had come meaning to take them with him to "live in clover," and this was the way she had welcomed him! All the lofty castles in the air which she had been building during the past week were shattered to pieces and tumbled to the ground, so to speak, by the blow of a broom. It was too dreadful! She cast one despairing glance at the wrecked hat, and the red face, and then, sobbing out, "Oh, mamma, I thought he was the tramp! I thought he was the tra-a-mp!" buried her own face in her mother's dress, and cried as if her heart would break. The other children joined in the chorus, Bess loudest of all, and it seemed that Bedlam had broken loose to the distracted Mrs. Milham.

She finally got voice enough back to begin, "Well, really, Uncle Patterson, I don't know how to apol—" but at this point she was interrupted by a new demonstration on the part of their peculiar guest. At Lizzy's cry, "I thought he was a tramp," his angry and surprised expression had changed to a grin—a new light seemed slowly to dawn on him, and finally he broke in upon Mrs. Milham's confused excuses with a tremendous "Ha! ha! ha!" that fairly shook the little house. Even Lizzy stopped crying in wonder at the sound. The old man's amusement was irresistible; even Mrs. Milham, in all her mortification, could not help joining in. The children began to think it all very funny when their mother would laugh, and made almost as much noise this way as they did before in their alarm. At last Uncle Patterson gathered himself up slowly from off the floor, and said: "Don't ye say another word! Thought I was a tramp, didshe? Haw! haw! haw! Never mind, little gal, ye've got right good spunk, and I like spunk wherever I see it. Goin' to knock me on the head, was she? Haw! haw! haw! Never mind, don't ye cry; served me right for comin' in on ye that way! And there ain't no harm done, except to the hat, and I guess it won't do me harm to git a new one, anyway."

"Ye see, Betsey," he went on, taking a chair in the kitchen, "I got a chance to ride over with one of your neighbors by the name o' Johnson, and walked over from his house. Thought I'd save the stage the trouble. But when I got here it was so hot that it seemed as if I must git in somewhere or roast. So, thinkin' nobody was to home, I made free to climb to your window, but I got caught in my burglarizin'"—here he looked with a twinkling eye at Lizzy, who hid her face—"and good enough fer me?"

What a merry time they had together that evening! Their peculiar introduction took away all stiffness between them. The children played about in their usual way, and Mr. Harwood Patterson softened and warmed to them to a degree that astonished himself. And at last, when Carry and Bess had gone to bed, and he and Mrs. Milham and Lizzie sat in the moonlight together, he said:

"Wa'al, Betsey, I guess we might as well settle it about your comin' to live with me before we sleep. If you're agreeable, I am. Really, I don't see how I've got along without your company so far. And I hain't the least objection to the children. The other two is nice little gals, but I want Lizzie here very special. Because, ye see, when she's around everything'll be all safe. At least I can be sure that there won't never be any danger from tramps!"

Narcisse Larocque Executed.

PAID THE DEATH PENALTY FOR THE DOUBLE CUMBERLAND MURDER.

