FREDERICK PALMER WILL BE GUEST OF HEADQUARTERS HERE

Officers To Entertain Noted Correspondent at Dinner.

GREAT INTEREST SHOWN

Advance Sale of Tickets For Lecture Shows Big Demand.

Frederick Palmer, the famous war correspondent, who comes to lecture on "The Greatest Battles of the World" at Masonic Hall tomorrow night, will be the guest of the officers at military headquarters at dinner.

When it was learned that Mr. Palmer was to appear in the city, an invitation was sent to him, and he has accepted. He will probably tell many personal experiences, and give some description of "inside" events. Officers in training and those who have been overseas look forward with eager interest to the opportunity of meeting a correspondent who has had access to the British headquarters for more than two years.

Big Advance Sale.

Mr. Palmer's appearance in the city will be the occasion for large attendance if the advance sale of seats at The Advertiser office is any criterion. While seats are not reserved, the public is securing them in advance, together with war-tax tickets, which are on sale at the office. From indications at present, every seat will be filled.

Soon Going Back.

Mr. Palmer will arrive in the city tomorrow morning from Toronto, where tonight he will address a meeting in Massey Hall. His lecture tour in Ontario has brought out large audiences, as no writer is so well known, or so favorably known to Canadians. His furlough from the front will terminate within a short time, and he will be back in France soon after Christmas.

Many requests for tickets from outdf-town people are being received, and The Advertiser would advise all intending patrons to secure seats at once.

LEFT ARM IN FRANCE, BUT GLAD TO BE HOME

Pte. Chas. D. Carter Returns From Front Feeling "Fine."

Pte. Charles D. Carter, 472 Dufferin avenue, has returned from the front, where he lost his right arm in the fighting of the early spring. He was shot at Ypres, and his arm was shattered so badly by shells, that it had to be removed. He has practically recovered, and declares that he feels fine.

"I left a bit of me over there," he said. "I am rather lucky to bring back what I have. There are no complaints on my part, as I did what I went over for. As I am single, I think I will be able to get along all right.

"Story? Why, I have no story. You know all about it, probably more than we who were on the firing line. I don't care to say anything about it, as enough has already been said. I am glad to be back among the boys again."

The pallbearers were the four brothers, Gus McDonald, a nephew, and Donald Johnson.

DESERTERS WILLING TO REJOIN FORCES UNDER THE PARDON

Several Inquiries Made at the Local Headquarters.

NUMBERS ARE MISSING

But Many Are Expected To Report When Punishment Is Void.

The proclamation of the new governor-general granting pardons to all members of the C. E. F. charged with desertion has not yet appeared in camp or district orders, but already some of the delinquents have signified their intention of taking advantage of the leniency of the Government.

Lieut.-Col. Brown, A. A. A. G., stated this morning that apparently word had been received by the men some days ago that the move was to be made, as several inquiries have been received at headquarters from men wishing to rejoin their units. None of the battalions have as yet heard from their absent members.

The number of deserters all over the country is said to be very large. They absented themselves for various reasons, of which one was that they had no intention of actually deserting, but that having once overstayed their leave, they were afraid to return to their unit for fear of possible punishment. It is believed that practically all of this class will report within the next few weeks. Others are thought to be ashamed of themselves and looking for a chance to rejoin.

ALDERMANIC SCRAP WILL BE AIRED AT DECEMBER SESSIONS

One of Two Criminal Cases Listed For Trial.

FRAUD CHARGE ANOTHER

William Ginsberg Accused of Fraud by Morris Gootson, City.

The only two criminal cases to be heard at the December sessions of the county court to open on Monday next, are a charge of assault preferred by Ald. William Wilson against Ald. Adam Palmer, arising out of the famous drinking glass bout indulged in by the two city fathers at a stormy session of the city council last August and a charge of fraud laid against William Ginsberg on complaint of Morris Gootson. Both cases received a preliminary hearing at the police court and the introduction of a voluminous amount of evidence is expected in each case.

