VIOLET CAMERON'S CRIMINALITY.

Her Connection With Lord Lonsdale to Result in a Divorce Suit.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—Violet Cameron, actress, to-day asked the court to issue an order restraining her husband, David Debensande, from molesting her, pending the result of her petition for divorce. She alleged that he had threatened to shoot and stab her. Mr. Debensande denied his wife's allegations, and the court refused her petition. Mr. Debensande then announced his intention to petition for a divorce from Violet Cameron on the ground that she has been guilty of adultery with Lord Lonsdale, who is traveling with her as financial agent. Mr. Debensande will ask to be awarded the custody of Miss Cameron's only child.

DISSOLUTE PEERS.

Lord Lonsdale's Penchant for the Theatrical Profession.

From the N. Y. World.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—"Our right trusty and right well-beloved cousin the Right Honorable Hugh Cecil, Earl of Lonsdale, Viscount Lowther, Baron Lowther of Whitehaven and a Baronet," as he is styled in all official documents, presented himself on Saturday at the Clerk's table of the House of Lords to resume his seat among the hereditary legislators of Great Britain. Notwithstanding the fact that when he was sentenced a few days ago at Newcastle to a fine, with the alternative of fourteen days' imprisonment, Violet Cameron described him in court as the traveling treasurer of her theatrical troupe, he is nevertheless patron of over forty-two church livings and thus intrusted with the spiritual welfare of a large number of his fellow countrymen. Although only 29 years old, he bids fair to rival the unenviable reputation of his elder brother and predecessor. His encounter with Violet Cameron's husband is but one of the numerous scandals with which he has been connected, and his name is only saved from downright execration by his prowess in the prize ring and his love of horseflesh. Besides having an admirable seat in the saddle, he is an excellent whip, and the four-in-hand team of his well-appointed coach is absolutely unapproachable.

Apart from these two redeeming points there is but little to recommend him to the favorable consideration of the public. The vast sums of money which he devotes to the welfare of the theatrical profession are not spent in a particularly commendable manner, and he shows a decided preference of lap and burlesque pieces to the rest of the drama. Unlike Lord Londesborough, whose interest in theatrical matters is of a mere legitimate nature, Lord Lonsdale's is of a kind to bring discredit on the members of the company, the treasurer and capitalist of which he may be for the time being, in consequence of the scandal created by his recent appearance in the Police Court, it is rather doubtful whether he will accompany the Violet Cameron Company to the United States. Some surprise may possibly arise at Lady Lonsdale's apparent acquiescence in her husband's conduct, but the unfortunate position of ladies who, for one reason or another, have obtained a separation or divorce from their husbands, must be taken into consideration. No matter how innocent a woman may be, the mere fact that she is legally separated or divorced debars her from appearing at Court, and consequently her position in London society becomes an exceedingly equivocal one.

No better example can be cited in proof of this assertion, than that of the charming and popular Marchioness of Blandford, whose husband's (the present Duke of Marlborough) conduct with Lady Aylesford is a matter of public record. Besides, it must be borne in mind that Lady Lonsdale has absolutely no fortune in her own right. Her eldest brother, the Marquis of Huntly, has only been saved from absolute bankruptcy, if not from worse, by his father-in-law, Sir Cunliffe Brooks, the banker. One of her other brothers, Lord Granville Gordon, has been recently implicated in a police prosecution with regard to his part proprietorship of a gambling establishment, while Lady Granville Gordon, under the trade name of Ivy & Co., keeps a bonnet shop not far from Bond-street. Lord Lonsdale's grand uncle was the peer of that name, who was the original of Thackeray's "Lord Colchicum" in "Pendennis," and was also depicted in one of Disraeli's novels under the title of "Lord Eskdale."

It Never Fails.

—Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry will never fail you when taken to cure dysentery, colic, sick stomach or any form of summer complaint. Relief is almost instantaneous; a few doses cure when other remedies fail. 246

—West's Pain King excels all other remedies in promptly curing dysentery, diarrhœa, flux, colic, cholera, cholera morbus and all diseases of the stomach and bowels. Price only 25c. All druggists. d

The Last Swindle.

From the Pittsburg Chronicle.

