WAITING CROWDS WELL REWARDED AT LOEW'S

Musical Comedy Makes Distinct Hit—Fine Film Features William Farnum.

The crowds that waited in long lines yesterday afternoon to get into Loew's Theatre and Winter Garden were well rewarded for their delay when they got in. "Officer Girls," a new musical comedy turn, made a distinct hit, and Charles McNaughton brought down the house. Another comedy that scored a distinct success was Fred C. Hogan and company, in "One Way to Lose Her." "Going to the Party," a singing and dancing act by Mlle. Tojett and Mr. Bennett, was distinctly good. Other appreciated numbers were from Armstrong and Ford, "The English Johnnie and the Cop"; and Lyria, singing; Hanlon, Dean and Hanlon, acrobats. The film feature was William Fox's "The End of the Trail," featuring William Farnum.

LOU TELLEGEN AND CHAPLIN AT MADISON

One of the most powerful dramas that have been shown at the Madison Theatre this season is "The Victory of Conscience," with Lou Tellegen and Cleo Ridgley. The story is laid in France during the early days of the war, and shows the struggle of a young man, madly in love, who sacrifices all and dons the priestly robes in order that he may save the girl he loves from a life of shame. He is derided and spurned, and failure seems to be his lot. After a mighty struggle, however, he wins his lover to righteousness. He doffs his robes and joins the army, and those that had scorned him follow him into battle, where he shows his manly courage "for God—and France." Charlie Chaplin in "The Pawnbroker" is seen at his best and introduces many novel stunts.

THE REGENT THEATRE.

The largest crowds that have yet attended the Regent Theatre were present yesterday. The house was taxed to capacity all day. This speaks volumes for the way the Regent has taken hold and is a tribute to the theatre itself, as nowhere else can one view a picture under quite the same conditions as in this palatial moving picture theatre. Anyone who has not yet visited the Regent should do so and see the best of moving pictures in an ideal environment.

The combination of great talent and worthy object attracted a more than capacity audience last night, which promises well for the remainder of the week. PLAYS, PICTURES AND MUSIC

CYRIL MAUDE'S NEW PLAY DELIGHTFUL

"Jeff," at Grand, Has Strange Mixture of Laughter and Pathos.

PROMISING COMEDY

Possesses Human Touch That Wins Sympathy of Audience.

"Jeff," the attraction at the Grand Opera House this week, is a most delightful and unusual play that moves along, light and airy, with a quaint mixture of laughter and pathos, like life itself. From Stephen Leacock's "Sunshine Sketches," the well-known stories of life in a little town, Michael Morton has written a splendid vehicle for Cyril Maude.

Jeff Thorpe is the central figure around which the play has been written with the assistance of the other characters from the book. Jeff, as the town barber, is a lovable mixture of Cockney and small-town American, who is endeavoring to make a fortune for his motherless daughter. Realizing the impossibility of obtaining a fortune from his tonsorial business, which accumulates book accounts rather than cash, Jeff embarks on a career of wild speculation in mining stocks.

A stock which he accepts for a debt, and which he cannot even lose, makes him rich. He becomes a figure of importance, and his advice is sought by the town, which goes speculation mad. A land swindler takes all the loose cash in a southern plantation scheme, and Jeff, who has bought heavily, feels keenly for his friends, and saves his daughter's fiance from being a thief, to his being announced as a hero.

Cyril Maude, as Jeff, has a role that exactly fits his personality. He makes for Jeff a very large place in the hearts of the audience, and he is followed thru the play with the greatest sympathy and pleasure. His auditors enter into the humor and pathos of the situations to the fullest degree, on account of his splendid portrayal.

Eugene O'Rourke, as the village hotelkeeper, gives to his part a large-hearted, human touch that won the applause of the audience. He is forceful and finished in his acting. Jonh Junior is pleasing in the part of Peter, the young bank clerk, who is spurred on to attempt robbery by his fiancee's desire to make him ambitious and the inciting of a crook. Myra, Jeff's daughter, is well portrayed by Muriel Harvey, and Jennie Weatherby fills the part of the old maid housekeeper to perfection. The other roles are well chosen, and the strong cast is seen in a most pleasing play.

STANDING ROOM AT A PREMIUM AT THE STAR

Pat White and Gaiety Girls and Score Board Big Attractions.

