TURKISH BLACK SALVE.

UNDER THE PATRONAGE OF THE HONORABLE THE EAST INDIA COMPANY.

THIS SALVE, prepared from the original Receipt, procured from a celebrated Turkish Hakim, (physician) of Smyrna, in Asia Minor, and which has obtained an unprecedented celebrity in Great Britain and the East Indies, from the astonishing Cures performed by it in both these countries, has lately been introduced into Montreal. As might be expected, its popularity has followed it, and its use is becoming general among all classes. The contracted limits of an advertisement necessarily precludes entering into any adequate detail of its merits, but, for the information of the public, it is intended to publish, from time to time, such statements of cures as have or may occur. It has been used for the following complaints with the most complete success:—Such as Swollen Glands, Broken Breasts, White Swellings, Whitlows, Scalds from Steamboat explosions, or other causes, Burns, Fever Sores, Scrofulous Sores, Sore Nipples, Carbuncles, Scald Head, Gun-shot Wounds, Bruises, Boils, Scurvy Sores, Chilblains, Ulcerated and Common Sore Throats, and Bunions. If used in time, it will prevent or cure Cancers, also, Swellings arising from a blow on the Breast, Ring Worm, Pains in the Back, Rheumatism, Gout, Pains in the Chest, Palpitation of the Heart, Complaints in the Liver, Spine, Heart and Hip, Rushing of Blood to the Head, Swelled Face and Toothache. In fact, it is impossible to enumerate half the complaints that have been cured by the application of this Salve.

Sold in Montreal by S. J. LYMAN & Co., Place d'Armes; SAVAGE & Co., Notre-Dame Street; URQUHART & Co., Great St. James Street; W. LYMAN & Co, St. Paul Street, and in all the Principal Cities in Canada.

The Kingdom of God is Within.

During a recent visit at Stratford on Avon, the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher attended service in the Established Church, and in a letter to the Independent thus describes the service on that occasion:

"As I approached the church, the churchyard was to be passed, and an avenue of lime trees meeting overhead, formed a beautiful way, and my soul exulted to go up thus to the house of God. The house was stately and beautiful—it was to me, and I am not describing anything to you as it was, but am describing myself while in the presence of scenes with which you are familiar. As I sat down in the pew close by the reading desk and pulpit I looked along to the chancel, which stood some fifty or sixty feet back of the pulpit and desk, and saw upon the wall the well known bust of Shakspeare, and I knew that beneath the pavement under that, his dust repposed. In a few minutes, a little fat man, with a red collar and red cuffs, advanced from a side room behind the pulpit, and led the way for the Rector, a man of about fifty, bald, except on the sides of his head, which were covered with white hair. I had been anxious lest some Cowper's administrator should officiate, and the sight of this good man was good. The form of his face was intellectual furniture, but they were suffused with an expression of benevolence. He ascended the reading desk, and the services began. Too long my mother was, until her marriage, in the communion of the Episcopal Church; this thought hardly returned to fill me anew for the privilege of how much I was affected. I had never had such a times of worship, and I shall never have such another view (of heaven until I gain the gate.)

"I am so ignorant of the church service that I cannot tell the various parts by their tight names—but the portions which most affected me were the prayers and responses which the choir sang. I had never heard any part of a supplication—a direct prayer sung by a choir, and it seemed as though I heard not with my ear, but with my soul. I was dissolved—my whole being seemed to me like an incense wafted gratefully toward God. The Divine presence rose before me in wondrous majesty, but of ineffable gentleness and goodness, and I could not stay away from more familiar approach, but seemed irresistibly, yet gently, drawn toward God. My soul, then, was made magnify the Lord, and rejoice in the God of thy salvation. And then came in my mind the many exultations of the Psalms of David, and never before were the expressions and figures so noble and so necessary to express what I felt. I had risen, it seemed to me, so high, that I was where David was when his soul conceived the things which he wrote.

"Throughout the service, (and it was an hour and a quarter long,) whenever an 'Amen' occurred it was given by the choir, accompanied by the organ and the congregation. Oh, that swell and solemn cadence rings in my ear yet. Not once, not a single time did it occur in that service from beginning to end, without bringing tears down my eyes. I stood like a shrub in a Spring morning—every leaf covered with dew, and every breeze shook down drops. I trembled so much at times, that I was obliged to sit down. Oh, when in the prayers breathed forth in strains of sweet, simple, solemn music, the love of Christ was recognized, how I longed then to give utterance to what that love seemed to me. There was a moment in which the heavens seemed opened to me, and I saw the glory of God! All the earth seemed to me a storehouse of images, made to set forth the Redeemer, and I could scarcely keep still from crying out. I never knew, I never dreamed before of what heart there was in the word amen. Every time it swelled forth and died away solemnly, not my lips, not my quiet, but my whole being said—Saviour, so let it be.

"The sermon was preparatory to the communion, which I then first learned was to be celebrated. It was plain and good; and although the Rector had done many things in a way that led one to suppose that he sympathized with over much ceremony, yet in his sermon he seemed evangelical, and gave a right view of the Lord's Supper. For the first time in my life I went forward to commune in an Episcopal Church. Without any intent of my own, but because from my seat it was nearest, I knelt down at the altar with the dust of Shakspeare beneath my feet. I thought of ten thousand things without the least disturbance. It seemed as if I stood upon a place so high, that, like one looking over a wide valley, all objects conspired to make but one view. I thought, too, of the general assembly and church of the first born, of my mother and brother and children in heaven, of my living family on earth, of you, of the whole church entrusted to my hands—they after all, I upon the banks of the Avon."

"POVERTY, BATTLES AND FRAGMENTS," is the title of a pamphlet of Walter Savage Landor, issued also by
