Maple Sugar Making.

The season of maple sugar making is again upon the farmer, and soon in many a farm house all will be bustle and activity to transform the clear transparent sap of the maple into those bright crystals of sugar which are so tempting and delicious during the spring and summer months. It would be a useless task to tell farmers how to make maple sugar. Every one knows from past experience the process which is best adapted to its requirements. What would answer for the man who has an extensive sugar bush, and enters largely into the making of sugar, would not do the farmer who has but few trees and makes but a few pounds, most, if not all of which, is devoted to the use of his own family. The only essentials are that the sap should be as carefully and and cleanly handled as it can be, and with a little pains there is no reason why the sugar should not be good. It is to be regretted that year by year the woodman's axe is destroying trees which could not be put to a better or more profitable use than in the making of sugar. Maples on a farm take up but little room, and all the work of drawing the sap and boiling it can be performed before the most of the spring work begins, so that in reality every thing obtained from the trees is clear profit, and it does not require a very large bush to bring in to the owner a hundred dollars, and if the sum of money is less it usually takes proportionately less labor to produce it. The time was when a heavy sugar wood was one of the chief attractions to the purchasers of the soil, indicating as it did richness and fertility, as well as presenting resources almost immediately available. Those who, on a small scale, can yet engage in this pleasant branch of industry will find their product almost doubly valuable in the market if they take the pains to seal up in bottles, hermetically, the fresh syrup while it is still hot. In this way the peculiar flavor and aroma are partially, if not wholly, preserved, and a sweet can be offered which excels the most fastidious selection of the honey bee.

Useful instructions to Flax Growers.

1st. That the best land for flax is a loam with clay bottom or subsoil. Light sandy land is not considered so suitable.

2nd. Fall plowing is preferable to the spring; land should be clean—that is, free as possible from weeds, summer grass, &c., then plowed in the fall it should be cultivated in spring, and thoroughly rolled and harrowed previous to sowing. Seed should be evenly sowed and harrowed in with a light harrow. Sod land plowed well in fall, thoroughly rolled and harrowed before sowing, is suitable, but stubble land ran generally be put in better order for flax; but whatever the land is you cannot get the surface too finely pulverized before sowing.

3rd. The seed should be clean pure seed. Sow as early as the first of May if possible: early sowing gives the most satisfactory results. 65 to 75 lbs. is what we sow per acre.

4th. Weeding flax as practiced in the old country will not pay in this. There is nothing to be done to the crop after sowing until the crop ripens.

5th. Flax is ripe when the first capsules of the plant turn yellowish brown and the lower leaves fall, and should then be pulled. In a healthy good crop of flax, the stalk of the plant as it approaches ripeness turns a whitish yellow and you cannot fail to know when it is ready for harvesting; but in a poor growth the stalk remains green long after the capsules turn brown. Flax should be pulled before it gets so ripe that the capsules makes a rustling sound as you walk among it.

6th. It should be bound in bundles four inches in diameter under the band, and set in round shocks of ten to twelve bundles each, and left on the ground until sufficiently dry for threshing; then bound in large bundles convenient for handling; haul in as soon as sufficiently dry, as long-continued wet weather may injure it. In wet weather, keep flax well set up and see that the seed ends do not get closely matted together and mould.

MANAGEMENT OF BROOMS.—If brooms are wet in boiling suds once a week, they will become very tough, will not cut a carpet, last much longer, and always sweep like a new broom. A handful or so of salt sprinkled on the carpet will carry the dust along with it and make the carpet look bright and clean. A dusty carpet may be cleaned by setting a pail of cold water out by the door, wet the broom in it, knock it to get off the drops, sweep a yard or so, then wash the broom as before and sweep again, being careful to shake all the drops off the broom, and not sweep far at any time. If done with care it will clean a carpet very nicely, and you will be surprised at the quantity of dirt in the water which may need changing once or twice if the carpet is very dirty. Snow sprinkled over a carpet, and swept off before it has had time to melt and dissolve, is useful for renovating a soiled carpet. Moistened Indian meal is used with good effect by housekeepers. What is said in the following is true: "In many town and city houses the apartments receive but one thorough sweeping a week. Brooms wear out carpets quite as much as feet do."

