UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO.

The Supplemental Examinations—The Quebec $10,000 Acknowledged.

The Senate of Toronto University met Saturday night in the biological building, Mr. Mulock presiding. A letter was read from the bursar that Mr. William Ramsay had paid $1000 to endow a scholarship in political economy. Also from Hon. H. Mercier, premier of Quebec, to Mr. Blake accompanying the official check for $10,000 voted by the Quebec Legislature for the reconstruction of the university, and a copy of the order-in-council authorizing the same resolutions of thanks to Mr. Ramsay and to the legislature were adopted.

THE NEW ST. STEPHEN'S.

Professor Clark of Trinity Lays the Corner tone.

The corner stone of the new St. Stephen's Church was laid on Saturday afternoon with all due ceremony by Rev. Prof. Clark of Trinity College. The edifice, which is constructed of brick with stone facing, will have for its pastor Rev. A. J. Broughall, who has occupied that position since 1861. Mr. Broughall delivered an address. Only church papers and documents were placed in the cavity of the stone. A stone bearing an inscription relating to the destruction of the original edifice by fire and to its restitution in 1866 will be placed at the east end of the chancel. It is expected that the new church will be opened in November.

A Teacher Honored.

Friday evening last 500 residents of Markham village and vicinity assembled at the Town Hall on the occasion of a presentation to Mr. Allan McLean, formerly mathematical master of Markham High School, of a marble clock and a silver tea service. Mr. McLean for twelve years past has occupied the position which he now leaves to become science master at Belleville High School. If the demonstration of Friday evening can be taken as a criterion of Mr. McLean's success as a teacher, his record has been a brilliant one. The hall was decorated by the ladies of the village, who also supplied an enjoyable supper. Mr. Robert Bruce, ex-Reeve of Markham township, occupied the chair. Letters of regret were read from George Dickson, principal of Upper Canada College, and an old friend of Mr. McLean's; G. B. Smith, M. L.A., East York; C. R. Greene, headmaster Dutton High School, and J. O. Quantz. The presentation was made by Rev. A. Osborne. In his reply Mr. McLean thanked his friends warmly for their expressions of kindly interest in himself and family, and for their appreciation of his services as a teacher. Then there was a program of music and recitations. The committee are to be congratulated on the success of their efforts and the universal opinion throughout the neighborhood is that Mr. McLean has gone to his new field of labor with the pleasing confidence that he has left hundreds of warm and staunch friends behind him.

Must Amend the Particulars.

There was a five minutes' session of the arbitrators in the matter of the Toronto Street Railway on Saturday morning. There was the usual array of counsel for both the company and the city, with the exception of Solicitor Biggar, who was in Ottawa on other civic business. Mr. S. H. Blake, for the city, objected to the bill of particulars filed by the company because it did not contain the values of the various properties. After some argument it was decided to adjourn until Oct. 20, when the company will be expected to put in the amended particulars required, and the work of the arbitration will commence in earnest.

A Big Haul by Thieves.

The residence of Mrs. Millichamp, 363 Markham-street, was ransacked by thieves on Friday from cellar to garret in the absence of the family. Every portable article of any particular value had been carried off, among them a gold watch and chain and $150 in cash. An unsecured cellar window paved the way for the thieves.

Nearly all infants are more or less subject to diarrhœa and such complaints while teething, and as this period of their lives is the most critical, mothers should not be without a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial. This medicine is a specific for such complaints and is highly spoken of by those who have used it. The proprietors claim it will cure any case of cholera or summer complaint.

The Mineral Resources of Canada.

All who are desirous of furthering the prosperity of the provinces through the development of their mineral wealth are invited to attend a meeting to be held to-day at 4 p.m. in the office of C. S. Gzowski, jr., 54 King-street east, to take into consideration the advisability of establishing an association for the promotion of Canadian mining interests.

No one need fear cholera or any summer complaint if they have a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial ready for use. It corrects all looseness of the bowels promptly and causes a healthy and natural action. This is a medicine adapted for the young and old, rich and poor, and is rapidly becoming the most popular medicine for cholera, diarrhœa, etc., in the market.

THE WIFE NOT A FIT PERSON.

A Case Which Fell Through Under the License Act—Legal Notes.