L'Original, Ont., June 4.—Narcisse Larocque, at 8.05 this morning, paid by his death the penalty of one of the most atrocious crimes ever perpetrated in America. The cold-blooded murder and outrage of the two little McGonigle girls in Cumberland, Russell County, Ont., just eight months ago, October last. He died without a sign of fear. He made no confession. The execution was probably the most expeditious on record. Exactly five minutes from the time the hangman pinioned his arms he was out of the world. The prisoner passed a quiet night. Father Berube was with him till midnight. The priest was assisted in his ministrations by two Grey Nuns from Ottawa. An altar had, by special permit, been built in the corridor, and the many tapers burning on it cast a weird light and made the scene one not soon to be forgotten. The low chanting of the mass was most impressive. Just at midnight the priest and nuns retired and Larocque who had appeared much affected by the service was left to his own reflections, but not for long as the turnkey soon appeared with razor and shaving material and the prisoner was soon under his keen edge for the last time. At first he was allowed to shave himself, but after the sentence was passed that privilege was taken from him. After the shaving the prisoner was put into his cell for the remainder of the night. He lay down, leaving on his trousers, and in a few minutes was asleep and apparently resting quietly. He continued this way till 5 o'clock in the morning, when he awoke and walked slowly up and down his cell. He had not been awake long before the priest was again with him, and the solemn religious ceremony was recommenced. This was kept up till 7 o'clock. The religieuses then retired to allow the prisoner to partake of his last meal of bread, cold ham and tea brought to him. He partook sparingly. At 7.25 Father Berube and the nuns returned, and the final rites were commenced. The prisoner knelt beside the priest, his head bowed, and his eyes filled with tears. At five minutes to eight the sheriff warned the priest to prepare, and five minutes later, exactly at eight, the hangman entered the cell, carrying in his hands the straps to pinion the prisoner's arms. Larocque, who was watching the door, nodded gravely to him, at the same time casting a quick glance over him. He then let his eyes fall to the ground. At a signal from the sheriff Radcliffe pinioned the prisoner's arms. Larocque was most submissive and even helped in the adjustment of the strap. The prisoner at the same time placing a crucifix in his hand. Another signal and the death march to the gallows began. The sheriff walked first, followed by gaoler Cameron and the turnkey, then came Larocque with Father Berube on the left and the hangman on the right. The procession was slow and solemn. The condemned man kept his eyes on the ground but showed no sign of weakening. The priest read prayers in a low tone as they walked. Arrived at the gallows, Larocque took his place without a word and without any show of nervousness. As soon as he was in position the priest began the Lord's prayer in French, the hangman placed the noose over Larocque's head and then drew on the black cap.

As the priest reached the words in the Lord's Prayer "thy will be done," Radcliffe let go the rope that held the big weight and it fell with a sickening thud and the next second the body dung in the air. The struggle was not long, the deadly writhing motion lasted only a few seconds and then all was still. Death resulted from strangulation. The prisoner's neck was too thick set to break.

MIRACLE OF MODERN DAYS.

"TOTALLY DISABLED," YET CURED.

Hamilton Times, May 27th, 1891.

One of the most remarkable cures in the history of medicine has just been effected in this city and the fame of it is fast spreading throughout the land. Over four years ago Mr. John Marshall then employed as manager of Mr. J. C. Williams' coal oil refinery works here, sustained a fall, which at the time was not thought to be serious. He doctored but his trouble grew worse and contracting cold after cold upon his other trouble he was compelled to give up work entirely. His troubles developed into ataxy, a nervous disorder, held by medical authorities to be incurable. For four years Mr. Marshall has been an intense sufferer. He lost the use of his legs entirely and could not raise himself from a chair except by the use of a crutch and a stick. Though there was power in his legs there was no feeling. They were like dead weights, cold as ice and not susceptible to feeling. He could take his heavy stick and hammer the flesh until the sound of blows filled the house. During the course of these years no less than fourteen leading physicians of this city treated him. Sometimes two or three of them were in attendance at once. All agreed that his disease was incurable. Mr. Marshall went to Toronto for electrical treatment, at a heavy expense, but received not the slightest benefit. He tried every patent medicine that was recommended to him, yet without getting any aid. The "suspension" treatment was resorted to, and he was suspended by means of appliances around his neck and under his arms from the ceiling of the barn, but got no relief. Electric belts and appliances of an endless variety were tried, and thoroughly tried, too, but all resulted the same way—they left Mr. Marshall just as they had found him. At one time twenty pins were run right into the flesh of his leg. He barely felt two of them; the others he did not feel at all. His flesh was cut into with a knife and he felt not the slightest pain; and so he went on until the 13th day of April last, every remedy suggested by any one being tried, and hundreds of dollars spent upon patent medicines, to say nothing of doctors' bills.

