A BAD RUNAWAY.

Dr. G. A. Peters' Horse Created Havoc at the Corner of College and Huron-Streets Yesterday.

The horses attached to Dr. G. A. Peters' carriage, which was standing in front of his residence, 171 College-street, ran away at noon yesterday and at the corner of Huron-street knocked down Miss Annie Logan of 440 College-street, who was riding her bicycle. The frightened team also upset one of Ryan's produce wagons. James Sheppard, 51 Elizabeth-street, the driver, was tipped out and had his arm hurt.

Miss Logan, who is a typewriter in a Toronto-street law office, was rendered unconscious and was taken to Grace Hospital, where she was attended by Drs. Todd and Emory. She has a severe scalp wound, which has caused concussion of the brain and her recovery is doubtful.

First in Years and Honors.

Honors in piano-making come thick and fast to the old and ever reliable firm of Heintzman & Co. It is not alone that they can point with careful detail through a record of 50 years, telling of customers who bought instruments in their early days and whose children and children's children have bought them since—the test of time, as Gladstone has said. But honors come in the fact that these instruments, as is the case with no others, are going today into the homes of the foremost citizens of the Dominion and are sought after for personal use by the world's greatest artists who visit Canada. There is merit unquestionably in a piano that has been so warmly endorsed by artists like Madame Albani, Rubinstein, Watkin-Mills, Plunkett-Greene, Ben Davies and a host of others. The warerooms of the well-known firm are at 117 King-street west, with their extensive factory at Toronto Junction.

Britain and the Indian Famine.

A ministerial group, consisting of Rev. Murdoch Mackenzie of China, Rev. Norman Russell of Central India, Rev. J. A. Macdonald, editor of The Westminster, and Rev. R. P. Mackay, Foreign Mission secretary, were assembled at the office of the latter yesterday afternoon and had an interesting talk about Indian affairs.

When asked about the questioned action of the British Administration regarding that faminized country, Mr. Russell, who has spent several years there, stated with conviction that Britain had done everything in her power for that country, in fact that she had done more than any country in the world to remedy the distress.

PROVINCIAL CONSTABLES.

Important Business Transacted at Their Annual Meeting—Officers Elected.

The Ontario Provincial Constables' Association held their annual meeting in the Medical Building, Bay and Richmond-streets, Thursday, Detective Wasson, President of the association, in the chair. Fifty-eight representatives from the different counties in Ontario, representing a constabulary force of 2000 men, were present, and great interest was taken in the meeting.

The chairman dealt with the tramp nuisance, and showed the injustice to which constables were often subjected in having their accounts dishonored by county auditors. At the next session of Parliament the Government will be asked to amend the law so as not to give county auditors this privilege. They will ask the Ontario Government to instruct the sheriff to employ none but regular county constables during sessions, assizes and other courts, to which will be added the request that constables attending court shall receive $2 instead of $1.50 per day.

It is their desire to have a properly constituted Board of Police Commissioners in every county, consisting of the County Judge, the Crown Attorney and the sheriff. It will be their duty to pass all applicants for the position of county constable and subject them to an examination for physical and mental merit. An inspector is to be appointed for each county, who will see that each man does his duty, and to whom the auditors can report where there are items of charge that do not meet with their approval. If the inspector's decision is not accepted, appeal can be made to the High Constable, and from him to Mr. Fielding, Chief Inspector of Constables for Ontario, a position created during the last term of Sir Oliver Mowat's administration.

Deputy Magistrate Kingsford condemned the practice of allowing American constables to do police work in Canada, and when the Executive Committee meet again the matter will be dealt with in their memorial to the Government.

The following officers were elected: Hon. President, Thomas Wasson, Dominion Constable; president, Archibald H. Skirving, Chief of Police, Ingersoll; vice-president, Thomas Bell, Chief of Police, Lindsay; secretary, W. J. McRoner, Chatham; treasurer, George Brodie, High Constable, Brampton; solicitor, F. C. Cooke of Pinkerton & Cooke, Toronto.

The next annual meeting will be held at Toronto some time in September of next year.

TRANSVAAL MINING INDUSTRY.

Likely to Be Jeopardized Between Two Explosive Monopolies.

