On their trip west yesterday, the Canadian manufacturers visited Regina, where they were given a cordial welcome. In an address delivered to them, Wm. Martin, M. P., said that the reason they did not meet with better success in their western trade was that they did not push their goods as hard as American dealers, and that was one reason why the latter got ahead of them.

Sergt. D. McAllister and Private C. Fletcher, 8th Hussars, have each received the long service medal for twenty years' service. Four sergeants of D. Squadron have gone to St. John's, Quebec, to take a course of instruction with the Royal Canadian Dragoons.

ENGLISHMAN WAS STAR OF THE MEET

Boston, Sept. 15—Speeding his swift Bleriot monoplane round and round the course of the Harvard aviation field at Atlantic, Claude Grahame-White, of England, maintained his supremacy of the past few days in the closing event of the Harvard-Boston aero meet, defeating Glenn H. Curtiss, the world champion, by 16 4-5 seconds in a five and a quarter mile race.

White also made the best time witnessed on the course, his winning mark in the speed events of the contest which closed Tuesday night being six minutes one second. His mark today was five minutes 47 4-5 seconds for the same distance. Curtiss' time was six minutes 4 3-5 seconds. By laps, of a mile and three quarters length, White's time was: First lap, 1 minute 56 2-5 seconds; two laps, 3 minutes 50 3-5 seconds; three laps, 5 minutes 47 4-5 seconds. The time of Curtiss by laps was: First lap, 2 minutes 4 1-5 seconds; two laps, 4 minutes 4 4-5 seconds; three laps, 6 minutes 4 3-5 seconds.

Serious in Campbellton

Campbellton, Sept. 14—The situation in the fire-stricken town at present is serious. The sudden outbreak of typhoid, diphtheria and other contagious diseases has caused a great deal of uneasiness. To add to the seriousness of the situation the temporary hospital is not able to accommodate the overflow of sickness and temporary shacks are now being erected on the hospital grounds. The nights are beginning to get uncomfortably cold and the people are commencing to lose their good cheer.

The University Women's Club held their first meeting for 1910-11 last evening at the residence of Mrs. A. A. Graham. Miss Deinstadt read a paper on the economic value of a woman citizen, the discussion on which was led by Miss Wittaker. After a piano solo by Miss Ellie Smith, the meeting adjourned.

FAMOUS GEMS OF PROSE

THE FUTURE HOPE

By John J. Ingalls

From eulogy on the life and character of Senator James B. Beck of Kentucky, in the U. S. Senate, Aug. 23, 1890.

THE right to live is, in human estimation, the most sacred, the most inviolable, the most inalienable. The joy of living is such a splendid and luminous day as this is inconceivable. To exist is exultation. To live forever is our sublimest hope. Annihilation, extinction and eternal death are the forebodings of despair. To know, to love, to achieve, to triumph, to confer happiness, to alleviate misery, is rapture. The greatest crime and the severest penalty known to human law is the sacrifice and forfeiture of life.

And yet we are all under the sentence of death. Other events may or may not occur. Other conditions may or may not exist. We may be rich or poor; we may be learned or ignorant; we may be happy or wretched; but we all must die. The verdict has been pronounced by the inexorable decree of an omnipotent tribunal. Without trial or opportunity for defence; with no knowledge of the accuser, or the nature and cause of the accusation; without being confronted with the witnesses against us we have been summoned to the bar of life and condemned to death. There is no writ of error, nor review. There is neither exculpation nor appeal. All must be relinquished. Beauty and deformity, good and evil, virtue and vice, share the same relentless fate. The tender mother cries passionately for mercy for her firstborn, but there is no clemency.

The proscription extends alike to the individual and the type. Nations die and races expire. Humanity itself is destined to extinction. Sooner or later it is the instruction of science that the energy of the earth will be expended, and it will become incapable of supporting life. A group of feeble and pallid survivors in some sheltered valley in the tropics will behold the sun sink below the horizon and the pitiless stars glitter in the midnight sky. The last man will perish and the sun will rise upon the earth without an inhabitant. Its atmosphere, its seas, its life and heat, will vanish, and the planet will be an idle cinder uselessly spinning its orbit. Every hour some world dies unnoticed in the firmament; some sun smoulders to embers and ashes on the hearthstone of infinite space and the mighty maze of systems sweeps ceaselessly onward in its voyage of doom to remorseless and unsparing destruction.