Mr. Marshall was a member of the Royal Templars of Temperance. He was passed by the physicians of the order as totally disabled for life. The chief medical examiner passed him, and he was paid the $1,000 paid by the Order in cases of total disability.

A day or two ago a Times representative called upon Mr. Marshall at his residence, No. 25 Little William street. The door was open, and upon knocking a strong steady step was heard. Mr. Marshall opened the door and received the reporter cordially. He walked without either crutch or stick and looked the picture of a sturdy fire man. He conversed freely of his case, as did Mrs. Marshall who came in later. "Five weeks ago," he said, "I could not raise my foot or bend my leg. As for walking without a stick it was impossible. I had seen an advertisment of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and as they were especially recommended for nervous disorders, I resolved to try them. I had what the doctors called Locomotor Ataxy. I had not walked for almost four years. My wife said, "Oh, what's the use of trying another patent medicine?" but I tried the Pink Pills. I had not used one box before I began to feel the effects. The feeling came back again to my right leg first. After using them two weeks I was able to walk up to Mr. C. J. Williams' place on MacNab street, over a mile and a half from here, and back. I had got nearly home when my left leg gave out and I nearly went down. I had to stand and rub the leg for several minutes. Then it felt as if a thousand pins were running in it. That was the blood beginning to circulate in the leg that had been dead almost four years. From that time it has steadily improved. Now you see how I am. (Here Mr. Marshall arose and walked briskly around the room without artificial assistance.) I have used absolutely nothing but Pink Pills and taken cold baths as directed on the box. To-day I walked to the market and back—a three mile walk. I have lived in Hamilton for 30 years and am well known. Hundreds of people stopped me on the streets. Some of them stopped me to see if it was really John Marshall. Hundreds of people have been here to see me. Among them came several physicians who attended me. One of them, and the one who did the most for me, said, "Well, you are the first cure in 10,000 cases." I can tell you of a bank messenger in this city who has not walked as straight in 25 years as he has this last week. He took Pink Pills on my recommendation. Scores more in this city are trying them and quite a number is this vicinity have been benefited."

Mr. Marshall is gaining strength rapidly and expects to be back to his work before long. He grows more enthusiastic in talking of Pink Pills and he has good reason to, for his is a remarkable salvation. Since beginning to use the remedy he has regained lost flesh and now weighs more than he has for nine years. He has not an ache or pain, but is conscious of a delicious feeling of healthy life in his legs.

The remarkable case noted in the above article from the Hamilton Times, conclusively proves that the proprietors of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have in no way overstated the merits of their remedy. Pink Pills are a never failing blood builder and nerve tonic, and are equally valuable for men or women, young or old. They cure all forms of debility, female weakness, suppression, chronic constipation, headache, St. Vitus dance, loss of memory, premature decay, etc., and by their marvellous action on the blood, build up the system anew and restore the glow of health to pale and sallow complexions. These pills are sold by all dealers or will be sent post paid on receipt of price (50 cents a box) by addressing the Dr. Williams Medical Co., Brockville, Ont.

NO REST, BUT CHANGE OF OCCUPATION.—As for the feeling that we need rest, rest, rest, it is often a fallacious one. It is action which makes muscle. The spirit of life enters into us when we take a vital part to-day. Often we suffer from rest. A change of occupation is what we most need, as a rule, and the relief hours of an active person turn out to be very intelligent. We must rest, but we need not lose our electricity, which the will, the thought, can command at all times, and which ought to be on guard, like an orderly, to summon us when we should become alert.

Headaches evaporate if we must exert ourselves for those we love, or we almost forget the pain, which is the same thing and ill temper cannot flourish unless we have illeness in which to reflect upon the motes belonging to some one else. With energy leading the way, ennui lifts from the horizon, and we see color and distance again. There are women who labor day by day in hunger and despair. It seems as if others might labor in comfort and health, instead of sitting down to lassitude and sighs.—Harper's Bazar.

