negotiation, that, too, would have accorded with the views of most of their present accusers. Had they threatened war, and fulfilled their threat, then they would have come under that popular definition of the English gentleman's duty, which consists in meddling with your neighbor's affairs because you are ready to fight him. Nay, if they had tried, but suffered another sort of failure; if they had landed on the Danish peninsula and sailed into the Baltic, single-handed, in order to make their word as good as their deed, but had lost as much as we did in the Crimean war, without even that passable amount of success, then a respectable majority of the House of Commons would have been ready to do full justice to the honest intentions and generous spirit which had impoverished England, filled her homes with mourning, and ruined Denmark into the bargain. But the course actually taken had no redeeming grace in the eyes of the gentlemen who had constituted themselves protectors of the public interests and guardians of the national honor.

CONFISCATED PROPERTY.—The Washington Constitutional Union tells us:—"When Bradley Johnson entered Frederick, he directed his steps to his old dwelling, where he and his family once resided. He found his old homestead occupied by a Northern man, who had purchased it from Government. He asked for the occupant, who appeared, and after a few pertinent inquiries, Bradley informed him that he was the rightful owner of the house, and at once demanded the rent of $1400, at the rate of $100 per month—the man residing in it fourteen months. He gave him thirty minutes to collect the rent, which was done. Bradley asked him if he wanted a receipt. The man said no, and then Bradley gave him two hours to move his goods out; which was also done. The house was then set on fire, and in a little while it was a mass of ruins. A man who purchases confiscated property must run just such chances of loss, especially if the property is on the borders."

The War in New Zealand.

Amongst the names of the officers killed in New Zealand we observe Capt. Lloyd's

This gallant officer served for some time in the East Indies with the 63rd, now quartered here, and on the return of the regiment to England he was transferred as a Lieutenant to the 59th Regiment, then at Templemore. Capt. Lloyd embarked with that corps for China, and was appointed Adjutant of the regiment.

During the Crimean war, the lamented deceased was promoted to a company in the 59th, or "Die hards," and it was whilst serving with this regiment that he lost his life. The rebels having obtained possession of his body, cut off the head, which they sent from tribe to tribe as a trophy of victory.

Captain Lloyd was a native of the County Londonderry, Ireland, of a highly respectable family, had been educated at the Royal Military College, and was esteemed and respected by the officers of his former and late regiments.—Hamilton Times.

GREAT FIRE.

ST. CATHERINES, July 27.

About five o'clock this morning, a fire broke out in the livery stables owned by Mr. James Cairnes, destroying 14 horses, 11 carriages and waggons, 18 to 20 sleighs and cutters, 25 setts of harness, and two frame dwellings. Loss about $12,000 to $15,000. Stables and contents insured for $3,500.

☞ SIGNS OF THE TIMES.—In Hartford the following inscriptions may be found on street signs: 'Washing, ironing, and going out to days works done here.' 'Breakfast, dinner and supper, at all hours.' 'Saws filed, and set up stairs.'

Latest from Petersburg!

THE FDEERALS REPULSED!

On the morning of the 30th the Federals exploded a mine which extended 400 feet under the Confederate works. Immediately after the explosion, the Federals commenced a terriffic cannonade with nearly 100 pieces of artillery, and the troops advanced through the breeches made in the works.

The Confederates met the assault nobly and completely demoralized a negro division which had been thrown against their position. The Federals were finally driven out of the works, and the fact then stared them in the face that the deep-laid plans of their general had completely failed. The loss on both sides was severe.

Country Storekeepers supplied with School Books at Toronto Wholesale Prices for CASH.

A large stock of cheap Wrapping Papers on hand.

Room Papers! Room Papers!!

The largest and most complete stock of Room Papers in the County, among which will be found some beautiful American satin-finished Papers at prices unusually low. Having been bought very favorably for cash, they are offered to the public at great bargains.

PHOTOGRAPH ALBUMS!

A choice assortment of Pocket, Quarto, Cabinet and Oblong Albums, at marvelously low prices, they having been bought very favorably in the American market.—These are not these flimsy and badly-made Albums of German manufacture, but are well made, of good substantial material, and tastefully and handsomely finished, and they are offered at prices almost as low as the common German ones, and quite as low, if not lower, than at any city book-store in Canada.

GILT MOULDINGS AND PICTURES,

A complete stock always on hand and for sale cheap.

Job Printing! Job Printing!!

At prices far below those of Village Printing Offices generally, where they have to make both ends meet by charging extra prices on jobs in order to make up the losses from newspapers that don't pay of themselves.—Having discontinued the newspaper Printing is executed at the old "Courier" Job Office, on Victoria Street, Clinton, in short time, cheaper and better every way, than at any other village office in the County.
