THINK RECOVERY OF COLIN LEITCH NOW DOUBTFUL

Thorndale Man Has His Skull Fractured in Governor's Road Accident.

CONDITION CRITICAL

The condition of Colin Leitch, Thorndale, who lies in Victoria Hospital suffering from a fractured skull and shoulder as a result of being hit by a car driven by Robert McKay, Embro, on the Governor's road at six o'clock last night, was reported this morning to be critical and unchanged. The fracture to the skull is so serious that little hope is held for recovery.

Leitch had stopped his car to change a tire, and was in the act of doing so when the accident occurred. Evidently he obstructed the rear light from the view of the approaching cars, and the first McKay knew of the other car was when the collision occurred.

Immediately following the accident McKay called Dr. McWilliam, and the injured man was rushed to the hospital. With him at the time of the accident were his wife and baby.

After seeing that Leitch was taken to the hospital, Mr. McKay reported to the police, and stated that only the fact that he was traveling at a moderate rate of speed saved Leitch from being killed on the spot.

He said that he could not see more than a few feet ahead of him, owing to a car approaching in the opposite direction with strong headlights, and he reported that there were no lights on Leitch's car whatever.

Two Are Injured.

Regarding it as nothing short of a miracle that he was not killed instantly when struck full in the back by a car driven by George O'Neil of Denfield at the corner of Albert and Richmond Saturday afternoon at 4:30, L. Johnson of 590 Talbot street is thankful that he is alive today. E. Moore of 8 McDonald avenue was also struck by Mr. O'Neil and both men are suffering from severe injuries that will confine them to their homes for sometime.

According to an eyewitness of the accident, O'Neil was driving north on Richmond, near Albert; the street closed owing to the work of repaving, O'Neil attempted to turn on Albert street, but seems to have lost control of the car, it crashing across the sidewalk in front of Willis grocery store, knocking the two men down.

People from the store rushed to the assistance of the men and had them removed to their homes after summoning medical aid.

Mounted Sidewalk.

Speaking to The Advertiser last night regarding the accident Mrs. Johnson stated that Mr. Johnson had been to the barbers and was on his way home. Reaching the corner where the accident occurred he decided to continue on his way down town, and just as he was about to cross the car struck him. How O'Neil steered his car up on the sidewalk, Mr. Johnson is at a loss to explain, as O'Neil could see him and the accident happening in the space of a few seconds.

Just how badly both men are injured has not been ascertained, although Mr. Johnson complains of severe pains in his back and fears that his knee has been badly hurt. He is being attended by Dr. W. J. Tillmann.

NO INDICATION OF DROP IN BUILDING ACTIVITIES

While it is usual to note a decided drop in building enterprises at this time of the year, there is no indication of such, according to a report today from Building Inspector A. M. Piper.

No less than 32 building and alteration permits have been granted since the first of the month, representing an estimated expenditure of $40,890.

 BOY DIES FROM LOCKJAW.

Edward Munn, 8-year-old Hensal boy, who was brought to Victoria Hospital last night with an attack of lockjaw, died shortly before noon today. The boy was cut two weeks ago, and developed lockjaw Sunday morning.

TORCH AND ROPE FOR GUY FAWKES ON CITY SQUARE

Orangemen Tonight Will Execute Effigy and Then Eat the Succulent Oyster.

END OF "BAD BOY"

Guy Fawkes is to be hanged again, but this time the hanging will not take place at Westminster, but on the market square of this city. Today the 5th of November, is the 318th anniversary of the discovery of the gunpowder plot, and it will be commemorated here when local Orangemen garbed in their uniforms will parade the streets tonight with Guy Fawkes' effigy. He will be strung up on the market square and hanged, but that is not the worst of it. Mr. Fawkes is going to be burned too. Mayor Wenige has been nominated to the position of official torch carrier, and his worship is to set fire to the dummy at 8 o'clock.

Following the celebration on the market square members of the Orange order will parade to Aboghill Lodge, No. 230, on Anne street, to partake of an oyster supper, a proceeding which has been carried out for hundreds of years on the night of Nov. 5, after the hanging and burning of Fuy Fawkes.