Judgment was on Saturday handed out by Mr. Justice Street in Blackburn v. Garland and Blackburn v. Burrill, actions tried before him at the recent Brockville assizes. The actions were brought under the Liquor License Act, by Mrs. Andrew Blackburn of Kemptville, against two hotelkeepers of that place, claiming $500 damages in each case for supplying liquor to her husband after being notified not to do so. At the trial counsel for the defendants moved for a non-suit on the ground that the notice should have been given through the license inspector. The question of non-suit was reserved, and the case given to the jury, who awarded the plaintiff $30 in each action. His Lordship now dismisses the actions on the ground that the wife was not a person, within the meaning of the act, entitled to give the required notice, and that therefore the actions were not properly brought, no notice having been first given. Garland, by way of cross-action, sued Mrs. Blackburn for malicious arrest, but this action was dismissed, His Lordship holding that want of reasonable and probable cause had not been shown. The action against Garland and the cross-action were dismissed without costs, and the action against Burrill dismissed with costs.

Chief Justice Galt handed out judgment in the case of the Brantford, Waterloo and Lake Erie Railway Co. v. Marquis, dismissing the defendant's motion to refer back the award to the arbitrators on the ground that no interest had been awarded him. The costs are payable to the plaintiffs forthwith.

In the matter of the election petition of South Norfolk Mr. Maclennan made the usual order that the petitioners furnish the respondents with full particulars of the allegations charged in the petition.

ACCOMPLISHED HER RUIN.

The Serious Charge Against a Toronto Dentist.

Fred McNamara, who styles himself a dentist, was arrested on Saturday by Sergeant Vaughan on a charge of seduction. The alleged victim is Miss Ellen McIntosh, with whom McNamara became acquainted while employed in Peterboro. About a month ago he persuaded Miss McIntosh to come to this city, when, it is alleged, he accomplished her ruin under promise of marriage. Instead, however, of fulfilling this promise McNamara placed her, against her will, in a house of ill-fame, a fact which will lead, so the police say, to a second charge being preferred against him.

The keeper of the place in which the girl was placed, was unwilling to allow her to remain after becoming cognizant of the circumstances, remarking that "there were already enough unfortunates without coercing anyone into such a life." This woman will be used by the authorities as a witness.

McNamara came to this city several years ago from St. Louis and since then, owing to his unsteady habits, has been oscillating between a number of dental offices, with but a brief term of employment in any one. He is not a qualified dentist and has generally been employed in doing mechanical work. By birth he is an Englishman.

Muggins on the Bylaw.

Editor World: I see that a bylaw to raise a large sum to squander on our dilapidated waterworks and something else in connection with it is to be submitted to us.

Would it not be a good idea for the council to feel the pulse of the citizens on some other matter at the same time instead of going it blind? It would save exposure, an unlimited amount of abuse, not to say time.

There are two very important questions which if submitted the verdict would be of great use to our city fathers and would facilitate matters generally.

First ask the citizens of Toronto if they will vote sufficient money to purchase what rights the C.P.R. have on the waterfront between Yonge and York, for the purpose of making a park. Don't make the mistake that was made in the Don muddle. Ask for $1,000,000 at least—it will certainly take that amount to get the land only. Never mind the alternative site. Don't you worry about the C.P.R.; they will look after themselves without your help, and if you are noncareful will have the City Hall next. You might add on $100,000 for expenses to Ottawa, extra legal advice and a few wine suppers for the committee.

The second question—Ask the citizens whether they want Ashbridge's Bay reclaimed by the City Council or by a private company any time within the next 20 years (to sure you give yourselves plenty of time).

Fool away the time by getting out an injunction to "re-strain" the sewage we are pumping into the clean reservoir. J. MUGGINS.

The Chinese as Farmers.

[Thomas Magee in The October Forum.]

A year ago I sold for a friend in San Francisco a lot of land in a then unbuilt western suburb. A Chinaman had been using it as a garden. The land was sandy and had not more than 300 by 250 feet surface. The Chinaman therefore had the full use of but about 2½ acres. For this speck of ground he regularly paid $75 a month, and he lived on it with an assistant. He used the land to grow vegetables, which he sold to Chinamen to be peddled through the city. Despite the high rent he was making money. The Rev. Mr. Vrooman, now Chinese interpreter in the California courts, who was for 25 years a missionary at Canton, and was subsequently among the Chinese in Melbourne, informed me that he knew of two Chinese in the latter place who made a living for themselves and a horse from a quarter of an acre of land. In addition to thus supporting themselves and the horse they each sent $50 yearly to their relatives at home.

