TUPPER'S GOLDEN WEDDING

TO BE CELEBRATED IN AMHERST IN OCTOBER.

The High Commissioner and Lady Tupper Will Renew Their Vows Before the Same Altar as Fifty Years Ago—The Question of the Confession in Shortis' Case.

Montreal, Que., Aug. 13.—Fifty years ago next October, Dr. Charles Tupper and Miss Morse were married in Amherst, Cumberland County, Nova Scotia, and when the anniversary comes round the Canadian High Commissioner and Lady Tupper will celebrate their golden wedding in that same flourishing town, and perhaps the religious ceremonies will take place in the same church and before the same altar that saw the great Nova Scotian and his bride-elect made one a half century ago. A gentleman from Halifax told your correspondent to-day that the gathering would be a very important one, and is looked forward to with more than a little interest by the families directly interested, and hosts of friends besides.

Defective Theology.

A very important theological question has been submitted to the learned priests of this city, one of the clergyman in question being a Jesuit, and the other a member of the Archbishop's household. It was stated in the press the other day that a priest had been admitted to Gauthier, the murderer's cell, and had spent an hour with the wretched assassin. People began to ask if Gauthier was confessing his sins to the priest, for if the culprit was insane this would be impossible, for the rules of the church forbid a Catholic priest from hearing the confession of a man who is out of his mind.

Now, Mr. E. A. St. Jean, who has entered a plea of insanity in Gauthier's case, went to the reverend gentleman, who had seen his client, and asked in what state he appeared to be. The priest replied that this was a secret of the confessional and could not be revealed. "I do not want to know what he said," replied the learned counsel, "I merely ask you if you heard his confession." "I can tell you," the priest replied. "But Mr. St. Jean thinks that this is defective theology, and as the correspondent ha salready said, he submits the question to the consideration of two learned divines, who will report in due time. There can be no doubt if the priest heard Gauthier's confession, the priest is of the opinion that his penitent was sane. It may be said that Mr. St. Jean will apply in a few days for a medical commission to examine into the question of Gauthier's mental state.

Notes.

AN INDIAN SAINT.

A Petition to Add the Name of a Canadian Mohawk Girl to the Holy Calendar.

New York, Aug. 13.—A petition for the beatification of Kateri Lekakwitha, a Mohawk maiden, who died at Caughnawaga, in the year 1680, has been forwarded to the Holy See. The Iroquois girl was one of the original Christian missionaries to her own people. The scene of her labors was at Auriesville, N. Y.

The little village on the Mohawk River which witnessed the self-devotion of Father Isaac Jogues and of Rene Goupil, and was the scene of the labors of Kateri Tekakwitha, the Lily of the Mohawk, to convert the members of her tribe, is now holy ground, and around the enclosure attached to the shrine have been erected crosses for the devotions of the stations, while a mound in the centre has been transformed into a Calvary, having three large crosses, bearing life-size figures ,to commemorate the death of the Saviour.

Auriesville is on the south bank of the Mohawk, in Montgomery County, and was the site of the Mission of Martyrs. Besides Goupil, a young scholastic of the Jesuits, who was martyred in 1642, and Father Jogues, whose life was sacrificed in 1646, many heroic men and women, both Indian and French, suffered on this sacred spot for their devotion to Christianity.

Kateri Tekakwitha was an Iroquois maiden, whose piety and devotion won many of her nation and of other tribes to the faith.

The month of August is specially set aside for those desiring to pay a visit to this holy spot, and each day during the month mass will be said by one of the Jesuit fathers on the spot hallowed by the martyr's blood. Many thousand pilgrims will visit the shrine during this month, and the present week, during which the feast of the Assumption of the Bessed Virgin is considered by devout Catholics an especitily appropriate time to pay their devotion to Our Lady of Martyrs.

The pilgrims, who assemble in St. Francis Xavier's to-morrow, will proceed in a body to the shrine and will spend the whole of Thursday, the feast day, at the shrine, where they will be joined by a band of pilgrims from Amsterdam. Another body will leave this city on Saturday.

Protecting the Gold Reserve.