Standing room was at a premium at both the matinee and evening performances of the Star Theatre yesterday. The Paragon score board showing in detail the battle royal between the Boston Red Sox and the Brooklyn Dodgers for the second tussle of the world series proved a great attraction at the matinee entertainment and owing to the length of the game it was well after 4.30 before the regular show commenced.

Pat White and his "Gaiety Girls" are a splendid aggregation of burlesque entertainers and their show "Casey at the Convention" is described as a whirlwind frolic in two scenes. Assisted by such well known funmakers as Anna Grant, Daisy Mayfair, Gene True, Walter Brown, Marty Pudig, George Elliott, Frank West and John McVey, the inimitable Irish comedian kept the audiences yesterday in roars of laughter in the role of Casey, the Irish senator.

EXCEPTIONAL PROGRAM AT REGENT THEATRE

Edna Goodrich Has Stellar Role in Unusual Play, "House of Lies."

Headed by a photoplay entitled "The House of Lies," in which Edna Goodrich has the stellar role, the program at the Regent Theatre for the first part of the week is an exceptionally interesting one. Large crowds were present yesterday and voiced hearty approval of the bill.

"The House of Lies" is an unusual play, based on a new theme, yet of direct interest, because the plot has been told often in books. It has a human interest element that holds the undivided atention of spectators.

Besides the feature film, there is the Regent Graphic, Florence Rose Fashions, and a film showing the Duke of Connaught, the Duchess and Princess Patricia, attending "The Fete of the Allies" in Ottawa.

The overture by the orchestra is "Crown of India," and the solo is rendered by Marguerite Lyons Moody, dramatic soprano. Both numbers won applause yesterday.

GREAT RECEPTION FOR THE FALL OF A NATION

Representing a sequel to "The Birth of a Nation," Thomas Dixon, its author, has produced another stirring picture in connection with the United States, entitled "The Fall of a Nation," which is being shown for the entire week at the Strand Theatre.

The initial presentation was made yesterday afternoon before large holiday crowds, which accorded the picture a hearty ovation. Its plot deals with a successful uprising and invasion of the eastern part of the U. S. by German troops. American troops, unprepared against the German system and efficiency, see the emperor appoint a governor-general with the rank of prince. Later Americans secretly drill in the far west, and with the aid of a woman's patriotic league, overthrow the kaiser's government and a republic is again established.

Besides "The Fall of a Nation," the Strand Topical Review and two reels of comedy pictures are shown.

ALL STAR REVUE HAS MANY FINE FEATURES

Presented Under Auspices of Secours National at Park Theatre.

Under the auspices of Secours National, the French Red Cross, the 1916 All-Star Revue opened an excellent program at the Park Theatre, Bloor street and Lansdowne avenue, yesterday.

Farnum Barton, with a capable cast of three, plays a remarkable lead in "Waterloo," a sketch in which, as a Waterloo veteran, he lives again in fancy the life of the soldier of 100 years ago.

By means of a lamp and reflector, some dark plates and a white screen, Lou Skuce, The Toronto World cartoonist, dashes off some rapid-fire war, patriotic, political and varied sketches. Mr. Skuce received a splendid ovation.

The dancing of the Kiralfy children was especially good, while there was a hint of mystery in the appearance of the masked singer, "Mamade Who?" Morris Manly, Canadian song writer, sang well patriotic selections of his own composition. Other turns worthy of mention were those of Capt. Larkling, Whitfield and Ashton, John Slater and Co., Maude Anderson and Master Calin.

A SUCCESSFUL CONCERT.

Many people were unable to gain admission to Jessie Alexander's initial recital in College Street Presbyterian Church last evening. Those fortunate enough to do so were regaled with a most unique and enjoyable program varying from the pathos of the convalescent home-sick Tommy to the rollicking humor of "Their Wedding Anniversary." Miss Alexander was ably assisted by Miss Pearl Brock, Miss Firenzes Gilray and Ruthven MacDonald, whose vocal and instrumental solos were enthusiastically received.

JAMES T. POWERS IN A RIOT OF FUN

His Portmanteau Leads Him Into Many Ludicrous Situations.

AT THE ALEXANDRA

Famous Comedian Has Excellent Support in "Somebody's Luggage."

