Easy to Make This Pine Cough Remedy

Thousands of families swear by its prompt results. Inexpensive, and saves about $2.

You know that pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several peculiar elements that have a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest.

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) in a 16-oz. bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you make 16 ounces—more than you can buy ready-made for $2.50. It is pure, good, and very pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs.

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

UNIONIST MEMBER CRITICIZES GOVT. BECAUSE OF FAILURE TO PROVIDE INCREASED PENSIONS

Capt. Manion of Fort William Says People of Country Will Not Be Behind Administration Until Men Who Served At Front Get Living Wage and Dependents of Those Killed Are Adequately Cared For.

OTTAWA, March 12.—Before orders of the day were called Hon. Mackenzie King asked Sir George Foster if he would produce the correspondence in regard to the resignations of cabinet ministers since the last session. The acting prime minister replied that he would bring the matter up again Monday.

Dr. Beland (Beauce) read from a newspaper cable dispatch with reference to the case of a British soldier and sailor who had come to British Columbia and then after three days went to the United States because British Columbia was full of unemployed Canadian soldiers. The matter had been introduced in the British House of Commons by an important member. Dr. Beland asked if conditions were as described and what steps the Government were taking.

Hon. J. A. Calder replied that he had no information on the case in point. Assisted passage of former naval or military men must be approved by Canadian officials in London. The Canadian immigration authorities were in close co-operation with Britain, and he thought the situation was well under control.

Correcting Error.

Hon. Newton Wesley Rowell introduced a resolution which he explained was for the purpose of correcting a clerical error in the Royal Canadian Mounted Police bill now before the House.

Mr. H. H. Stevens (Vancouver) made a plea for increased pensions for veterans of the mounted police, drawing attention to the fact that these pensions were based upon the salaries paid to the pensioners when on the active list. In the case of a number of pensioners their salaries in pre-war days were not large, and the increase in the cost of living since the war had made the pensions based on these salaries absolutely inadequate.

Hon. N. W. Rowell replied that pensioners in all branches of the service could make the same complaint. In fact, complaints had been received by the Government, but the Government had not seen its way to grant increased pensions generally throughout the service.

"I don't want to embarrass the Government," said Mr. Stevens, "but I want to urge that the miserable and grossly inadequate pensions be brought up to a minimum to provide a decent living."

Mr. Burnham (Peterboro) said he had no such hesitation. "Until we understand that the basis of justice lies in a fair day's pay for a fair day's work there will be no rest in this country," he said.

Last Year Nothing Done.

Capt. Manion (Fort William) said the sooner the Government realized that the man who have given the best part of his life to his country's service was entitled to a living wage, the sooner it would get the people of the country solidly behind it. Last year there was nothing done after the committee on soldiers' re-establishment met. "Those helpless people left by the men killed at the front, or by men in some other branch of the country's service should be adequately looked after, and given a good living wage."

Dr. Cowan (Regina) and Col. Peck, V.C. (Skeena) supported Mr. Stevens and Mr. Manion.

Hon. T. W. Crothers said that the men of the mounted police had never been adequately paid. But, speaking generally, men employed in the civil service were paid higher than men employed in other lines elsewhere. As soon as there was a vacancy in the civil service there was a scramble to fill it. Why? Because more would be better paid than in any service in the world. No doubt some members of the civil service were not sufficiently paid. But Mr. Crothers said he could not see why the men in private employment should be forced to contribute to the support of a man in the civil service.

Hon. W. S. Fielding said the question was not so much one of justice to the individual as of justice to the public service. One could not expect to get proper service unless adequate salaries were paid, and there were assurances of something being laid by for a rainy day. Mr. Fielding admitted that in his view the Liberal Government of 1890 had made a mistake in abolishing superannuation. If the present Government had any intention of introducing superannuations he would like to lend his support.

Willing to Recognize.

Mr. Crothers repeated that he was willing to recognize that some Government servants were underpaid, and these should get higher salaries, but if the Government insured its agents against old age, such servants should pay the premium during their active life.

Major Cowan wanted to know how a mounted policeman could be expected to save or pay insurance on a salary that ranged from 50 cents to $1 a day.

Hon. Mr. Crothers said he was willing to admit that mounted policemen were underpaid.

After Rev. F. B. Stacey (Westminster), W. A. Buchanan (Lethbridge), and J. A. Maharg (Maple Creek), had all urged a minimum pension for mounted policemen, the bill was given a second reading.

