

"What do we live for, if it is not to make life less difficult for others?"
— George Eliot.
John V. Ellis.

"Too low they build who build beneath the stars."— Young.
M. C. Ellis.

"He only lives who bravely combats error,
'Tis only he who yields to wrong who dies."
McGregor.

"Health is like any inheritance — you can spend the interest in work and play, but you mustn't break into the principal."— Letters of a Self-Made Merchant to His Son.

"Count no duty too little, if it comes in your way, since God thinks so much of it as to send His angels to guard thee in it."— Mark Guy Pearse.
R. Harry Robb.

"Kindness is catching, and if you go around with a thoroughly developed case, your neighbors will be sure to get it."
A. Dodds.

"If we would sing the songs of Heaven, we must learn the music here."
Agnes A. B.

"Deliberate with caution, but act with decision; yield with graciousness, or oppose with firmness."
L. T.

"Temper is such a good thing that we should never lose it."
M. M. T.

"Be noble! and the nobleness that lies
In other men sleeping, but never dead,
Will rise in majesty to meet thine own."— Lowell.
E. A. Westmorland.

"The day, forth dawning from the East,
Night's humid curtains from the heavens withdrew,
And early calling forth both man and beast,
Commanded them their daily works renew."— Edmund Spenser.
C. W. Hamilton.

"There are some who seem more concerned about getting everybody into heaven than about making anybody fit for heaven. In God's eyes it is of far more consequence that the Heavenly City should be clean than that it should be crowded."
— A. T. Pierson, D.D.
Mrs. C. W. Hamilton.

"On the earth the broken arcs; in the heaven a perfect round."— Browning.
E. L. P.