London, Sept. 10.—A despatch to The Times from Johannesburg says: "At a joint meeting of the Chamber and the Association of Mines to-morrow (Friday) the executive will propose to send a letter to the Volksraad with reference to representations now being made to the Government that the agreement between the Nobel trust and the American Explosives Company, whereby the latter undertakes not to supply explosives to the Transvaal, places the mining industry at the mercy of Nobel.

"The letter declares that these representations are really made on behalf of monopolists. The mining companies have taken measures to procure a proper supply of explosives, despite the Nobel combination, and are prepared to face any contingency."

Women's Canadian Historical Society.

Miss Mary Agnes Fitzgibbon has returned from London, Eng., after an absence of several months. She is preparing a paper on the Jubilee, as it appeared from the colonial stand, St. James' Park, which she will read before the Woman's Christian Historical Society meeting the first Saturday in October. At that meeting a report will be read by the delegate to the Royal Society, which held a Cabot celebration at Halifax, and a report from the June meeting of the Provincial society. Mrs. Curzon, the president, will read a paper on what hour of the day Queenston was fought.

REAL ESTATE LOOKING UP.

The Long Depression Seems to be Passing Away.

A TALK WITH THE DEALERS

Most of Them Say There Is Enquiry After Toronto Property.

Many People are Taking Advantage of the Prices to Purchase Their Own Homes—There Is Also a Good Demand for Houses—People are Coming to Toronto From Outlying Places to Reside—What the Toronto Real Estate Men Say.

The World for some time has been of the opinion that the real estate depression, together with the more general trade depression, have about got to the end of their tether, and that imperceptibly the tendency has been on the up grade; so steady and noiseless, however, has the improvement been that outside of the direct channels of information the general public have scarce yet realized the good news.

One fact more than another probably that will force itself on the public notice in the course of the next few months will be the inability to obtain a desirable house to rent. Persons, therefore, who are well settled should consider well before vacating their present quarters, and those seeking suitable dwellings should get their skates on if they do not want to get left.

A Talk With Real Estate Men.

An interview with the prominent real estate men of the city yesterday fully bears out the statement made, and also brings out the fact that the day has now passed when even house property was a dead commodity, and that even the much reviled vacant lots are yet likely to find purchasers.

The feeling among the real estate dealers themselves, as depicted yesterday in The World's interviews, is enough almost to restore confidence itself; their jaunty demeanor and high spirits bearing strong evidence that at last there is something doing, with prospects of a good deal more.

Mr. H. H. Williams' View.

Mr. H. H. Williams was the first to be accosted by The World young man, and was not slow in venturing his opinion on the situation. "Yes," said he, "there are better prospects ahead for 1898. The people will never buy a house cheaper than this fall. Houses are filling up and the demand for houses in the centre part of Toronto can't be filled."

Houses in Demand.

Mr. Robert Jenkins of Messrs. R. & T. Jenkins, when seen, readily backed up the foregoing statement obtained. "There is a great demand for houses to rent," he said, "and of 85 of one estate that we handle, all are rented with the exception of six, and these are only vacant until they can be renovated."

Asked as to the sales of house property, Mr. Jenkins said there was a good deal of enquiry, but any sales must be at a low rate. There was still some difficulty in the collection of rents.

Business Looking Up.

Mr. Frank A. Wood was found busy endeavoring to get through a sale at the visit of the reporter, but willingly gave the following as his experience of the market at the present time: "Business with me has been extra good the last six weeks. I have made this week two exceptional sales, considering the times, of vacant lots, one in Parkdale, and one in the northwestern part of the city, and that at fair prices." He attributed the low rate of bank interest as a reason for present purchases and enquiry for investment buyers. During the past few weeks he had made several sales varying from $1000 to $3500.

Selling All the Time.

Mr. J. A. Nesbitt, while not an enthusiast in the present movement, thought that the showing now was better than any time since the boom. He was selling properties to careful buyers all the time, and now that city advantages were quadrupled, in comparison with what they were previous to the last rush, the chances of buyers now were far better for an advance than they were then.

Now is the Time.

Messrs. Copeland & Fairbairn stated that while comparatively few sales were yet being made, desirable houses to rent were in good demand. They were daily called upon by many enquirers with the object of purchase, and could only attribute it to the general feeling that now is the cheapest time to make a purchase. The feeling was that things would now take a revival. Mr. Fairbairn instanced a sale of a store on Queen-street at $15,000, that was about to be put through by his firm.