Washington, Aug. 13.—Evidence that the Belmont-Morgan bond syndicate intend to protect the gold reserve of the Treasury against raids upon it for export to Europe was received at the Treasury Department by Acting Secretary Curtis this afternoon. A telegram from Acting Assistant Treasurer Muhlman reached him, stating that J. P. Morgan & Co. had deposited $1,346,000 in gold coin at the New York sub-treasury in exchange for United States notes. A previous telegram to the department contained the information that $900,000 in gold coin had been withdrawn from the sub-treasury for export to-morrow. With the deposit of gold to-day by the syndicate their total deposits since gold exports have been rescmed on a large scale amount to $3,346,000. It is estimated here that with exchange at 490 1-2 to 490 3-4, a net profit of $3000 on each $1,000,000 gold exported is made by the shippers. Treasury officials are much gratified at the action of the syndicate, as it is construed to mean that they will not permit the gold reserve to fall below $100,000,000. At the close of business to-day the reserve stood at $101,933,715.

HIS SLEEP AN ETERNAL ONE.

Grocer Harvey Was in the Habit of Taking Opiates Before Retiring of an Evening.

John Harrison Harvey, who conducted a grocery store at Yonge-street and Erskine-ave., Eglinton, was found lying on his bed in a dying condition Sunday afternoon. Richardson was called, but could not save the man's life, death ensuring shortly after his discovery. Coroner A. J. Amesse issued a warrant for an inquest, which was concluded at Brunskill's Hotel on Monday evening. The evidence showed that the deceased had been in the habit of taking laudanum to induce sleep, and that he purchased a quantity of it at Cook's drug store Wednesday evening. The jury returned a verdict that deceased came to his death from an overdose of laudanum, but by whom administered, the evidence did not disclose. A rider was attached recommending more stringent laws regulating the sale of opium and its preparations.

M'CARTHY STILL IRISH LEADER.

The Anti-Parnellites Hold an Amicable Meeting at Westminster.

London, Aug. 13.—When the House of Commons opened to-day, Speaker Gully announced that Her Majesty had approved of his re-election as the presiding officer of the House. He then proceeded, on behalf of the House, to make the customary claim for the ancient rights and privileges of the House of Commons, which are freedom of speech, freedom from arrest and free access to Her Majesty.

After this the members were sworn in in batches of five.

The Lords in Session.

Mr. Gully stood at the bar of the House and read the Royal assent given to his re-election. Many of the members of the House of Lords affixed their signatures to the roll of the new Parliament.

Anti-Parnellites Re-Elect McCarthy.

The anti-Parnellite members of the House met in the afternoon in committee room No. 15, to elect a sessional committee to control the policy of the party. It was expected that the meeting would be a stormy one, Justin McCarthy, the leader of the anti-Parnellites, intending to move a resolution of discipline.

A point of divergence between the supporters of Mr. John Dillon and Mr. Timothy Healy was, it was thought, also likely to cause trouble. It was believed that the Dillonites would seek to exclude Mr. Healy from membership on the sessional committee, and they are strong enough to do so, their number being 39, against the Healyites' 26. Two members of the party were doubtful.

The moderates, who sought to avoid further dissensions in the party, induced Mr. Sexton to mediate between the two factions.

The meeting re-elected Mr. Justin McCarthy chairman of the party. Mr. Healy was present at the meeting.

The anti-Parnellite meeting was chiefly occupied in discussing a motion presented by Arthur O'Connor in favor of abolishing the Consultative Committee.

The Times to-morrow will say that the motion was submitted to the meeting in behalf of the Healyite faction, the committee having become a Dillonite body, and that it was defeated by a vote of 34 to 26. The Times will also say that after the Queen's speach had een heard by Parliament the federationists will hold a meeting to determine whether to move an amendment to the speech.

WOULD HAVE LED A BETTER LIFE.

Had a Railway Train Not Cut Short His Career.