The first civil case to be entered for trial is that of William H. Clark of Delaware Township against Robert Howlett, a cattle buyer.

Clark in his statement of claim says that Howlett owes him $448, the balance due on the purchase price of fifteen head of cattle.

The defence entered by Howlett is that the cattle were never contracted for or never delivered.

The second civil action is a re-entry one that has been pending for months. The McLaughlin Carriage Co., Ltd. is suing to recover $463.61 from John M. McEvoy on an account which the company claims extends over a period from June 28, 1912 to October 31, 1915.

The defendant disputes the claim and has entered a counter-claim for $120, alleging the amount as due for supplies bought outside the company's shops for the purpose of repairing a motor car.

The defendant further claims that the car was not put into good running condition and the plaintiff disputes this claim and asks the amount be ordered paid as claimed.

The third civil action to be entered for hearing at the county court assizes to open on Tuesday next is that of Dan Iwanski, Polano Monatto and Peter Siginuskey against Morris Gootson.

The claim against Gootson is for $580 and according to the plaintiffs is due under an agreement made between plaintiffs and Gootson and William Ginsberg who is being tried at the same assizes on a charge of fraud.

Mayor Stevenson will preside.

In the evening a gathering at 6:15 o'clock under the auspices of the board of trade will be held at the Tecumseh House, to be addressed by Thomas Adams, town-planning adviser of the Dominion Commission of Conservation.

Those invited to attend this gathering are representatives of all the men's organizations in the city, the city and county council members, and representatives from adjoining municipalities.

Parents Beware! Deadly Poison Is Lying on Streets

Contents of Doctor's Medicine Case Scattered in East London.

A deadly menace to the lives of London children lies in vials which have been scattered from the medical case of an East London doctor, which was lost or stolen last night from the physician's motor car.

The case was missed by the doctor after he had made a call, and this morning in East London some of the contents were found scattered on the street. It was apparent that the case had been rifled and some of the tubes and bottles containing poison enough to kill many people, were thrown away. The case contained strychnine, morphine, arsenic, bicloride of mercury, potassium, permanganate, carbolic crystals and liquid and other deadly drugs.

The physician stated to The Advertiser that he wished to warn people to watch their children, and to caution them not to eat any pills they might find in the belief that they were candy. The fact that some of the vials were found alarmed him, as it was evident that boys who had likely stolen the case were scattering the contents broadcast, unaware of the menace to the lives of little children.

"The loss of the case is not serious, but the possibility of someone making use of these drugs in their ignorance is such as to make a warning necessary," said the doctor. "Every parent should make sure that his or her children are protected."

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret Breen, who died Sunday morning, was held today. Solemn high mass was celebrated at St. Peter's Cathedral, with Father Hanlon as celibrant, Father Lennon as deacon, and Father Laurendeaux as sub-deacon. The funeral was one of the largest for many years in London Township. Interment took place at St. Peter's Cemetery. Mrs. Breen resided at lot 7, concession 4, London Township.

The pallbearers were M. Hohen, P. Fallon, D. Bacon, H. Percival, James O'Rourke, and James Anderson.

SCORES OF FRIENDS EXTEND GREETINGS TO DR. MACGREGOR

Father Throws Off Years With Load of Care.

MAY BE PRISON DOCTOR

Report Says Position at Jackson Will Be Offered To Him.

Dr. R. A. Macgregor, who was pardoned on Tuesday by Gov. Ferris of Michigan, is spending a very busy day, and if he is strong his good right arm may stand up under the strain of shaking hands. Scores of old school-mates, friends of the family, and others, have been congratulating him, and he is feeling the force of the friendship in a most striking way.

