WEST LONDON IS IN LINE; A ROUSING HYMAN RALLY.

government of the country. (Applause.)

And thus when Mr. Hyman was honored the people of London were also highly honored, and their judgment in electing him was indorsed. This honor of having a cabinet minister for a member comes to but very few constituencies. (Cheers.)

Conservatives Raising False Cries.

The Conservatives are appealing to the people of London to vote against Mr. Hyman. On what grounds are they making that appeal? If the people would go carefully over the arguments being advanced, they would find that the appeals of the Opposition leaders would not hold water. If they can prove that the Government has failed in its duties toward the people, if it has failed to advance the interests of the country in all respects, it is open to censure. But the Opposition cannot in one single instance, point to an omission on the part of the Government. (Applause.)

Continuing, Mr. McPherson said the Conservatives were attempting to throw dust in the eyes of the London electorate by raising false cries. They are centering their whole energies on the autonomy bill, and are asking the people of London to decide whether the autonomy bill is a good thing for the west. But he did not believe the people of London would be led away by these false cries. The Conservative party was always talking and always issuing challenges, but it was all talk.

In the House they had dared the Government to open up a constituency in the west and test the issue. But when the Government appointed Mr Oliver, Minister of the Interior, Edmonton was opened up, and what was the result? The Conservatives could not find a man to run against Mr. Oliver. Where were these Sampsons of the Conservative party—these Sampsons who had been bragging that they would drive the Liberal party out of power with the jawbone of an ass? (Laughter.)

They simply crawled in their hole and said nothing. And after the 13th of June they will do as they did in Edmonton—they will crawl in their holes. (Laughter and cheers.)

A voice—It's true enough. (Laughter.)

Borden Only Nominal Leader.

The Conservative party of a few years ago, continued Mr. McPherson, is not in existence today. The Conservative party of today is appealing to the people of London on unfair issues, and are attempting to cloud the real issue. They come to the people without a policy, without an issue, and if the truth were known, without a leader.

Mr. Borden is merely the nominal leader of the party. It is well known that he has not the power to lead, else why was it that in the House during the present session, various members of the Conservative party told the House that they were not following their leader in their attitude upon the autonomy bill. The men who are leading the Conservative party today are D. Sproule, W. T. Maclean and Sam Hughes.

A voice—What about Foster? (Laughter.)

Mr. McPherson replied that Foster has been set in the background. The people of London and of the entire Dominion knew him as the arch-coercionist of 1896. But yet such men as Foster have the effrontery to come to London and attempt to talk to the people against the alleged coercion of the west by the Liberal Government. The people of the Northwest Territories have been exercising self-government for 30 years, and amongst the laws they passed for themselves were the school ordinances of 1891. These school laws have been found to work so satisfactorily that though they have been in operation fourteen years, not one complaint against them has been registered by either Protestant or Catholic, and it is this school system the Government intends giving the provinces.

The speaker believed it to be the best school law in existence today. And Premier Haultain, of the Northwest Territories, asked the Government in his draft bill of 1902, to give the people of the new provinces the school laws which they had framed for themselves in 1891

Mr. McPherson then read from a speech of Mr. Borden's made in 1896, to show that when a minority has been granted a privilege, whether that minority be Protestant or Catholic, under the B. N. A. act the right or privilege cannot be taken away by the Legislature. Mr. Borden also pointed out at that time that the separate school clauses were placed in the B. N. A. act for the protection of the Protestants of Quebec in the first place. But today Mr. Borden shirks the issue and has no decided opinions upon anything. Surely such a man as this is not a man to come to London and preach to the voters of London to vote against their townsman, Hon. Mr. Hyman. The voters of London will not be led away by such chaff. (Cheers.) Mr. Borden said the remedial order, wiping out the legislation that Manitoba passed in 1894 would not be coercing Manitoba, and he says that passing legislation wiping out acts that the Northwest Territories themselves have passed would be coercing them.

A Case of Jekyll and Hyde.

Can you fancy any more direct case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, facing both ways on the same subject? Mr. McPherson asked. No great leader had ever shown as complete a right about face as that taken by Mr. Borden. (Hear, hear.) The people in the west have no more thought of the autonomy bill than they have about the weather in the eastern provinces. The speaker knew the west. He had lived in it for eighteen years. He knew the spirit of the west, and he knew that the Government at Ottawa had put its seal upon legislation that the new provinces had passed, and the new provinces are satisfied. He knew further that the people of the west when they see that the Ottawa Government, at whose head stands the greatest man Canada has ever produced—(cheers)—is gathering around the council board men of the stamp of Charles S. Hyman, would feel still further satisfied. (Continued applause.)