With the disappearance of man from the earth all traces of his existence will be lost. The palaces, towers and temples he has reared, the institutions he has established, the cities he has builded, the books he has written, the creeds he has constructed, the philosophies he has formulated—all science, art, literature and knowledge will be obliterated and engulfed in empty and vacant oblivion.

The great globe itself,
Yea, all which it inherit, shall dissolve,
And, like this insubstantial pageant faded,
Leave not a rack behind.

There is an intelligence so vast and enduring that the flaming intervals between the birth and death of universes is no more than the flash of fireflies above the meadows of summer; a collossal power by which these stupendous orbs are launched in the abyss like bubbles blown by a child in the morning sun, and whose sense of justice and reason cannot be less potential than those immutable statutes that are the law of being to the creatures he has made, and which compel them to declare that if the only object of creation is destruction, if infinity is a theatre of uninterrupted series of irreparable calamities, if the final cause of life is death, then time is an inexplicable tragedy, and eternity an illogical and indefensible catastrophe.

No, Mr. President, this obsequy is for the quick and not for the dead. It is not in inconsolable lamentation. It is a strain of triumph. It is an affirmation to those who survive, that as our departed associate contemplating at the close of his life the monument of good deeds he had erected, more enduring than brass and loftier than the pyramids of kings, might exclaim with the Roman poet, Non omnis moriar. So, turning to the silent and unknown future, he could rely wit hj;ust and reasonable confidence upon that most impressive and momentous assurance ever delivered to the human race. "He that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live; and whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die."

PROVINCES WANT TO LOSE NO MEMBERS IN PARLIAMENT

Decision of Maritime Premiers is to Ask For Amendment to British North America Act

(The Telegraph)

That the maritime provinces should at least retain the same representation in the federal house that they had at the time of entering into confederation was the substance of an unanimous resolution passed by the maritime premiers and other representatives at the conference held here yesterday to discuss this matter. The meeting, which was held at the home of Premier Hazen, was a lengthy one and the matter was enthusiastically discussed. The gathering was a most representative and non-partizan one. there being present besides Premier Hazen and Dr. J. W. Daniel, M. P., of this city, Hon. A. K. MacLean, attorney-general and acting premier of Nova Scotia; Hon. F. L. Haczard, premier of P. E. Island; A. B. Warburton, M. P., and Hon. H. J. Palmer, of P. E. Island. J. Howe Dickson, clerk of the executive council, was also in attendance.

At the conclusion of the conference those taking the leading part in the discussion were seen by a Telegraph reporter. While they did not care to disclose any of the very potent arguments which were brought up and which will be used to good effect at the next session of the federal parliament, they referred the reporter to J. Howe Dickson, the clerk of the council, who, they said, had been authorized to issue a statement. When seen Mr. Dickson said that the general feeling was that the members of the conference were favorable to an amendment of the British North America act to the effect that the representation of the provinces should not fall below the number each province had at the time of entering into confederation.

The visitors were entertained to a dinner at the home of Premier Hazen last evening. Lieut.-Governor Tweedie was present.

BISHOP OF LONDON STIRS HEARERS IN MONTREAL

Montreal, Sept. 15.—A remarkable Protestant answer to the recent Eucharistic Congress was furnished this evening at Arena, when Bishop Ingram, of London, addressed the opening meeting of the convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, and made a confession of his Protestant faith which aroused the immense audience to such a pitch that for several minutes they cheered until the rafters rang.

"Why am I not a dissenter?" cried Bishop Ingram. "Because there is nothing from which I dissent. Why am I not a Roman Catholic? Because, thank God, I am an English Catholic."

