

THE BULL-FINCH'S NEST.

LAST spring, when the swallow return'd back again,
And Flora with cowslips had painted
the plain,
I ran to the maid whom my heart most approves
I told her of this and the bloom deck'd
the groves ;
She smil'd at the tidings, and made me engage.
To furnish a Bull-finch to pipe in her cage.

In time, O ye shepherds, attend to my lay,
I ne'er shall forget whilst there's bloom in the spray ;
A ram in a thicket had fasten'd his horn,
And straggled and band'd to be quit of the thorn ;
I ran to relieve him, and there I admir'd
A nest of those sweet ones, my Phillis requir'd.
