RESTRICT EXPORTATION OF SAWLOGS

Is What They Have Asked the Government at Ottawa to Do.

Of Course John Charlton, M.P., Whose Lumber Interests Are in the United States, Was on Deck, Backed by Mr. W. C. Edwards, M.P., of the Ottawa Valley, to Oppose the Resolution Moved by Ald. Scott, Seconded by Mr. John Bertram, But the Member for Michigan Was Voted Down—There Was Some Hot Talk Among the Lumbermen—Canada Can Look After Herself and Secure Better Markets Than Those of Uncle Sam.

The present condition of the lumber trade is a source of much speculation to those engaged in the business, and, in order to find out where they are at, a very large gathering of lumbermen took place in the Board of Trade building yesterday, in response to a circular sent out a few days ago by the secretary of the Board. Both the Ottawa Valley and the Georgian Bay districts were well represented.

Good Representation.

Among those present were: C E C Newton, C W Newton, Frank Weston, Midland; G W Ranney, William Irwin, Peterboro; P McShirry, Stayner; William Milne, Trout Creek; C G Anderson, Woodstock; John P Newman, Robt. Watt, Wiarton; J E Murphy, Hepworth; Robert J Clarkson, W R Beatty, M L A, Parry Sound; Charles D Warren, Toronto; Robert Jackson, Orillia; F R Wallace, Victoria Harbor; J J McNeil, Gravenhurst; John J Hall, George A Anderson, J G Cane, H N Price, Toronto; W E Begwood, Wahmpitae; W C Mahaffy, A McLeod, F R Potter, Bracebridge; C A McCool, Geneva Lake; J C Wells, Toronto; N Dyment, Barrie; A E Dyment, Thessalon; Robert Laidlaw, Robert Booth, John Waldie, Toronto; Thomas Hale, Pembroke; A L N Weller, Ontario Lumber Company; George Gall, Toronto; R T Steele, Hamilton; W J Ard, R Cook, South River; James L Burton, Barrie; H McDonald, Thessalon; W C Hughson, A H Campbell, jr, Toronto; W A Charlton, Lynedoch; W H Pratt, Parry Sound; E J Harrison, Owen Sound; Capt Morden, Oakville; W Stoddart, Owen Sound; A McCall, Simcoe; Robert Connelly, Eau Claire; R Bunyan, North Bay; B Ryan, Toronto.

Col. John I. Davidson was unanimously voted to the chair.

To Consider Government Action.

In his opening remarks, the chairman said he could not understand why he had been asked to take the chair, unless it was because he had paid for some experience in the lumber business. He explained that the meeting had been called for the purpose of seeing what steps should be taken by the Government in respect to the export duty on logs and an import duty on lumber.

To Restrict the Export.

In order to obtain the views of those present, Ald. John Scott moved and Mr. John Bertram seconded the following resolution:

"That, whereas the Government of the United States has imposed an import duty of $2 per thousand feet on sawn lumber, has made special provision in the tariff that a still higher import duty may in a certain event be imposed on sawn lumber, that Government has not imposed an import duty on sawlogs; and, whereas by the present Canadian tariff sawn lumber is admitted into Canada free of duty, and the said Canadian tariff permits the export of sawlogs free of duty, the effect of such tariff arrangements is highly injurious to the true interests of the owners of sawmills in Canada, the Canadian workmen and Canadians generally, as tending to transfer the sawing of lumber from Canada to the United States; be it therefore

"Resolved, That in the opinion of this meeting the exportation of sawlogs should be restricted, and, with that object in view, the Government of the Province of Ontario be requested to so amend the pine timber regulations that all pine timber cut under license in the Province of Ontario shall be manufactured in Canada."

In speaking to his resolution, Ald. Scott said that he was pleased the Ontario Government had inserted a clause in the regulations governing the sale yesterday providing that the timber should be manufactured in Canada and those who purchased limits did so on this understanding. Mr. Scott went on to argue that there is not a change made in the American tariff that is not done with the view of crushing Canada, and contended that if Canadians do not assert their rights the business will gradually grow worse.

Mr. John Bertram also gave many reasons why the resolution should carry.

Against an Export Duty.

Then up rose the mighty forces from the Ottawa Valley, nearly all of whom are opposed to an export duty on logs. The onslaught was led by W. G. Edwards, who claimed that the agitation for an export duty arose in Western Ontario, and he did not think it would be fair for the Government to be influenced by the action of the present meeting, as the whole province was not represented. He was strongly opposed to the resolution, as if he went to the United States and bought under certain conditions certain properties it would be a crime for the Government to make a law preventing him from taking the property out as he pleased. He hoped the day would never come when he Government would pass such a regulation as was asked for in the resolution. He considered it would strike a deadly blow to Canada.