In committee on the mounted police bill, A. R. MacMaster brought up the matter of the visit of the mounted police to a certain library, from which they had removed books relating to Socialism. They had taken Plato's "Republic," and he was not sure but the New Testament was included. He also referred to the investigation of the "Daughters of Canada" by a functionary of the Dominion Police.

Had Gone to Library.

Mr. Rowell explained that members of the mounted police had gone to the library in Regina, interviewed the librarian and secured some books to send to the chief censor at Ottawa. This had been done because a Chicago firm was shipping into Canada books forbidden by the war-times censorship regulations, and some of these had reached the Regina library.

With regard to the Daughters of Canada, the visit in question had been made with the object of finding out their address, for postoffice purposes. He regretted if any inconvenience had been caused these ladies.

Referring to the previous discussion on pensions, Mr. Rowell promised to discuss this phase of the matter with his cabinet colleagues. He hoped, however, that the present bill would not be held up. Any action that the Government might take on pensions could be embodied in a new bill.

The bill was reported and will be read a third time later.

The House then went into committee on a resolution by Sir Henry Drayton to reduce the fineness of silver currency. At present the silver currency is on the basis of 925 parts out of 1,000 being pure silver. Owing to the increase in the price of silver, it is proposed to reduce the standard to 800 parts silver.

Coined at Loss.

In submitting the resolution, Sir Henry Drayton said that silver coinage was now being coined at a loss instead of at a profit, as was the case when silver was at the old price.

Mr. Fielding asked if any consideration had been given to the use of nickel, and Mr. McMaster questioned if any attempt had been made to establish a standard fineness among different countries for silver coinage.

Sir Henry replied that silver was merely token money. He therefore could not see any advantage in establishing a standard between countries. The government had under consideration the casting of nickel five-cent coins. There was some delay in obtaining the blanks, but these would be submitted to the House before the end of this session if possible.

The Hon. Dr Beland asked if anything had been done to cut down the size of the once-cent copper coins. Probably, the finance minister had little personal acquaintance with this humble coin, but it was wearing out some people's pockets. In reply, Sir Henry Drayton said that he thought his acquaintance with the one-cent coin was as intimate as Dr. Beland's. Anyone on a cabinet minister's salary has as much knowledge of that coin as anyone else. The one-cent coin blanks had not yet been received from England. When they did arrive it would take about 48 hours to get the new coinage under way.

Message From Senate.

The deputy speaker read a message from the Senate giving notice of the appointment of senators to a joint committee of the House and Senate, which would consider uniting various branches of these two bodies, which were performing similar work, such as the law branch and French translators.

Criticism of the Government's annuity scheme proposals was voiced by Hon. W. S. Fielding and Dr. Michael Clark. Sir Henry Drayton had stated that the proposal now was to so amend the scheme that it would be more popular, and so that the Government could make a little money out of it.

"If it is profitable for private companies to go into this sort of thing I think the Government should also see that it pays the country," he said.

Hon. Mr. Fielding contended that the idea in the minds of the originators of the scheme was not to make money for the country, but to help the annuitants. "It is simply proposed now," he said, "to put more money into the treasury."

He criticized the Government for dismissing, in 1911, the men who had been appointed to educate the people on the benefits of the scheme. If the finance minister would re-establish some of these agents or lecturers he would not have to tell the House the scheme was a failure. The scheme was never intended to compete with insurance agencies, as it was now proposed to do, he said.

Top-Heavy Bureaucracy.

Dr. Clark said this was another example of how careful a government should be about going into a business which was purely the field of private firms. He was surprised to hear that the Government was a proper sphere for insurance companies. "If we keep on, we shall end by building up a top-heavy bureaucracy," said Dr. Clark. An army of civil servants would probably be required to do the work in connection with the scheme.

Sir Henry Drayton remarked that there was no intention of having an army of employees. There was great need for production in the country, but there also was need for saving.

The resolution was carried, and a bill based on it was introduced and given first reading.

A resolution providing for amendments to the Canada shipping act was next introduced. It stated that it was expedient to repeal certain sections of the act, substituting other sections, which provide for the issuing of certificates as master or mate to every British subject who served for a year in either of these capacities on a seagoing or coast sailing vessel. The applicant must produce satisfactory evidence of his sobriety, experience, ability and general good conduct, and must also pass the sight test and the prescribed examination in signalling. The certificates qualified applicants for the position of master or mate in sailing vessels.

