ANOTHER BLAIR ORGAN.

What the Chatham World Thinks of the Proposed New Paper.

(Chatham World).

When Mr. Blair took charge of the St. John liberal party, he and his personal henchmen, the men who collect the spoils in the shape of fat fees as commissioners and get the rake-offs on contracts and supplies, decided that they must have a personal organ with no soul, no conscience, no principles and no sense of decency or consistency of its own. So they made an offer for the Telegraph. The owners of that paper declined to sell, and argued that they were good liberals and ought to be trusted to make the paper a good party organ. The reply was "Sell to us or we will start another paper," and it was soon announced that an option had been secured on a building and an agent was negotiating for a printing plant. The Telegraph owners, knowing well that the new paper would get the lion's share of the government pap, hastened to accept the offer of the boodle brigade. And thus the life of the Telegraph, as a newspaper, ended, and it was born again as the personal mouthpiece of a political boss. Thus ended the first chapter.

Then the boss decided that he must have an evening organ. The Globe continued to be an independent paper, discussing public matters without asking for instructions from the boss, and the Star was shining brightly every afternoon. * * * So it was decided that the gang must have the Gazette, and that poor Bowes must step down and out. Mr. Bowes strenuously objected to the latter part of the proposition. Again the minister's satellites threatened to start a new paper, but this time the threat didn't work. Mr. Bowes wouldn't step down and out. And now the new paper, the new personal organ of the spoils committee, is to be issued and to be called the Times. Nobody with liberal principles or political convictions is required as editor, as there will be no place on the paper for such things, but only a bright man who can give expression to the wishes of the boss in a lively way, and so Mr. Belding, of the Star, has been tempted by an increased salary to accept the post. He has not changed his opinions or experienced any change of heart whatever, and will not have any use for personal opinions in his new field. * * * And thus endeth the second chapter.

We are sorry for Brother Bowes. Having deserted from the tory ranks, and served the liberal bosses with the zeal of an apostate, he deserved better treatment at their hands. But perhaps an office may be provided for him.

Some uninformed persons have been sympathizing with the Globe and deprecating the starting of the new paper as a blow to that ancient and honorable journal. But their sympathy is wasted. The Globe will not be injured in the least by the new paper and isn't worrying about it. The people will continue to buy and read the Globe, and the business men will continue to make money as usual. The Globe has a position that no expenditure of money or brains can lift a political boss's organ to in a generation.

Chicago Colored People Hold an Exciting Meeting,

And Are Advised to Buy Guns With Which to Defend Themselves Against Mobs of White Men.

CHICAGO, June 24.—At a meeting of colored people held last night to protest against the lynching of the negro, David T. Whyatt at Bellville, Ills., recently, Rev. C. H. Thomas, one of the speakers, advised his hearers that they should, if the hanging and burning of colored men is not stopped by regular authorities, sell their coats and buy guns with which to defend themselves. Other speakers expressed similar sentiments, and before the meeting adjourned the negroes were worked up to a high pitch of excitement. Mrs. Ida Wells Barnett informed the men that they must organize to fight their own battles, saying that they never could expect the white men to fight for them until they had shown themselves capable of fighting for themselves.

ARRIVED IN BELGRADE.

King Peter is Given a Great Reception in Servia's Capital.

PARIS, June 23.—Although the French minister at Belgrade was not given specific orders to withdraw, the officials here say that the instructions sent him gave full liberty to adopt such a course if the majority of his diplomatic colleagues left the Servian capital.

BELGRADE, June 23.—King Peter's train passed through Innsbruck, Austria, this afternoon. The king was enthusiastically welcomed there by the Servian and Crotian students.

VIENNA, June 22.—Mme. Petrovich, Mlle. Wolka Lunievica and Mlle. Georgina Lunievica, sisters of Queen Draga, arrived at Vienna this evening, accompanied by Lieutenant George Petrovich.

They drove directly to the hotel Mesterbechsche Hof. Mme. Petrovich alone was clad in deep mourning. All three women bore traces of the terrible experiences they had passed through. Even in the hotel, where they accorded me a brief interview, their nervous gestures and air of suppressed excitement and the cowed, frightened expression of their dark eyes clearly showed they have not yet recovered from the shock of the eventful night.

Mme. Petrovich declared the report that Queen Draga had left millions is untrue. She likewise contradicts the assertion that she or her sisters were permitted to see the body of the murdered Queen or attend her funeral.

Referring to the night of the crime with reluctance, she stated that up till half-past eleven o'clock they had been in the Konak. They had then retired to rest in their house in the Dragagasse, where their brothers, Captain Nickoden Lunevich and Captain Nicholas Lunevich, likewise resided, without the slightest suspicion of anything wrong.