The most interested people in the case and its denouement are the aged parents of Dr. Macgregor. Always convinced, as so many others were, of his entire innocence, the burden of the conviction bore most heavily upon them. For four years they have borne bravely the ordeal, hoping that the great wrong would be righted, and that their son would be restored not only to them, but to his rightful place in society. It was a great burden, and its weight was enough to break the health and spirits of younger persons. It aged them greatly, but they worked, and hoped, and prayed, and their prayers were answered.

Burden Removed.

Now that justice has been done, tardy justice, it is true, the burden has fallen off their shoulders, like John Bunyan's Pilgrim, and they are happy once more. A. S. Macgregor, the father of the boy, is young once more. He is cheery and bright, a different man from the person he was some weeks ago. No wonder, of course, but the change is remarkable. His friends, and they are legion, are delighted, and expect that he will long live to enjoy godd health and happiness. Mrs. Macgregor is likewise happy. The meeting of last night was a remarkable event.

Dr. Macgregor himself is much relieved. He is of an optimistic turn of mind, strong of body and cheerful, but the experience weighed heavily upon him. Joy was his portion today, the first really happy day in many a month, and he was too busy to say much about his case.

Faith Vindicated.

"What can I say," he asked, when interviewed. "There is nothing to add. Justice, tardy justice, I must add, has been done, and I have been vindicated after an unbiased, unprejudiced review of my case has taken place. That is my vindication, and I, of course, feel glad. My friends have been very kind, very thoughtful, most self-sacrificing on my behalf, and I am glad that their faith in me has been vindicated. That is all I want to say today. I am busy meeting old acquaintances and friends. I have talked to so many people today. They are all glad to see me, and I feel much better. I am not making any plans for the future as yet, but I will practice my profession shortly."

It is stated on good authority that Dr. Macgregor will return to Jackson, Mich., where he will practice his profession in the very prison where he spent four years. There is a vacancy on the staff of the prison, and an appointment will be made before January 1. There is a strong movement on foot to have him named for the place, and information has come to The Advertiser that he would probably be named at a first-class salary. While there, he did much of the work, and he was the most trusted man in the place. The men there appreciated his services on their behalf, and not a man in the prison but who was overjoyed at the pardon given to Dr. Macgregor.

Dr. Macgregor arrived in the city on Grand Trunk express No. 8 at 1 o'clock this morning. He was accompanied by his wife, who before her marriage was Miss McKenzie of Woodstock. He was met at the depot by his brother William, and drove at once in an auto to see his mother, whom he had not seen in five years, at the family residence, 392 Burwell street. His father, A. S. Macgregor, was there, and a sister who was called from Toronto by the family immediately upon receiving the news that Dr. Macgregor had been pardoned.

"I have no definite plans yet," Dr. Macgregor told The Advertiser, "but expect to remain in London until Christmas. I expect to resume the practice of medicine, possibly in Jackson, Michigan. In the meantime I am going to have a good visit with my father and mother here."

Asked regarding the case, he said: "I have never doubted that truth would triumph, and that I would be vindicated in the eyes of the world."

Mrs. Macgregor joined her husband at Port Huron last evening, and they took the first train for London.

Last evening A. S. Macgregor received the following telegram from Detroit:

"The Sun Life staff at Detroit rejoices with you in the news that Robert has been pardoned, and send you and your wife their heartiest good wishes."

Other telegrams were received during the evening, of a congratulatory nature.

HAS WORD OF RILEY

Constable Shaver Off Again on Trail of Elusive Indian.

County Constable Alex. Shaver received a telephone message today informing him of the whereabouts of Jim Riley, the Indian who leaped from a Huron and Bruce southbound train between Ilderton and Denfield last Thursday evening, while he was being brought to the city under arrest.

Constable Shaver started for the scene shortly after receiving the message, and expects to return with the "wily Riley." The location given is only a few miles from where Riley made a leap from the lavatory window of the moving train, and it is believed that he was injured in his fall and has been unable to proceed any further.

Constable Shaver, on making his departure offered to wager 100 to 1 that if he got his hands on Riley he wouldn't give him the slip again.