Mr. D. D. McKenzie strongly opposed the resolution. It was dangerous to put the lives of men in the hands of incompetent masters or mates. The British Board of Trade would not accept such certificates. He questioned whether insurance companies would insure cargoes on vessels handled by such men.

After Hon. Mr. Ballantyne had explained that the resolution applied only to sailing vessels and certain other features, the resolution carried.

The House adjourned at 6 o'clock until Monday afternoon, after seven private bills had been referred to committees.

LODGE, INSPIRED, HAS SUBSTITUTE; SENATE IN AIR

Massachusetts Senator Unearths New Reservation For His Old One.

IS IT WEAKER CLAUSE?

Republican Die-Hards Say the New Amendment Is Not Strong As Before.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—A substitute for the Lodge reservation to article 10, which has stod unaltered for many weeks as the storm centre of the peace treaty controversy, was proposed in the Senate today by its author, Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, the Republican leader.

The movement at first started a discussion as to whether the new draft was weaker in its terms than the old one. The mild reservationists, backed by most of the Republican membership, said it was not. The Republican irreconcilables said it was, and served notice that they would not help adopt it as they did the original. The Democrats, keeping silent, studied the proposal with apparent suspicion, and withheld any decision as to what they would do.

As a result, the possibilities of a final agreement remained as beclouded as ever, and party leaders revised their predictions of an early vote on article 10. It had been hoped to reach a roll-call today, but tonight no one was predicting action before Monday or Tuesday.

ENTENTE MISSION TREATED ROUGHLY

PARIS, March 12.—The Entente Military Mission which went recently to Bremen on official business and was attacked by a crowd when leaving the barracks after preliminary negotiations with the German officers there, was ultimately obliged to leave the city without having accomplished the purposes of its visit, according to advices from Berlin. The Entente officers were the object of a fresh demonstration upon their departure, the reports state, a crowd gathering before their hotel, breaking the glass in the windows of the automobiles conveying the party, and displaying so much hostility that the German authorities were compelled to send a strong escort to accompany the mission to the railway station.

WASHINGTON HEARS BRITISH OPPOSED TO LENROOT CLAUSES

NEW YORK, March 12. — A special dispatch to the Times from Washington today says:

"It is not believed here that the British Government will assent to the Lenroot reservation as adopted, in the face of protests from Canada and other British dominions against being deprived of their votes in the League of Nations. Canada is understood to be counting upon the British Government to refuse to accept the Senate changes in the league covenant and upon British influence to line up the principal powers against acceptance."

"Pray convey to caucus my grateful thanks for their very kind message, which I most deeply appreciate. I am making steady and encouraging progress, and hope to rejoin them at the date already indicated."

DOCTORS STAND AMAZED AT POWER OF BON-OPTO TO MAKE WEAK EYES STRONG—ACCORDING TO DR. LEWIS

Guaranteed to Strengthen Eyesight 50 Per Cent In One Week's Time in Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home.

Philadelphia, Pa. — Victims of eye strain and other eye weaknesses, and those who wear glasses, will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope and help for them. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored by this remarkable prescription, and many who once wore glasses say they have thrown them away. One man says, after using it: "I was almost blind. Could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without my glasses and my eyes do not hurt any more. At night they would pain dreadfully. Now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can read even fine print without glasses." Another who used it says: "I was bothered with eye strain caused by overwork, tired eyes which induced fierce headaches. I have worn glasses for several years both for distance and work, and without them I could not read my own name on an envelope or the typewriting on the machine before me. I can do both now and have discarded my long distance glasses altogether. I can count the fluttering leaves on the trees across the street now, which for several years have looked like a dim green blur to me. I cannot express my joy at what it has done for me."

It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by the use of this prescription. Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and let it dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation and redness will quickly disappear. If your eyes bother you even a little it is your duty to take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have saved their sight if they had cared for their eyes in time.

Note—Another prominent physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "Yes, the Bon-Opto prescription is truly a wonderful eye remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them. I have used it very successfully in my own practice on patients whose eyes were strained through overwork or misfit glasses. I can highly recommend it in case of weak, watery, aching, smarting, itching, burning eyes, red lids, blurred vision or for eyes inflamed from exposure to smoke, sun, dust or wind. It is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family." Bon-Opto, referred to above, is not a patent medicine or a secret remedy. It is an ethical preparation, the formula being printed on the package. The manufacturers guarantee it to strengthen eyesight 50 per cent in one week's time in many instances or refund the money. It can be obtained from any good druggist and is sold in this city by the Standard Drug Company, Strong's Drug Store, and others.