So long as Sir Wilfrid is at the head of affairs and brings around him men of the caliber of Mr. Hyman, so long is the country safe. (Cheers.) The people of the Northwest, Mr. McPherson said, are interested to a greater degree in immigration, railways and the proper administration of the laws than they are in the passage of the autonomy bills. He said further, that if it were not for a few residents of Toronto, there would not be a contest in London.

MR. WALTER SCOTT

Westerner Shows Infringement of Provincial Rights by Conservatives.

Mr. Walter Scott, the member of the Dominion House for Assiniboia, was accorded a warm reception. Mr. Gray, he said, had admitted that Mr. Hyman was a fit and proper person to be appointed Minister of Public Works, and he also recognized that the matter of having a cabinet representative for the city is of importance to London, but he claimed, in the first place, that the school clause of the autonomy measure is so important that London should sacrifice Mr. Hyman and the city's interests to stand up for the people of the Northwest Territories, who apparently do not know their own interests in the measure. Mr. Scott feared that some of the members of the Opposition were trying to lead the people away by a side wind. There was such a thing about a year ago—the Dundonald incident.

"I am here to say to you," continued Mr. Scott, "that the school phase of the autonomy measure—because it has already been dealt with to the satisfaction of the people of the west—is not of the same importance now as some of the other details of the measure." There were many erroneous ideas prevailing in regard to the autonomy granted the territories. Some people thought that up to the present time the Northwest has not enjoyed any autonomy, but Mr. Scott went on to show that for the past thirty years the people of the Northwest have had a larger measure of educational autonomy than the people of the Province of Ontario, or the other older provinces of Canada. So far as the autonomy bill was concerned, Mr. Scott maintained that if there was any infringement of provincial rights in it, it was not to be found in the educational clauses.

Infringement of Rights.

"I will point out where there is a most violent infringement of provincial rights," Mr. Scott went on, "and as a Liberal, I will say that the Liberal party is not responsible for it. Under the old Conservative Government it was made impossible for any municipality in the Northwest to levy a tax on the C. P. R. Today we get limited autonomy unless the Liberal Government takes some other action to abrogate those exemption features, and I say again, that if provincial rights are in any way infringed, it is not the Liberal party, but the Conservative party and Government that is responsible. This is clearly shown in the contract made with the C. P. R.

"Would you stop the legislation that is proposed in regard to the new provinces?" Mr. Scott asked. "These measures have already been approved by a majority of 81 members of the House of Commons, including a number of Conservatives—the second largest majority ever given in the House on a great measure."

If London elected Mr. Gray, and he was put in a Government with Mr. Borden, how would the autonomy measure be dealt with in regard to education? The Conservatives could not get their own people to vote for it. In closing, Mr. Scott declared again, that the people of the west are satisfied with the measure, and did not want the question of education opened up at all.

THE NEW MINISTER

Mr. Hyman Tells of Disgraceful Canvass of Gray's Friends.

The cheers which greeted Mr. Hyman when he arose to speak lasted several minutes, the West Londoners refusing to be silenced until they had shouted themselves hoarse. Mr. Hyman began his address by remarking that this was the first opportunity he had had since West London was made a voting part of the city to address the electors there. He was sorry that in November last the people of West London had seen fit to give a majority against him, but he hoped for better things this time. (Cheers.) He referred to the speeches which had been made by the M. P.'s from the west. They did not come to London to stir up religious strife or propagate false cries. They came simply for the purpose of telling to the people of London the exact truth in connection with the autonomy bill. He did not think there was a gentleman in Canada, with the possible exception of Mr. Oliver, Minister of the Interior, more competent to speak of the autonomy bill in all its phases than was Mr. Scott, of Assiniboia.

The people are told that there is only one issue in this election, but he disputed the cry. There are many issues in this election. The Government of which he is a member should be judged on its merits—on the record of what it had done for the people and for the country. (Hear, hear.) He regretted that it had been made necessary to have a contest in London, but the law requires that when a member is called to the cabinet he must go back to his constituents and secure their indorsement, and his opponents, more especially those in outside cities, had seen fit to oppose him.

And once again he was before the people, asking them for their support. He could fairly claim that in every position in which the people had placed him—all the way from alderman to member of Parliament—he had at all times labored for the good and advancement of the city of London.