People Buying Their Own Homes.

Mr. J. J. McKenney reported sales of a number of houses, both large and small; the larger properties were, however, selling at low prices. A goodly number of people were now securing their own homes. There was beginning to be a feeling that a scarcity of houses was in sight, and this would have a tendency to advance prices. There was a better real estate feeling now in every way.

An Improvement.

"There is an improvement, though only slow at present," said Mr. A. Willis. "I have had enquiries in relation to the purchase of city properties from Welland, St. Catharines, Manvers, Niagara and St. Thomas recently, all being desirous of locating in the city. An unusual enquiry has also been made for vacant lots. Out of a monthly rental list of $1200 I have only three properties vacant, and have been able to raise rents in a few cases."

More Enquiries Coming In.

Mr. F. J. Smith of Messrs. F. J. Smith & Co. said they were finding more enquiries than for a long time past, and houses are fast filling up. Of late a large number of the better class of houses had been taken up. People are of the opinion that now is the best time to purchase, and there have been some sales made at fair prices.

Undoubtedly on the Mend.

"Real estate is undoubtedly on the mend," was the opinion of Mr. H. L. Hime. Moderate-sized houses are being tenanted and rents, if anything, are improving. Sales are yet slow, except in the smaller properties and vacant lots are not moving to any extent." Mr. Hime also thought that next spring would see some activity in the building trade.

Sales of House Property.

Mr. H. S. Mara said the market was showing a more decided firmness, and sales were being made in certain classes of property, more particularly house property. There was a scarcity of houses to rent at from $25 to $35 per month. The improvement was yet confined to the well situated residential property.

Demand for the Better Class.

"My specialty is the better class of houses," said Mr. G. Stinson, "and the demand is very, very much better than for a number of years. The desirable properties are being rapidly taken up." He estimated that fully 3500 houses had been filled during the last twelve months. A number of large cash sales had been made recently by him, many to wealthy people coming in from the other side. In some cases he had been able to offer within two or three weeks considerable advances to buyers over what they had paid.

Messrs. Robins & Burden had yet failed to notice any definite improvement in real estate values, but houses were filling up and rents advancing. They had rented more houses in the past two months than in twice that time at any previous part of their history.

What Frank P. Lee Says.

The last interview was with Mr. Frank P. Lee of Messrs. W. A. Lee & Sons, and in response to enquiry as to his opinion, he said there were practically very few houses to rent now. His firm had rented more this fall than in the spring, which was considered as the boom season. There was no change in store property occasioned by the existence of the departmentals. Although sales were not lively, there were many enquiries being made by prospective purchasers. Properties are being held firmer than for many years.

A LARGE ORDER.

A Leading Montreal House Closes a Deal With a Local Piano Firm.

Mr. A. P. Willis, the head of the firm of Willis & Company, the celebrated piano and organ dealers, of 1824 Notre Dame-street, Montreal, who are acknowledged to be the largest dealers in musical instruments in Canada, is in the city visiting the Exhibition. Mr. Willis has great confidence in the revival of trade in Canada, and in anticipation of the increased demand for his goods during the coming year has given a practical demonstration of his confidence by placing a bona fide order with the Bell Piano and Organ Company of Guelph, Ontario, for no less than two hundred of their pianos, as well as for a number of organs, the shipment of which is to commence immediately. This is by far the largest order that has ever been given by a Canadian dealer or received by a Canadian manufacturer of this line of goods.

Mr. Willis is very much taken with the new seraphone organs, which have just been introduced by the Bell Piano and Organ Company, and for which they possess full control of the Canadian patent. The Bell Piano and Organ Company are to be congratulated on having such an energetic representative in Montreal as Mr. Willis, whose judgment of anything in the musical line is generally accepted as being correct.

While here, Mr. Willis was introduced to Mr. John Scoon, the resident manager of the Bell Piano and Organ Company in Sydney, N.S.W. Mr. Scoon has for ten years had full control of all the Australasian business of the firm, and this is his first visit to Canada since his departure for the Antipodes. He will shortly return to Australia to renew his efforts on behalf of the world-famous goods of the Bell Piano and Organ Company. It is pleasing to note that he reports a rapidly increasing demand for the manufactures of this firm in that country. ed
