HOW TO CAN TOMATOES

Select fresh, ripe, firm tomatoes. Grade for size, ripeness and quality. They will cook better if the same degree of ripeness and quality, and will look better. Wash, scald one-half to one and one-half minutes or until the skins loosen, but do not break. Scald means to immerse in boiling water. Cold dip, but not allow them to remain in the cold water. Cut out the stem end, taking care not to cut into the seed cells or the seed and pulp will later be scattered through the liquid. Remove the skins.

Pack the tomatoes whole in the jars, doing one jar from the beginning to placing in sterilizer, before starting on another. Shake down well, hitting the base of jar with palm of hand, and also press with a tablespoon, but avoid crushing.

Do not add water. Hot tomato pulp may be added, otherwise add no liquid whatever. Tomatoes are an exception to the general rule of hot water for vegetables and hot water or hot syrup for fruits. A large part of the tomato is water. It is not necessary to add anything but one level teaspoonful of salt to each quart, and if liked, one-half tablespoonful of sugar. The tomato pulp for home canning, made from large and broken tomatoes, cooked and strained, should have one teaspoonful of salt to each quart, and should be poured hot into the filled jars, allowing to enter the spaces.

Put on rubber and top, adjust top bail or screw top on with thumb and little finger. Sterilize 22 minutes in hot water bath, or 16 minutes under five or ten pounds of steam pressure. Remove, tighten, seal and cool.

HINTS FOR SAVINGS.

When you have several bits of left-overs in your refrigerator, instead of reheating each separately, and thus wasting gas, see how many can be combined. For instance, if you have some cold potatoes, a saucer of beans, left-over cereal and an end of meat, cut all into small pieces, fry some chopped onion, add the left-overs, and season well. Just before taking from the fire a beaten egg may be added. Besides saving the gas, this makes an appetizing luncheon dish.

SAFE BUSINESS RULES

1. In business hours attend only to business matters.
2. Confine social calls to the social circles.
3. State your business in few words, without loss of time.
4. Let dealings with a stranger be carefully considered, and let tried friendship be duly appreciated.
5. A mean act soon recoils, and a man of honor will be esteemed.
6. Treat all with respect, confide in few, wrong no man.
7. Never be afraid to say NO, and always be prompt to acknowledge and rectify a wrong.
8. Leave nothing for to-morrow that should be done to-day.
9. Because a friend is polite, do not think his time is valueless.
10. Have a place for everything and everything in its place.
11. To preserve long friendship, keep a short credit.
12. The way to get credit is to be punctual.
13. To preserve credit, do not use it too much.
14. Settle often; have short accounts.
15. Trust no man's appearance; appearances are deceptive.
16. Be satisfied before you give credit that he who receives it is honest as well as responsible.

"The time is ripe and rotton ripe for change;
Then let it come! I have no dread of what
Is called for by the instinct of mankind."

ARE YOUR EYES TO BLAME?
Don't try to stop pain until you have found the cause. Get at the root of the trouble first, and remember pain is only nature's message that something has gone wrong.
Take headache for instance; do you suppose for a minute that the tablet or powder you take to relieve it is in any sense a remedy? You merely drug the nerves so that they no longer give their warning.
90% of all headaches are from defective eyes, and it is our pleasure as well as our business to provide you with glasses that stop the suffering once and for all, by correcting the cause.