CAUTION! CAUTION!!

TO THE PUBLIC OF THE BRITISH PROVINCES OF NORTH AMERICA.

I beg most respectfully to acquaint the public of the British North American provinces that in May last I caused the business at 80, Maiden Lane, New York, for the sale of HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT, then were up to that time prepared by William Brown, now deceased, to be closed. I regret to say that I have reason to know that the management of the late business had for some years, and in many ways, been most corrupt, and it may be that the Pills and Ointment were not prepared with that care I have always desired

Those who do not wish to be deceived by buying spurious medicines, which are now likely to emanate from the States or elsewhere, but to possess themselves of the genuine Holloway's Pills and Ointment manufactured by me in London, England, will do well to see that each pot and box bears the British Government stamps on which is engraved the words "Holloway's Pills and Ointment," and that the address on the label is 533, Oxford Street, London, where only they are manufactured, and in no other part of the world. The retail prices are on the labels in British currency, and not in dollars and cents

No representative of mine will ever travel through any part of the British Provinces, or the United States, either to sell, or to take orders for my Pills and Ointment, and as I have reason to believe that attempts will probably be made to deceive the public in this way by persons calling upon medicine vendors, falsely representing that they are acting for me, and with my knowledge and consent, I deem it advisable to put the public on their guard against my such deceptions.

I most earnestly entreat all those who may read this advertisement that they be pleased, in the public interest, to communicate the purport of the same to their friends that they may not be defrauded of their money by purchasing worthless imitations of the genuine Holloway's Pills and Ointment.

I would ask, as a great favour, that should it come to the knowledge of any person that spurious medicines are being made or sold in my name, he be pleased to send me all the particulars he can collect respecting the same, that is to say, the name and address of the vendor who is selling the spurious medicines, and likewise the name and address of the House in the United States or elsewhere, which may have supplied them, so as to enable me for the protection of the public, to institute proceedings against such evil-doers, and I engage to remunerate very handsomely any person who may give me such information, the informants's name never being divulged.

Should any person have reason to believe that he has been deceived by buying spurious imitations of these Medicines, he will do well to send me, in a letter, to the address at foot (which he can do at a cost of six cents in postage) one of the books of instructions which are affixed to the same. I promise to examine it and send a reply, stating whether the Medicines are genuine or not so that if spurious he may apply to the person from whom he purchased them to have his money returned.

Chemistand Druggists who desire to obtain the Medicines can be supplied at the lowest wholesale prices in quantities of not less than £20 worth, viz., 5s. 6d., 12s. and 24s. per dozen boxes of Pills or pots of Ointment, net, without discount, for which remittance must be sent in advance.

I have the honour to be,

With great respect.

CORNWELL'S

Self-Fitting Waist & Shoulder Chart,

Patented 15th March, 1870.

THIS CHART CONTAINS MANY NEW AND Improved Features.

Among these a new measurement from the neck to the hollow of the shoulder, and a rule for substracting the waist measure from the bust measure, putting the difference or taper of the waist in the darts, thus producing a perfect fit for any form by measurement, alone, avoiding the old tedious process of CUT AND TRY ON. There is no other system invented that takes the measure like the CORNWELL CHART. It is the only correct way of measuring to fit every form. This Chart is so easily comprehended that fifteen minutes practice will qualify any lady to use it successfully or teach others its use. Ladies who wish to make their own dresses to fit perfectly will find this Chart invaluable to them. This Chart has but to be known to be appreciated. This Self-Fitting Chart is in use in every first-class dress making house in Chicago. It was first given to the public but little over one year ago, and now [illegible] in the cities of Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo, Albany, Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cincinnati and Louisville, and the inventor has yet to learn of the First Instance of dissatisfaction, or anything but unqualified delight at its wonderful achievements.