Some time after they were awakened by the noise of firing and the march of troops through the streets. Rushing to the windows they inquired of a passerby what had occurred.

He replied there was fighting, and the Queen's brothers hurried into their clothes, with the intention of proceeding to the Konak, with difficulty persuading Lieutenant Petrovich, who is recovering from a severe illness, from following them.

The brothers of the Queen never returned. It is to this circumstance that the four survivors owe their lives, for almost immediately after the brothers had left an officer with a company of soldiers arrived and demanded their surrender. The house was searched from top to bottom, the officers ultimately sparing the helpless women and bedridden invalid on finding the Queen's brothers were absent.

The fate of the brothers was known long ago to the public, but up to last night their deaths were not communicated to their sisters, who only ascertained what had been going on from overhearing the conversation of the soldiers by whom their house had been guarded since the night of the crime.

They were finally told they could leave the country unmolested and were escorted to the station, where they took the train for Vienna.

Asked as to their future plans, Mme. Petrovich replied that their movements were uncertain. Two thousand francs is all the money they possess. Their relatives have all been killed and they do not know where to turn first of all. Mme. Petrovich intends petitioning the Servian government for the restoration of at least some portion of the property left by their sister. Should that be unavailing and a lawyer be found to undertake the task a suit will be instituted against the state.

BELGRADE, June 24.—King Peter arrived here at ten o'clock this morning. He was received with great enthusiasm. The ministers, government officials, judges, municipal and military authorities and leading citizens were assembled on the platform of the railroad station, which was profusely decorated. The only foreign representatives who participated in the reception of the king were the Russian minister, M. Tcharcoff, and Austrian minister, Herr. Dumba, with the members of their respective legations. A guard of honor, with a band, saluted as King Peter descended from his car and greeted the cabinet ministers. The premier, M. Avaacumovics introduced M. Tcharcoff to the king and the Russian minister presented the Austrian minister. The Russian minister had no intercourse with the provisional government with which thus far he has had no relations.

A procession was then formed and the king proceeded to the cathedral. The streets were lined with troops and crowded with people, who had been pouring into Belgrade from the provinces during the last day or two.

After the celebration of a mass, which was attended by all the splendor of the eastern church, King Peter drove in state to the new palace.

MAY SEE SERVICE.

A Rumor That Part of the Russian Fleet is Held in Readiness.

LONDON, June 24.—It is believed that the fast cruiser section of the Russian fleet which is lying idle at Sebastapol and Odessa is being held in the Black Sea for military exigencies, says the Odessa correspondent of the Times. He adds that it is reported that an intimation was given June 20 to the commanders of these vessels that there is a possibility of their being requisitioned to fly the naval flag before the present year is out.

SPORTING NEWS.

JEFFRIES IN 10 ROUNDS.

James J. Corbett and Jeffries, who are to battle for the heavyweight championship of the world next August, have finally settled down to real hard work. Not willing to take any chances of over-training neither Corbett nor Jeffries has done any too much work, although both have been keeping at a steady stride so that they would be ready to jump into their regular schedule when the proper time arrived. As a result the champion and former champion are in pretty fair shape; and with six or seven weeks' time yet to put on the finishing touches there is no reason why the rival heavyweights should not enter the ring in perfect condition.

In the coming battle condition will play a very important part. In fact, it is a well-known fact that big men tire much more quickly in battle than the little men, and to be able to stand the gaft, as well as the excitement occasioned by such an important mill, the principals must be at their best.

The stories of Corbett's wonderful system of training have been circulated over the country, and those who at first were inclined to make light of his effort are satisfied that he is sincere and may give the champion a hard battle, if not the surprise of his life.

Corbett himself is confident of victory, and if he fails to carry off the championship it will not be his fault. No fighter ever trained more conscientiously for a contest than Corbett. For the last twelve months few days have passed on which he has not passed an hour or two in the gymnasium. Surely this work must have done the Californian considerable good, and his ability to keep the pace proves that his system is not such a wreck as many would believe.

Fitzsimmons has already summed up the battle and judging from what the Cornishman says it would appear that it was all over but the shouting. Fitzsimmons, who has fought both men in the ring, picks Jeffries to win inside of ten rounds.

"Corbett is a clever boxer," said Fitzsimmons, "but when it comes to fighting he is not in it. Jeffries will defeat him easily. That is the surest thing I know. Make no mistake about Jeffries' condition. He has been taking good care of himself ever since our battle in San Francisco, and his present training will fit him for a hard contest. How long do I think the bout will go? Well, I will give Corbett about ten rounds.

"Jeffries needs lots of gruelling work. Heavy indoor work is what will put him in shape for the contest. This will keep his weight down. Then he will quicken up his footwork. Jeffries has become much speedier than he was when he last appeared in the east. He is really quick on his feet, and, although Corbett may be fast, he will find Jeffries a much improved man over the one he met at Coney Island."