When three hundred and eighteen years ago, Guido Fawkes sneaked into the basement of the houses of parliament in Old London in the fog with a box of "Eddy's Special" in his pocket and a 1605 model of a mills bomb in his hand, with the amiable intention of raising the English parliament to a higher sphere of usefulness, and was caught in the act or "red-handed" as Deadwood Dick would whisper, he little thought that in after years his effigy would be burned with ceremonial in a country then unknown, and in the market place of a city bearing the name of his old parking space, in the tight little isle.

Very few historical personages have had so many fancy rhymes written about them or given the children of the Anglo-Saxon race so much fun, and such a reasonable excuse for burning something and keeping warm in the circle of outdoor fires.

"Guy, Guy, Guy, Stick him in the eye,
Put him in the fire, boys, and there let him die."

Many Versions.

There are as many versions as makers of images and bearers of his moth-eaten throne, and everyone has his own pet version just as everyone had his private theory as to the right words to go to the tune of "Casey Jones."

It is quite a coincidence that the lad with the candle was intended to blow up the houses of parliament should be burned in effigy himself every year for over three hundred years. The orginial Guido Fawkes was removed from his orbit by his contemporaries who hanged him at Tyburn, where his bones were shown to passers as a warning and an example. No one wants to elevate the politician in Westminster nowadays, except in the way of an increase in salary, but their one time enemy has become their present friend, every 5th of November, when people want to expend some superfluous energy.

TO SPEND THIRTY DAYS IN JAIL FOR VAGRANCY

Magistrate Promises Joseph Williamson Possibility of Reformatory Term.

Police court officials were all unanimous in the opinion this morning that Joseph Williamson won't work. Joe has snoozed away 16 consecutive nights in the police cells, and then departed in the a.m. Apparently, Joseph has become more or less of a nuisance, and being a husky young man, the chief came to the conclusion that he should either find a job or go to jail. Williamson will spend the next 30 days putting away jail food, and at the end of that time if he doesn't get a job he will be sent to the reformatory.

"This man won't work," observed the magistrate.

"He's not supporting himself. He's been sleeping in the police station for the last 16 nights," contributed Chief Birrell.

"I've inquired about you, and I find that you want to be sent down as a vagrant," declared the court.

"I was laid off," defended the accused.

"Not doing your work properly? Where else did you work?" asked Mr. Graydon.

"One of our officers tried to get him a job at Hyatt Bros., where they want men all the time," declared the chief.

"I think he wants to go to jail, and I'm going to send him there for 30 days. When he gets out if he won't work, he will go to the reformatory," declared the court.

This brought a smile from Joseph, and he was still smiling as he was led away to the cells.

HOLD SUPPER NOV. 12.

Wingham, Nov. 4.—A fowl supper and entertainment will be given in Knox Church, Bluevale, on Monday evening, November 12, Thanksgiving Day.

ASKS WEEKLY MEETING OF CITY COUNCILLORS

City Clerk Baker Urges the Reduction in Number of Committees.

It would not be a bad idea, in the opinion of City Clerk Sam Baker, if the city councillors met once a week regularly and abolished all committees.

"A couple of years ago," explained Mr. Baker, "I fought hard to have the committees reduced in number from four to two. I have become convinced that the council could meet once a week regularly in place of every two weeks and have no committee meetings at all."

It is Mr. Baker's opinion that considerable detail work that now goes to the council could be avoided and the business of the city expedited to a large measure.

The clerk has another suggestion to merit close and favorable attention. He would invite to all sessions of the council the chairmen of the other municipal spending bodies, the board of education, the L. & P. S. commission, the hospital trust, and so forth.

INDIAN DISAPPEARS AFTER DEATH OF GIRL

Alberta Police Hunt Joe Black Horse, Suspected of Crime.

Lethbridge, Alta., Nov. 5.—One of the most brutal crimes in the history of Southern Alberta was discovered late Saturday night, when the charred remains of 16-year-old Winnie Tollestrup of Raymond, were found in a strawstack on the Rahl farm, three miles from the town of Raymond. Police are hot on the trail of Joe Black Torse, a blood Indian, on whom suspicion strongly rests. Black Horse has disappeared from the reserve, taking his family with him. At an early hour this morning, the Indian was still at large.