Some time ago a couple of young gentlemen came to this city with a patent last. They took the absolute measurement of the foot and modeled the last after that. So perfect was it to be that any shoemaker could, by using it, make a boot or shoe which would be a perfect fit. They asked $5 a pair for them. One of the victims talking with a representative of this paper, yesterday, said: "I took a pair with the rest, and there was scarcely a business man in the city who did not give them his order. They arrived in due time, a whole carload of them via Adams Express Company and C.O.D. I paid for mine and placed them to one side. Some weeks after I thought I needed a pair of shoes and took them down to my shoemaker. He commenced to laugh as soon as he saw me, and pointing to a large pile of lasts on the floor, said: 'Throw them down there, they are worth 30 cents.' No one ever gave the story away, but there are business men in this city yet who will blush and use strong language if they are reminded of this little episode."

—It is of the greatest importance that all bowel and stomach complaints should be attended to at once, especially at this season of the year. West's Pain King is prompt, reliable and certain never to fail. Only 25c. All druggists. d

Just the Thing.

—W. J. Guppy, druggist, of Newbury writes: "Dr. Fowler's Wild Strawberry is just the thing for summer sickness. I sold out my stock three times last summer. There was a good demand for it." Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is infallible for dysentery, colic, sick stomach and bowel complaint. 246

—Thomas Robinson, Farnham Centre, P. Q., writes: "I have been afflicted with rheumatism for the last ten years, and have tried many remedies without any relief. I got a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and found it gave instant relief, and since then have had no attack. I would recommend it to all.

Not the Tips She Wanted.

From Tid Bits.

"Harry," said a young wife to her husband, "can you get me some ostrich tips to-day, as you go down town, and have them sent up?"

"Ostrich tips!" he answered, with a puzzled look.

"Yes, dear, ostrich tips."

"Oh," he replied, as if he knew all about it, "of course I can," and he went away without betraying his ignorance.

That evening when he came home his wife met him at the door.

"Oh, Harry," she cried, "the tips didn't come. You forgot them, you naughty fellow."

"Not much I didn't," he said with spirit; "but they didn't have any."

"Didn't have any? Why, I saw them in a dozen places yesterday. Where did you go?"

"Every place. Frank's and Joe's and Sam's and a whole lot more places. They could give me base ball tips, and horse-race tips, and regatta tips, but nobody had any ostrich tips, and I gave it up as a bad job."

She looked at him closely for an instant, took in the situation, and mutual explanations resulted in an amicable settlement.

—Cholera and all summer complaints are so quick in their action that the cold hand of death is upon the victims before they are aware that danger is near. If attacked do not delay in getting the proper medicine. Try a dose of Dr. S. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial, and you will get immediate relief. It acts with wonderful rapidity and never fails to effect a cure.

WHY MEN DO NOT MARRY.

Disappointment in Love the Main Cause of There Being so Many Bachelors.

A writer in the New Orleans States has been struggling with the problem why men do not marry, and here is the essence of his conclusions: "There is not a man living who is at all times proof against feminine fascinations, who has not at some period in his life's history indulged in the hope of realizing his dreams of domestic happiness, in which the face of some real or ideal woman shone forth as the guiding star to brighten his life. No man ever indulges in dreams of domestic happiness outside of his ideal home. The world is his at all times, in which to roam at his own sweet will. His experience teaches him that in all the world there is nothing so sweet as the love which lives in the home, gives rest to the soul and that peace of mind which the world cannot give; his innermost soul craves for it, so satisfying is it in its tenderness. True love is the very mainstay of happiness, and to cast ward ruin can wreck the citadel where the immortal lives.' Is it the fear of the failure to realize such happiness as this that keeps these dreamers from seeking it in marriage?

The most inveterate club man, the bitterest scoffer of "love in a cottage," are those men who failed, either from lack of confidence in their own powers of persuasion or want of means in their youth, to win the one particular woman they worship as their ideal. Disappointment in love is one of the main causes of there being so many bachelors in the world.

There is another class of men who very cautiously estimate the expenses of married life, and come to the conclusion they "would be a fool to marry a girl if they could not support her in the style in which she had been accustomed," and, with a wise shake of the head, determine to let well enough alone. Often men do not marry because they are too busy; they become enamored of their work; every effort of their existence tends to the successful accomplishment of a certain purpose, and marriage does not seem to them essential to that result.

Many men shun female society as they would some death-dealing plant, from the very consciousness of their own helplessness in avoiding being entrapped into serious entanglements, believing that where a woman wills it she can do anything, while a man is a feeble child of destiny, who can ill afford to war with so fair a foe. Other men, from a worldly point of view, have enough money to support one but not enough for two; they value their own comfort and position too much to imperil it by allowing "any sentimental nonsense in love affairs" to disturb their mathematical calculations on the subject.