John Robinson of this city, who was run over by a freight train in the Grand Trunk yards at Windsor on Saturday last, has since died from his injuries. Robinson evidently had a wife in London, Eng. Before his death, while being attended by the sisters at the Hotel Dieu, he was asked if there were ho relatives he wished notified. His reply was that "nobody cared enough for him in this country to worry about what became of him." Since his death, however, letters have been found in his clothing which show, without a doubt, he had a wife who is now in London. A letter addressed to her, dated from Montreal, gives her address as 38 British-street, Bow Row. He had neglected to mail the letter, but it was sealed and bore a stamp. Robinson had evidently been addicted to drink, although it is supposed he was not under its influence when the fatal injuries were received. Among other things found in the letter is the declaration that he had quit drinking and intended to be a better man. In his pocket was also found a letter from his wife which warned him not to drink while in America. The body was interred at Windsor.

ELOPER CHARGED WITH MURDER.

Said to Have Killed the Man Whose Wife He Loved.

Toledo, O., Aug. 13.—Patrick Boyle, who eloped from Kalamazoo with Mrs. Frank Clancy, was arrested here this morning on suspicion of knowing something of the mysterious death of the woman's husband, who was picked up in the streets here last Monday in a dazed condition and sent to an asylum, where he died the following day. When arrested Boyle told contradictory stories. He finally acknowledged that he and Mrs. Clancy came here about July 1, and have lived as man and wife at the Empire Hotel under the name of Dillon. Two weeks ago Mrs. Clancy became frightened and went to Windsor, Ont. Boyle was in that city a week ago and spent Sunday with the woman. Sheriff Judson of Ann Arbor, who is here, declared that Clancy was undoubtedly struck in the head with some blunt instrument. Boyle protests his innocence. Chief Reitz has wired to Detroit and Windsor to arrest Mrs. Clancy and her brother, John Stevens, who is with her in Windsor. Mrs. Clancy, in an interview at Windsor to-day, said that she had not seen her husband since leaving Kalamazoo. She went to Windsor from Toledo in company with her brother, John Stevens.

STUNNED, STABBED, DROWNED.

A French Marquis Charged With the Murder of His Natural Son—His Wife Also Suspected.

Bourgess, France, Aug. 13.—The indictment Court here has committed the Marquis de Nayve for trial at the Cher Assizes on the charge of murdering the illegitimate son of his wife. The case is a sensational one.

The Marquis of Nayve has been imprisoned since the middle of July, 1894, awaiting trial for the murder of a son his wife had bore him before marriage. His arrest at the railway station at Guetin, as he was returning from a trip through Switzerland, to his chateau at Presles, on the bank of the Loire, caused a tremendous sensation throughout the district.

Dissipation Ends in Murder.

The Marquis was one of the leading personalities in the department, and was reputed to be a man of great benevolence, although it was known that in his younger days he had sown more than a fair share of wild oats, and dissipated a large patrimony before marrying the rich heiress whose illegitimate child he is charged with having murdered. He was born at Grenoble in 1849, and is now, therefore, in his 46th year.

Stunned, Stabbed and Thrown in the Bay.

The Marquis was accused of having thrown his wife's son into the Bay of Naples from the cliffs along the Sorrentero, after having stunned him with a heavy instrument. It was also said that the youth had been stabbed before being thrown from the cliffs into the bay, but this version was afterwards denied.

It transpired later on that the denial which caused the Marquis' arrest emanated from his own wife. Friends of the Marquis added that the boy had not been murdered, but was of a despondent nature and had committed suicide by jumping from a cliff during the tour through Italy, in which the Marquis had taken him in the hope of dispelling his gloominess.

The Wife Accused.

The Maruis' partisans further stated that his wife had concocted the murder story in order to rid herself of the Marquis so that she might marry a priest who had lived with the Nayves ever since their marriage and had been the boy's tutor, if not his father.

The fact that Madame de Nayve about this time introduced a suit for divorce against the prisoner lent some color to this theory, and in the absence of anything but hearsay evidence until Madame de Nayve's denunciation, it was thought at one time that the prosecution would be abandoned.

Wanted the Trial Shelved.

The Procureur-General at Bourgess, M. Gourgeois, was removed to Douai, at this period of the case, and it was rumored that his displacement was due to his unwillingness to shelve the case.

Some weeks later, though, the Marquis was still under arrest, and it was announced that M. Albert Danet of Paris was retained as his counsel, and that the trial would take place in January, 1895.