This was the climax of a remarkable address, and sharp as the proud sentences were flung to the air, an audience of fully 3,000 people jumped to their feet and cheered wildly for several minutes. This clear confession of faith given by the Bishop of London had tremendous effect and it seemed as though the pent up Protestant feeling, which had been moved to an unwonted extent by recent events, had suddenly found vent and men and women by thousands rose and cheered themselves hoarse in what was perhaps the most remarkable demonstration of the Protestant faith ever witnessed in Montreal.

It was only after Bishop Ingram had repeatedly waved his hands for silence that he was able to proceed with his address, in which he dealt with the work and objects of the St. Andrew's Society.

The following ladies were in charge of the golf club tea yesterday afternoon: Mrs. C. B. Allan, Mrs. Alfred Porter, Mrs. A. P. Crocket and Mrs. Louis Barker.

ST. JOHN AMBULANCE ASSOCIATION BRANCH

Col. Carleton Jones and Capt. Birdwhistle Here to Organize —What it Means

Col. G. Carleton Jones, D. G. M. S., and Capt. R. J. Birdwhistle, of Ottawa, secretary of the St. John Ambulance Association, arrived in the city yesterday to address the meeting in the board of trade rooms this afternoon at 3.30 o'clock.

"You can rest assured," said Capt. Birdwhistle, "that the organization is now established on a permanent basis. Although the Canadian branch was only recently organized, the association is at present giving instructions to more than 1,000 employes.

The C. P. R. have established centres from coast to coast where their employes are being instructed in first aid work. Classes are at present in existence at Sydney Mines. This is the only school that so far has been established in the east. It is hoped, however, that after the organization of the provincial council in New Brunswick has been completed the work will be greatly advanced here."

"It is not proposed in these classes to supersede the physician's duties, but rather to look after the injured party during that painful time which ensues between the happening of the accident and the arrival of the physician. This may be hours or it may be days in some cases."

Should a local association be started here, and he felt sure that it would be, the lectures would be given by a medical practitioner. The lectures would be open to both sexes. It was the aim of the association to pay special attention to factory employes, policemen, sailors and all those who are generally around where accidents would be apt to occur. A series of five lectures would be given each week, with not more than thirty individuals in each class. Lectures for women exclusively would be given. In addition to classes on the first aid, instructions in home nursing would also be given to the women. It is surprising, Capt. Birdwhistle said, how few women know how to properly prepare a sick bed. Hygiene in the home is also an important thing because it deals with the disposition of waste and refuse matter, and the cleansing generally throughout the house.

He paid a high tribute to the capability of Col. C. Carleton Jones, inspector general of the medical service in Canada, in dealing with matters of this kind, and he felt sure that his lecture to be given this afternoon in the board of trade rooms would be an interesting as well as instructive one. It is open to the general public.

HOW SKIN-TROUBLES HAVE BEEN CURED

A Remarkable Record of Itching, Burning, Disfiguring Eruptions Successfully Treated.

That those who have suffered long and hopelessly from eczema and other torturing, disfiguring eruptions of the skin and scalp and who have lost faith in all manner of treatment, may learn that there is one way to find immediate relief, the following remarkable series of condensed testimonials is published:

Mme. J. B. Renaud, 277, Mentana St., Montreal: Treated by doctors 25 years for bad eczema on leg. It peeled from knee down; foot like raw flesh. Doctor advised cutting leg off. Decided to try Cuticura Remedies first. In two months' use of Cuticura Remedies she was cured.

Mrs. Nora Emmott, 26, Lena Gardens, Brook Green, London: Two little girls had dreadful scalp trouble that doctors called ringworm. Cried with intense itching. Hospital treatment gave frightful pain but did no good. Suffered three years, cured by three sets of Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

H. A. Krutskoff, 5714 Wabash Ave., Chicago: Itching eruption spread from hands to body. Literally tore his skin off in shreds. Doctors and remedies did no good. Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills stopped itching quickly and cured disease in three weeks.

Mrs. Kate Brougham, 200 Dewey St., Bennington, Vt.: Rash came on her baby and soon turned to watery, crusted eczema over face, head and body. He was a fearful sight and all attempts at cure were fruitless. Vastly improved in a week by use of Cuticura Remedies and soon skin was clear and healthy.
