FUN AT LORNE PARK.

The Delightful Resort Crowded With Visitors, and They Have a Good Time.

The steamer Eurydice carried an unusually large party of excursionists to Lorne Park Saturday afternoon. Amongst those who availed themselves of the excursion were St. Thomas' Church Sunday School, the employes of Messrs. Timms & Co., printers, and the choir of Erskine Church, making in all a party of about 500.

The boat, which has recently been renovated and fitted with first-class accommodation for the benefit of patronizers, left the Scott-street dock at 2.10 p.m. arriving at its destination in about an hour and a quarter.

Lorne Park was in excellent condition, and the picnic parties soon spread themselves beneath the brilliant foliage or climbed the heights overlooking the lake. At the rustic pavilion Timms & Co.'s people whiled away the time in the magy dance, whilst others consumed the delectable viands which they had brought along. Lorne Park is especially fitted for picnic parties, with its invigorating air and roomy accommodation, where the children may romp about to their hearts' content and the more staid visitors enjoy the beauty of the scenery. At 7 p.m. a dinner was given by the courteous proprietor of the Hotel Louise to the park directors and the members of the press. The menu was select and was served in first-class style, reflecting great credit on the catering abilities of the hosteiry. After the dinner came a series of toasts, with Mr. Jacobi occupying the chair, and the success of the park as a pleasure resort was cordially responded to.

At 8.30 the Eurydice with its human freight steamed homeward, the choir members enlivening the journey with vocal selections till the boat arrived at the foot of Scott-street.

THERE IS NO ONE TO BLAME,

So Say the Coroner's Jury of John Hayden's Death.

The inquest on the body of the man John Hayden, 194 Markham-street, who was killed Friday by a falling derrick at the Athletic Club building, took place at the Morgue Saturday night. Dr. N. A. Powell acted as coroner and Messrs. N. G. Bigelow, Q.C., and P. Stewart were present. The chief point was as to whether the derrick had been strong enough and all proper precautions had been taken. The foreman entrusted on the work, the contractor and Mr. A. Sangster, foreman at the new City Hall, were among the witnesses. They testified that the "gooseneck" which gave way was of ordinary size and of the best Swedish iron; there was an old crack at the place where it had broken, but this would have been exceedingly difficult of detection. The derrick had given way some time before, and the contractor had had it examined by a good blacksmith.

The question arose whether it was possible to test such ironwork. It came out in the evidence that testing was injudicious, as the putting of an iron to a very heavy test would weaken it so as to cause it to break soon after under a much lighter weight.

Mr. Sangster recalled how on the occasion of the laying of the corner stone of the City Hall a derrick had successfully lifted the stone weighing six tons, but had broken next day with a weight of 1500 pounds. There were many people under it, too.

"Were they aldermen?" enquired Coroner Powell demurely; and Mr. Bigelow smilingly said, "I was there." And under his breath he registered the vow, "I'll never do so again."

Under the circumstances it appeared that all reasonable precautions had been taken, and accordingly the jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

These examinations, although unpopular with lovers of superficial display, are of immense value to students, as they encourage them to do a great amount of thorough work, and thus lay a foundation for a musical education which will last a lifetime. They will also aid in the development of the mental faculties for the acquirement of a literary education. We, therefore, invite members of school boards and trustees of colleges, model and public schools, who will be admitted without invitation cards; or they and parties who have children to educate may have cards of admission sent to their addresses by telephoning to No. 3921.