Commissions to examine witnesses had meantime been collecting evidence in Italy, at Paris, Orleans, Havre and in the department of Cher. Voluminous, however, as this evidence was, it proved to be circumstantial and indecisive, and before the January session opened the authorities decided to postpone the trial till to-day in order to collect further evidence.

Hamilton, Aug. 13.—An elderly woman named Mrs. McCormick of Petrolea arrived in the city to-day looking for her son, a young man of 19, who left that place on Sunday afternoon. She found him at the residence of a relative in the west end, but he refused to return home. The young man, whose name is W. J. McCormick, says that on Friday evening last he met in the village a young woman named Sarah Savage, with whom he has been keeping company, and walked home with her towards the house of a man named Josh, by whom she had been employed. Near the house, according to his story, the girl's father, James Savage, and her brother came up with them, and accompanied the young couple to Josh's house, where he insisted he should marry the girl. He alleges that by threats on his life they forced him to consent.

Wedded at 2 A.M.

They got a license and secured the presence of Rev. Mr. McRobbie, and had them married at Josh's house at 2 o'clock in the morning. The groom made no protest, and he claims that he was drugged, as he remembers no more until the next afternoon, when the effects of "the dope" wore off. He felt the disgrace so much that he left town that afternoon. "I wasn't going to stay there and face the disgrace," he said to a reporter.

The young man swore out an affidavit in acordance with his story, and the mother will leave for home this evening.

THE GRANGE SUPPLY CO.

A Shareholder Wants to Know a Good Many Things.

A shareholder of the Granger Supply Co., in a letter in this week's Farmers' Sun, expresses the belief that if the company is "allowed to go on under the same management for another year, it will be a thing of the past." Shareholder continues: "The shareholders number some 300 or 400, scattered all over the Dominion, with only a small investment for each, only a few having more than $25 worth of stock. We believe many of the shareholders do not receive the reports, or else there would not be over $600 of unclaimed dividends on hand. The report of May 15, 1891, is now before me. In it Mr. Glazebrook, who had been auditor for years before then, admits to the directors that the audits in the past were useless. In 1891 C. A. Fleming audited the books of the company, and finds the paid-up capital to be $14,975, and the net capital to be only $4789.49, the balance of the paid-up capital having disappeared. Every year after that the net capital keeps increasing, and in 1893 and 1894 a dividend of 6 per cent. was declared each year. In 1894 the whole capital stock of $14,975 is paid back and, besides, a surplus of $264.87 is reported. In the auditor's report of June, 1895, you will notice that the company received an asset of $4216.60 from Mr. Manning. Now, assuming that the company was as well managed during the past year as previously (the directors claim it was much better), the assets should show at least an increase of $3000. Remember that they had an asset amounting to $264.87, besides a fresh asset of $4216.60, to work with. As a result, we find the company should have at least a surplus of $7481.47. But what do we find? Where has the $7481.47 gone to? A surplus of $88 only. Why are there book accounts to the amount of $15,524.31 in a company doing a cash business? Why is there $10,492.18 is owing to different firms from which they buy goods, and at the same time claiming to pay cash for everything? Also we find they have $10,350 of borrowed money, for which we are informed they pay 10 per cent. interest. With these figures taken direct from the auditors' reports each year, how is it possible for an honest board of directors to have the audacity to plead ignorance to compliment the shareholders on the success of the company, and to claim that it is on a solid financial basis?"

WHO COBURN IS.

A Student on Probation and the Son of the Blind Preacher.

The boy preacher, Cobourn, who has sprung into such unpleasant notoriety through his utterances last Sunday, is no longer a boy, although he was one until quite recently. He is 21 years of age, and he has been a student at Victoria University. He has not, in fact, completed his studies there, so his utterances were not those of mature Methodism. He is the son of Rev. James Cobourn, who is known as the "blind preacher," and who resides in Givens-street. The elder Cobourn is a member of the P.P.A., and, like his son, a strong prohibitionist. The youth has been on the Mono Mills circuit and in other country districts, and only recently has had any chance in city pulpits.

