THE COMING POULTRY CONVENTION

To Be Held in Toronto From Jan. 9 to Jan. 13—A Nice Write-Up of the City.

The American Fancier, a poultry journal published at Jobstown, N.Y., issued a special number on Dec. 7 in special honor of the approaching poultry convention and show to be held in this city from Jan. 9 to 13, under the joint auspices of the Ontario Poultry Association, the Toronto Poultry Association and the American Poultry Association. Not only does the paper contain many illustrations of scenes in this city and Province, but a marked feature is several pages of letter-press, interestingly written, by Mr. W. J. Watson of the Central Press. Not alone The Fancier, but also The Farm-Poultry, published at Boston, Mass., and The Ohio Poultry Journal of Dayton, O., prophesy that the gathering will be the largest and most important of poultry men ever held, either in America or out of it. The Poultry Journal predicts the show of the century. Besides turkeys, geese, ducks, poultry of all kinds, pheasants, pigeons, rabbits and pets, cage birds and eggs, a special exhibit of homer pigeons, will be held, for which several valuable prizes will be given. The premium lists have been issued, and can be had of Mr. Thomas A. Browne, the secretary, London, Ont., or of Dr. A. W. Bell, assistant manager Industrial Exhibition, Toronto. Entries, which must be sent to the secretary, close on Monday, Jan. 2, and birds must be in place at the Pavilion by Jan. 10. As previously stated, a Cat Show will also be held in connection with the poultry exhibition at the same time and place.

THIRTY THOUSAND NEW COMERS

Have Settled in Manitoba and the Territories This Year.

Montreal, Dec. 18.—(Special.)—Mr. G. H. Garden, C.E., who has been at work constructing the stonewall branch of the C.P.R., and the extension of the Souris branch, arrived here yesterday. He says the records show that 30,000 new-comers have settled down in Manitoba and the Territories during 1898, and that this is quite likely a conservative estimate.

Mr. Garden adds that the Souris line will likely be pushed ahead towards Regina, its objective point, next year.

ARE SORE ON GENERAL HUTTON

Because He Threw Down the Plan to Establish a Reserve for the Queen's Own.

An important meeting of the Q.O.R. Reserve was held at the Armouries on Saturday evening for the purpose of hearing the report of the Executive Committee who were appointed to interview the authorities and secure the necessary permission for the establishment of a reserve for the Queen's Own Rifles. After preliminary business had been transacted, Mr. R. E. Kingsford, a most active worker in the interest of the reserve, and who was one of the deputation who visited Ottawa and also interviewed Major-General Hutton during his visit in Toronto, read the report, which, from the association's point of view, was very unsatisfactory, as the commanding officer refused to recommend the adoption of the proposed reserve; but instead outlined a scheme of his own in which he proposes that a book shall be opened in the orderly room of the regiment, so that every man on leaving the regiment can enroll his name as being willing to be called upon in filling up the ranks of the battalion to war strength in case of emergency. The committee also impressed upon those present that they had not acted without proper authority. On the contrary, they received at first a great deal of encouragement from the authorities at Ottawa, and particularly from General Gascoigne, the late commanding officer, who expressed his concurrence with the plan proposed.

A discussion then followed as to the advisability of breaking up the organization altogether, or continue as heretofore, and agitate until they received recognition. Col. Dixon, the president, speaking in favor of continuing the organization, was of the opinion that General Hutton, had in some way become prejudiced against the scheme, but was sure that in time he would see the matter in another light.

Capt. Lloyd also spoke in the same strain, and thought that the General had not been in the country long enough to form an opinion of the present question. "Generals come and generals go, but the militia force goes on forever," was the speaker's closing remark.

Several other members spoke in favor of continuing on the present lines, and the question was then put to the meeting, with the result that it was decided unanimously to continue as before.

The officers for the ensuing year will be the same as last.
