The Awful Crime

That Martin Thorn Is Said to Have Confessed.

Horrible Scenes in New York's Murder Mystery Disclosed.

How Guldensuppe, the Victim, Was Shot and Dismembered — Mrs. Nack Was the Decoy—Both Indicted for Trial.

New York, July 8.—The harbor police began the work of dredging for the missing head of Guldensuppe at 8 o'clock this morning. It is thought that the ferry was used, and that the bundles containing the victim's remains were thrown off as the boat was entering the slip. If the work here is not successful the whole river will be dragged as far as Thirty-fourth street and across in the vicinity of the navy yard.

Acting Inspector O'Brien has the confession alleged to have been made by Martin Thorn, admitting that he had murdered Guldensuppe, and giving all the details of the crime.

The confession, which presumably was made to John Adolph, the barber who betrayed Thorn, gives the full history of the crime.

THE CONFESSION.

According to this document, the murder was committed in the house at Woodside, which had been rented by Mrs. Nack. A week ago last Saturday, according to the confession, Thorn went to the Woodside house, and hid in a closet on the upper floor. In his pocket he had a loaded revolver, and beside him was a two-pound package of plaster of paris. Then he waited for the arrival of Mrs. Nack and Guldensuppe. He took off his shoes so that no accidental noise could spoil his carefully laid plan.

It was between 10 and 11 o'clock in the morning when Mrs. Nack and her unsuspecting victim, Guldensuppe, drove up in the surrey which has been mentioned in the previous stories of the mystery. Thorn heard Mrs. Nack ask Guldensuppe a few questions about the house, and heard Guldensuppe's answer.

Then Mrs. Nack said: "Well, don't wait for me. Go through the house and see how you like it."

"Oh, I'll just stay here until you come back," Guldensuppe replied; but Mrs. Nack was anxious not to see the actual transaction of the tragedy she had planned.

"No, don't wait," she urged; "go and see the rooms upstairs. I think you'll find them."

Thorn, concealed behind the door of the closet, heard Guldensuppe's steps on the stairs as he complied with the woman's request.

Carelessly Guldensuppe opened door after door until he came to the closet where Thorn stood. As the door opened Thorn shot Guldensuppe right in the head. He died almost instantly.

Then Thorn took hold of the body by the shoulders, dragged it downstairs, and shoved it into the bath-tub. Then he went to the ground floor, where Mrs. Nack was waiting.

"It's done," said Thorn.

"I know," said Mrs. Nack. "I heard."

"Now go back to the city," Thorn said to Mrs. Nack, "and come back here at exactly five o'clock. Everything will be ready."

All this conversation and much more is embodied in this alleged confession. Mrs. Nack obeyed Thorn's injunction, and the murderer returned to the bath-tub. He cut off the head with a razor and saw. Then he packed the head closely with plaster of paris until it looked like a block of white stone. Then he took off the legs and after that the lower part of the trunk. He wrapped it up in the cheese cloth, then in the oil cloth, tied the bundles neatly, lit a pipe, and sat looking at his handiwork. He sat there until Mrs. Nack returned in the surrey. Carrying the bundles with him they both took the ferry boat, across to New York.

On the way they threw the bundles into the river. How one portion of the body was found in the woods is not explained in the confession.

An examination has been made of the bath tub of the house at Woodside, and in a trap underneath the tub about a pound of plaster of paris has been discovered. This find is regarded as strengthening the circumstantial details of the alleged confession.

THE PRISONER'S DEMEANOR.

Martin Thorn still maintains a serene self-composure, but a breakdown is expected momentarily, although he still protests his innocence.

This morning, when he was brought before the chief of detectives, he told of his movements with Mrs. Nack. He admitted all the details that have been related except those dealing with the fatal day when Guldensuppe met his horrible death in the house in Woodside.

HIS ADMISSIONS.

Thorn admitted hiring the one-horse surrey for Mrs. Nack and having driven her to Woodside in it. He admitted sending a messenger to Buck's saloon to tell Mrs. Nack that a lady wished to see her on the corner. He told of sending the two boys to Mrs. Nack's house for a valise on the day prior to Mrs. Nack's arrest. And he told of all his movements after Friday. Here he stopped—not a word about Friday. When questioned closely regarding his movements on that day, he refused absolutely to say a word. Gartha's statement telling in detail the awful tale of the murder as related by Thorn to his friend was read to the accused man last night, and when asked what he had to say, he replied: "Nothing."

