EVERYTHING IS JUBILEE

London Town is Already Pulsating.

MILLIONS OF PEOPLE TO PARTICIPATE.

The Great Danger is That Many Will Be Crushed in the Human Swarm.

Festivities Have Already Begun With the Trooping of the Color of the Horse Guards—President McKinley is Showing His Good Will to Great Britain's Queen—This, it is Believed, Will Create a Better Feeling Between the Two Nations—It is Said That Premier Laurier Will be Traveled About During the Jubilee Festival as a Hero—Bewildering Scenes in London—Dresses of All Nations Intermingle—A Couple of Undesirable Guests Will be Present—Irish Constabulary Draw the Color Line Fine; and Her Majesty May Do Some Sharp Talking.

London, May 30.—The published announcements, showing that the United States will be represented at the Queen's Jubilee with exceptional distinction, worthy of the unparalleled historical event and the exalted character of the sovereign, causes many manifestations of pleasure. The announcement that one of the finest ships of the American navy would take part in the review at Spithead and that Admiral Miller and General Miles would be present at the Jubilee ceremonies had already been received with favorable comment by the English press. The appointment of Mr. Whitelaw Reid as special envoy has led to fresh expressions of this satisfaction, as is shown by the cordial references to it in many of the London and provincial journals. While the Jubilee has been designed to be primarily an Imperial event with the colonies in the highest places of honor, every court in Europe will be represented with great distinction, and the action of President McKinley's administration in honoring in an exceptional way the Gracious Sovereign, who has always been a sincere friend of America, will be heartily appreciated in England and tend to promote good feeling.

Will be a Great Crush.

More serious than the chance of being cheated by extortionate speculators is the risk of being crushed by the terrific pressure of the swarming millions who will block the approaches to the route of the procession. The authorities are considering the advisability of suspending carriage traffic by night, as well as by day. This will render it necessary for spectators anxious to see the illuminations to cast themselves adrift in the swollen torrents of humanity, swirling down Whitehall, the Strand and Fleet-street, to St. Paul's and the Bank.

Jubilee Festivities.

The town is already pulsating with Jubilee festivity. At Chelsea Barracks there is a motley encampment of Zaptiehs from Cyprus, Houssas from the Gold Coast, Dyaks from Borneo and troopers from the Cape. At Agricultural Hall, at the other end of the town, the Royal Military Tournament has opened with recruits from the length and breadth of the Empire, and with bush fights and war dances, and a really splendid series of pageants. The streets are astir with unwonted movement, and soon will be aflame with color. Strange uniforms and dark-skinned warriors may be seen at every turn in the thoroughfares and parks. Beggars and tramps have also swarmed into London by legions. Every lodging house is full. The Salvation Army shelters have been crowded for weeks, and the workhouses in the provinces have been warned against assisting casuals in their pilgrimage to London to see the show.

Functions Virtually Opened.

The Jubilee functions have virtually opened with the trooping of the color of the Horse Guards, which was witnessed by the Indian Princes in their brilliant uniforms, and by a vast assembly, indifferent to the rain. The Ministerial dinners and the Foreign Office reception which followed this birthday ceremony were attended by ambassadors, officials and the London world of wealth and fashion. The state concert last night threw open Buckingham Palace to all the civic dignitaries from the colonies and royal guests from the Continent who have arrived. The Jubilee music was excellent, Mme. Eames, M. Plancon, Signor Ancona and Mr. Edward Lloyd being the chief singers. Every night there are a score or more of great parties, balls and dances. Royalty is constantly on exhibition, whether at hospital dinners, temple flower shows or first night ballets, like Sir Arthur Sullivan's. The opera is well attended nightly.

Foreign Musicians.

