GLEANINGS.

The order of the Internationale clubs in Germany is to place, named Hirsch, a man of great eloquence and an able writer.

The citizens of Hamburg, Germany, intend to do their part towards christianizing the world. They support fifty protestant missionaries in Africa and Australia.

When the lamented Artemus Ward exhibited his wax-works in Utah, he relates that he was accosted by a venerable and vinegarish virgin, who inquired, "Can I go in without paying?" "No; but you can pay without going!"

There may be something in a name, for the very polite Boston papers call their Foundling Asylum a "Refuge for Anonymous Infants" while Chicago, with the most slight of etiquette, an open-eyed Ranche for babies born on the Prairie can plan.

An Indianapolis German had occasion recently to bury a large wife and so squabbled with the sexton about the fee. "Dat wish not a big grave," said the disconsolate husband. "Not a big grave?" indignantly responded the sexton. "Why, Hans you don't pay a dollar."

A Genuine Announcement. The Peru (Ind.) "Index" has this singular item:—"Wm. Machen for many years past the devil in our office, having served his apprenticeship faithfully and conformed with the rules of the office by treating his fellow-craftsmen, is this day declared a gentleman."

M. Rochefort's domestic as well as political troubles. His young daughter, aged fifteen, ran away from school with a youth of eighteen. The couple went to London and were married; but the mother of the bridegroom followed her son and sent him to the colonies, whilst the child bride returned to Junior, where she had been at school.

The editor of the "American Merchant" has encountered trials unknown to ordinary men. Just begun to introduce economy, by paying for the paper that our paper makes disappointed by the failure of the mails, he prized us of our exchanges, a Dutch poodle stole our scissors, the rats ran off with our paste, and the devils went to the circus while the editor was at home tending the baby, our paper is unavoidably postponed beyond the time of publication.

Curious Signs on Boards and Inns. The following is a copy of a poetical inscription on the sign of the Bee-hive, an old inn at Abingdon, kept by Wm. Honey.

Within this hive we're all alive,
Good liquor makes us merry;
If you are dry, step in and try
The flavor of our honey.

The following lines are on the sign of a roadside inn between Salisbury and Marlborough—the Plough.

In hopes we plough, in hopes we sow,
In hopes we all are fed;
And I live here and sell good beer,
In hopes to get my bread.

A Shrewd Merchant.—A wholesale grocer in this city, who becomes rich in his business, says his rule always was, when he sold a bill of goods on credit, to immediately subscribe for the local paper of his debtor. So long as his customer advertised liberally and vigorously, he prospered, but as soon as he began to contract his advertising space, he took the fact as evidence that there was trouble ahead, and he invariably went for his debt. Said he, "the man who fails too poor to make his business known is too poor to do business." The withdrawing of an advertisement is an evidence of weakness that business men are not slow to observe and act upon.—N. Y. Times.

Out evening as I was sitting by Hetty, and had worked myself up to the point of popping the question, sez I, "Hetty, if a feller was to ask you to marry him, what would you say?" Then she laughed, and sez she, "That would depend on who asked me." Then sez I, "Suppose it was Ned Willis?" Sez she, "I'd tell Ned Willis, but not you." That kinder staggered me, but I was too late to lose the opportunity, and so sez I again, "Suppose it was me?" And then you ought to see her pout her lip. Sez she, "I don't take no suppose." Well, now, you see, there was nothing for me to do but to touch the trigger and let the gun go off. So bang it went. Sez I, "Ain't Hetty [illegible]

Nute's Combined Spinner.
PATENTED - - - 1-8-7-0.
THIS is one of the most useful Spinning Wheels invented. It is Quill Wheel, Clock Reel, Spinning Wheel, and Swiffs all combined. By means of a clamp, it can be attached to a table or stand, and be used in either a standing or sitting posture. It is quite an ornamental piece of furniture, but when not in use, if desired, can be folded up and laid away in a Bureau drawer. It spins faster and better than any of the old wheels now in use, and with one half the labor.

MR. S. PETERS: I have one of the Combined Spinners, and like it very well. I can spin ten skeins per day. The yarn is superior to that made with the old wheel.
