Flower Service.

The Grosvenor Street Baptist Church and Sunday school held their annual flower and thanksgiving services on Sunday last. The church had been tastefully decorated by the ladies with a choice collection of plants and flowers; the platform was quite a bower of floral beauty. The morning service was wholly in the hands of the Sunday school. The superintendent, Mr. W. G. Rickert, presided and addresses were given by Mr. Robertson, superintendent of the Talbot street school, and Mr. Procter. Mr. R. W. Sharpe and the pastor, Rev. T. W. Charlesworth, also took part in the service. The scholars sang a number of special hymns appropriate to the occasion, including one by the infant class. An attractive part of the programme was a Scripture exercise, in which the superintendent asked a number of questions, each of which was answered by a passage of Scripture read by one of the teachers and a verse of a hymn sung by the congregation. The exercises throughout were very hearty and much enjoyed by all. At the evening service the pastor preached an appropriate sermon from Jeremiah, viii., 20, taking for his leading thoughts "Harvest, summer and salvation." A duet, "When the Harvest Is Past," was effectively rendered by Misses Russell and Evans at the close of the sermon. The church was crowded at both services and a very liberal collection was taken.

After the Holiday.

There were many persons troubled with "that tired feeling" and swelled heads in the Police Court today. They had started out to celebrate Labor Day, but got into the wrong places, and before being gathered in by the police were ready for fight. Frank Cavhill was one of the number. He came in contact with P. C. Woolway at the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets. Cavhill is a big fellow, and when the policeman wanted to escort him to the cells he objected. A row ensued, and Cavhill became so unruly that the services of an additional officer was required. His fun cost him $3. Phillipo Russo put in his fourth appearance before the magistrate. He wasn't drunk, though. Phillipo shoves a "bannan" wagon and sells at "10 a doz." Somehow or other he gets his wagon on the sidewalk where the road is bad and generally runs amuck of an officer. Russo wouldn't tell the police magistrate whether he was on the walk, but denied having seen a bluecoat. It cost him $1. Salvatore Specuzza, another Italian, was summoned for a similar offense, and sent a substitute to appear for him. This would not do and Salvatore will be served again. George Lighthawk, a respectable looking young man, was accused by Herbert Stewart with the theft of a razor and revolver from a hotel near Brantford. Lighthawk denied having intended to steal the articles and said he had been on a protracted spree and was not responsible for his actions. Discharged. Wm. Coyne and Wm. Howard, two north enders, were assessed $2 for drunkenness and vagrancy. Martin Doxtater, an Indian medicine man, indulged in too much firewater and got disorderly. He was allowed to go. Frank Hart and Daniel Cullen, two C. P. R. box car boarders, were given their liberty. Henry Haskins, a youth who was arrested in Queen's Park by Detective Nickie, was charged with being disorderly. His face was covered with blood, and his appearance gave evidence of a general pummeling. Two dollars or ten days. Peter Madden promised to sign the pledge for four years if he was allowed to go. He went.

Mr. Antliff is Manitoba representative for these wheels, and stated that the "Quadrant" machines placed by him this season in the west, had every one of them given the utmost satisfaction. There is a beautiful painting entitled "Christ Healing the Sick" by the artist (nom de plume) Francesco Campi, on exhibition at E. N. Hunt's art gallery, 190 Dundas street, city. Every lover of art will be sure to admire greatly this wonderful picture. This work of art is radiant with sunlight, and the numerous faces depicted in the eager and expectant multitude that have thronged about the Great Healer of the sick, are interesting indeed. Every face is a study. It takes considerable time to study the variety of nationalities represented in this multitude with their expression of doubt, belief, love and hatred, etc. Those who are unfortunate enough to miss seeing this lovely scriptural painting miss something worth seeing. b