There are plenty of men in the world, and women cannot complain they do not see them, for the tendency of the age is "to level all barriers between the sexes." Girls are allowed to indulge in all sports that were usually considered invented for the sole pleasure of the lords of creation. They row, they skate, they play lawn tennis; they—shall I say it—yes, they smoke; it is considered quite chic to indulge in the pleasure of the weed in the shape of a mild cigarette. Perhaps it is these mannish accomplishments that make men regard the matrimonial state with disfavor, not particularly relishing the idea of a wife being a match for them in every sense of word, even to the extent of her muscular development.

—Some persons have periodical attacks of Canadian cholera, dysentery or diarrhœa, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for all summer complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptoms are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

A Successful Result.

—Mr. Frank Hendry, writing from Seaforth, says: "I purchased one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters to purify my blood. It did purify it, and now I have excellent health." As a blood-purifying tonic and system regulating the result of taking B. B. B. is always successful. 246

—West's Pain King acts promptly, cures quickly. Never fails to cure bowel complaint, colic, cholera morbus, cholera. Costs but 25c. and is always ready. Enquire regarding its merits of any druggist. d

Derby Hats.

From the Brooklyn Eagle.

Straw hats have this season been driven completely out of fashionable favor, and the dark or light brown felt derby substituted. The derby, or as the dudes call it, the "pot" hat is exceedingly comfortable when light in weight and with sufficient roll of rim. It comes down well over the eyes shielding them from the sun, and it may be worn even with evening dress. This reminds me that it was one of the unaccountable freaks of society men last winter to wear a derby hat with evening dress. About four years ago men of fashion in New York discarded the crush or opera hat unanimously. A lot of greasy-looking Chatham-street citizens and ragged catmen took to wearing a cheap crush hat and club men dropped it and clung to the shiny beaver, at all times and with all sorts of clothes except sack suits. A lot of visiting Englishmen started the fashion of wearing low hats with evening dress and it was eagerly taken up. It was exceedingly comfortable, particularly at the theatre, where a man's hat is apt to be kicked about and brushed against to an appalling extent.

—Much distress and sickness in children is caused by worms. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator gives relief by removing the cause. Give it a trial and be convinced.

A Pleasing Duty.

—"I feel it my duty to say," writes John Borton of Desert, P.Q., "that Burdock Blood Bitters cured my wife of liver complaint, from which she had been a chronic sufferer. Her distressing, painful symptoms soon gave way, and I can highly recommend the medicine to all suffering as she did." 246

—All leading druggists will gladly inform anyone enquiring as to the wonderful merits of West's Pain King. The standard remedy for flux, dysentery, summer complaint, cholera morbus, cholera, colic, etc. 25c. d

Love Episode in a Prince's Household.

A genuine love episode in the Prince of Wales's household has recently attracted a pleasant degree of attention. Mr. Robertson, a personal attendant of the princess, has been seriously ill at Windsor for several weeks. A tirewoman of the princess, when the illness seemed likely to result fatally, declared that she loved the sick man, though she had previously rejected his addresses. The result was that she was married to him while he lay seriously ill, nursed him to recovery, and afterward the princess organized a household fete in celebration of the happy event.

—Holloway's Corn Cure destroys all kinds of corns and warts, root and branch. Who then would endure them with such a cheap and effectual remedy within reach? ed

—Thousands of lives saved annually by the use of West's Pain King, the household remedy for chills, colds, flux, summer complaint, dysentery, colic and cholera. Only 25c. All druggists. d

She Wouldn't Have To.

From Texas Siftings.

A couple from the humbler walks of life came before a justice of the peace to be married, when, the ceremony being over, the bride began to weep copiously. "What's the matter?" asked the new husband? "I never told you that I don't know how to cook," sobbed the bride. "Don't fret; I'll not have anything for you to cook. I'm a poet."

—A host of bodily troubles are engendered by chronic indigestion. These, however, as well as their cause, disappear when the highly accredited invigorant and alterative, Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, is the agent employed for their removal. A regular habit of body, and a due secretion and flow of bile, invariably result from its persistent use. It cleanses the system from all irregularities, and restores the weak and broken down constitution to health and strength.

A Cup of Tantalus.

In a hammock swinging low,
Just across the way, you know,
Dainty gown of rosy pink,
Slippers Louis Quinze, I think,
Maddening mass of golden hair,
Rounded arm so white and fair,
Roseleaves showered upon the ground,
Rose perfumed the air around.
And this picture 'neath the trees,
Gently swayed by boldest breeze,
In a hammock swinging low,
Is just across the way, you know.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING. EPPS'S COCOA. BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—"Civil Service Gazette."

Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in packets by Grocers, labelled thus: James Epps & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London, England.
