POLICE STATION IS LIKE SHOW ROOM

Detectives Arrest Three Men Charged With Being Concerned in Many Thefts.

Three men were arrested last night by Detectives Sullivan and Waterhouse, charged with theft of upwards of $3,000 worth of electrical goods from the Canadian General Electric Company, King and Simcoe streets. Robert Orpwood, Logan avenue, William Davies, 777 Manning avenue, and Robert James Taylor, 155 Beach avenue, are held in custody on charges of theft. In various houses thruout the city the detectives recovered stolen goods, and claim that they have still thousands of dollars' worth of goods to recover, the thefts having, according to the police, been going on for at least six months.

Davies was foreman of the shipping department of the Canadian General Electric. Orpwood was an office clerk and is alleged to have passed bogus shipping bills sent in by Davies for the stolen goods shipped out.

Taylor, it is alleged, was the outside man, and looked after the disposal of the articles. He was working in a store on St. Patrick street when arrested.

After the articles had been delivered to various houses in the city an advertisement was inserted in the papers and the goods sold at less than half their value. Court street station last night resembled a show room of an electric shop. Floor lamps, silver coffee percolators worth $300 each, electric vacuum cleaners, vibrators, electric sewing machine motors, and several of practically every electrical device on the market had been gathered in by Sullivan and Waterhouse.

AMALGAMATION OF VETERANS IS URGED

Mass Meeting in Trinity Park Favors Joining Under One Political Banner.

Between 600 and 1,000 returned men attended last night's mass meeting, held at Trinity Park, Queen street, under the auspices of Parkdale G.A. U.V. Comrades J. Harry Flynn, J. F. Marsh, J. J. Higgins and Mr. Herbert Capewell were the principal speakers. They all strongly advocated the amalgamation of returned veterans in Canada under one banner with the view to gigantic political affiliation against the forces alleged to be arrayed against the returned soldier in the Dominion. The collection from those present totaled $43.15.

"I have no hesitation in saying that 90 per cent. of the returned men and their dependents in this country favor amalgamation for political purposes," said Mr. Capewell, who quoted figures to the effect that 75 men in the Dominion controlled interests totaled easily $6,000,000,000.

"There are thousands of returned men in British Columbia without either employment or funds to carry them thru the winter," said Comrade Flynn. "What we ask is that returned men be given a chance to get back into the business or employment stride they held before they enlisted. In very many cases this is not being carried out. And everywhere we went out west and here, too, in the east we heard M.P.'s say that the returned soldier was not to be feared because politically he completely lacked organization. No matter how strong a vote he held the returned man was powerless because of lack of unity of purpose."

RABBI JACOBS DIES; HAD NOTED CAREER

Eighteen Years' Religious Work in Toronto—Activities Elsewhere.

Rabbi Solomon Jacobs, of the Holy Blossom Synagogue, Bond street, died at his residence, 75 Grenville street, at four o'clock yesterday afternoon, after a lengthy illness. He recently visited New York, where he consulted specialists but only obtained temporary relief.

Rabbi Jacobs, who was of the orthodox English Jew school, was a broadminded, cultured man with a magnetic personal charm, and was highly esteemed by a wide circle of friends, a large number of whom were outside his own religious faith. He was a well-known figure in Toronto, and for more than eighteen years took a leading part in Jewish work both of a religious and philanthropic character.

The late Rabbi came to Toronto from Kingston, Jamaica, where he ministered with conspicuous success from 1886 to 1900 in charge of the United Congregation of Israelites, being repeatedly re-elected by the synagogue. He was present at the opening of the Jamaican Exhibition in 1890 by the present King, who was then Prince George of Wales. When the Prince of Wales was in Toronto last summer Rabbi Jacobs presented an address to the Prince of Wales on behalf of the Jewish community here.

Public Work in Jamaica.

During his stay in Jamaica Rabbi Jacobs was not only zealous in the work connected with his synagogue but took an active part in various branches of public affairs. He was a member of the Cambridge local examination board, director of the Kingston city dispensary which afforded medical attention to the poorer classes of the community, and president of the Hebrew Benevolent Society. He was also on the advisory board which had the management of the Jewish almshouses. It was frequently the Rabbi's proud boast that his duties in the latter respect were light in view of the fact that the almshouses were so frequently untenanted, there being so few poor Jews in the city.

A correspondent writing in the Jewish Chronicle on the occasion of the Rabbi's departure from Jamaica, said: "I know of no minister that preceded Rabbi Jacobs here who has won so exalted a position as he has in the entire community. He is greatly respected by all the inhabitants, from the governor downwards."

On his departure from the island the elders of the congregation, in a communication to the Rabbi, expressed "their extreme regret at the severance of his connection with the congregation," and conveyed the assurance "that his departure from the island would be deeply felt by his very many friends of the Jewish community and the island generally."

Starts Early in Ministry.