Mr. Charlton's Opposition.

John Charlton, M.P., also opposed the resolution, saying that its adoption would result disastrously. To prohibit the export of saw logs may have the effect of Congress taking action to prohibit the import of lumber into the United States. He contended that the question was a business one, and sentiment should be dismissed, and that it should be dealt with on broad principles. He advocated the matter being left over for some time, and, in order to get the sense of the meeting on the matter, presented the following amendment, seconded by Mr. Campbell:

"That, in the opinion of this meeting, action upon the question of imposing export duties, or of prohibiting the export of saw logs, should be deferred till after the next meeting of the American Congress, in view of the possibility of securing a more satisfactory adjustment of the American lumber duties."

Respect American Rights.

Mr. Charlton contended that the Ontario Government had no right to do what the original resolution demanded, save when the sale was taking place. He claimed that the Americans who bought limits on the understanding that they could tow logs from Canada at their pleasure had rights which the country was bound to observe. He was satisfied that if Canada prohibited the exportation of logs the United States would prohibit the importation of lumber.

"Let them do it," came from a dozen voices.

"I don't say no export duty should be imposed," continued Mr. Charlton, "but I think delay should be counselled."

Dr. Spohn favored the resolution and reminded Mr. Edwards that he had repealed too much to sentiment. No sympathy had Dr. Spohn for American owners of timber lands in Canada. He said they bought their limits knowing very well the restrictions which might be imposed by the Government of Ontario people. said he, knew their own interests and he was confident that regulations would be enforced so that Canadian logs must be manufactured in Canada.

As Dr. Spohn sat down W. C. Edwards had a question for him. In reply the Doctor said the poor lumbermen of the Georgian Bay were handicapped as compared with the Ottawa lumbermen by $1.50 or $2 freight rates.

Mr. E. W. Rathbun's View.

Mr. E. W. Rathbun, in a short speech, in which he supported the first resolution, said that it was only a matter of time when there would not be enough pine to support the country's industry, and contended that the issue to be taken was: Have we any pine to spare from our own industrial interests? He held that an export duty was not retaliation. It was simply a return to a principle which was temporarily dropped in return for a $1 duty. He next pointed out how it was necessary in the interest of all the investments made in the country on the strength of the timber resources, in the vital interests of the towns and villages and farmers of the province, that the industry should be protected.

Reached a Crisis.

Mr. Beck felt that the lumber trade had reached a crisis. As a mill owner he contended that the effect of the Dingley tariff would be to shut up the saw mills of Ontario. He was one of those who proposed the holding of this meeting, and he felt that the time had arrived for the formation of a strong association of lumbermen. If he had mills and only limits he might think differently on the whole question. Nevertheless he thought that in the interest of the whole country at large the forest products should be manufactured here. He declared that the new tariff of the United States was a most shameful affair, and he felt like getting back at them. If England would only consent to put a duty on grain in favor of the colonies then he would say she is a good mother. He made the statement that there is more lumber shipped from the United States to England and other countries than is shipped into the United States from Canada, and could see no reason why Canada should not secure a large portion of that trade.

A Suicidal Policy.

Mr. Campbell declared that it would be suicidal to close themselves out of the American market at present. Lumbering is a business that a person can't step into one day and get out of the next day. Lumbermen have to count on securing a solid and permanent market. The lumbermen will have to hunt around and get a more stable market, but while they are looking for that market it would be suicidal to close the only one they have. He strongly opposed the original resolution.

United States Will Retaliate.

Mr. Dyment, M.P., spoke as a limit holder and manufacturer, and strongly opposed the original resolution. He held that those who are advocating an export duty are going on the supposition that no further duty will be imposed by the United States on lumber coming from Canada. The United States would undoubtedly put on a $4 duty on lumber. He pointed out that there are millions of American money invested in Canadian pine limits, for which the Americans were solicited, and they now know, to their sorrow, that they paid twice, yea three, times what they were worth in many instances. As a politi-

THE SCIENTISTS AND THEIR SOCIAL SIDE.

Their Excellencies the Earl and Countess of Aberdeen Hold a Brilliant Reception at the Legislative Buildings—Island Garden Party at the Royal Canadian Yacht Club House in the Afternoon.

The reception given by Their Excellencies the Earl and Countess of Aberdeen to the members of the British Association and their friends last night was an unusually brilliant affair. The Parliament Buildings were draped in the main entrance with great flags and on the west side was a long, narrow tent, gay with flags and bunting, under which the guests passed to the main entrance. A beautiful red carpet led up through the great vestibule to the inner stairs, and the hall leading to the Commons was laid in the same gay color. The band of the Queen's Own, stationed on the east of the Commons door, discoursed delightful music throughout the evening, making the long corridors a desirable place for promenading, and below, in the west corridor, was spread an elaborate display of dainty refreshments and cooling drinks, which were much enjoyed throughout the evening.