The town is filled with foreign musicians, whose services are in demand not only for public concerts, but for private entertainments. The Kneisel Quartet gives to-day its second concert in St. James' Hall and is playing constantly to great houses, winning compliments everywhere by the vigor, delicacy and refinement with which its programs of chamber music are performed. M. Dalcroze, the Swiss composer, is introducing his own work in London halls and houses. While the West End is reveling in gaiety, the Lord Chamberlain and all the other masters of ceremonies are arranging a thousand details connected with the Jubilee week, and police officials are wondering how the millions of sightseers can be controlled and protected against panic and crush.

LAURIER WILL BE A HERO.

Why the Canadian Contingent Will be Well Received in London.

New York, May 30.—The London correspondent of The Tribune says: "Mr. Laurier's tariff proposals have been hailed in England as the best testimony of the fervent loyalty and patriotism which the Jubilee year has called out from the world-wide Empire. Whatever changes may be required by the Imperial treaties with the most favored nation clause nothing will be done to discourage the aspiration of the Dominion of Canada to lead the way toward Imperial Federation. Mr. Laurier will be a hero among the colonial Premiers next month, and the Canadian contingent will be received with popular enthusiasm."

Bewildering Scenes.

Mr. Harold Frederic cables to The Times: "It is impossible to keep the Jubilee out of one's talk now. It slips in unawares at every pause. The central parts of London are beginning to recall the Midway Plaisance, so bewildering in scope and variety are the costumes of the outlandish strangers who are arriving and going about to see the sights.

"England has so slight a talent for pageantry, compared with the more feudalized lands, that it is unlikely that the gathering of representatives of her subject races will equal in spectacular value that wonderful procession of Asiatics which Moscow beheld a year ago. Yet the show will at least be immeasurably beyond anything ever seen before in an English-speaking country.

Two Undesirable Guests.

"There are to be two visiting princes who will go a good deal against the English grain. Nothing but the compulsion of hospitality will secure a civil treatment here for the Grand Duke Serge, who is loathed not only for the martrydom he imposes on one of the Queen's granddaughters, who is his wife, but for his own vile character, which, if he were merely a poet instead of a prince, would force him to be undergoing reformation in a prison cell. The prospect of seeing Abdul Hamid's son riding through the London streets as an honored guests also fails to please the popular fancy, and various plans for protesting publicly against it are under advisement."

THE QUESTION OF COLOR.

Royal Irish Constabulary Refuse to Dine With Gold Coast Officers.

London, May 30.—The preparations for celebrating Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee have brought into prominence the fact that there are persons who have objections to recognizing to the full and logical extent the principle that colored men are brothers. Officers and men of the various military and police forces from all parts of the Empire are arriving in London in a steady stream, and for the most part are being lodged in ordinary barracks. The privates get along famously with Tommy Atkins, who does not worry much about color, provided the colored man is properly deferential and willing to spend his pay in ministering to his white comrades' creature comforts. The difficulty is with the officers, who will not have a colored officer at the same tables. In London, so far, the matter has not gained sufficient publicity to cause a scandal, but a somewhat similar difficulty in Dublin has set the newspapers by the ears. The officers of the Royal Irish Constabulary refused to mess with the black officers of the Gold Coast Constabulary, sent over with a squad of men. The result is that the negro officers have to walk something like two miles to their meals. One of them, Capt. Willoughby, who is described as a fine athletic young fellow, with a pleasing, candid countenance, resents this treatment, and talks of getting it brought to the notice of the Queen. Should he succeed there would be pretty serious trouble for the Irish officers, for the Queen has fine, old-fashioned notions about the absolute equality of her subjects of all colors and creeds; and, as is well known, one of her most trusted servants, who is always in her company on public occasions, is a highly colored and learned Hindoo.

THIS INDIAN A BAD ONE

Almighty Voice Defies the Mounted Police.

THREE LIVES WERE LOST

In an Attempt to Capture the Murderer Near Duck Lake.

Great Excitement Was Caused at Prince Albert—An Attempt with Big Guns to Shell the Murderers Out of Their Positions — Postmaster Grundy of Duck Lake, Corporal Hockin and Constable Kerr the Victims—Controller White Says He Does Not Fear a General Uprising of Indians.