Should Be No Election.

"In my canvass of London," continued Mr. Hyman, "I have found a great many people, many of them not of the same political faith as myself, who declare that they see no reason why I should have been opposed this time. I think if the matter had been left to the people of the city of London there would have been no election.

"It seems strange to me that notwithstanding the fact that the country is prosperous, that work is plentiful and that the people of the whole Dominion have indorsed the Liberal Government as a good government, we should find ourselves called upon to fight this bye-election in London—a bye-election in which they tell us the autonomy bill is the one issue, which if this be so, is an issue which does not directly interest the people of London, but more properly the people of the west. (Cheers.)

"It seems to me that the proper place to test the feeling of the people on the autonomy bill would have been in the Northwest. But when the constituency of Edmonton was opened, the Conservatives allowed Mr. Oliver, the Minister of the Interior, to be returned by acclamation. (Cheers.)

"Edmonton is a constituency affected by the autonomy bill. It seems to me that the people there were the people to pass judgment on the measure. It is no argument to say that many of the people of Edmonton are foreigners. It is a good Protestant constituency, but the Conservatives had a very good reason for not putting up a candidate in Edmonton. The reason was this: If they tested the question there, they could not have deceived the people. (Cheers.) There they could not go around from house to house, as I am sorry to say they are now doing in London, misrepresenting the facts of the case. (Cheers.) There they would have had to fight the case on its merits. (Cheers.) But here in London, 3,000 miles away, they are fighting the Government on false issues and false cries. (Applause.)

A Disgraceful Canvass.

"I can tell you, ladies and gentlemen, that the canvass which is going on against me in the city of London today is a disgrace to the city and to its people. I have heard things today which are simply astounding. I have heard of voters being approached, and before the autonomy bill was explained to them, before anything was explained to them, they were asked the question, 'Are you for King Billy or for the Pope?' (Cries of "shame.") This is the canvass my opponents are carrying on in London. This is the religious strife they are trying to raise in this city."

Mr. Hyman then went on to explain that in the minds of many of the people of London the autonomy bill is a measure which relates simply to the school question in the Northwest, whereas the school question is only contained in one clause of the bill. The autonomy bill is a measure which proposes to give to the proposed new provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan the powers of a province, in accordance with the provisions of the B. N. A. Act. It deals with all the powers of provincial government.

The school clauses of the bill were then taken up, and Mr. Hyman explained that the people of the west are being given the law they framed for themselves, a law which has been in force for fourteen years, a law which guarantees national schools, where Protestant and Catholic children must attend together, a law which gives equal rights to Protestants and Catholics, a law which the Liberal Government has not amended or tampered with in a single particular. (Cheers.)

Mr. Hyman in speaking of the alleged coercion by the Liberals of the west, declared that the only coercion ever practiced on the people of Western Canada was put into force by the Conservative Government, when the C. P. R. contract was made in 1883. At that time all the land of the company in the west was exempted from taxation for all time, and a province in Western Canada has not the power to tax the lands of the C. P. R. The lands of all other railway companies and of all individuals may be taxed, but the lands of the C. P. R. could go scott free. This is the way the Conservative Government has coerced the people of the west. (Cheers.)

If elected Mr. Hyman promised the electors of West London to do everything in his power to further the interests of his native city. (Tremendous cheers.)

VOICE FROM NOVA SCOTIA

Mr. MacDonald, of Pictou, Was in a Humorous Vein

Mr. E. M. MacDonald, M. P. for Pictou, N. S., made a splendid speech and was soon on intimate terms with his audience. He told of how in November last the people of his province had had the opportunity of choosing between sending eighteen men to support Premier Laurier or to support Mr. Borden. The people of Nova Scotia knew Mr. Borden, and the result was they sent the whole eighteen, every representative in the province, to Ottawa to support Sir Wilfrid, and help him carry on his good government of the country. (Cheers and laughter.)

The electors had heard Mr. McPherson, from Vancouver, speak, and now he (who came from the other extreme of the Dominion), would address them. He wanted to let the people know that in coming to London, Mr. McPherson and himself had but one idea, and that was to tell the people of London that the Liberal party of this country, from sea to sea, asks that Charlie Hyman be sent back to Ottawa as Minister of Public Works. (Tremendous applause.)