Although Fitzsimmons will do much to get Jeffries in shape for his bout, it is said that the Cornishman will have little to say regarding the champion's methods. Jeffries has his own ideas about training. It will be remembered that he and his manager, Delaney, had a falling out a couple of years ago over the same matter, and the champion finally carried his point by training himself.

WHAT KNOCKOUT BLOW DOES.

Inasmuch as all boxing contests which terminate speedily are, as a rule, ended by this character of coup de grace, the physiology of it is of great interest.

A man struck with any degree of force upon the mental area of the jaw, although he may be in perfect physical condition instantly collapses and falls to the ground.

The attitude assumed in recovery, which may be instantaneous or delayed some minutes is most characteristic. He squirms about, raises his head and rolls his eyes in an attempt to locate himself. He tries to get on his side and elbow. He endeavors to rise upon his hands and knees.

If he regains his feet he staggers like a drunken man, and should he proceed to re-open hostilites he is usually promptly "put out" by his adversary.

The blow is practically never fatal, the heart's action is never unduly abnormal, the pupils are normal, there is no headache, no sweats, no cold extremities, no pallor—none of the ordinary signs of shock or concussion.

James G. Duncanson (British Medical Journal, April, 1903) believes the condition to be due entirely to shaking up of the endolymph in the semi-circular canals. When the blow is administered there is a violent over-twisting of the head, which is held in its anteposterior position by muscles which, compared with those inflicting the blow, are small and puny.

The result is that the head flies around with a jerk and the fluid in the canal is subjected to a greater disturbance than by any other trauma. There is little reason to doubt that this is the interesting pathology of the well known but little understood coup de grace.—Medical News.

SUDDEN DEATH.

A Well Known Resident of Brussels Street,

Died Very Suddenly at His Home this Morning—Death Due to Rheumatism.

George W. Mabee, a well known resident of Brussels Street, died very suddenly this morning at his home. Mr. Mabee, who was a teamster by occupation, was in perfect health until a few minutes before his death. He was at work yesterday and got up this morning as usual, with the intention of going out. He lighted the fire in his kitchen, and was engaged in reading one of the morning papers when he felt a sudden, sharp pain in his left arm. He spoke of it to members of his family, and the usual remedies, liniment and rubbing, were resorted to. In a few minutes the pain crept along to his shoulder and breast and, as the remedies did not seem to have any effect, Dr. G. O. Baxter was hurriedly sent for. Rev. T. J. Deinstadt was also notified, but before either of these gentlemen could reach the house, Mr. Mabee had died. Coroner Berryman was notified and after a brief examination decided that no inquest was necessary, as Mr. Mabee had undoubtedly died of rheumatism of the heart. The deceased, although in his sixty-eighth year, was quite strong and vigorous and had never been subject to illness. He leaves, besides his wife, ten children, George W., living in Providence, R. I., Mrs. James Mattatall and eight others, unmarried, living at home, 207 Brussels Street. Mr. Mabee was an adherent of Exmouth Street Methodist church.

His funeral will be held at half-past ten o'clock on Friday.

LOSS OF CITY OF BOSTON RECALLED.

The Halifax Recorder yesterday published the following interesting communication:

To Editor Recorder:

Sir,—It is now many years since the good ship City of Boston steamed from the harbor of Halifax and disappeared from human sight forever, and the many passengers likewise; it was rumored that a life boat was found with City of Boston marked on it, anchored and bottom up, in fifty fathoms of water on the outer bank of Sable Island, and that was all that was ever known of the ill-fated ship. It has always been a mooted question with seafaring people whether she struck an iceberg and foundered, or whether she struck on the north-west bar of Sable Island, and is still intact. In answer to the first theory: at the season of her sailing, January, there were no icebergs, as it was too early for them, but Sable Island's treacherous bars were there as now. A few weeks since a Gloucester fishermen reported a sunken wreck on the N. W. bar of the Island, probably ten miles from the shore; they could touch the deck with their paddles, say about eight feet below the surface; they moored a dory at either end of the wreck and endeavored to get her length; but not being supplied with diving gear, or means of finding out any further about her, left for home, but reported the matter to the resident governor of the island, but he is in the same position as the Gloucestermen, he can merely row over the spot and report as they have reported. Would it not be a good idea, Mr. Editor, for the government to take the matter in hand and point out all that can be found out about this reported wreck; it seems almost impossible that she could be there all these years, intact, but it is the unexpected that happens very often, and it would be a good thing to have the matter investigated. G.

THAT THING!