THORN AND MRS. NACK INDICTED FOR MURDER.

New York, July 8.—Martin Thorn and Mrs. Nack have been indicted by the grand jury for murder in the first degree.

NEW CANADIAN COLONY.

LIFE SAVED.—Mr. James Bryson Cameron writes: "I was confined to my bed with inflammation of the lungs, and was given up by physicians. A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, stating that his wife had used it for a throat trouble with the best results. Acting on this advice, I procured the medicine, and less than half a bottle cured me; I certainly believed it saved my life. It was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as I was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me any good."

Greco-Turkish Affairs

Appear to Be Re-entering a Most Interesting Stage.

The Sultan Convinced That Turkey Is Safe From Coercion,

And Bound to Test the Alleged Concert of the Powers.

London, July 8.—Greco-Turkish affairs appear to be re-entering an interesting stage. Yesterday the porte dispatched a circular to its representatives abroad containing a skillful defense of the Turkish case, and declining to consider any frontier line in Thessaly north of the River Peneios, which it regards as the natural boundary. It appears that the sultan has convinced himself that the powers will not resort to coercion, and has decided to test the alleged concert of Europe to the utmost. On Monday he summoned a council of ministers for an extraordinary sitting of the ycosh, with the result that after a heated discussion a report was decided upon in favor of resuming hostilities if peace should not be concluded within a week. The minister of war sent telegrams to Edhem Pasha announcing the decision. This accords with all the news received for the last ten days.

The Turks are rapidly strengthening their positions in Thessaly, massing troops at Dhomoko, fortifying Velestina, and in other ways entrenching themselves firmly. The Thessalian harvest has already been reaped by the Turkish soldiers, and large quantities of grain have been stored at Elassona.

According to a circumstantial report of a conversation between the sultan and an officer of his household, Abdul Hamed complained that the war had been forced upon him, and that when he was victorious, Europe refused him either territory or indemnity. Therefore he intended to resist to the utmost. He said: "We have nothing to fear. The six powers failed to coerce Vassos and his 2,000 adventurers. What can they do against 300,000 victorious troops in Roumelia? Supposing they wished to coerce me, who would undertake the task? I have information from all the capitals of Europe indicative of the indecision of the powers. Edhem was a fool not to have surrounded the Greek army and to have advanced to Athens; but he may be there yet. If no concessions are made within a few days I shall give the order to advance. We can dictate our own terms from the Acropolis. Everything is ready for immediate action."

According to this report the sultan discussed the possibility of Russia and Germany attempting coercion, and declared that he was entirely ready to meet them both.

The foregoing may be perhaps only a "bluff," and it is even alleged in some quarters, among others by the Italian admiral, Canevaro, at Crete, that peace is actually in view. But is is significant that Gen. Smolenski had a long conference with King George and M. Ralli at Athens today, and will start for Thermopylea tomorrow to assume the command of the first division.

The distress of Greece caused by the stagnation of trade and industry has become very serious. In Crete there are signs of continued unrest. The Mohammedans of Candia are preparing to attack the wealthy Christian town of Archanes.

A WARNING.

Vienna, July 8.—The semi-official Fremdenblatt today warns Turkey that the harmony of the powers is not impaired and that the policy of the Turkish government is doomed to failure if it counts upon a disagreement. The Fremdenblatt adds, "Russia and France, like the other powers, have agreed that the negotiations must be brought to a close, and the porte will become convinced that its attempts to deduce extreme consequences from the Turkish victories are vain, and must fall before the firm will of Europe."

Acciarito attempted to stab his majesty while on his way to the races, and after trial and conviction was sentenced on May 29 to imprisonment for life on the galleys.

STREET CAR WRECK.

Four Persons Fatally Hurt and 18 or 20 More Injured.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 1.—Four people were fatally injured and eighteen or twenty others were hurt in a street car wreck Tuesday night on the Forbes street line of the Consolidated Traction Company.

The wreck occurred on the Sohoe hill, at the time when the immense crowds which attended the fireworks display at Schenley Park were returning home. An Atwood street car had gone about halfway down the hill, when it jumped the track. Closely following it came an open summer car with a trailer, both packed with people. Before the second train could be stopped it crashed into the derailed car.

Hardly had the first collision happened before a third car, heavily laden, came down the hill at full speed, it was the second crash that did most of the damage.

The C. E. Hosts

Capture the City of San Francisco, Cal.