Had the Liberal members of Parliament been asked to select a cabinet minister, which they were not, as the selection of Mr. Hyman was made by the Liberal leader, not a dissenting voice would have been raised against Charlie Hyman. (Cheers.) The party wants him and the country needs him. (Cheers.) Now the people of London are asked whether they are going to be true to themselves and to the interests of London—whether they are going to vote for Mr. Hyman and send him to Ottawa as a powerful cabinet minister, or whether they are going to vote for Mr. Gray and send him to Ottawa to sit in the sold shades of the Opposition for the next four years. Why are we having an election now? he asked. It is because some one has come around with an old wives' story about a revolution in the west? The voters should not allow themselves to be led away by these bugaboo cries. They should remember their duty to themselves and to their country. (Cheers.)

When the people vote they should consider the men who are opposing each other, and also just what each man can do for the city of London if he is elected. And if the people looked at the record of the present Government and compared it with the record of the Conservatives eight years ago, they would be sure to go forth and vote for the Liberal Government, and the Liberal candidate on the 13th of June. (Cheers.)

Besides, there is no Conservative party at Ottawa. (Laughter.) If Mr. Hyman desires to convert the Conservatives of London to Liberal ideas all he will have to do is to take them to Ottawa and allow them to hear the speeches of their alleged leaders in the House. (Laughter.) After being an hour in the House of Parliament, the people will begin to wonder where the Conservative party of Canada has gone. (Cheers.) Where have all the good Conservatives gone? No one appears to know. Why, Mr. Borden himself, the present leader of the Opposition, was a Liberal until 1887. (Cheers.)

Gray and King Edward.

"But then you will be told that a vote for Gray is a vote for the King, and a vote for Hyman is a vote for Laurier," said Mr. MacDonald.

A voice—A vote for Gray with a hammer in his hand. (Laughter.)

He wanted to tell his hearers that he (Mr. MacDonald), represents a good Presbyterian constituency, and these people would not countenance such cries as this. They approved of the Government's course on the autonomy bill. The men who canvass for votes with such rascally cries as this should be driven out of public life. (Tremendous cheers.)

"That talk about a vote for Gray being a vote for the King is all bosh," Mr. MacDonald declared, "I will bet $10 to a cent that the King never heard of him. (Laughter and cheers.)

"And I will go further, and I will bet $10 to a cent that the King never will hear of him. (Cheers.)

"You have heard of Dr. Montague, who circulated a message to the Indians of Haldimand that the late Queen Victoria wanted them to vote for him. (Laughter).

"Well, Mr. Gray and his friends are trying to work that old gag on the people of London. (Continued laughter.)

"Mr. Gray says if it was not for the school question he would not oppose Mr. Hyman. Mr. Gray admits thereby that all the questions of trade that used to be matters of consideration for the Conservative party are of no importance whatever—that Mr. Hyman has the best of the argument—and that he is going to ride the Protestant horse.

"Why has this question come up at all? The reason is this: As a result of the splendid government of the Liberal party during the last ten years, the Northwest has gone ahead by leaps and bounds. Population has gone in at the rate of 100,000 to 200,000 a year, and while the territories have had a modified form of government, they said they were getting big enough and wanted to be on a par with Quebec, Nova Scotia and other provinces."

Dealing with the educational question, Mr. MacDonald showed that by the autonomy bill the new provinces would be given practically what every other province enjoyed. Mr. Borden had talked about the school bill, but he would not come out and talk about a vote for Mr. Gray being a vote for King Edward. (Laughter). He lets the other fellows do that. Mr. MacDonald asked if the Northwest was aflame over the autonomy measure, why did not Premier Haultain call his Legislature together to protest against it?

Not only that. When the Minister of the Interior went back to the people for re-election, these men who come to London and talk about revolutions, took very good care to keep a respectable distance from the only part of the Northwest where they could go and talk on the school question with the people most vitally concerned.

"Having heard the discussion in the House," said Mr. MacDonald, "I never saw such a case of demagogism as the Conservatives are trying to work upon the people of London in this campaign. (Hear, hear.)

"A young Lochinvar from the west, talking about a revolution in the western country that he was going to inaugurate. (Laughter.) Just fancy George Eulas Foster in a colonel's uniform, with Bennett as a captain, and Billy Gray as a full private, bringing up the rear, starting up a revolution in the Northwest. (Laughter.) Would you not think it was a page out of an old-fashioned story book being recited to you?" (Renewed laughter.)

Mr. MacDonald paid further attention to Mr. Foster, with his record as the head of the traitors' nest, and in conclusion he told the electors that in this contest they owe a duty not only to themselves and the city, but to Canada, and that greatness which is sure to come, notwithstanding the efforts of the Conservative disunionists, who are harping on such questions The electors should give an answer to these demagogues. (Cheers.)