Ottawa, Ont., May 30.—(Special.)—The Comptroller of Northwest Mounted Police has received official notification of the shooting on Friday of Corporal Hockin, Constable Kerr and Postmaster Grundy, while trying to arrest the Indian murderer Almighty Voice, but up to a late hour to-night no notice of the arrest of Almighty Voice and the two or three Indians with him had been received. At latest accounts a 9-pounder gun had arrived at Duck Lake and the police were leaving for Batoche, 19 miles distant.

The bluff where the Indians are ambushed is about six miles from Batoche, and the police may not have reached it before dark last night. The bluff was pretty well surrounded and more police were going forward, while another gun was being brought down from Prince Albert, so that, unless the Indians escaped in the darkness last night, they ought to have been killed or captured to-day.

No Trouble With the Indians.

No fears are entertained here of any possibility of trouble with the Indians on account of Almighty Voice. He is a young buck of not very good character, who was arrested in October, 1895, for killing cattle. He escaped and was chased by the police, who came up with him, when he turned and shot Sergt. Colebrooke and made good his escape. He has kept out of the way since until last week, when, in an attempt to arrest him, he shot a settler named Venne and wounded Inspector Allan and Sergt. Raven. An attempt to dislodge him from the bluff of timber where he and two or three cousins of his were in ambush resulted as above.

Hockin's History.

Corporal Hockin was a son of Admiral Hockin of the British navy, and was about 35 years of age. He was at one time in the regular army, holding a commission as captain in the 44th Essex Regiment. He afterwards served several years in India. In 1894 he went to the Northwest, apparently with the intention of taking up land, as he seemed to be possessed of means, but shortly after his arrival in Regina he applied for admission to the force, as so many young Englishmen of good family have done, the semi-military free life of a mounted policeman on the prairies seeming to possess a singular fascination for men of his stamp, especially those who are fond of horses. A friend of Corporal Hockin, who is in Ottawa, told your correspondent to-day that Hockin was an excellent soldier, and a well-educated, steady and quiet gentleman, of rather retiring manner, who seemed to have joined the force simply because he liked the life. He was possessed of some means, and had the reputation of possessing the largest and most complete wardrobe of any man or officer of the force, it being a matter of common remark that he seemed to have more different suits of good clothes than almost any man in the Northwest.

Allan Was a Montrealer.

Inspector Allan, who had his arm broken by a bullet on Thursday, is a native of Montreal, a brother of Mr. W. A. Allan of this city, and a nephew of the late Robert Anderson, from whom he inherited a very considerable fortune. Capt. Allan was a member of the Victoria Rifles, and was one of the Red River expedition of 1870. He settled in Manitoba and was for several years a member of the Local Legislature. He joined the Mounted Police about 12 or 13 years ago. Capt. Allan was in Montreal and Ottawa a few weeks ago, and could not have returned to duty more than a week or ten days when the trouble with Almighty Voice occurred. His wound is painful, but not dangerous. He has gone into hospital at Prince Albert. Sergt. Raven's wound is said to be slight.

Kerr an Ontario Man.

Winnipeg, May 30.—(Special.)—Constable John R. Kerr, who fell with his comrade, Corporal Hockin, was a native of Ontario, and was born at Barrievale, Renfrew County, 29 years ago. He joined the force at Regina, May, 1894.

SHELLING THE BLUFF.

Almighty Voice Seems to be an Indian With Considerable Nerve.

Winnipeg, Man., May 30.—(Special.)—Capt. Gagnon arrived at the Bluff with a seven-pounder field gun just before dark on Saturday night, and fired seven shells into it. At dusk, when everything had quieted, Almighty Voice yelled to the police that they were doing well, but would have to do better. A nine-pounder, in charge of Assistant Commissioner McIlree, was turned on the Bluff at 6 o'clock Sunday morning and got range at the second shot. Later on in the day a transport left Duck Lake with picks and shovels for the purpose of throwing up earthworks to enable the men to advance on the Bluff under cover in case they are not successful in driving him out with shells. The Indians on the Bluff placed the dead body of a comrade up against a tree to mislead the fire of the police.