Chinese now rent at least 50,000 acres of fruit and bottom lands within a radius of 100 miles of San Francisco, for, which they pay from four to ten times what a white lessee could afford to pay for the same. Land in their hands is farmed in earnest, and with them its richness increases rather than decreases.

The York Township Fair.

The second day of the exhibition of the Agricultural and Arts Association of the Township of York and North Toronto was a great success. The Metropolitan Electric Railway took a large number of passengers over the three miles between Glen Grove Park and the terminus of the street railway. The officers of the association who were present were: President, David G. Holmes; vice-president, John Morgan; treasurer, William Boucock; secretary, J. Cooper.

The exhibits in the Main Building were of a choice character, and included besides the usual agricultural, live stock and horticultural products, many artistic and fancy articles. The judges concluded their labors early in the day and the afternoon was given over to amusements and sports. Among the events on the program were several foot races, pony race, team trotting race for farmers' horses, two-year-old race and three-minute trot. The exhibition was stated to have been one of the most successful ever held by the association.

How Men are Worth More Than Books.

[Frederic Harrison in The October Forum.]

To hunt up and "interview" men of note is a silly and odious habit of our day. But no study and no books can supply the place of personal intercourse with those who know and those who lead. I am sure whole libraries would not give me what I have gained in converse with Gambetta, Mazzini, John Bright, J. Stuart Mill, G. Eliot, Ruskin, Cardinal, Manning, John Dillon, John Burns, Herbert Spencer, Comte, John Morley, and Mr. Gladstone.

If you feel languid and bilious try Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and you will find it one of the best preparations for such complaints. Mr. S. B. Maginn, Ethel, used Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and cured a severe bilious sick headache which troubled him for a long time.

Saturday Before the Colonel.

William Collins, known to the police as an impostor and fraud, was given six months in the Central Prison by the Police Magistrate on Saturday. Paul Patillo and his antagonist, John Maloney, were fined $1 and costs. Charles Dolson, a suspected thief, was remanded. Albert Wilkinson and Samuel Raban, found in a place where liquor is supposed to be illegally sold and who refused to give their right names, were fined $10 and costs.

O. E. Comstock, Caledonia, Minn., writes: "I was suffering the most excruciating pain from inflammatory rheumatism. One application of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil afforded almost instant relief, and two bottles effected a permanent cure."

REWARDING THE YOUNG IDEA.

A Pleasant Evening With the Public School Children.

The annual distribution of prizes in connection with the public schools combined examination took place Friday night in the Pavilion, Horticultural Gardens, and the lights from the chandeliers in that place probably never shone down upon a larger assemblage or a prettier or more animated scene. The floor of the pavilion, which had been reserved for the scholars and teachers, was filled to the doors. Mr. Frank Somers, chairman of the School Board, presided, and on the platform were Trustees J. S. Williams, E. P. Roden, Hagerman, Hastings, James Kerr, George Vair, H. A. E. Kent, Baird, McSpadden, Marshall, Middleton and Dr. Burgess; Messrs Gilbert, Parr and Moore, High School trustees; Principal MacMurchy and Adjutant Manley of the Collegiate Institute; Inspector Hughes, Secretary Wilkinson and Mesdames D. V. Lucas and Fawcett. Prof. Perrin's singing class, composed of public school pupils, also occupied a place on the platform and acceptably rendered several choruses.

The great event of the evening, the presentation of the prizes, followed a short speech by the chairman, and Inspector Hughes, who superintended, gave each of the trustees present an opportunity to distribute to each class the various prizes. Below are the scholarships and medals:

How to Educate Women.

[Mrs. Helen E. Starrett in The October Forum.]

Once give full scope to the expression of woman's powers, in any and every form of activity that may correspond to those powers; relieve alike from fear of poverty and dependence, and from the tyranny of enforced inactivity; and womanhood will blossom into a beauty and strength and loveliness of character hitherto undreamed of. Especially in the home relations of women will this be apparent. As an earnest thinker upon the subject has said, "It is inevitable that the removal of any external pressure of necessity to marry for the sake of a home and support will have a tendency to elevate the standard of marriage, first among women and then among men." One of the greatest foes to happy marriages is the existence of the mercenary spirit on the part of parents and daughters. Nothing will so effectively remove it as the possession by young girls and women of satisfactory, honorable, remunerative occupations, and the countenance and approbation of society in the pursuit of them. Margaret Fuller said: "No woman can give her hand with dignity until she has learned to stand alone." The day is near at hand when the thoroughly educated woman will be the one admiringly described by Goethe as "able, if necessary, to be both father and mother to her children." Here will be found the true conditions for forming love-inspired marriages, and, as a consequence, the saggring to be of any other kind. And while we open to them the door of freedom to find that highest heaven of earthly happiness—the home builded upon love and a happy marriage, we at the same time furnish them with a key of escape from that Bastile, that hell—a marriage from which love and respect have departed.

