Chief Birrell differed.

"That is all right for the chief, he got lots of money," said Mr. Meredith, casting a charming smile in the direction of the bench.

"I beg your pardon, Mr. Meredith. I'm the poorest man in town," said the chief, and the case was ended.

LADIES' COATS AND DRESSES TO BE SOLD AT HALF FACTORY PRICE

Hudson Fashion Shoppe Will Sell The Factory Floor Stocks in London Store, Commencing Saturday.

One of the most important sales of Ladies' Coats and Dresses that was ever held in London will commence Saturday at the Hudson Fashion Shoppe, 203 Dundas street. As the ladies of London know, Hudson's are manufacturers who sell everything they make through their own stores. Each year at this time they dispose of their entire factory floor stocks at half price, which enables their patrons to not only save the middlemen's profits, but one-half the factory cost as well.

This is the first sale that the Hudson Fashion Shoppe have held in London, and they wish to be judged by the values. The policy of the company is to hold but two sales each year. One at mid-winter and one at mid-summer. The object of the sales is to dispose of everything on the factory floors within the season for which it was manufactured, and thus have nothing but new goods on hand at the beginning of each season.

A large advertisement, giving more particulars of this sale will appear in this newspaper tomorrow, and the sale will open promptly at 9 o'clock Saturday morning.—Advt.

Many ambitious men and women live only half a life—and don't know it

No person whose nerves are continually irritated, whose appetite and digestion are disturbed, or who doesn't sleep well has more than half his normal chance for success in life. For weakness, debility, anemia and general lack of tone are a serious handicap to anybody.

Those who drink tea or coffee are often sufferers from these conditions. Tea and coffee contain caffeine, a substance which has a decided stimulant action on the nerves.

Each cup of strong tea or coffee contains about as large a dose of caffeine as your doctor would ordinarily give to a very sick person.

You can readily see that the effect of giving this stimulant regularly to a well person might finally have a tendency to make him sick.

If you want to avoid a very common cause of irritation and enjoy restful sleep, good digestion, and the feeling of vigor and robust endurance that comes to healthy, normal people, quit tea and coffee, and drink Postum, instead. It is a rich, satisfying cereal beverage—perfectly delicious!

Order Postum from your grocer today. Drink this fragrant, aromatic beverage and see how much better you'll feel—able to do more without becoming fatigued—as thousands have discovered for themselves.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes. Sold everywhere!