WEAK AND NERVOUS

Thousands of Lives Made Miserable by a Trouble Easily Overcome.

Thousands of people throughout this country suffer continually from nervousness—their blood is poor and watery, their nerves unstrung and jaded. They are pale, weak, often troubled with headaches and dizziness are exhausted with the slightest exertion, and often feel as though life were a burden. There is only one absolutely certain way to get new health and strength and that is through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. These pills make new, rich, red blood, strengthen the nerves, and bring health, strength and happiness to those who use them. Mr. D. W. Daley, Crystal City, Manitoba, proves the truth of this. He says: "I have used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills with wonderful results. Before using them I was weak and nervous; my blood was poor; I was pale and suffered from pains in the region of the heart. Now after the use of eight boxes of the pills my nerves are strong; my blood is pure and rich; I have a good color and my heart action is regular. I think there is no medicine can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for these troubles."

This is the verdict of all people who have given the pills a fair trial, and those who are sick can obtain new health and strength through the use of this medicine. Do not waste money and further endanger your health by taking any substitute. See that the full name Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People is printed on the wrapper around every box. If you cannot get the pills from your dealer they will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2 50, by writing to The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

HON. MR. OLIVER AT THAMESFORD

Splendid Reception Given the New Minister of the Interior.

Thamesford, June 2. — Hon. Frank Oliver, Minister of the Interior, and Mr. Talbot, M. P. for Strathcona, addressed a crowded meeting here tonight in the interests of Mr. George Smith, Liberal candidate in North Oxford. Both speakers confined themselves wholly to the issue raised by the school clause, and their comprehensive addresses were listened to with keen interest, and, it was evident from the warm applause which greeted them, completely carried conviction to the minds of the audience.

The chair was occupied by Dr. McWilliam, and the meeting was opened with a short address by Mr. J. W. Mahon, of Woodstock, who, in moving a vote of thanks to the speakers at the close, declared that after hearing the addresses he was sure that the Liberals of Thamesford would be glad that the Opposition had made the school clause the issue. It was an issue on which they would be licked out of their boots.

Mr. Oliver referred briefly to his reasons for participating in an Ontario campaign. What was a Northwest question had been brought before the people of this Province for judgment, and it was necessary that the opinion of the west in regard to it should be heard. The Liberal Administration had been accused of being false to Provincial rights. These required defining. A single province had only such rights as were held by other provinces. Confederation could not have been brought about unless the provinces had given up certain of their rights. There was no such thing as independent provinces. They were all necessarily subject to the constitution, by the terms of which these rights were limited. Mr. Oliver proceeded to show with great lucidity the restrictions which under the constitution were placed on the educational powers of the provinces. The Government had to respect these. If, instead of defining the rights of the minority, as it did in the amended clauses, it had left the educational question open, the Roman Catholics should have appealed to the courts and there was every likelihood that the question would have been thrown back into Dominion politics.

The Northwest was proud of its school system, and did not want to endanger it by involving it in further legal and political procedure. By taking any other course than it did the Government would have endangered it. Nowhere in Canada, except in the Northwest and British Columbia, were there thoroughly state-controlled schools. Manitoba had them in its statutes, but not in practice. If the system were the same as that in Ontario they would certainly protest against its continuance; but the principles on which the two were founded were altogether different. In the one there was the most effective clerical control; in the other nonew hatever. In stating that they would on on account accept the school clause as it originally stood, drafted though it was with all good intentions, the western Liberal members had shown themselves ready to maintain the rights of the west at all costs. The west did not need the services of those who at the present time set themselves up as its champions.

Mrs. Hunter's Story.

Says She and Her Husband Agree Perfectly—Both Quite Well Again.

Mrs. I. Hunter

Mrs. I. Hunter, of 111 Raglan road, Kingston, Ont., has written for publication a statement of her case as follows:

"I have suffered with kidney and liver trouble and chronic constipation for some time. I was subject to dizziness, bilious headache, nervousness, drowsiness, pains in the back and side, and a tired, weary feeling nearly all the time.

"I tried almost every remedy, was treated by doctors and druggists with little or no benefit.

"Finally, a friend advised me to try Dr. Leonhardt's Anti-Pill, and the results have been truly wonderful.

"My husband has used Anti-Pill for rheumatism and was benefited greatly. We agree that Anti-Pill is a most wonderful medicine and heartily recommend it."