—In transplanting plants of every kind, whether large or small, care must be taken to keep the roots moist. Allowing them to remain lying out exposed to a hard wind, will dry out the moisture very rapidly. Care must also be taken to see that the roots come in close contact with the soil. A failure in either of these particulars is very frequently the cause of the death of the plants.

A Good Practice.

If the children suffer from pimples, irritated skin, headache, etc., Burdoch Blood Bitters is by far the best remedy. Mr. McConnell, 28 Henderson Avenue, Toronto, says: "Since I made a practice of using B. B. B. my children have got strong and well."

The Wizard's Latest.

EDISON WILL EXHIBIT SEVERAL ASTONISHING INVENTIONS AT THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Thomas A. Edison, the famous electrician and inventor, is preparing to astonish the world, by the exhibition he will make at the World's Fair in 1893. "I shall have two or three things to show," said he recently, "which I think will both surprise and please the visitors to the electrical department of ehe Exposition, which, by the way, I am fully convinced, will be a great success. Two of these inventions are not yet ready to be described, or even characterized. The third, however, is so nearly perfected, that I do not hesitate to say something about it.

I hope to be able by the invention to throw upon a canvas a perfect picture of anybody and reproduce his word. Thus, should Patti be singing somewhere, this invention will put her full length picture upon a canvas so perfectly as to enable one to distinguish every feature and expression of her face, see all her actions and listen to the entrancing melody of her peerless voice. The invention will do for the eye what the phonograph has done for the voice, and reproduce the voice as well, in fact, more clearly. I have already perfected the invention so far as to be able to picture a prize fight—the two men, the ring, the intensely interested faces of those surrounding it—and you can hear the sound of the blows, the cheers of encouragement and the yells of disapointment. And when this invention shall have been perfected," said Mr. Edison with the trace of enthusiasm's glow in his face, 'a man will be able to sit in his library at home, and, having electrical connection with the theatre, see reproduced on his wall or a piece of canvas the actors, and hear anything they say. I can place one so it will command a street corner, and after letting it register the passing sights for a time, I can have it cast them on a canvas so that every feature and motion of the passers, even to the twitching of the face, can be seen, and if a friend passes during the time, you may know it. This invention will be called the 'Kinetograph.' The first half of the word signifies 'motion,' and the last 'write,' and both together mean the portrayal of motion. The invention combines photography and phonography."

Mr. Edison occupied nearly an acre with his exhibition at the Paris Exposition. As he wishes to show at Chicago all that he exhibited at Paris, and numerous other things besides, he is desirous of being accorded a greater space in 1893. the electrical exhibit is expected to be the wonder of the Exposition.

Dr. J. WOODBURY'S

HORSE LINIMENT

It is the only decidedly reliable remedy for all the affections peculiar to the Horse. It is equally efficacious for the removal of

and in all cases of Bruise or Strain of the Joints and Tendons, and Enlargements of any and every description. Given internally, it will promptly relieve and release any and every character of

COUGH, ENLARGEMENT of the GLANDS, AFFECTIONS of the KIDNEYS, etc, and in our prevailing Horse Distemper it is infallibly THE REMEDY.

A Cough which cannot be removed by this Liniment may be considered incurable.

As the proprietor of this Liniment is quite aware of the many worthless nostrums offered to the public at the present time, he would beg to see that all articles manufactured by him are strictly WARRANTED to effect that for which they are recommended, when used according to directions.

Use this preparation thoroughly for all and every disease of the horse for which it is recommended. Criticize it closely, carefully watch, mark, and note its effects, and, honestly judging it on its merits, you will be compelled to endorse the sentiment that NO STABLE SHOULD BE WITHOUT IT.

Price, 25 cents per bottle. Sold by all druggists.

The Household.

Care of Oxalis.

The oxalis need never be cut down for lack of blooming capacity, for it will bloom on and on. But common sense teaches that if permitted to do so, it must in time exhaust itself. Therefore in May or June when turning some of the window plants out into the borders, and laying away others to rest a season, c
