assistance, council, and information of subordinate Officers in the Government.

Resolved, That in order to preserve between the different branches of the Provincial Parliament, that harmony which is essential to the peace, welfare, and good government of the Province, the chief advisers of the Representative of the sovereign consulting a Provincial administration under him, ought to be men possessed of the confidence of the Representatives of the people, thus affording a guarantee that the well understood wishes and interests of the people, which our Gracious sovereign has declared shall be the rule of the Provincial government, will on all occasions be faithfully represented and advocated.

Resolved, That the people of this Povince have, moreover, a right to expect from such Provincial administration, the exercise of their best endeavors that the imperial authority within its constitutional limits shall be exercised in a manner most consistent with their well understood wishes and interests;"

"Which principles have been affirmed by the present colonial secretary and other distinguished British statesmen of all parties, and are now in full operation in Canada; and whereas, the house believed that on the occurrence of vacancies in the principal offices of Government, these principles would be adhered to as the circumstances and situation of the Province would admit; and whereas, the secretary of this Province is the head of a department which should be included in the Executive council, and the incumbent bound to resign office on retirement from the council which principle has been disregarded in filling up the vacancy which recently occurred in the office: therefore,"

"Resolved, as the opinion of this Committee, that the course pursued by the Administrator of the Government in filling up the vacancy which has occurred in the Secretary's Office, has, in this respect, departed from the acknowledged principles of Colonial Government."

☞ Mr. Hardings will deliver a Lecture on Taste in relation to Painting, &c. at the Hall of the Mechanics' Institute on Monday evening next.

The Honorable Mr. Simonds.—This gentleman has been, for many years, the leading Agitator and the leader of the Responsible Government party in this Province; and as such we have often spoken of him in terms of severity. It seems, however, that he has now lived long enough to see the mischievous tendency of the principles which he has advocated; and we heartily congratulate the country upon the change which appears to have taken place in his sentiments.

In the debate in the House of Assembly on the 3d instant, he avowed those sound Constitutional principles which have been so often advocated in our columns, and which cannot fail to be entertained by every honest, loyal, and right minded man who understands the subject. He condemned in the strongest manner, those principles of responsible government which, he said, were held by some honorable members, and which were the same as those contended for by Baldwin and others in Canada. He said if those principles were once introduced here, "then farewell to the peace of this Colony,"—what had occurred in Canada would follow, wherever those principles should take root, as inevitably as night follows day,—He called attention to the scenes now being enacted in Nova Scotia and Canada, and asked if that were a state of things to be desired in this Province. Such principles, he said, were not applicable to a Colony—they were inconsistent with the Monarchial principle—they would sink the country beneath a Democracy, and lead to an Oligarchy, the most odious of all governments. A Colonial Cabinet dependent on a majority of the House of Assembly was impracticable and absurd, and inconsistent with the prerogative of the Crown. Such a responsible government, he said, "was calculated to agitate and disturb the country—it was a spectre which pushed before it agitation with one arm, and dragged after it rebellion with the other." As he did not expect or wish to remain long in public life, he expressed these opinions with the sincerity of a dying man, and thought he should betray his duty to the country if he did not express them.

Mr. Simonds is not the first politician in whose mind years and experience have produced a change of sentiment. When Burke saw that, owing to the influence of the French Revolution, the principles of those with whom he acted in the House of Commons were likely to do infinite mischief, he nobly sacrificed every consideration to the good of his country, and joined the government party.

Mr. Simonds speaks of retiring from public life; but if he has now hoisted the British flag in earnest, we should be sorry to see him desert his colors.—Let him remember the example of Pitt—let him stand by and defend the prerogative of the Crown to the last, and he will find that his loyal constituents will, as they did before he lost his popularity, again elect him at the head of the poll.

Interesting to Emigrants.—The Lords of the Treasury have instructed the customs department in Canada to exempt from payment of the Imperial duties, household furniture and other necessaries which may accompany settlers, and are intended solely for their own use, or that of their families, and not for the purpose of trade or sale.

☞ The Concert of Secular Music, which was to have taken place this evening, is Postponed until further notice, in consequence of the illness of some parties who were to take an active part in the performance.

Much apprehension is felt for the safety of the Packet ships United states, and England, which left Liverpool Nov. 25 and December 1st for New York. Several other vessels bound for American ports are also stated to be missing.

Pennsylvania.—The Interest Bill Passed.—The Bill for paying the whole of the Interest due on the State Debt of Pennsylvania, to the 1st of February, 1845, has unanimously passed both branches of the Legislature of that state, and subsequently received the sanction of the Governor. The amount of money appropriated for this purpose is $873,516 6.—The State Treasurer has received instructions for completing the requisite arrangements for the prompt payment as directed by the act of the Legislature.