A Deferential Editor.

[From The Hamilton Times.]

We are prepared to listen deferentially to a statement that it would be foolish for Canadians to join the Yankees in paying pensions to the survivors of the war of 1861-'65. We admit the inadvisability of "hitching on" to a nation that has eight or ten millions of a black population, and an unsolved race problem to make trouble in the future. The argument that the United States tariff is higher than ours, and is therefore a thing to be avoided, appeals to us with special force. On such subjects as divorce, Sabbath observance, the regulation of the liquor traffic, the power of trusts and monopolies, Indian policy, respect for life, speedy trial and sure punishment of law-breakers, many reasons can be adduced why Canadians are better off where they are than they would be as citizens of the United States. The United States form of government, without an independent executive, with Cabinet Ministers who have no seats in Congress; the rotation of offices under the spoils theory; the extraordinary powers of the Speaker of the House of Representatives—these and other things too numerous to mention may be highly objectionable from a Canadian point of view, and we have nothing but respect for the Canadian who weighs all those matters carefully and presents them forcibly when the subject of annexation is under consideration.

Funeral of the Late John Smith.

All that was mortal of the late John Smith, reputed to be the first white man born in Toronto, was laid at rest in St. James' Cemetery on Saturday afternoon. The funeral cortege left the family residence at Broadway and First-avenues at 3¼ p.m. There were about 70 vehicles in line. The York Pioneers, including Rev. Dr. Scadding, president; William Rennie, vice-president; W. Lee, James Stitt, John Laidlaw, sr., J. Watson, E. Edmunds, Robert Rennie, were largely represented in the cortege. The chief mourners were W. J. Smith, Joseph Smith and Edward Smith, sons of deceased; A. W. Holman and Benjamin Pearsall, sons-in-law, and Edward Bird, a nephew. The pall-bearers were D. B. Read, Robert Rennie, W. Rennie, Thomas Saulter, Charles McMichael, Isaac Ashbridge, Charles McCaffry, Robert Plater. Rev. Alexander Sanson of Trinity Church and Rev. Scott Howard of St. Matthew's Church officiated at the house and at the grave.

Among the pains and aches cured with marvelous rapidity by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, is earache. The young are specially subject to it, and the desirability of this Oil as a family remedy is enhanced by the fact that it is admirably adapted not only to the above ailment, but also to the hurts, disorders of the bowels, and affections of the throat, to which the young are especially subject.

The police raided Alberti's cigar store, Yonge-street, Saturday night and seized 36 bottles of ale.

Mike McConnell, 665 Yonge-street, is held in Yonge-street station charged with breaking into Severn's brewery.

The Diamond Dyes.

The Diamond Dyes awake our praise,
And give delight in countless ways.
In colors, forty there are found,
And now are treasured and renowned,
For every use we put them to.
We must admire their vivid hue,
Our home and dress they lovely make
This is a fact and no mistake.

GENERAL GRANT'S COURTSHIP.

Mrs. Grant Tells How the Famous Soldier Proposed.

[From The Ladies' Home Journal.]

One summer day we were going to a morning wedding, and Lieut. Grant was also invited. He came for us on horseback and asked my brother's permission to drive me, in exchange for his saddle, to which he gladly consented. The day was beautiful, the roads were a little heavy from previous rain, but the sun shone in splendor. We had to cross a little bridge that spanned a ravine, and when we reached it I was surprised and a little concerned to find the gulch swollen, a most unusual thing, the water reaching to the bridge. I noticed, too, that Lieutenant Grant was very quiet, and that and the high water bothered me. I asked several times if he thought the water dangerous to breast, and told him I would go back rather than take any risk. He assured me, in his brief way, that it was perfectly safe, and in my heart I relied upon him. Just as we reached the old bridge I said: "Now, if anything happens, remember I shall cling to you, no matter what you say to the contrary." He simply said: "All right," and we were over the planks in less than a minute. Then his mood changed, he became more social, and in asking me to be his wife used my threat as a theme. After dinner that afternoon Lieutenant Grant asked me to set the day. I wanted to be engaged, and told him it would be much nicer than getting married—a sentiment he did not approve. We were very quiet at the house that evening and neither said a word of the secret. After supper he went back to the regiment and a few days later General Taylor sent him to Camp Salubrity, in Louisiana. He was too shy to ask father, so he waited till he was stationed and wrote to him. Father never answered the letter. I was his favorite daughter and he thought army life would not suit me.

