CROP REPORT.

The Ontario Department of Agriculture crop report has been issued. It covers the conditions as found by several hundred correspondents in all parts of the province up to May 16. Of fall wheat, the report sums up that "the bright spot in the outlook is the fact that since the beginning of May the weather has been most favorable for the recuperation of the crop, and the latest reports to hand indicate that many fields are making an encouraging recovery."

The report shows:

Fall Wheat.

November reports regarding fall wheat were favorble. The seed bed was then in excellent condition, and with so god a start the crop presented a fine appearance, except that it was beginning to suffer a little in places for lack of rain. The injury reported from Hessian fly was very slight compared with that of the two or three years immediately preceding. But, altho the crop entered the winter so full of promise, it emerged in a very bad condition indeed, the season having proved one of the most disastrous for fall wheat in its history, the loss by winter-killing ranging from 20 to 90 per cent. Of course, all he poor wheat land will not be plowed up, as much of it had been seeded down with grass; nevertheless it will be many years since so large an acreage of fall wheat was plowed under in the spring. A considerable area of fall wheat will be sown with barley and oats, or other spring grains, for feed.

The chief cause of the hurt to the crop was the formation of ice on level and low-lying places, altho a number of correspondents complain of snow smothering. On the slopes of rolling land, and on fields well protected by timber few good yields may be recorded but on the whole the fall wheat fields when the snow disappeared were the most patchy looking that have been seen in the province for some years. Very little injury from insect pests has been reported this spring. Correspondents have been almost silent regarding the Hessian fly, while a few have made mention of the presence of the wire-worm. While winter-killing was more or less severe wherever fall wheat has been grown, the greatest damage to the crop was sustained in the Lake Erie counties. Next in order of injury reported come the Lake Huron and West Middlesex groups, the Georgian Bay and Lake Ontario districts following with a somewhat lighter but still serious proportion of loss.

Winter Rye.

The acreage given to this crop is comparatively small. Like fall wheat it has suffered severely from winter-killing, altho not to the same extent. The most favorable accounts regarding the condition of winter rye come from the St. Lawrence and Ottawa counties.

Clover.

The condition of clover may be thus briefly described: In the eastern half of the province the crop is from fair to good, and in some sections very good; in the western half it is from good to very poor. The most favorable reports come from the counties stretching from Lincoln and Welland, along the Lake Erie front, to Lambton and Huron. In many parts of which the crop is an absolute failure. The greater part of the injury to clover was done by ice lying for a length of time on flat or low-lying fields. Most of the loss has occurred with old fields, the more freshly seeded fields almost invariably turning out well. The rains prevailing about the middle of May has given the crop a good start for the season.

Vegetation.

The growth in both field and forest was late in starting, but the first week or ten days of May were so warm and favorable that vegetation went forward with a rush, and when correspondents reported on the 16th of the month pastures were almost as far on as usual. In nearly every section cattle were on the grass at that date, and trees and shrubs were springing into leaf.

Spring Seeding.

April was so cold and forbiding from an agricultural standpoint that but little seed was put into the ground. The early part of May, however, was so warm and inviting that sowing operations were pushed rapidly forward without a break, and nearly the normal acreage was in seed, as correspondents wrote. In many sections sewing was completed, but in other quarters there was still considerable to do in this line. The plowing under and reseeding of fall wheat also delayed matters and added to the work of seeding. Spring grains as a rule found a good seed bed, altho a few correspondents, more especially in some of the West Midland counties, complained of the ground being rather hard. However, a good tone generally prevades the bulk of the reports regarding spring operations.

Live Stock.

Considering the severity of the winter, live stock has come thru in fair condition. A mild form of distemper made its appearance among horses in many parts of the province, and what is known as broncho itch is reported from a couple of points in the county of Prescott; but the general health of the horses has been good, and this class of live stock are in demand. The sudden change to the activity of the exceedingly warm first week of May, after the prolonged confinement of winter, told against many working animals, and some valuable horses succumbed to the strain. Cattle looked rather thin in the spring, but they appear to be in good health. The greatest loss in this class of stock has been among early calves. Sheep are not raised to the same extent as formerly. They are reported in fair condition, altho lambing has not been altogether satisfactory. Swine have done well considering the trying winter. From various parts of the province reports have been received of some of them becoming crippled on account of the cold and dampness prevailing and many young pigs have died, but the bulk of swine has turned out well. In most sections there was a sufficent supply of fodder for all classes of stock, altho, of course, a few farmers here and there were caught short owing to the unusual length and severity of the winter.

Farm Supplies.

As farmers are more and more feeding their hay and grain to live stock, there is less of these products on hand in the spring than formerly. The fact that all classes of live stock were kept confined for a longer time than usual, also drew largely on the supplies of also drew largely on the supplies of sden rise in the prices of hay and oats would likely bring out a considerable quantity of both of these commodities which otherwise would be fed to live stock. It can hardly be said that there is a surplus of wheat, except in a comparatively few individual cases. Most of the fat cattle have been shipped, but a good number of store cattle are available in most localities where that class of live stock is raised. In some instances in the county of Middlesex, however, cattle for grazing had to be brought in from Toronto and other points.

Fruit Trees.

The severity of the winter told somewhat against fruit trees, more especially peaches, plums, and cherries, but the injury from frost was not so serious as was at one time expected. Pears and apples suffered least from the cold, but these, and indeed nearly all classes of young fruit trees, sustained much injury from girdling by mice, reports regarding the presence in orchards of these vermin coming from nearly every county in Western Ontario, and from several counties in the east. Complaints have also been received concerning the San Jose scale, one correspondent giving serious warning of the inevitable evil results attending neglect of attention to this enemy. Fruit trees are about ten days later than usual in blossoming, and this prevents correspondents from speaking with assurance as to the prospects of fruit, altho some very hopeful reports have been received. Raspberries and strawberries are described as being badly winter killed in places, and will hardlly be up to the mark.

GOOD APPETITE NOT EVERYTHING

You Must Digest Your Food as Well as Eat It—Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Ensure Perfect Digestion.

A good appetite may or may not mean that you are in good health. If you eat well and your food is digested your body wil benefit from the meat and strength your food contains.

But many people who eat well have simply a false appetite caused by one of the varied forms of indigestion and dyspepsia. These people need both. They need Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. Take Mr. H. Bailey, of 206 Patrick-street, Winnipeg, for example:

Mr. Bailey says:

"I have gained in weight eight pounds since I began to use Dodd's Dypspepsia Tablets. Before that no matter what I ate I never seemed to gain strength or put on weight."

If you would have health and energy be sure your Stomach is doing its full duty. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets ensure the stomach doing its full work.
