MUSIC.

"Music keeps the key of Memory."—CRMY.

Oh yes, the sounds were sweet as these
Linger away at Evening's close,
As gentle as the tones that fall
From waters wildly musical
But Music is not dear to me,
It wakes too much of memory:
Too much recalls Music's sigh
Too much recalls too much of days gone by.
Too much recalls, the sweet voiced shell,
To me sounds of the farewell
Of parting lovers: Music wakes
The world of dreams, and Music takes
Each shape of fancy; but it brings
To me the shades of lovely things
Past, and forever—hopes deserted,
Or, like the song of the spring-bird,
Dying when sweetest. Music's sigh
First taught me love's idolatry,
Waked my young heart to find (too late)
It might be left all desolate;
To curse the dream-like life before,
To love the once loved song no more;
To know, hope, genius, spirit fled,
Soul sickness, feeling wilt'red!
Rather be mine the heartless smile,
A flower on the lava; while
Beneath is flame and barrenness,
The colors do not glow the less.
I bade my heart once be my world,
And dreamed it could; but I was hurled
From my enchanted pinnacle
Of hope, of joy, of trust, to dwell
Mid those stern truths which chilled that heart,
And bade youth's fairy lights depart.
And Music has to me a tone
Sacred to thoughts to feelings gone,
When love and faith, or ere I knew
Its altar true, its sigh untrue—
That it was like the hues that spring
Upon the rainbow's wandering.
But now those feelings cannot be,
Their echo is too sad for me;
For what can Music breathe me now?
The blighted hope, the broken vow!

VARIETY.

POCKETS.—What about a youngster's dress, he is more proud of than his pockets? Does his mother forget to insert a pocket in his apron, she is quickly reminded of it, and obtains no peace until the omission is supplied. What mother ever finished her boy's first pantaloons without a perfect pocket on either side? And with his legs encased in the little cloth tubes, as he struts off, where are his hands? Has his mother lost her thimble, where can she find it? Is anything ever suffered to lie loose on the floor, small enough to go into his pockets? And at a later stage of life, when the world's goods begin to attract his attention, and that decidedly human nature commences stowing over him, and he has more of them, are they less used? Let the following exposition answer. A mother, in a neighboring village, says she emptied her hopeful son's pocket the other day, and the following articles were brought to light: Sixteen marbles, one top, an oyster shell, two pieces of brick, one doughnut, a piece of currycomb, one paint-brush, three wax-ends, a handful of corn, a chisel, two broken knives, a skate strap, three buckles, one ball, two primers, five hen's eggs, and a bird's nest.

THE HAMMER.—The hammer is the universal emblem of mechanics. With it are alike forged the sword of contention and the ploughshare of peaceful agriculture. In ancient warfare it was a powerful weapon, independent of the place which it formed. The hammer is the wealth of nations. By it are forged the wonderous engine and the tiny needle. It is an instrument of the savage and the civilized. Its merry clink points out the abode of industry; it is a domestic deity, presiding over the grandeur of the wealthy and ambitious, as well as the humble and impoverished. Not a stick is shaped, not a house is raised, a ship floats, or a carriage rolls, a wheel spins, an engine, a press speaks, a viol sings, a spade delves, or a flag waves, without the hammer. Without the hammer civilization would be unknown, and the human species only as defenceless brutes; but in skilful hands directed by wisdom, it is an instrument of power, of greatness, and of true glory.

SAGACITY OF CATS.—Mr Tiedman, the famous Saxon dentist, had a valuable tortoise-shell cat, that for days did nothing but moan. Guessing the cause, he looked into its mouth, and seeing a decayed tooth, removed it and its pain. The following day there were at least ten cats at the door; the day after, twenty; and they went on increasing at such a rate that he was obliged to keep a bull-dog to drive them away. But nothing would hinder them—a cat that had the toothache would come any number of miles to have it extracted! It would even come down the chimney, and would not leave the room till the painful tooth was taken out from the jaw. At last it grew to be a perfect nuisance, and he was never free from one of these feline patients. However, being one morning very nervous, he accidentally broke the jaw of an old tabby. The news spread like wildfire. Not a single cat ever came to him afterwards.

DON'T EXPECT TOO MUCH.—Deceive not thyself by over-expecting happiness in the married state. Look not therein for contentment greater than God will give, or a creature in this world can receive; namely, to be free from all inconveniencies. Marriage is not wholly without clouds. Expect both wind and storms sometimes, which when blown over, the air is the cleaner and wholesomer for it. Make account of certain cares and troubles which attend thee. Remember the nightingales, which sing only some months in the spring, but commonly are silent when they have hatched their eggs, as if their mirth were turned into care for their young ones.

He sat before a low table, and his pale fingers clutched with convulsive energy the handle of a knife. His brows were knit, and his lips were tightly compressed, while the wild and unsettled expression of his eyes seemed to indicate the desperate purpose that was flashing through his excited brain. Suddenly he held the glittering steel to the light, he felt of its keen edge and tapering point, then, with a startling energy he raised the fatal knife on high, and plunged it into the breast of a——roast goose. The gravy ran out in torrents, and the half-famished young gentleman left behind him as the only monument of his prowess, a pyramid of bones.