And Says the Government is Now Beginning to See It.

The Soundest Opinion in England is With Him, He Says, in the Contention—The Conservative Leader Will Not Go to England for the Jubilee Festivities, But First Goes to British Columbia—A Banker From Holland Who Was One of the Principal Figures in the First Issue of C. P. R. Bonds is Visiting Sir William Van Horne—Other Montreal News.

Montreal, May 30.—(Special.)—Sir Charles Tupper was in the city yesterday and in speaking with friends expressed the belief that the Ottawa Government had begun to realize the sad mistake they had made in tinkering with the tariff. As for the preferential clauses, the Conservative leader declared that there was no doubt whatever that goods from Germany and the other favored nations would have to be introduced on the same terms as those from Great Britain. Sir Charles Tupper added that the soundest opinion in England favored this contention, and that the Canadian Government would realize this at an early day.

The veteran leader will not be in London for the Queen's Jubilee celebration. He will first go to British Columbia, after which he will cross the ocean, reaching London perhaps in July.

A Visitor From Holland.

There is a man at the Windsor whose name was a familiar one in the early financial history of the Canadian Pacific Railway. When the first issue of $65,000,000 was made it will be remembered that Mr. Adolph A. Boissevain of Amsterdam placed no less than $30,000,000 of the company's bonds in Holland. He is represented on the directorate by Mr. Harris of Boston, and is up here conferring with Sir William Van Horne.

ANNIE PROSSER MAY DIE.

Found Unconscious in Her Bed and the Gas Jet Turned Full On—Now in the Hospital.

Annie Prosser, a domestic, 27 years of age, was found asphyxiated in her bedroom at 75 Bordenstreet yesterday morning, and is now lying unconscious and at the point of death in the General Hospital.

Last Friday she was engaged by Mrs. J. B. Pearce as general servant, and that night she took a lamp with her to her bedroom, although she said she was familiar with the use of gas, both for lighting and for stoves. She retired to her room Saturday night shortly before 9.30. On Sunday morning she did not answer when called at 9 o'clock. Mr. Pearce noticed a strong smell of gas in the hall. He went to the girl's door, which was locked, and after calling to her again and receiving no response burst open the door and found her lying unconscious on the bed. The room was full of gas, the tap of the gas jet being turned on at the full.

Dr. A. R. Gordon, College-street, was sent for, and after working upon the girl for some time sent for the police ambulance and had her removed to the General Hospital.

Miss Prosser is a sister-in-law of Mr. E. J. Winkler, who lives at Edwin-street, Toronto Junction. He went to the hospital yesterday afternoon. He could not imagine how it was the girl had gone to sleep with the gas turned on, and scouted the idea of suicide, as, so far as he knew, there was absolutely no reason why she should take her life. She only returned from England two or three weeks ago, having been away on a year's visit. Previously to going to the Old Country she was employed by Mrs. Cockburn on Ulster-street.

At midnight she was still unconscious and her condition was very serious.

Montpelier, Vit., May 29.—Miss Mildred Brewster, the daughter of a wealthy farmer of Huntington, to-day shot Miss Annie Wheelock, of whom she is alleged to have been jealous, inflicting wounds which the physicians state, will prove fatal. The deed was committed in a lonely spot on the outskirts of this city. After shooting Miss Wheelock, the Brewster girl turned the revolver on herself and fired a bullet into her right ear, inflicting a serious and possibly fatal wound.

Serious Charge.

On Saturday night Policeman Forrest arrested John Adams, an 18-year-old newsboy, on a charge of wounding Thomas Ford, 75 Niagara-street. It is alleged that in a fight Adams stabbed Ford with a small penknife.

THE D. R. A. EXECUTIVE

Arrangements Completed for the 1897 Matches.

ADDITIONS TO PRIZE LIST.

Dominion of Canada and Minister of Militia's Matches Enlarged.