Fast and furious rolled the fun at the Thanksgiving matinee performance at the Alexandra Theatre, when James T. Powers, the inimitable comedian, introduced the farce-comedy "Somebody's Luggage" to a crowded Toronto audience. From the moment he appeared on the stage until his final speech, in which he asks, "Is there such a thing as a kangaroo?" his audience followed him in a perpetual accompaniment of laughter.

The play opens in the cabin of a steamboat, in which Powers travels as Alfred Hopper. He has with him a portmanteau which has its counterpart in a valise belonging to another passenger, Henry Crawford, from Australia, going to England to claim an estate just left nim by an uncle. The similarity in traveling bags leads to a series of ludicrous and ridiculous situations, in the course of which Alfred Hopper is treated as one laboring under an hallucination, and is only saved from an operation to remove a bone from his head in order to bring him back to normal state by the appearance of Crawford, whose identity had been confused with his, and who he supposed had been drowned.

The glib tongue, comical turns of speech and facial expression of the principal helped the attractions of the play, and tho some of the situations are rather boisterous, there is never a dull moment.

Grace Hampton, as Caroline Parfitt, the fiancee of Hopper; Georgia Bryton, the sentimental housemaid; Lionel Belmore, butler to Mr. Fairfax; Frank Farrington, as the attorney; George Riddell, a physician; Pell Trenton, as Crawford; Evelyn Varden, his cousin, all helped materially to the success of the comedy and the support was good thruout.

DOROTHY GIST IN GRIPPING FILM AT THE HIPPODROME

Leading Attraction on Holiday Bill of Unusual Merit.

Holiday crowds featured the initial performance for the week at the Hippodrome yesterday. All afternoon there was a long line up for tickets, and as soon as a seat was vacated it was filled by a newcomer. The bill is a very attractive one this week. Dorothy Gish as Gretchen, in a gripping film drama, is the star attraction. The story concerns her arrival in America, her learning of American ways, and the mistake her father made in innocently becoming the tool of a gang of counterfeiters. The ending is a happy one, Gretchen weds the man she loves.

Tom Brown's minstrels are delightful. Their skit is harmonious and witty. Vocal and instrumental selections are rendered in catchy style. Milton and Dolly Nobles present a comedy, "The New Thought Club," which received splendid applause yesterday.

Wells and Lee, in a funny singing and dancing presentation, found favor with the large audience. Bessie La Count has a merry monolog, and the Sheldons perform some amazing tumbling tricks. Reisner and Hayes, Max Burk and a couple of Keystone comedies complete a fine program.

NAN HALPERIN PRESENTS CLEVER ACT AT SHEA'S

Appears in Fascinating Song Revue—Bill is of Excellent Quality.

Nan Halperin, dainty and diminutive, leads a strong variety bill at Shea's this week. Miss Halperin appears in a fascinating song cycle, depicting the five stages of girlhood. Her songs are charmingly rendered and each character is exquisitely costumed. As the weary little bride's maid, the lovely bride, and the scintillating divorcee, Miss Halperin is supreme.

Monroe Hopkins and Lola Axtell make a howling success of their tinkling parody called "Traveling." They dance, sing, and chatter in the aisle of a pullman car.

Harry Langdon and company, in a mirth provoking skit, involving an obstinate automobile, a stingy gentleman and his fair companion-in-exile, brings a laugh at every turn.

A very pretty musical act is provided by De Page Sextet, Miss Doscona, the Italian soprano, possesses a voice of rare quality and the De Page brothers are a great hit in their mandolin numbers.

Ed. Weber and Pearl Deal, Broadway's youthful prodigies, have a smart little song and dance melange.

Valentine and Bell open the bill in a smart bicycle balancing act and the Mirano Brothers, sensational aerial artists, together with new travelog film features round out a well-balanced bill.

You Can't Brush or Wash Out Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

Toronto Hotels and Railways Very Busy at Thanksgiving

Traffic both in and out of Toronto was very heavy over the holiday. Last night many of the regular trains were in two sections, and all were late in arriving, owing to heavy traffic. Union Station officials state that a greater volume of traffic was handled this thanksgiving than on the same holiday last year.

Local hotels also report a great volume of business, especially in the dining-rooms.