Rabbi Jacobs was born in England in 1861, and was thus 59 years of age at the time of his death. He was educated for the Jewish ministry at Aria College, and had the distinction of being the first minister trained at that institution, which has since turned out so many other distinguished men now occupying high positions in the church. For a short time Rabbi Jacobs was a master in the Manchester Jews' School, and at an early age he was unanimously elected minister of the Newcastle-on-Tyne congregation, which he left in order to take up the more responsible position still in Jamaica.

Chaplain in Camps.

During the war Rabbi Jacobs acted as chaplain in various camps in and around Toronto, and his presence among the sick and wounded was always a source of comfort to them. He took an active part in the various patriotic campaigns, and particularly in connection with the efforts made for the war sufferers, altho he himself was at the time in a very poor state of health. He was a life member of Mount Sinai Lodge, No. 522, and a charter member of Palestine Lodge, A. F. & A. M., of Toronto. His favorite sermons were on the brotherhood of man, and his slogan, "Have we not one father and has not one God created us all?"

The late rabbi leaves a wife, Edith Cohen Jacobs, one son, Arthur, and two daughters, Ray and Lisa.

Owing to the alterations in the auditorium of the Bond Street Synagogue the funeral services will be held in the vestry rooms, on Monday next, at 2.30 p.m. Interment will take place at Pape avenue cemetery.

WILL TAKE PHOTOGRAPHS.

Among the many Canadians going to Europe for the Olympic games is a party consisting of P. J. Mulqueen, Edward Robertson and Frederick Lyonde, the well-known photographer. This party will visit England, France and Germany and will make a general tour of the war area. While there and at the games Mr. Lyonde will make a series of photographs for The Toronto Daily and Sunday World. Mr. Lyonde's eminence as an artist will ensure World readers many fine views from the interesting points at which the party will touch.

CHARGE PLATINUM THEFT.

Harold Kemp, 378 Rhodes avenue, was arrested last night by Detectives Thompson and Koster, charged with stealing $300 worth of platinum from A. C. Neate, 71 Lombard street. Kemp, an employe of the Consumers' Gas Company, was sent to repair some lights, and while in the darkness is alleged to have stolen the platinum.

Plays, Pictures and Music

"A Prince There Was."

When the curtain rises on "A Prince There Was" next Monday evening at the Royal Alexandra Theatre, Edward H. Robins will again introduce to the many patrons of the Robins Players the cleverest child actress in America, Lorna Volare, who when she was a guest artist with the company a few weeks ago in "Daddies" won the affections of all who had the pleasure of laughing at this comedy for the two weeks it was presented.

In "A Prince There Was" Lorna will be seen in the role of the "Fairy Godmother," who awakens in the breast of a disheartened man all the ambition that was his before his great loss overcome. "A Prince There Was" is George Cohan's stage adaption of that beautiful modern fairy tale, "Enchanted Hearts," and as usual in all Cohan plays, it is comedy, real comedy, written with the laughs not so much in the situations as in the lines that are given to the different characters, and there are many characters, some of them new to the stage, but none the less they are funny.

When "A Prince There Was" enjoyed its long run in New York at the Cohan Theatre, Lorna Volare appeared in the role she will be seen in next week. The regular members of the Robins Players will be cast as usual as near to type as it is possible, and the stage settings will be in the usual high standard of Robins excellence. The matinees will be Wednesday and Saturday.

"The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come."

One of the most artistic and delightful productions of the season is that which will be offered for the opening at the Grand on Monday next. "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," a dramatization by the able playwright, Sidney Toler, of John Fox Jr.'s novel of the same name tells a story of the mountaineers of Kentucky, before the civil war, at its beginning, and again at the conclusion of the fighting. However, war enters very slightly into the tale, which is atmospheric in its family feuds, its romance, its chivalry and its humor. An incident that is fraught with seriousness but that has its touch of humor, is the trial of the sheep dog, Jack, the faithful companion of Chad, who is the hero. The play is new this season and the production has already been enthusiastically received in Philadelphia and other cities of the east. Among the players are George Simpson, who is one of the most promising juveniles on the stage; Dorothy Dunn, remembered as Wendy for two years in the company of Maude Adams in "Peter Pan"; James Kennedy, and Joe Franklin. The dog Jack is played by himself.

"Keep Her Smiling."

That there will be no let-up to the high class of attractions offered by Edward H. Robins for the last week of his present season at the Royal Alexandra Theatre is evidenced from the fact that for the week commencing Monday evening, Aug. 16, he will offer for the first time by any resident company, Richard Walton Tully's latest, and certainly most successful, comedy, "Keep Her Smiling." This is the comedy last starred in by Sydney Drew. The matinees will be Wednesday and Saturday.

At Loew's Next Week.

