NO MORE BOTTLE TRADE IN ONTARIO HOTELS; HOURS FOR BARS TO BE SHORTENED

Toronto, April 12—The long expected amendments to the Ontario Liquor License Law were introduced in the legislature by the Hon. W. J. Hanna, provincial secretary, as follows:

The bottle trade to be eliminated from hotels.

Hours of sale to be shortened by prohibiting the opening of bars before 8 o'clock.

Shop license fees to be raised to the same level as tavern licenses.

Restrictions to prevent the storing of liquor in stables.

NO USE.

Did you ever hear the story of the pious man who was losing his hearing? For weeks he had prayed that the Lord would spare him from this affliction. But his hearing did not approve, so he decided to go to a doctor and see if he could see anything wrong about his ears. The doctor understood the trouble and used a small instrument for a few minutes, and the man recovered his hearing immediately, and the doctor told him there was no use expecting the Lord to clean his ears for him—He expected us to do some things for ourselves.

LARGE INFLUX OF SETTLERS TODAY FOR NEW BRUNSWICK

A party of about 200 settlers for New Brunswick arrived today on the steamer Empress of Britain. They were accompanied from England by A. Bowder, New Brunswick's immigration agent in London. James Gilchrist, superintendent of immigration in New Brunswick, and J. B. Daggett of the provincial department of agriculture, met the steamer at Halifax and accompanied the party to St. John to complete the arrangements for their disposal before reaching port.

The majority of the party will be located in Carleton, Sunbury, York Northumberland and Westmorland counties. They are a fine looking lot of people.

The Sicilian, which arrived yesterday brought another party of twenty-five for New Brunswick and a third party of 100 will come on the Lake Manitoba, which is due in about ten days.

A FLAG MATTER

Moncton, N. B., April 12—The Metapedia flag incident, which attracted attention last year has been revived by the report that the minister of militia had apologized to the United States for the action of the Moncton Field Battery, while returning from camp at Petewawa. Hon. Col. Sam Hughes, insisted, however, that no fault was intended by the Moncton men.

It is said in behalf of the Moncton Field Battery that the incident was grossly exaggerated, and that their action has been misrepresented. The incident occurred on the grounds of a salmon club near Campbellton, the club comprising a number of U. S. millionaires. It is said that the visitors had been placing the U. S. flag above the British. It is true that both flags have flown from poles of equal height, but the pole for the British flag is located in a hollow, while the U. S. flag has been placed upon high ground.

It is urged by friends of the Moncton boys that the Ottawa authorities should insist that the British flag be accorded the respect that is due.

SAYS BRITISH SHIPBUILDERS DO NOT WANT YEAR'S HOLIDAY

Glasgow, April 12—The Glasgow Herald contradicts the statement that a year's suspension of naval shipbuilding would be welcomed by the British Admiralty contractors, as giving them opportunity to complete existing orders. The "Herald" declares that by such a suspension naval shipbuilders would lose money. Laird's at Birkenhead, Palmer's at Jarrow, and Scott's at Greenock, have no armored ships on the stocks ,and before long there will be Dreadnought berths available at Beardmore's and Vicker's, and two dockyards, besides Fairfield's, at Glasgow, would be in a position to lay down battleships.

THE WIRELESS WORLD

The Wireless World should be a welcome addition to periodical literature, for it deals authoritatively and intimately with one of the most fascinating and far-reaching of modern inventions. With the magazine is incorporated the Marconigraph, a journal which had long since won its way into popular favor.

The first number of the magazine contains many articles of great interest. There is a fine description of the Aden-Berbera wireless stations, entitled "The Gateway of the East," "Signalling throughout the Ages," a review of the means employed in communication from the earliest times to the present day; a brilliant take entitled "The Pleasure Pilgrims," and an appreciation of Mr. Marconi, who celebrates his birthday on the 25th of this month. Besides this The Wireless World contains a section devoted to amateur wireless work. One of the articles in this section is entitled "Wireless Telegraphy in the Field" and contains an important announcement of a scheme for free instruction to members of the Territorial Forces, the Boy Scouts Association, the Church Lads' Brigade and kindred organizations, with a view of enabling them to take part in the maintenance of communications in times of national emergency. The scheme has been submitted to the organizations mentioned and has brought several letters of approval, including the following letters from Lieutenant-General Sir Robert S. S. Baden-Powell, K.C.B., K.C.V.O., and Major-General Edward C. Bethune, C.V.O., C.B., Director General, Territorial Forces.

Sir Robert Baden-Powell writes:

"Wireless has become a favorite hobby with boys of the right sort, and it is a valuable hobby to them, because it has a big future before it.

"The Marconi Company have seen their opportunity, and have come forward with characteristic energy to help and encourage the boys in taking it up.

"I hope that the Boy Scouts, at any rate, will make full use of the opportunity thus given them, and will by their good work and progress in efficiency repay such kindly interest.

(Signed)
"ROBERT BADEN-POWELL,
"Chief Scout."

Major-General Bethune, writing to Captain H. Riall Sankey, a director of the Marconi Company, states in the course of his letter:

"I have considered the scheme of instruction proposed by Marconi's Wireless Telegraph Company, Limited, and, as far as the tuition of lads and Territorials is concerned, it meets with my approval.

(Signed)
"EDWARD C. BETHUNE,
Major-General,
"Director-General, Territorial Forces."

ACCIDENT.

William O'Neill, longshoreman of Duke street, west side, fell into the hold of the C. P. R. steamer Ruthenian this afternoon. His back was injured, but not seriously.