The city had a very narrow escape from having a big action for damages on its hands on account of the piece of idiocy on Union and Brussels street. On Monday evening George A. Prince, agent for the Nordheimer Piano Company just missed going over the obstruction. He was unable to see it in the darkness and was warned just in time to pull his horse up. The horse was going at a trot and Mr. Prince firmly believes that had he not been warned in time he would have been seriously hurt.

Yesterday complain was made to Mayor White of the nuisance, Ald. McGoldrick was down and had a look at it, and there is some possibility of its being removed in the far future, when the street department awakens from its deep sleep.

A VALUABLE DISCOVERY.

Ruins of an Ancient City Have Been Discovered in Mexico.

CHICAGO, June 24.— A despatch to the Tribune from Mexico City, says: The recent discovery of an ancient city of pyramids in a dense forest in a remote part of the state of Pueblo, has been found to be of the greatest archaelogical importance. The federal government has commissioned the sub-director of the national museum, Senor F. Rodriguez to visit the ruins. Nicholas Leon, an archaelogist and ethnologist accompanied the sub-director to the ruins. Dr. Leon reports that the ruins are such as never before have been known to the world of science, and most primitive ever discovered in Mexico, in fact so ancient as to require a great deal of time and study to learn in what epoch they were built as well as by what people.

SEEKING QUIET VENGEANCE.

PEORIA, Ill., June 23.—Detective W. E. Murphy was killed by Billy McRae, a negro desperado, whom he was attempting to arrest tonight. Murphy, armed with a warrant for McRae, on the charge of burglary, approached the negro, who was standing on a street corner and informed him that he was under arrest. Without a moment's warning McRae shot the officer in the breast. He then attempted to make his escape but was caught by Detective Chadwick. Murphy was then taken to the hospital where he died within twenty minutes of the time he received the wound. McRae was hurried to the city jail and in less than an hour a mob, numbering at least one thousand men and boys, had assembled and made a demand on the chief of police for the prisoner. The chief refused to surrender him. With the hope of attracting the attention of the mob the fire department was called out and made a run past the jail. The ruse partially succeeded, many of the crowd following the department. In the meantime the chief had ordered all the electric lights in the city put out and in the darkness McRae was taken hurriedly to the county jail. In a short time the mob discovered that it had been deceived and formed in front of the county jail. The entire police force of the city was called out to guard the jail.

PREORIA, Ill., June 24.—Shortly before one o'clock this morning the mob surrounding the county jail began to disperse, awed by the determined attitude of Sheriff Potter, who stationed a dozen deputies and police in front of the jail armed with revolvers and Winchester rifles. They were instructed to fire on the mob if any attempt to enter the jail was made. Inside the jail twenty police were stationed. It is evident that mob lacks a leader and the authorities are confident that they will be able to cope with the situation.

MULLAH'S CAPTIVES TORTURED.

Wounded British Officers Murdered, Their Heads Cut Off and Paraded on Poles.

LONDON, June 23.—With reference to the report that there are in the Mullah's camp some British officers, survivors of the disaster to Colonel Plunkett's column, the Daily Mail's Aden correspondent telegraphed that a Somali who had been with the Mullah's force affirmed that two Europeans and ten Yaos were captives with the Mullah, and that, according to the Somali's information, the two former were probably volunteers from the Boer contingent.

A later telegram from our correspondent says that the members of the balloon section, which has just returned to Aden, state that spies brought them the information that among the Mullah's captives was one Boer, who was being fearfully tortured. They had received the information that many officers who were with Colonel Plunkett's force when it met with disaster were only wounded, and that when they fell into the hands of the Mullah's men their heads were cut off and paraded through the principal villages, being finally placed round the Mullah's zareba.

A strong feeling is current in Aden that had a force been sent to the relief of Colonel Plunkett many of the wounded officers and men would have been saved.

MAY STAY FOR A WHILE.

LONDON, June 24.—The Times' correspondent at Shanghai telegraphs that Wu Ting Fang, the former Chinese minister at Washington, who was recently ordered to proceed to Pekin in connection with the negotiations concerning the revision of treaties and the indemnity, has been permitted to remain in Shanghai until the American treaty is completed.

BURIED TODAY.

SIR TOM COMING.

NEW YORK, June 24.—The White Star liner Oceanic from Liverpool was reported off Nantucket early today. Aboard the ship are Sir Thomas Lipton and J. Pierpont Morgan. The vessel is expected at her pier this afternoon.

R. W. W. Frink, who has been confined to his home through illness during the past few weeks drove down town this morning and was heartily welcomed by his numerous friends.

The Hotel Savoy in New York plumes itself upon the possession of the largest mirror in the world. Only two steamships of the ocean—one of them the Friesland, in which it came—have room in their holds to stow away such a large package. It is a little more than 13 feet square and is nearly half an inch thick. To get this perfect plate five different glasses had to be cast. It was made at the St. Gabian glass works in Paris.