This is a very strong recommendation. Anti-Pill is undoubtedly the greatest of family remedies. All druggists, or the Wilson-Fyle Company, Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont. 504

PRINCESS WILLFUL

Christened Her Brothers With Squirt as They Stood In Uniform.

Berlin, June 3. — At the horse show this week the Crown Prince took a prominent part, leading off in the Flower Corso in a dog cart, with his beautiful team of fine, quick-going brown-bay cobs. The Crown Prince drives well, holding his reins in approved English style. His cart was decorated with white carnations and garlands of snowballs.

Driving his team with one hand, he threw the flowers vigorously at the women in the private stand.

Since his engagement the Crown Prince has also been won over to the ranks of the automobilists and has ordered two Mercedes automobiles.

Princess Victoria Louisa, the Kaiser's 12-year-old daughter, reigns supreme in the imperial palace, where she is known as "Princess Willful." Practical joking is her great delight. Recently the Kaiser summoned his two youngest sons to inspect them in their new uniforms. Their sister, though, hid behind a screen and squirted water at them during the inspection by the Kaiser, who roared with laughter, and after keeping the princes several minutes in this uncomfortable situation, released them, telling them their new uniforms had been duly christened.

NO REASON YOU SHOULD GIVE UP

Because Your Indigestion Has Become Chronic — Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Will Cure it Just the Same.

If your Indigestion has turned to Dyspepsia and become chronic that is no reason you should despair. Others just as bad as you have been cured by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. Take the case of Mrs. James Bradley, of Smith's Cove, Digby County, N. S. Here's what she says about it herself:

"I had Dyspepsia for nine years. I tried the best doctors in the place and never found relief. I had to starve myself from eating. No tongue can tell what I suffered.

"I bought six boxes of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and six boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and before I had finished taking them I could eat most anything and sleep comfortably."

There is no need to comment on a statement like this. It's true. What was done for Mrs. Bradley has been done for thousands of others. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will do it for you.

PERE MARQUETTE MEN ARRESTED

Cain and Gilhula Held by Government Re Deportation Proceedings.

St. Thomas, June 2. — Col. Sherwood, chief of Dominion police, arrived from Ottawa this afternoon and arrested Everett E. Cain, trainmaster, and chief dispatcher, James R. Gilhula, of the Pere Marquette Railway, for the purpose of deporting them to the United States.

Both are American citizens and were formerly employed on Missouri Pacific at St. Louis.

The arrests were made in obedience to warrants issued by the Attorney-General of Canada under the great seal of the department of justice.

On being taken in charge they held consultation with the counsel of the Pere Marquette, Robinson & Green, of this city, who immediately started initial proceedings towards their liberation.

A writ of habeas corpus will be applied for tomorrow in the high court of Toronto and served on Col. Sherwood on behalf of the Canadian Government which will not be returnable until Monday.

The matter will then be argued by the counsel for the officials and Mr. Shipley on the part of the crown on the merits of the alien labor law. If the judgment is adverse to the officials, deportation may follow unless an appeal be made to the higher courts. This will be done by the Pere Marquette.

In the meantime they are in custody of Col. Sherwood and will remain in his charge until the matter is settled one way or the other.

There were eleven officials and employes named in the order of the Privy Council for deportation. These two are selected as coming more closely than the rest under the alien labor law, and as test cases for the courts to pass upon.

The city of St. Thomas is, of course, greatly interested in the matter and it was the sole topic of conversation on the streets tonight.

Old Hickory Furniture

STATESMEN OF LONG AGO—WEBSTER, CLAY and Burton—were partial to the Hickory Chair, with its broad expanse of bottom, and no old-time mansion was complete without a dozen or more on the veranda.

The same old chairs are now reproduced, nothing entering into their construction but the young hickory saplings. They are rustic in appearance and will stand all kinds of weather, in fact to leave them our rather improves them.

LARGE ARM CHAIR FOR $2.00.

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

The ORIGINAL remedy that "kills the Dandruff Germ."

DIDN'T KNOW IT WAS LOADED

Most young and middle-aged men never know that their scalps are loaded with microbic growths until the hair has "gone off." Nature sends her warnings of dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair, but the discovery of the dandruff germ is too recent for the public to realize the danger of neglect. Newbro's Herpicide positively destroys the dandruff microbe; stops falling hair and protects the scalp against reinfection. A delightful hair dressing. Stops itching instantly. Its immense popularity proves its goodness. Save your hair while you have hair to save.
