FAMILY MEDICINES.

EVANS CAANMMOMILE AND APERIENT PILLS. These valuable Medicines were introduced under the direction of the "Society for the Restoration of Health," in London, and having gained in England great celebrity by innumerable well authenticated cases of cure, have recently been introduced into this country and are now offered to the Public, with confidence that their highly distinguished character will stand the test of the most thorough scientific investigation.

It can be denied that whilst many medicines which are recommended to the public, have not even the negative merit of harmlessness, there are others which it would be great injustice indeed and suicidal prejudice to involve, in a common condemnation. And when a medicine comes indorsed with all the great names that have adorned the annals of the medical profession, and warranted by the seal and signature of long and uniform success the proprietor makes no unreasonable demand upon public confidence, when he claims for it a superior consideration.

The Camomile Preparation of Dr. W. Evans is undeniably entitled to this enviable distinction; for while no medical authority in existence condemns it, every medical work which alludes to it, and every medical practitioner that is acquainted with it, freely acknowledges its pre-eminent virtues; and that the latter should do so in opposition to their personal interests must be attributed either to their candor and love of truth, or to their an rishness to fly in the face of all observation, and the testimony of thousands.

Aware that great imposition is constantly put upon the public in the shape of deleterious drugs, it is deemed important that it should be known that they are Vegetable Medicine, and that they are regularly recommended and prescribed by the most experienced physicians in New York, Philadelphia, Albany and other cities of the Union where they have been extensively sold. That they should thus conquer professional prejudice and interested opposition and secure the agency of the most eminent and best informed physicians in the Country to render them useful to all classes, can only be fairly attributed to their undeniable and pre-eminent virtues.

Invaluable, however, as this distinction is, it can easily be accounted for from the intrinsic and peculiar properties of the medicine itself. It does not pretend to too much and it accomplishes all that it promises. Dr. W. EVANS does not pretend, for instance, that either his Camomile or his Aperient Pills will cure all diseases by merely purifying the blood; but he certainly does pretend, and has the authority of daily proofs to positively assert, that these medicines taken as recommended, will cure a great majority of diseases of the stomach the Lungs, and the Liver, by which majority of the blood is vitiated. The blood is made from the contents of the stomach; has its red colour and vitality given to it by the action of the lungs, and as it performs its duty in circulating through the veins and arteries, has its yellow or bilious excrement which may be termed its refuse or worn out sediment, collected and discharged by the liver.—These viscera, then, are the grand mechanism of separation by which the blood is manufactured and preserved; and it is therefore obvious that the state of these should be the first consideration of the physician. Now there are various causes that will affect and derange these organs with which the blood has nothing whatever to do. Thus the stomach may be utterly vitiated in one moment by affright, grief, disappointment, heat of the weather, or any other nervous action, and be wholly unable to digest its food. Is the blood to blame for this? A nervous action of long continuance will produce settled dyspepsia, with headache, debilitated and physical debility, and an infinite retinue of other evils. Is the blood to blame for this? Intemperance, by ruining the coat of the stomach, and leaving it in fixed pitiable weakness; and an excessive quantity and continuance of purgative medicines by producing the same effects, will put this organ almost out of use for digesting wholesome and good food, and thus impoverish the blood and the whole system. Is the blood to be blamed for this? Again with regard to the Lungs, it is well known that a slight cold occasioned by dampness or by a current of air, will inflame the bronchia, and cloud in through the branching air tubes of the lungs and create either excessive mucus; or that dreadfully rapid and fatal disease, Consumption, with positive ulceration of the lobes, which, though timely remedies may prevent, no earthly skill can cure. Is the blood of the fair and blooming victim to blame for this? so the Liver when climate, sedentary habits, intemperance, or either prostrating causes have whether it away or paralyzed it with extension, becomes unable to carry off the bile from the circulation, and instead of discharging it through the gall bladder, leaves it to come through the skin in jaundiced and sallow fluids, and to rush upon the stomach, in irregular and excessive quantities. Is the unfortunate blood to blame for this? No, these vital organs are never affected by them; they are its makers and masters, and it is entirely their work and their passive agent.

Knowing it to be a sound and demonstrated fact in science and experience. Dr. W. EVANS' system of practice is in faithful accordance with it.