The Philadelphia U. S. Gazette says—"We announce this result with a proud satisfaction—a satisfaction that will be shared by every pennsylvanian. The noble act places the state again in her proud position, and its passage is a signal rebuke to the busy advisers who so strenuously endeavoured to compass its rejection.'

This will be good news to the Rev. Sydney Smith, and others.

The state of Maryland, it is anticipated, will soon follow the example of Pennsylvania.

A Farthing for Repeal; or the Irish Conjuror.—Our English readers may recollect an ingenious wayfarer who was wont to levy small contributions on the pockets of his spectators by means of a sheet of white paper: yes, of one sheet of Bath post. This paper the adroit beggar would fold up into different shapes, all distinctly representing twenty different things. "Now," he would say, "it is a chest of drawers," and a chest of drawers it was; "now it is a lady's bonnet;" nobody could dispute it—it was a lady's bonnet; "and now it is a coal-scuttle. The crowd would by their applause declare it to be a coal-scuttle and nothing else. Now this man was an honest showman, though he dealt in sleight of hand; though he carried his mutton and potatoes by dexterity of finger—he was nevertheless no cheat: what he promised to do, he faithfully accomplished. Why will not Daniel O'Connell copy the high principle of the English showman? is, like him, he deals in legerdemain—why, like him, does he not put an honest face upon the matter? How long is it since he has promised to show all the features of the doll repeal?—and up to the present time she is muffled like an Indian beauty.—"Give a farthing—only a farthing—and you shall see what you shall see. Hereditary bondmen know ye not—only a farthing!—who would be free—but one farthing!—themselves must—down with your farthing!—strike the blow! Only a farthing!"

The Misery of being a Candidate for Office.—An Ohio paper relates the following anecdote of an inexperienced candidate for office:—"We once had a fellow student, who after he had graduated, entered upon the practice of medicine with very fair prospects, but in an evil hour he consented to become a candidate for election to the State Legislature. He was a man of good natural endowments and competent literary education. He had prepared himself for his profession by close application to study, and had of course entered but little into society, so that he was little acquainted with the world, and had no conception of what he was to endure in the electioneering canvass. He was elected; but after it was all over he said to us, 'If I had known what would have been said of me by my opponents, I would have run away rather than have suffered myself to be nominated. I knew that nobody could say much good of me, but I thought also that they could not say much harm. Yet the newspapers opened upon me; they made me out so bad a fellow I did not believe it was me at all; and I could not be satisfied of my own identity until I called my dog, and found that he knew me.'"

[Some of our Legislators' dogs, we are apprehensive, will find considerable difficulty in recognising their masters when they return from the present session of the house.]

The English Bride of the Ojibbeway Indian—It was announced recently that the bride of the Objibbeway Indian, Nolickhem, or "Strong Winds," recently married in London, has returned to the paternal roof, she and her spouse not having been able to live comfortably together. The Detroit Advertiser contradicts the story, and says:

We recently saw this Indian with his fashionable wife at our stores, buying articles for house-keeping. She is a very pretty, stylish, petite English woman. He is a coarse, awkward, and stupid looking booby Indian.

She seemed to treat her spouse in rather a schoolmistress style, and was vastly amused at his ignorance of the use of the most necessary household articles. He put in objections to the purchase of any thing that did not meet his savage notions, and seemed to doubt the necessity of having earthen plates. She managed the savage pretty well, but while he was enforcing the Indian economy in very harsh tones and unintelligible English, we could not help asking ourselves if that was the mighty Indian magic that won the second Desdemona. We imagine that one winter in the rude houses of the Ojibbeways will take off something of the poetry of savage life."

IT is now an absolute and known fact, that every disease, whether it be in the head or feet, in the brain or meanest member, whether it be an outward ulcer or inward ulcer or inward abscess, are all, though arising from many causes redueible to the one grand effect, namely, impurity of blood. In many cases where the dreadful ravages of Ulceration had laid bare ligament and bone, and where to all appearance no human means could save life, have patients, by the use of these Pills, been restored to good health, the devouring disease having been completely eradicated. In consequence of the pleasantness of their operation, they are universally used where they are known, and are fast superseding every other preparation of professed similar import. The most opposite diseases are cured by the one simple act of continually evacuating the bowels with them, until the disease gives way; therefore, whatever may be said of the theory, the utility of the practice is now beyond all doubt