WHAT A WOMAN SHOULD BE (ALPHABETICALLY.) A woman should be Amicable, Benevolent, Charitable, Domestic, Economical, Forgiving, Generous, Honest, Industrious, Judicious, Kind, Loving, Modest, Neat, Obedient, Pleasant, Quiet, Reflecting, Sober, Tender, Urbane, Virtuous, Wise, Xemplary, Zealous.

The late Dr. Knox, of Lapert, while entertaining, one day, a few of his clerical friends to dinner, happening, rather unceremoniously, to help himself to some vegetables upon the table by using his fingers, was told by one of his brethren that he reminded him of Nebuchadnezzar; when the Doctor immediately replied, "Oh, yes; that was when he was eating with the beasts."

"Ah," said a father to his son William, "hearty breakfasts kill one half of the world, and tremendous suppers the other half."—"I suppose," retorted William, "that the true livers are only those who die of hunger."

We know a man, the tones of whose voice are so silvery that his words pass for shillings.

Even a railway engine is not the toughest material in the world, for it has its "tender" part attached to it.

In New Zealand, when the marriage ceremony takes place, it is a very old custom to knock the heads of the bride and bridegroom together previous to their union.

"CHARITY covereth a multitude of sins." So does calico.

If honest men are the salt of the earth pretty girls may be said to be the sugar.

St. John, Feb. 1, 1856.

Caution to the Public.

I BEG leave to notify my friends and customers that on the first day of May I removed one door above my old stand in the same building, and since that period parties who leased the premises formerly occupied by me, have without a particle of right put up the sign of "GRANITE HALL," the name that I have done business under for the last seven years; and taken other means to lead strangers and others to believe that it was the same establishment as heretofore.

In justice to the public I now distinctly state that I have no communication with the place whatever, that my place of business is one door above, in the Store formely occupied by William McGlinchy, where I hope to give as good satisfaction to the public as I have formerly.

The Subscriber having been appointed Agent to the above Company for New-Brunswick, begs to announce that he is prepared to receive Proposals for FIRE AND LIFE ASSURANCE. The large Capital of the Company, and the number and influence of its Proprietors, enable it to rank with the most eligible Offices, either in America or Europe, with respect to the advantages offered to the Public.

FIRE BRANCH.

Persons Assured by this Company are not subject to any covenants or calls to make good losses which may happen to themselves or other, nor do they depend on any uncertain fund or contribution, the Capital Stock of this Company being an unquestionable security to the Assured in case of Loss or Damage by Fire.

LIFE BRANCH.

In addition to the more customary methods of Insurance, the Company likewise Assures Lives on any of the following contingencies:—

For the terms of One Year, Seven Years, or any other definite period.

For the whole continuance of Life.—The Premiums to cease, after a limited number of Annual Payments.

For Two Joint Lives.—The sum assured to be paid on the death of either.

On the longest of Two or Three Lives.—The sum assured to be payable at the death of the last survivor; or,

The Survivorships.—To secure the payment of the sum assured, if a life A die before another life B.

For a sum to be payable at age 60, or at death.

Premiums on Credit.—A portion of the Premiums on Credit. Assurances may be effected in various ways, not enumerated, to meet the convenience of parties.

The important advantages afforded by the Company in the Life Branch will include the following viz:—

The Guarantee of an ample Capital, and Exemption of the Assured from liability of Partnership.

Moderate Premiums.

Large Participation of Profits by the Assured amounting to Two-thirds of its net amount, which may be applied at the option of the party effecting the Assurance:—1st. By the immediate payment of the sum so apportioned.—2nd. By an equivalent increase of the sum assured.

Small Charge for Management.—The expenses of the Office being borne in due proportion by the two Branches.

Prompt Settlement of Claims.

Policies lapsed by non-payment of the Premium may be renewed within three months, by paying the premium, with a fine of 10s. per cent., on the production of evidence to the satisfaction of the Directors of the good health of the life assured.

The Company will always be prepared to Purchase the Policies of this Office at their equitable value or will grant a New Policy in lieu thereo without any further payment of Premium, for a sum to be agreed on.

Extra Premiums, suitable to special circumstances, will be accepted to enable a party possessing a Policy on the life of another to guard against the possibility of its being vitiated by the Life departing beyond limits, or by any other cause.

Thirty Days are allowed for the Payment of Premiums after the day on which they respectively

Additional Advantages offered to Lives Assured with this Company of St. John, N. B.

I.—RESIDENCE.—Persons assured for the whole term of life will have permission, without the payment of extra Premium, to reside in any part of Europe, or in any place in North America to the north of 38 degrees of North Latitude, but not to the westward of the Mississippi River.

II. VOYAGES.—They will also, if not seafaring by profession, be allowed, without any extra charge—

To cross and re-cross the eAtlantic Ocean, in teamers or first class sailing-vessels;

To pass from any part of Europe to any other, or from any part of North America to another, within the limits above specified; also,

To pass to and from, but not to reside in any place which shall not be further south than 35 degrees of North Latitude, but not to the westward of the Mississippi River.