Scene in the Corridor.

Before the reception the scene in the corridor opposite the Assembly Hall was a very interesting one; judges, bishops, politicians, professors and learned men from all parts were gathered there, most of them accompanied by ladies in dainty evening dress; the charming English accent was heard on all sides, while the auld Scots tongue and German and French accents were easily distinguishable as the guests slowly made their way through an anteroom to the Assembly Hall, where Their Excellencies were receiving.

In the Chamber.

On the throne, which during the session is the exclusive possession of Mr. Speaker Evanturel, was gathered a brilliant assemblage, among whom were Their Excellencies, the Countess in a black gown trimmed with scarlet and with a magnificent coronet of diamonds and scarlet flowers in her hair. On her left were Sir John Evans, Lord Lister, Sir Frank Smith and Sir Oliver Mowat. Immediately behind her were Lady Kirkpatrick, who looked extremely well in black and diamonds; Lady Evans, in silver grey brocade, with diamond ornaments; the Misses Thompson, the two young sons of Their Excellencies and others. Assisting them were Captain Kirkpatrick and Major Harry Wyatt, A.D.C. The guard was made up of the officers of the different regiments, in brilliant uniforms, who occupied the middle aisle of the hall.

Each side of the House on the south was splendidly fitted up with great, graceful palms, which were the only decoration in the beautiful chamber. The desks and chairs of the members had all been removed to make room for the guests, who began to enter shortly after 9.15; for more than an hour a constant stream of people presented themselves and were cordially and warmly received by Their Excellencies.

A great many of Toronto's society people were present, while Hamilton and Ottawa were well represented; but for the most part the guests were members of the British Association, whom Toronto is just now proud to entertain.

About 20 were present, including Major McMahon of London, Hon A S Hardy and Mrs Hardy, Mr E Strachan Cox and Mrs Cox, Mr Henry Cawthra and Mrs Cawthra, Dr Riordan and Mrs Riordan and Miss Perkins.

Island Garden Party.

The garden party given by the Royal Canadian Yacht Club yesterday afternoon in honor of the British Association was a most successful and enjoyable affair, and Toronto's society turned out very largely on the occasion.

The club house and balconies were tastefully decorated, and strung from the flagstaff were the club's birges, as well as the Union Jack. In the centre of the lawn was a large marquee, in which the guests were served with cooling drinks and light refreshments.

It was 5 o'clock when Rear Commodore George Gooderham's steam yacht Cleopatra arrived, bringing over His Excellency the Governor-General and party, consisting of Lady Aberdeen, Lord and Lady Lister, Lord and Lady Kelvin, Commodore Jarvis, Miss Griffith, Captain H. F. Wyatt, A.D.C. to Lord Aberdeen; Mrs. and Miss Gooderham, C. A. B. and Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Rogers and H. Seavers, Hon. Sec. R.C.Y.C.

While the party were landing a salute was fired, and the band of the Royal Grenadiers played the National Anthem.

The balconies and lawn presented a pretty sight, thronged with ladies in dainty gowns, who were well looked after by their untiring escorts.

During the afternoon, from a spot among the trees that surround the club house, the Grenadiers' Band rendered a first-class program of classical music.

Galt, Aug. 19.—(Special to The World.)—Day by day the mystery of the Emma Orr murder is apparently being cleared up. Day by day the chain of circumstantial evidence connecting James Allison, the hired boy, with the murder grows stronger. Although the evidence at the adjourned inquest to-day was not as startling as was generally expected it would be, it certainly strengthened the case against the boy, and there is but little doubt that when the inquest is concluded to-day he will be committed for trial.

Alex. Allison Took a Fit.

The excitement over the case was heightened by a rumor set afloat during the afternoon that Alexander Allison, the father of the prisoner, had attempted to commit suicide by taking strychnine, as he manifested symptoms of acute poisoning. The doctor who was called, after administering morphine, concluded that no poison had been taken, but that the man had only taken a violent fit, brought on, no doubt, by worry over the awful position his son has been placed in

The Spade Was Found.

The bulk of the evidence has been taken, and it is generally admitted that it is sufficient to warrant the jury in committing the boy for trial. The sensation of the day was the finding of the spade with which the grave in the corn patch was dug. It was found this morning by an old man named Anthony Marshall secreted under a feed box in the passage way between the horse stable and the cow stable. An examination a number of hairs were found on it, and these were found to be identical with the woman's hair. Dark, reddish spots were also discovered on the spade, and the soil that clung to it was of the same sandy nature as the soil in the corn patch.