Final Arrangements Also For the Bisley Team—The Canadian Bungalow Expected to Be Ready When the Team Arrives—Gen. Gascoigne's Proposal Not Practicable on the Rideau Ranges—The Behring Sea Arbitration—What the Opposition Will Talk Over in Caucus—Other Ottawa News.

Ottawa, May 30.—(Special.)—There was a meeting of the Executive of the Dominion Rifle Association on Saturday evening, at which final arrangements were made for the annual matches of 1897. The officers present were: Lieut.-Col. Tilton, Major Hughes, Major Blaiklock, Major Ibbotson, Lieut.-Col. MacDonald, Lieut.-Col. Anderson, Lieut.-Col. Hood, Capt. Sutherland and Lieut.-Col. Hodgins, secretary. Among other changes in the program decided upon were to increase the number of prizes in the Dominion of Canada match to 125 and in the Minister of Militia match to 105.

Final arrangements were also made in regard to the Bisley team. Reports received from Major Perley announced that good progress was being made with the Canadian building, which is expected to be ready by the time the team arrives in England. The Executive Committee regretted being unable to accept the excellent match proposed by Major-General Gascoigne, the principle of which involved a contest in marching eight miles and a target match upon return, the squad returning first to go first to the butts, and the time to be the essence of the contest. The committee decided that the present range does not afford adequate security from accidents to admit of such a competition. This year's matches will be the last fired on the old Dominion ranges.

Behring Sea Arbitration.

Hon. Fred Peters, Q.C., counsel for the Dominion in the Behring Sea arbitration, will be leaving for Montreal shortly, as the preliminaries to the argument are to be arranged there on June 10. It is improbable that the final argument will take place there, but in either Halifax or Boston. So far the formal proceedings have all been conducted in Canadian territory.

The Close of the Session.

One of the subjects discussed and settled at Tuesday's caucus is the policy of the Opposition with respect to the close of the session. While the Premier will be leaving on Thursday for England via New York, the Government is said to be quite prepared to carry out the sessional program in his absence, or at least as much of it as may not be included in any compromise with the Opposition. The latter are, as to the rank and file, ready for either adjournment or a contest to the end of the most contentious measures proposed, while the party lieutenants are believed to favor the latter plan of campaign.

Personal and General.

Mr. Ritchie, Q.C., Toronto, is here to represent the Crown in the Goodwin-Soulanges Canal case, which will come before the Supreme Court Monday on appeal by the claimant from the recent decision of the Exchequer Court.

Premier Turner has arrived from Victoria, the British Columbia Legislature having prorogued on May 8.

It is generally believed that the bill to restore the Controllers of Customs and Inland Revenue to full Cabinet rank presages some Ministerial changes.

Archdeacon Lauder has been appointed Dean of the Anglican Diocese of Ottawa.

Owing to the inability of Solicitor-General Fitzpatrick to leave for England for some weeks, the Minister of Justice has retained D. B. MacTavish, Q.C., of this city, to argue for the Crown a couple of cases which are shortly to come up before the Judicial Committee of the Imperial Privy Council.

DIAMOND JUBILEE HYMN.

London, May 30.—The Diamond Jubilee Hymn, written by Bishop Wakefield and approved by the Queen, will be included hereafter in the English Prayer Book. It has been set to music by Sir Arthur Sullivan. The hymn has four stanzas, and it is entitled "Oh, King of Kings." It concludes as follows:

Oh, Royal heart with wide embrace,
For all her children yearning!
Oh, happy realm, such mother grace
With loyal love returning!
Where England's flag flies wide unfurled,
All tyrant wrongs repelling,
God made the world a better world,
For man's brief earthly dwelling.

The Coolness Continues.

Stoned the Policeman.

Policeman Curry was dispersing a crowd of boys on Victoria-street Saturday night when one of their number threw a stone, which struck him. Curry gave chase and caught Frank Travers, 278 Church-street, who was locked up on a charge of assaulting the police.