It is the first crime of murder implicating an Indian since the early days of Southern Alberta, and the whole countryside is up in arms. All police, provincial and mounted, are engaged in the search for Black Horse, who is believed to have hit for the Blackfoot reserve in Montana, just over the line from Cardston.

Ryerson School Pupils To Portray All Seasons Of the Year In Pageant

Each Month Will Be Represented by Scene, Dance or Chorus by More Than 200 Children in Tonight's Entertainment.

Children of the Ryerson public school tonight will present the "Pageant of the Year," for which they have been preparing for some time past.

More than 225 children, under the guidance of Miss Laura Cook, will portray to their parents and other guests the various months, seasons and special occasions of the year; and it is believed that the evening's entertainment will excel anything of a similar nature that has been presented by children of London.

All the children will be in costume, these representing much time and initiative on the part of both parents and children. Each month is to be represented by a scene, dance or chorus, and in some cases all three, emphasizing the special event or holiday of that period of the year.

The cast is as follows:

Heralds, Mary Moran, Peggy Moore; Father Time, Joe Benson; 1923, Margaret Muir; January, Anne Walden; February, Agnes Hare; March, Evelyn Tabor; April, Eulalie Murray; May, Gretta Campbell; June, Buddy Boyd; July, Dorothy Field; August, Helen Prince; September, Dorothy Burgess; October, Amanda Brazier; November, Lorna Spittal; December, Gladys Poole.

YOUTH ADMITS PART IN LOCAL ROBBERY

rested he gave his age at 16, and now it was 15.

Tucker said he stole but one vest from Grafton's, and it was taken Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Charged with the theft of six pairs of socks from Mr. Todd's establishment, he said he took only three pairs.

Breaks Down.

The youth appeared quite calm until his mother came into court, and then he broke down and cried.

"You were here a year ago for stealing a clock from an automobile," accused Mr. Graydon. "You were also here six months later. "What's going to happen you if you keep on?"

"I don't know. I don't intend to keep on," was the weeping response.

J. G. Gillanders, who appeared for the crown, stated the boys didn't steal the stuff for their own use, but turned round and sold it to others at a low figure.

"Can't I have another chance?" pleaded Tucker, who proceeded to blame the other boy. "If I had another chance, I'd quit."

Judge Warner, who appeared on the scene at this juncture, said the younger boy was a ward of the juvenile court.

Remanded One Week.

"It hasn't done him any good," commented the magistrate. "Sentence has been suspended twice on this boy, and now he pleads guilty to two more charges. Do you think the Industrial School is the proper place for him? I think the proper place is the reformatory. The only way to handle him is to lock him up. He cries and sobs while he is here. However, I will remand him for a week while you deal with the other case, Mr. Warner."

"Can I get bail?" asked Tucker hopefully.

"Not the slightest chance; you're going to be locked up," replied the court.

"Gosh, I hate to go back to jail again," wept young Tucker.

"You've had two chances," replied the magistrate, and Tucker was led away.

Stratford, Nov. 4.—It has been decided to hold the administrative section of the Ontario Religious Council convention next year in Kitchener, and section B at Ottawa.

INSTITUTE MEETING WILL MEAN HOLIDAY

School Children To Enjoy a Short Vacation When Teachers Convene.

School children of London are looking forward to the annual meeting of the London Teachers' Institute with rather more interest than is usually the case.

The reason, however, is not far to seek, because when the meeting opens Thursday morning the children will start on a mid-term holiday of five days, from Thursday till the following Tuesday.

This is the way the meeting affects the pupils. They do not think of the benefits the teachers will receive nor the visit of the Windsor officials and teachers. The holiday is what appeals to them.

The short vacation will consist of Thursday and Friday, set aside for the convention, the usual week-end and Monday, Thanksgiving Day. It is not often that the term is broken by a holiday of five days, although Thanksgiving is always one welcome absence from studies.

Sneeze and Sniffle Charts May Prove Unwise Precedent

Chart Business Liable To Get Out of Hand If Line Not Drawn Somewhere.