"Besides," said father, "you are too young and the boy is too poor. He hasn't anything to give you."

I rose in my wrath and I said I was poor, too, and hadn't anything to give him.

The next year he came back on a leave of absence, and I can remember just how he looked as he rode up in his new uniform. Father was going to Washington on business and we were all on the front porch kissing him good-bye and stuffing his pockets with notes of things he was to buy. Lieutenant Grant asked for my hand and he, in a hurry to get off, consented.

My soldier lover was in and about Mexico for four years, including the war. Every mail brought me a letter. Everyone of them full of musings, love and war, and now and then some pressed leaves and flowers. Some were written on drumheads captured from the Mexicans and others on sheets of foolscap, folded and sealed with red wafers. I read each one every day until the next one came. I have them all.

Toronto's Bonanza.

[From The Dundalk Herald.]

The great Industrial Exhibition of 1890 is now numbered with its predecessors, and has exceeded them all in its wealth of exhibit. Stock, manufactures, machinery, art, farm products, curiosities, etc., etc., were all represented in immense profusion. Even the amusement or the swinging throngs of humanity was not omitted, and the thousands who failed to obtain entrance to the grand stand attest the drawing power of the attractions offered.

For Toronto the Industrial is a bonanza; for the directors of the mammoth concern, it is a huge financial success. During its progress, the city merchants, hotel and boarding-house keepers reap a rich harvest, in many cases exerting double rates. The harvest they gather is reaped at the expense of the province at large. Every village and school section has had its representatives there, and thousands of dollars have been spent by the visitors. Toronto is so much richer, and the rest of the province so much poorer.

While the exhibition has its advantages, it is remarkable what an adverse influence it has on the business interest of the province. We venture to say that there is scarcely a town or village that has not felt its shadow and found its influence on business to be almost paralyzing. For the two weeks of its continuance local trade rapidly thins out. Already one flexible joint has arrived and this will permit the laying of four lengths of pipe.

Mr. Kennedy's Mishap.

While examining the well in the pumping-house on Saturday, in company with City Engineer Jennings, Mr. Kennedy of Montreal fell in, the story he was standing on giving way. He was rescued somewhat badly bruised and taken to the Queen's in a carriage.

The work of constructing the five-foot conduit proceeds rapidly this week.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

The most hateful and brutal form of punishment is that which inflicts death upon the criminal. In a civilized and humane state of society none but a social outcast and depraved mercenary can be found who will undertake the duties of hangman. Even he has not the temerity to do the work openly, but like a despicable coward does it under disguise. Society or the state has no occasion to resort to murder to save itself from the hands of a convicted murderer. When it comes to hanging a human being the last functionary of the law is ashamed of the job, and so employs a substitute—the meanest type of the genus homo. If no one could be found so base as to become hangman we should have fewer murders. Society then would have a higher estimate of human life. Treating the crime of murder with murder as an antidote has not yet abolished the crime, nor has it added a particle to the security of society. The tyranny and cruelties of Siberia have not yet banished Nihilism, nor do they enhance the safety of the Czar. When society esteems human life under every circumstance and condition sacred, then will man, the unit of society, shudder at the thought of murdering his fellowman. If there is any sincerity in the belief of the doctrine of eternal punishment society has no moral right to limit the chances of the murderer to escape it by taking or destroying his life. "A life for a life" is the miserable principle of savages, foreign alike to humanity and to God. The man whose life has been a lie and a fraud, and though his career may end in a conviction for murder, we shall still earnestly plead that he be not sent to his eternal account through a premature death at the hands of the hangman. Better by far confine him for the remainder of his natural life to suffer the tortures of a guilty conscience in the direction of earthly reformation than that he should be suddenly cut off and ushered into the presence of his Creator by the agency of murder in another form. There is no warrant from God to mankind to inflict murder in order to prevent murder. The simple command is "Thou shalt do no murder." That command is equally obligatory upon society as upon the individual. It is the duty of society therefore to obey it scrupulously as a law of nature and a law of God. The electrocution of Kemmler was a disgrace to the century, but not more so than every other form of inflicting death or murder under the sanction of human law for the pretended purpose of protecting and saving human society.
