THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., FEB. 7, 1908.

Sanctum Suggestions.

The civic election on Tuesday passed off quietly. Very little interest was shown, the vote being small considering the large number of qualified electors. There was no contest for the mayoralty, Mayor Black having been re-elected by acclamation. Following was the result of the poll for councillors:

J. W. Selfridge	72
C. S. Fitch	70
G. W. Abbott	66
C. R. H. Starr	59
J. W. Porter	24

Mr. Porter posted a placard at the polling booth on election day, asking electors not to vote for him. This no doubt affected the result somewhat, so far as he was concerned.

Following is the result of the Kentville town election:

FOR MAYOR.

Webster	193
Porter	115
Majority for Webster	78

COUNCILLORS.

A. Palmeter	262
A. E. Dunlop	183
C. A. Merry	175
J. G. Calkin	157
E. Deutith	128

The Municipal election in Ward 2, which took place on Saturday last, was keenly contested. The candidates were Mr John Donaldson, of Church Street, and Mr Levi Clarke, of Canard, and every possible effort was put forth by the friends of the candidates to elect them. Both sides appeared to be confident, and it was generally admitted that the majority would be small in any case. All day the booth at Canard was kept busy—male and female voters vieing with each other. When the poll closed and the votes were counted the result was found to be a victory for Mr Donaldson by a majority of twenty-six votes. The successful candidate will make a good councillor and a most creditable representative of probably the wealthiest ward in the county. He was elected to the position in November last, but was prevented by a technicality from taking his seat, and a new election was ordered with the above result. We congratulate Mr Donaldson on his election and the people of Ward 2 on securing the services of such a good man to represent them. Mr Donaldson graduated from Acadia with the class of '81.

The Central Theological Circle met in the vestry of the Baptist church on Monday, Feb. 3rd, at 10 a. m. Rev. W. H. Jenkins read a carefully prepared paper on 'Evangelism.' Many of the suggestive points which he outlined were discussed by the other members of the circle. At the afternoon session President Hutchinson spoke on the new Extension Courses of study open for ministers and other Christian workers, under the direction of the professors of the Theological department of Acadia College. Professor DeWolfe and others spoke on the subject. Rev. George E. Tufts read a paper on 'My impressions of some European churches and church services,' in which he described the preachers, the services and the edifices, during a few Sundays in London, referring chiefly to Spurgeon's Tabernacle, City Temple church, Westminster Abbey and St. Paul's. He also spoke of the services and edifices of St. Mark's in Venice, and of St. Lateran, St. Paul's, St. Peter's and the Pantheon in Rome. He referred also to the church of the Madeleine and to St. Bartholomew in Paris, and to the church of John Calvin in Geneva.

Grand Pre Park Report for the Year 1907.

MR EDITOR:—Kindly permit me the use of your columns to make a brief report of the work so far done on the Grand Pre Memorial Park.

The site of the Acadian well and willows, a block of fourteen acres, has been purchased at a cost of $1750. Two hundred dollars have been paid and a mortgage given for the balance. A lease of the land has also been given to offset the mortgage interest. Every hundred dollars paid lessens proportionately the area of the land covered by the lease. This secures and makes public the land for all time, and protects the historic landmarks and makes possible the work of improvement. The President of Acadia and the Mayor of Wolfville with a third person to be appointed will act as trustees of the property.

The Recorder was requested to draft a special act to be submitted to the Legislature at the approaching session, to enable the town of Wolfville to take over as public streets that part of Central avenue between Main and Prospect streets, also that street or alley now used as a public thoroughfare and running from Gaspereau avenue to Locust avenue between the properties now owned by C. R. Starr and M. W. Fitch.

Couns. Hales introduced a discussion on street improvement in which other members of the Board took part, but no action was taken.

Hon. Mr. McMullin has introduced in the Canadian senate a bill to amend the Railway Act, the enacting clause of which is as follows: 'Every person who sells, gives or barters any spirituous or intoxicating liquor to or with any servant or employee of any company, while on duty, is liable on summary conviction to a penalty not exceeding $500, or to imprisonment with or without hard labor, for a period not exceeding one year or both.'

Names of the Cunard Steamers.

As is well known, the steamers of this famous Line are named for countries ending in 'a', and very prominent or noted places too. This seemed an easy matter during the early history of the line, but as years have passed, and so many new boats added to the fleet, some queries have arisen as to whether the geographical list would not soon be exhausted. Then what would the Cunard Company do? But when the two monster twin steamers were launched last summer—steamers that beat the world's record—it was seen that names were secured. As the newspapers spoke so frequently of the remarkable speed that these boats made on their trial trips—the Lusitania and the Mauritania—how many school teachers asked their scholars to tell where these countries were found? If such questions were asked, how many children had sufficient knowledge of geography to give a correct answer? But of all the euphonious names that the long list of Cunarders have received, where can we find two so appropriate as the names given to these twin giants so recently added to the fleet?

Lusitania at first comprised the area—very nearly—of modern Portugal; but later, the Emperor Augustus made this Roman Province a little more extensive.

Mauritania is derived from the Greek word, Mauros, a Moor; and was a province opposite Lusitania, across the Mediterranean, comprising the northern part of modern Morocco, and a small part of north-western Algeria. The Emperor Augustus acknowledged the claim of Juligan II, of Numidia, as King of Mauritania, A. D., 25, but in A. D., 42, Claudius annexed it to the Roman Empire. In 429 it was overrun by the Vandals. So much for the names of these two Leviathans of the deep.

At Lisbon on Saturday last as King Carlos, Queen Amelia and their two sons were returning in an opened carriage from Villa Vicoga, where they had been sojourning, they were fired upon by a band of men, who had selected a most advantageous spot for the commission of the crime, being concealed from the eyes of the police until the carriage had wheeled into the Praco De Commercio, a large square. At a muttered word from the leader, the silent band of murderers threw back their cloaks, raised their carbines, and fired again and again at the carriage. Almost at the first volley the King fell back on the seat dead; the Crown Prince Luiz Philippi was seen to half rise and then fall back. The Queen threw herself in front of him as if to shield him, and was unhurt. The King's second son, Prince Manuel, was wounded, but not fatally. The crowd fell back as the murderers fought their way through, but the police guard followed quickly, killed three of the regicides, and capturing three others, one of whom committed suicide after being placed in prison. A number of the assassins escaped. The double murder has created profound sympathy throughout the world, and among others, King Edward and Queen Alexandra sent telegrams of condolence. The young Prince Manuel, who was only slightly wounded, has been proclaimed King. The statement was made at the Portuguese legation at Vienna that the assassins were anarchists and not subjects of the Portuguese monarch.