Prisoner Remanded Till Monday.

The prisoner was brought before Magistrate Turnbull this morning and remanded until Monday at 11 a.m. The charge against him is preferred by Chief Ahearn, and states "That he hath just cause to suspect and believe, and doth suspect and believe, that James A. Allison of the Township of North Dumfries, in the County of Waterloo, farm servant, within the space of one month last past, to wit, on the 9th day of August, 1897, at the Township of North Dumfries, in the County of Waterloo aforesaid, did feloniously, wilfully and of his malice aforethought, kill and murder one Emma Orr."

Wants New Clothes for the Boy.

John R. Blake, counsel for the prisoner, asked permission to have the boy's hair cut and to provide him with better clothes, as the newspapers were commenting upon his personal appearance. He also made complaint of the cells in which Allison is detained and Magistrate Turnbull agreed with him that they were unfit to keep any white man in. It was decided to take him to Berlin, and he was accordingly taken there by High Constable Klippert after the inquest to-day. He will be brought back to Galt to-morrow to be present at the inquest.

The inquest was resumed at 1 o'clock to-day. The council chamber was again crowded with townspeople and farmers, showing that interest in the mystery is still at fever heat.

Harry Blair was recalled and again questioned as to the time he visited the Orrs on Saturday. He swore that he arrived there about 9 o'clock. He drove in a covered carriage. On Monday he arrived at the Orrs at 11 o'clock or a very few minutes after. He used the same carriage on this occasion and could not recollect meeting John Roddy, the milkman. He could produce witnesses to prove that he was not at the Orr farm between 8 and 9 o'clock that morning.

"Well, I think it is in the public interests that you should produce those witnesses," said the Crown Attorney.

Lawyer Card, for Mr. Blair, said he would have these witnesses on hand to-morrow. He could have had them present had he known they would be required.

Milkman Roddy's Testimony.

John Roddy, the milkman, a typical-looking rustic, swore that he always delivered milk to the factory at 9 o'clock and never later than 9.30. He knew Harry Blair and saw him in Orr's lane last Monday.

"Are you sure it was last Monday?" asked the Crown Attorney.

"Yes, it was last Monday."

This information created a laugh in the room, as this would make it a week after the tragedy that witness saw Blair. On further questioning, Roddy maintained that it was on the morning of the tragedy that he saw Blair, but he could not tell how many days ago that was. His evidence was so confused and unsatisfactory that the Crown Attorney ordered him to step aside.

Mrs. Barrie Was Present.

Mrs. John Barrie, who lives next to Anthony Orr, testified that she saw Mrs. Orr on the Sunday before the tragedy. She was present when the body was taken out of the ground. She helped to take the clothes off and wash the body, James Allison came after her the day Mrs. Orr disappeared and told her of the disappearance. She went over to help in the search and take care of the house. She knew nothing that would help clear up the mystery.

Stalker Disappointed Them.

Great expectations were built up on Robert Stalker's evidence, but they failed to materialize. He swore that he had recently been working for Peter Pentland, and was working at Pentland's building, a driving shed, on the morning of the tragedy. He drove to Pentland's from Beverley, arriving in time to get his breakfast and go to work at 7 o'clock. He worked there all forenoon with Peter Pentland in full view of the house. The buggy was in the yard and the horse in the stable. He got dinner at Pentland's and worked there all the afternoon. He went to Orr's for the first time on Friday. He denied most positively that he was at the Orr farm on the morning of the tragedy, and produced a list of names of people who could swear that he was at Pentland's all that morning. Stalker then gave a statement of what occurred after he arrived at the Orr's at 4 o'clock on Friday. His evidence simply proved to be a statement of his suspicions about the boy. Allison's father had told witness that if the boy took after his dad he would know enough to keep his mouth shut. Witness had a long talk with the boy, but could not get much out of him. He thought him a very curious boy. Stalker positively denied that he had been in the lane at Orr's on Monday morning, as stated by young Allison, and as for the identification in the cells, he could prove that he had not had on the clothes he wore that evening until the previous Wednesday, whereas Allison said that the clothes were the same as on the Monday morning. Witness also positively denied that he had ever threatened Allison, that he would ever "lick the devil out of him" if he told what he knew. The rest of Stalker's evidence was a mass of uninteresting details.

Unimportant Testimony.

Langdon Wilks told of how nervous Allison was when he was brought to look at the grave in the corn patch.

Robert Dryden testified to having met Allison about half way between Orr's and Barrie's with the cows at about 8.45 on Monday morning. He was going towards Barrie