"Did I sneeze? Well I should tell the world I did!" seems to be the motto of students in the universities of Chicago, Ohio, Harvard, California and Louisiana, who have agreed to keep "Sneeze and sniffle charts" during the winter so that scientists may have the necessary data wherewith to find out which are the most flu resistant districts in the country.

A flu chart is doubtless justified by all standards of health and desire for the common good, but according to a local view the idea is fraught with the gravest consequences. The natural enthusiasm of the free born American might very well carry him to the point where he will want to have other charts in the national hall of fame. Why not keep a chart to register the kind of dreams that follow certain menus, or the mental reaction to a holdup, or the real reason for casting a municipal vote, or the number of times one just misses being removed from this mortal coil by a flivver after looking at a new hat in a busy street, or the number of times we beat the alarm clock in the first spasm of the day, or of a thousand and one things.

Not that any really interesting charts could be obtained until we made them to include such things as how many times we laughed at a poor joke by the boss in the office, how many times we said "yes, my dear," to our wives without understanding the conversation, how often we work late in the office because it's easier than serving an apprenticeship as an amateur plumber at home, how many times we get the good of our weekly sleep in church, what we really think of the fellow next door, what we would like to tell the man who splashes us as he drives his mud boat through a puddle on the main street, and so on.

The endless choice and infinite variety of subjects that could be charted is as the shells on the sea shore. Carried to its logical development it would surely lead to civil war and the internicine savagery that would eclipse every other war in captivity.

As a matter of fact it was something like this that started all the other international rows. One country found out what the other country really was doing or thinking by means of charts kept by what they called their "corps diplomatique," and on the strength of their information opened up hostilities.

It is to be hoped the students who sneeze and sniffle put it all down on their little charts like good boys. As long as it strays not beyond these two failings of humanity, the world will continue to "roll its own" in peace.

GUILTY OF SERIOUS OFFENSE.

G. Le Mire of London, who was committed for trial on Oct. 20 by Magistrate Graydon on a charge of indecent assault on a 5-year-old girl, was found guilty when he appeared before Judge Macbeth at the court house today. Le Mire will be sentenced tomorrow at 11 o'clock. J. C. Elliott, K. C., appeared for the crown, while he prisoner was defended by Albert M. Judd.

NEW PIPE LINE ROAD FREE FROM ACCIDENTS

But Six Were Reported Over Week-End Occurring On Ingersoll Paved Road.

While accidents on paved highways with deep ditches at each side are a common occurrence, no less than six being reported from Ingersoll over the week-end, the Pipe Line road, constructed under the direction of the Suburban Area Commission of London and Middlesex this summer, has yet to see an accident of any consequence.

It is possible that this type of highway construction will be adopted throughout the province in the near future.

The Pipe Line pavement, known as "Springbank Drive," has two ten-foot strips of pavement on each side and a seven-foot gravel center, with four-foot shoulders at each side. The shoulders make it possible for a motor car to slide off the pavement at the side and still be four feet from the ditch.

Whooping Cough Stopped By Vicks

Toronto Mother Says New Vaporizing Salve "Worked Wonders."

The quick, direct treatment for colds of children, and grown-ups too, is an application of Vicks over throat and chest at bedtime.

Not only is Vicks absorbed through the skin, but its healing vapors of Camphor, Menthol, Eucalyptus, Turpentine, etc., are breathed all night directly into the affected air passages.

Relief usually comes by morning. Just as good, too, for cuts, bruises, burns and itching skin troubles.

Mrs. William Morrison of 114 Sheridan avenue, Toronto, says: "Last fall our baby had whooping cough so bad that we were afraid of losing her. I heard about Vicks VapoRub from my neighbors, and decided to try it. Every morning and night I applied it as directed, and it worked wonders. It seemed to break up the cough and ease her, especially through the night, when it was most troublesome. I have also used Vicks for colds with good results, and would not be without it."

At all drug stores, 50c a jar. For a free test size package, write Vick Chemical Company, 344 St. Paul street W., Montreal, P. Q.

Though Vicks is new in Canada, it has a remarkable sale in the States. Over 17,000,000 jars used yearly.—Advt.