These medicines, which can be purchased either together or separately, are confidently recommended for the following complaints, and directions for accompany each.—Dyspepsia, in all its forms, Bilious and Liver affections in every stage and degree, female sickness, more particularly the nauseas incident to pregnancy; Blue Albus; Fever and ague; Incipient Consumptions or decline, whether of the Liver or Lungs; Headache and Giddiness; loss of appetite; nervous tremors; Inflammation, or Debilitating diseases; spasmodic affections of all kinds, Rheumatism, whether Chronic or Inflammatory, Nervous and spinous fevers of every variety, scurvy, salt rheum, and all eruptions, blotches, humors, and impure complexions of the skin, restlessness at night and early irritability, melancholy, the summer complaint and Cholera Morbus, or diarrhoea in grown persons, worms and costiveness, with bad breath, chlorosis, and palpitation of the heart or head, changes of female constitution; and for impaired and disorganised constitutions in either sex which have been permanently relieved by any other medicine. A single trial of Dr. W. EVANS' medicines in any of these cases will produce such effects as will indicate their incomparable superiority, and induce such use of them as will ensure a speedy and unquestionable cure. The proprietor, however, would be careful to get them genuine of the authorised Agents, as all others are base and ignorant impositions.—For further particulars, he respectfully requests the public to peruse his other advertisements and medical papers, which may be depended upon to their strict and acknowledged truth.

Among the multiplied certificates that have been given to the Public the following are given.

PARALYTIC RHEUMATISM—A perfect cure effected by the treatment of Dr. W. Evans.—Mr. John Gibson, of Ferris Fourth st. Williamsburg, aged 8 years with the above complaint for three years and nine months—during which time he had to use crutches. His chief symptoms were excruciating pain in all his joints, but especially in the hip, shoulder, knees and ankles, an aggravation of the pain towards night; and for the most part all unusually external heat, an obvious thickening of the joints & ligaments with a complete loss to muscular power. For the benefit of those afflicted in a similar manner, Mr. Gibson conceives to make it known that the pains have entirely ceased, and that he has completely recovered their natural heat and feels able to resume his ordinary business.

MRS. MARY DILLON, Williamsburg, corner of Fourth and North sts. completely restored to health by the treatment of Dr. W. EVANS, 7 Division st.

The symptoms of this distressing case were as follows; Total loss of appetite, palpitation of the heart twitching of the stomach with a general paralytic affection of the muscles, extremely oppressing, giddiness, languor, lassitude, great depression of spirits, with a fear of some impending evil, a sensation of fluttering at the pit of the stomach, irregular transient pains in different parts, great emaciation, with other symptoms of extreme debility.

The above case was pronounced hopeless by 5 of the most eminent physicians, and the dissolution of the patient daily awaited for by her friends, which may be authenticated by the physicians who were in attendance. She has given her cheerful permission to publish the above facts, and will also gladly give any information respecting the benefit she has received to any enquirer.

MARY DILLON

MORE CONCLUSIVE PROOFS of the extraordinary efficacy of Dr. Wm. Evans celebrated Camomile and Aperient Anti Bilious Pills in curing affection of the Liver, Mr. Robert Cameron, Jewellery. Disease, Chronic Dysentery of bloody Flux, symptoms, unusual debility in the bowels, severe griping, frequent inclination to go to stool, costiveness, loss of appetite, nausea, vomiting, frequency of pulse, and a frequent discharge of a glairy matter mixed with blood, great deafness, sense of burning heat, with an intolerable bearing down of the parts. Mr. Cameron is now enjoying perfect health, and returns his sincere thanks for the extraordinary benefits he has received.

DYSPEPSIA AND HYPOCHONDRIACISM

Interesting Case.—Mr. William Salmon, Grocer, just above Vine, Philadelphia, afflicted for several years with the following distressing symptoms—Sickness of the stomach, head ache, dizziness, palpitation of the heart, impaired appetite, sometimes acid and putrescent eructations, coldness and weakness of the extremities, emaciation and general debility, disturbed rest, a sense of pressure and weight at the stomach after eating, foul breath, great mental despondency, severe flying pains in the chest, back and sides, costiveness, a dislike for society, or conversation, involuntary sighing and weeping, languor and lassitude upon the least exertion.