SIGNS OF THE FALL.

Some Unerring Intimations Are Given by Thoughtful Persons.

On the 1st of September new fall hats are the proper thing. Dineens' stock is all ordered, and the first instalment of it has already arrived. The stiff felt hats, as well as the silks, are of the very best English make, and are of stylish new shapes. Prices for the felts $2 and $2.50; for the silks from $3.50 to $7.50. The remainder of the stock of straw and light-colored felts is being disposed of at far below cost price. Only a small selection is left. Ladies are thoughtfully sending in their orders for alterations of fur jackets and re-making. Prices of furs, capes, jackets and scarves will be 25 per cent. higher in September than in the last three weeks of August. See the styles at Dineens', King and Yonge-streets.

"Harmless Roulette" Not Gambling.

Berlin, Aug. 13.—The authorities at Marienbad last evening suddenly closed all the exits to the newly opened salon of the casino, alleging that gambling was going on in the place. The directors of the casino said that harmless roulette was the only game being played. The action of the authorities caused great excitement among the guests.

FINED FOR WORKING ON SUNDAY

The Exemption of Farmers From Prosecution Held Not to Apply to the Hired Man.

Ridgetown, Ont., Aug. 13.—A few miles out of town a band of 7th Day Adventists have pitched their tents, and have by their preaching won over a number of the farmers in the neighborhood of Selton. Prominent among these is one Robert Watts, who not long since was charged with violating the Lord's Day Act by following his usual occupation. The case was tried before Squire Forhan in Chatham and it was held, following a case decided, that a farmer was not amenable. To-day John Matthews, a farm laborer in Watts' employ, was brought up on a charge of having worked on the 7th of July and 4th of August. Matthews pleaded not guilty when the information was read over to him, but in evidence he admitted working on the days mentioned, but contended it was not the Lord's Day, and that he was exempt as a farmer. Messrs. Watson and McKinlay, before whom the case was tried, held that the defendant was guilty of violating the act, and fined him $5 and costs or 30 days. Walter Mills conducted the case for the prosecution; Mr. Watts and Rev. Burrill conducted the case for defendant, and they threaten to appeal from the magistrate's finding.

A NEW SCHOOL OF PEDAGOGY.

Will Be Located in Hamilton Under an Arrangement With the Government.

The teaching profession has been anxious for a long time to have a practice school in connection with the School of Pedagogy in the city of Toronto. The Government could not provide this without the erection of expensive buildings, somewhat similar to the Normal School buildings, and without the appointment of a staff, both for the purpose of the School of Pedagogy and for the Practice School, which would be necessary in connection with it. An easy way out of this large expenditure of money has been found by the action of the Board of Education of the city of Hamilton. For many years the Board of Education has been contemplating the erection of a new Collegiate Institute. The old building was condemned some years ago by the Educational Department, and further delay in the erection of a new building was impesssible. It is now proposed to erect a building at a probable cost of $75,000, and the Board of Education offer to provide quarters for the School of Pedagogy in the city of Hamilton and to place at the disposal of the Educational Department their staff of 16 teachers for such work as the Educational Department may require, and their school, with an attendance of 600 pupils, to be used for a Model School for the training of High school teachers. The Department will pay for this accommodation the sum of $2500 per annum and will have a voice in the selection of the staff, in the approval of the plans for the building and in all the details to make the school more effective than any former arrangement for High school purposes has been. This arrangement cannot come into operation before the autumn of 1896, and is subject to the approval of Parliament. In working out this scheme the Department is following some of the modern methods adopted in England, and the practice for many years has been found to work so successful for training purposes in connection with German gymnasium, which corresponds with the Ontario High schools.

Death of Mr. Richard Lewis.

Mr. Richard Lewis, whose death occurred on Tuesday morning at his late home, 7 Gloucester-street, was a very old resident of Toronto, and was well known in teaching profession throughout Ontario. He was born in Liverpool, and for some years held the pincipalship of one of the corporation schools in that city, which he resigned because of his disapproval of new regulations relating to religious instruction in the school. In this city he was principal at various times of the George-street, Victoria-street and Dufferin Schools,
