ALEXANDER HOWES.

With most persons there is an epoch in life when the Eyes become slightly flattened. The consequence is that the globe is not quite so completely distended with fluids, there is thus an elongated axis of vision, a book is held further off to be read. This deficiency can be temporary, when it is not caused by the waning vision of age. Hence when this imperfection is first realized and the individual obtains proper aid to the sight, the result in the one case will be restitution of original focal power, and in the latter case, preservation of the existing focal strength. It is therefore important that the purest Lenses, the very acme of transparency and accuracy of focus should be employed to meet the requirements. The CELEBRATED PERFECTED SPECTACLES AND EYE GLASSES manufactured by LAZARUS, MORRIS, & CO., and their copyrighted system of fitting them is claimed to meet the requirements of each particular case.