Mr. Salmon had applied to the most eminent physicians, who convinced it beyond the power of medicine to restore him to health; his disease, as his affections has reduced him to a very depositive condition, and having been recommended by a relative of his to make trial of Dr. W. EVANS' medicine, he with difficulty repaired to the office and procured a package, by which, he says, he is indebted for his restoration to life, health and happiness. He is now enjoying all the blessings of perfect health. Persons desirous of further information will be satisfied in every particular of his astonishing case at Dr. W. Evans Medical Office, 100 Chatham st., N. Y.

PATHOLOGY OF CONSUMPTION.

1. BY DR. WILLIAM EVANS.—If the maxim be true, that "the knowledge of a disease is half its cure," how greatly is it to be deplored that the knowledge of those prevalent diseases which annually carry off millions of the human race, is not more generally diffused. How lamentable is it that so few of the great human family possess any information upon a subject in which, of all others, they are most vitally interested. It will probably be an incredible matter to future generations of the world, that the past should have been acquainted with every thing, except that which most concerns them to know.

To convey this knowledge more extensively than has yet been attempted by any other practitioner, and to direct the attention of the afflicted to those few and simple remedies by which many of the most prevalent diseases may be arrested and removed, is the object of Dr. Evans' treatise on this and other pathological summaries which he will publish, upon the authority of the highest medical writers of the age. His instruction will necessarily be brief, but its accuracy will be undeniable.

CONSUMPTION.—Of this disease, in one or other of its forms, four thousand persons have died in the city of New York within the seven years, this is proved by the city bills of mortality; and its victims throughout the country, have been in almost the same proportion to the population. Consumption (or Marasmus Phthisis) is of three kinds—the Catarrhal, the Apostematous, and the Tubercular. In Catarrhal Consumption, the cough is frequent and violent, with a copious excretion of a thin offensive, purulent mucus, sometimes, but not frequently, streaked with blood. There is generally a soreness about the chest, with transitory pains shifting from side to side. Its ordinary cause is a neglected cold, and is therefore a common kind of consumption in climate subject to such sudden and extreme changes as ours.—2. In Apostematous Consumption, the cough returns in fits, and is for some time dry; without very little expectoration, and that very difficult. There is often in this kind, a fixed, dull, circumscribed pain the chest, which is increased by lying upon the side.—The dry cough at length changes to a copious expectoration of purulent matter, which occasionally threatens suffocation, although many other painful symptoms are temporarily relieved. At this stage, the disease is rarely if ever cured. 3 In Tubercular Consumption, the cough is short and teasing, and is often an excretion of the watery, whey-like stuffs, sometimes tinged with blood. The pain in the chest is slight, and there is an almost habitual elevation of the spirits. This variety is usually the result of a scrofulous taint in the system generally, which when thus seated in the lungs, can seldom be arrested in its fatal progress, unless met in its first advances.

Each of these three varities of phthisis or Consumption, begins with the following common symptoms, by removing which, it may certainly be cured. The patient is sensible of an unusual langor, breathed with less than his usual freedom, and consequently with more frequent respirations, with some times induce him to relieve himself by making a deeper respiration similar to a sigh. When he does this he usually feels an uneasiness across the chest; and as these symptoms increase, they are attended with more than ordinary perspiration at night, so as to leave him unbedded in the morning, disinclined for exertion and affected with more or less of headache. He coughs occasionally without complaining of the inconveniences but if his sleep be not disturbed by coughing, he usually coughs shortly after waking in the morning, gradually becoming debilitated, and experiencing an aggravation of all the above symptoms. This is the first stage of consumption in general, and this being the only step at which there is any reasonable hope of being cured, Dr Wm. Evans will not go on to describe the truly melancholy and dreadful symptoms by which its fatal stages are characterised. To do this, would be unprincipled and unfeeling quackery, for he pretends only that his medicines are adapted in this early stage, however much they may relieve it when more advanced.

The above Pills are sold by Mr. M'Millan at the Phœnix Book and Stationery Warehouse in this City; Robert Chesnut, Esq. Fredericton; Chas. Connell, Esquire Woodstock; Ingersoll & Putnam, Houlton; John Beckfield, Eastport; Brewer & Smith, Calais.