The Delegates Meet a Warm Welcome on Every Hand,

Purple and Gold the Dominant Colors —Eleven Simultaneous Meetings — Rev. Robt. Johnston, of This City, Among the Speakers.

San Francisco, July 8.—All day trains laden with Christian Endeavorers have been pouring into the city. The most noted arrival of the day was "Father" Clark, founder and president of the society. He was greeted with a genuine ovation.

There were eleven simultaneous meetings last night in this city and Oakland, constituting the first series of services connected with the convention. The subject of all the meetings was "The life filled with the spirit."

Rev. Robert Johnston, of London, Ont., spoke at one of the meetings in this city.

CAPTURED THE CITY.

A later dispatch says: It may be said now that the Christian Endeavor hosts have completed their conquest of this city. They have arrived in such numbers during the last 24 hours as to permeate every quarter of the city. Scores of white-capped guides make the delegates welcome and pilot them to the headquarters at the great pavilion, where every delegate is registered and directed to comfortable quarters in some part of the city. The scene at the pavilion resembles a national political convention, except that more women remain in evidence on this occasion than usually attend great gatherings.

WOMEN TWO TO ONE.

In fact, fully two-thirds of the delegates are of the gentler sex. All the streets in the business district of the city and in the neighborhood of the different headquarters are congested with the thousands of visitors. Every one seems to be on the move, as if the cooling breezes from the Pacific are most welcome after a journey through the burning alkali plains. Men and women alike are decked with ribbons of

PURPLE AND GOLD,

Endeavor colors, on which are words announcing their state and town. Streams of people poured into the pavilion throughout the night and this forenoon, and the young women engaged in the registration booths were kept busy. The total number of arrivals, including those of this forenoon, is about 16,000. The last of the big eastern delegations are expected to reach San Francisco some time tonight.

THE NEXT MEETING PLACE.

Michigan's delegation, nearly 500 strong, is preparing to do battle with Ohio for the honor of the convention of 1899, hoping to secure the prize for Detroit, with some prospects of success. The Michiganders are feared by the Ohioans as their most formidable rivals.

The annual board of trustees' meeting will be held at the Palace Hotel Tuesday, July 16. This meeting will be important, as it is to decide where the convention of 1899 is to be held. With every mail comes a batch of greetings to the big convention. They come from England, India, France, Japan, Germany, and other lands.

Wm. Prodgers Fined $5 for Assaulting P. C. Black—Drunks Dealt With.

Several scorchers were before Magistrate Parke for breach of the bylaw. The statements of the policemen and the victims were vastly different, and it puzzled the magistrate not a little. Mr. McKillop gave it as his opinion that no complaint should be made against a person riding seven or eight miles per hour, as that was only a very ordinary speed. But he was opposed to scorching, and thought transgressors should be made examples of.

Allan Yeo, Geo. Hutchinson, John W. Smith, Geo. Harris, Ernest Moyle and George Walker were charged with breaking the law on June 30, but as everybody on that day was filled with enthusiasm over the jubilee celebration, the magistrate suspended judgment and warned the offenders.

William Prodgers was fined $5 or fifteen days for assaulting Constable Black. About 3:30 yesterday the constable arrested a man named Watson, and Prodgers interfered. A scuffle ensued, and by some means Watson managed to slip out of his coat and escape. Constable Black brought Prodgers and Watson's coat to the police station. Prodgers' excuse was "whisky and bad company."

Joseph Phillips, a vag from Hamilton, claimed to be making for St. Thomas, where he had friends. He was allowed to go and look them up.

John Turner, with a face as red as a lobster, the result of a spree, was sent down for ten days in default of a $5 fine.

Eliza Young, of South London, was arrested at the request of Mary Day for vagrancy. The charge was withdrawn, and the girl was discharged.

Sally Tomkins, a young Indian girl from Munceytown, was arrested for vagrancy at 1:30 this morning. She was allowed to go.

GLEN OAK.

The Hot Weather Hard on Wheat but Good for Corn—New Way of Destroying Potato Bugs.

Glen Oak, July 6.—It is feared the present hot weather will have a bad effect on the wheat just now in filling, but it is just the making of the corn, which is growing fine.

A new way of destroying the potato pest in this sandy territory is to sweep them off on the hot sand in the heat of the day, say from 12 to 2 o'clock. In less than five minutes they kick their last.

The apple orchards were hurt by late frosts in May and June; also a blight came over some of the trees, which injured the fruit, making the quantity smal land the quality inferior.