The king has aproved the appointment of Mr. Justice Parker to be a lord of appeal-in-ordinary in succession to the late Lord Macnaughten.

The Best Quality at a Reasonable Price

Howard Watches.

Are you wearing a watch that you value more for its associations than for the time it keeps? Isn't it time you bought yourself that "good watch" you've been promising yourself so long? The old watch won't improve it's time-keeping qualities you know, and the money spent in trying to make it keep time would be better invested in a new one.

Howard Watches have a reputation as fine time-keepers. They are known everywhere as watches of quality. The man who carries one knows that he has the correct time. The prices are from $40. to $150.

PAY ENGLISHMAN $10,000 A YEAR TO BEAUTIFY CALGARY

Million Asked as Initial Sum—Early Closing Movement Is Begun

Calgary, April 12—Approximately one million dollars will be requested by the city planning commission as the initial sum needed to make Calgary "The City Beautiful." T. H. Mawson, a noted English architect and planner, has been engaged at a salary of $10,000 to replan the city. Mr. Mawson is expected to arrive in Calgary in May.

The retail merchants are taking up the matter of early closing and an effort will be made to have a by-law passed compelling all stores except those in the refreshment and allied lines to close at a stated hour each evening. It was also decided to make an effort to get all stores to close on one afternoon each week.

WAITRESS NOW COUNTESS

Young French-Canadian Girl Who Worked in Hotel Dining-Room Married to Danish Count

Prince Albert, Sask., April 12—To rise from the rank of dining-room girl to that of countess at the court of one of the sovereigns of continental Europe is not an ordinary feat, but nevertheless has been accomplished by a young French-Canadian girl, Lena Roy, of this place, formerly of Pall River, Mass.

She was employed as a waitress at the Hotel William, in Fall River, and it was in the dining-room of this hotel that she first saw Hon. Hugo Von Hotstein Rathbon, eldest son and heir of Lord Frederick Emile Von Holstein Rathbon, one of the nobles of the court of Denmark.

The young man fell in love at first sight, and declared his love to the maiden of 17, who promptly rejected him. Soon after she came with her parents to Prince Albert.

He travelled back to Denmark, made known to his father the desire of his heart, and asked him to use his influence to have the young girl ennobled by a court decree, for he wished to marry her. The king issued the decree. The parents of the young man consented to the union, and Count Hugo came to Prince Albert, proposed, was accepted, and married by the Bishop of Prince Albert.

They left on a short honeymoon trip through the United States. They will call at Fall River, where the bride will visit her sister, and then they will sail for Copenhagen.

MUST GIVE UP THE MAN OR PROPERTY

Girl, Bound Under Father's Will, Takes Matter to Court

Dublin, April 12—The question of a girl's right to marry the man of her choice came before the Chancery Division here on an application by Miss Angela Kendrick, of Knockeely, Tullamary, for an order to prevent the executors of her father's will from selling cattle off the farm on which she lived.

By his will the father directed that his eldest daughter (the plaintiff), should have the farm and stock on it, "providing she settles down in life in accordance with the wishes of my executors. If she marries without their approval, they shall have power to turn her out and pay her $3,000 less the cost of any proceedings that might be taken to eject her." In such an event the farm was to go to the younger daughters, who are still minors.

Counsel for the executors said the young woman under the will took no interest in the farm until she elected whether she would marry or settle down on the farm. She was only twenty-four, and had another year to make up her mind.

Mr. Slattery, the plaintiffff's uncle, one of the executors, said Miss Kendrick wanted to marry a person that he and his co-executor did not approve of, who had nothing. He told her, said the witness, that she could take any one of five or six respectable people she herself selected, but that they could not consent to her marriage to this man. "She absolutely defied us," he added, "and said she would not."

His Lordship refused to stop the sale.

ORIGIN OF BLACK WATCH

In 1729 the government entertained the idea of making use of the Highlanders as a means of protecting the country which was then in an unsettled state, and to this end six companies were formed; three companies consisted of 100 men each, other three of seventy-five men each. The first three companies were commanded by Lord Lovat, Sir Duncan Campbell of Lochnell, and Colonel Grant of Ballendalloch, The three smaller companies by Colonel Alexander Campbell of Finab, John Campbell of Carrick, and George Munro of Culcairn, as captain lieutenants; to distinguish them from Royal troops they wore tartan of a dark color from which they devised the name of the "Black Watch."

The men were all of respectable families, many of them being sons of gentlemen. Their duties consisted in carrying out the Disarming Act and preventing depredation; for this purpose they were quartered in small detachments in various parts of the country, chiefly in the more troubled districts of the Highlands where the Jacobite Clans of Cameron, Stuart, MacDonald and Murray rendered their presence necessary to prevent a sudden rising. The various companies acted independently of each other. In 1739 the government determined to add to their number, which was raised to 1,000 men, who mustered for the first time near Taybridge, between Aberfeldy and Weem, Perthshire.

Up to this period each company was dressed in tartan selected by its commander, but as the companies were now to form one regiment it was necessary to have a uniform dress. The first colonel, Lord Crawford, being a Lowlander, and having no tartan of his own, a new tartan different from any other was manufactured for the whole regiment. This ultimately became the well known 42d or Black Watch; the tartan is composed of various shades of black, green and blue.

From the color of the uniform of the regular troops they were called red soldiers ("Saighdearan Dearg;") the Highlanders from their sombre dress the Black Watch ("Freicaidan Dubh.')—Celtic Monthly.