"Sinners," featuring Alice Brady, at Loew's Yonge Street Theatre and Winter Garden next week, has just the right combination and proportion of laughter and tears; a story that thrills thru you and makes you feel that life is sweet—and home sweeter. Alice Brady does the best work of her career in interpreting the difficult role of Mary Horton, the little country moth, whose wings were all but singed in the city's flame. "Some Baby," a unique musical comedy playlet with a real plot, headlines the vaudeville, which also includes: Morgan & Grey, in "Every Day in the Year"; Mack & Maybelle, in "Fifty-Fifty"; Billy De Vere, monologist; Conroy & O'Donnell, "The Parcel Postmen," and Dolly & Calame, presenting dance specialties.

At the Regent Next Week.

A story that will surely appeal to everybody is "The Cheater," the feature production at the Regent Theatre next week. Charming May Allison is the star, and she is charming indeed. The story is a very human document. It exposes many things. Those who believe that all who advertise it can cure certain or imaginary ills will be highly interested in the methods adopted by this trio of operators who are seen in the picture. The cynics, of course, will applaud in glee, believing that their views have been sustained. But everyone will be surprised at the manner in which a cure is actually brought about. And while it cures in one sense, it cures also in another, but the mystery surrounding the entire procedure is mighty entertaining. Couple this picture with Famous Regent Orchestra music and that is all that could be asked for.

Good Strand Bill.

Wallace Reid and Bebe Daniels will be seen at the Strand next week in the Paramount-Artcraft production, "The Dancin' Fool," based on one of the most popular stories which ever appeared in The Saturday Evening Post. "The Dancin' Fool" has all the elements of a snappy picture—a supremely popular star and leading woman, fine pictorial treatment, and one of the cleverest magazine stories ever written. Henry Payson Dowst is the author and the tale concerns Sylvester Tibble, a young rube who goes to the big city to work for his uncle, maker of the Jones jugs. He meets Junie Budd, a cabaret dancer, and becomes a famous dancer himself. Also he pulls off a big success in jugs as well as in jazz. Cabaret life and business intrigue are mixed up entertainingly and handsome, popular Wallace Reid and fascinating Bebe Daniels are seen in novel, joyous roles.

Star Theatre Reopening.

For the sophisticated, the blase theatregoer who sees nothing new under the sun, a visit to the Star Theatre this afternoon, Saturday, Aug. 7, is advised. Barney Gerard's "Some Show," wih Thomas Snyder, formerly known as "The Piano-Mover," but now only as Bozo, the "Man Who Never Speaks," plays an engagement there, and from advance reports it is a new show along the original lines. "Some Show" is Barney Gerard's latest production, and one of his best. This is Snyder's second season as a star, his success here last season being well remembered. As Bozo, the auto-wrecker, Snyder is even funnier than as the piano mover. He is the only comedian on the stage today who goes thru an entire performance without speaking a word. The box office is now open, and patrons are advised to book.

"The Dumbells" Coming.

"The Dumbells" will begin their second season in Canada at the Grand Opera House on Monday evening, Aug. 16, when they will present their original overseas revue, "Biff, Bing, Bang." Captain Plunkett is preparing a new revue for "The Dumbells'" road tour, and it was planned to open it here Aug. 16, but the many requests for the original show intact have made him decide to present the original show for the opening to be followed by the new revue. Altho "The Dumbells" played here five weeks last fall, immediately on their return to Canada from France and England, there were many thousands of local theatregoers who were unable to secure tickets, as the house was sold out two weeks in advance for all performances.

Miss Mabel Garrison is singing this month, through His Master's Voice Records, that noble old hymn that practically everyone knows, entitled "Heaven is My Home." This is a record for all times and moods, but perhaps most of all in the home on Sunday evening. It can be had in the attractive Victrola Parlors of Ye Olde Firme Heintzman & Co., Limited, 193-197 Yonge street, Toronto, and the price is $1.25.

More Rooms for Girls

THE Housing Problem in Toronto to-day presses cruelly upon the young girls on small salaries who, without homes in the city, are obliged to earn their own living. Boarding-house life, even when suitable accommodation is procurable, is not like home life. The sheltering and refining influences which a young girl should have by right are too often by necessity sacrificed when circumstances break up her home or force her to leave her home folks and come to the city.

Will You Help Us?

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union have made a success of Willard Hall as a temporary residence for young business girls while they are getting a foothold in the city. It is well equipped, well managed and so well liked by the girls that it is filled to capacity, and applicants for rooms are turned away every day for lack of space. The W.C.T.U. own the property outright, clear of debt, thanks chiefly to their own enterprise and business management. They have bought the next lot on the west and hold clear title.

It is now planned to erect a residence building on this site in conjunction with Willard Hall to accommodate 200 more girls than the capacity of the present building allows. The cost of this extension will be $150,000. The task of raising this sum has been assumed by the members of Toronto District, and they now appeal to the public-spirited people to help in this much-needed work.
