THE School was founded in Ottawa in 1891, and in June, 1900, obtained incorporation from the Ontario Government under the title of The Ashbury College Company, Limited.

The School is situated in one of the healthiest and most picturesque suburbs of Ottawa, and possesses the advantages of country air as well as those attaching to city life.

The School building is a large and handsome edifice standing in its own grounds and receiving abundance of light and sunshine. The sanitary arrangements are of the best and most modern character, the class rooms are large, lofty and well ventilated, and are equipped with the most approved school furniture. In the Residence Department every effort has been made to provide a bright and comfortable Home for the boys. The bedrooms are large, airy and very comfortably furnished, and are in close proximity to the masters' rooms.

The Building is heated throughout by steam, lighted by electricity, and is provided with ample Fire Escape facilities.

A large playground attached to the School and a newly erected gymnasium afford excellent facilities for recreation.

The School is under the personal management of Mr. Geo. P. Woollcombe, assisted by an efficient staff of Resident and Visiting Masters.

The aim constantly in view in the teaching and general administration of the School, is the development in each pupil, not only of a high standard of scholarship, but also of an upright, manly and Christian character.
